This little tragedy of misunderstanding, this daily friction that rubs the tempers and the nerves of both parents and children raw goes on in virtually every household in which there are young sons and daughters, and it is none the less sad because it is so unnecessary.

The remedy lies in the hands of the parents, and it consists in first recognizing that even the smallest child has a right to some privacy and some liberty of action, without which life is dust and ashes to even a baby. And, secondly, in parents perceiving the futility of putting their children through the third degree about everything they do when it infuriates the youngsters and does no good.

For if Mamie and Johnny are merely stepping out to see Grandma, it is not necessary that they should tell Father and Mother where they are going if they get any particular kick out of doing it on their own initiative and without question.

And if they are going on a booze party to a questionable resort, they are certainly not going to tell the truth when asked about their movements. "But I have a right to know where my children go and what they are doing," say the parents. Perhaps, but the only way they can find out is for the children to voluntarily confide in them, and the less they are questioned the more apt they are to tell.

And that is something for parents to bear in mind.

Dear Miss Dix — I have been married ten years. My husband has always been a heavy drinker, and now, as he has not the money to buy good liquor, he has begun to drink rubbing alcohol. What can I do? MRS. W.

ANSWER:

You will not be required to do anything. The undertaker will do all of the necessary things.

DOROTHY DIX
Ledger Syndicate

Readers writing Dorothy Dix are asked to enclose a self-addressed envelope and also a three-cent stamp.

Wash tiled floors with warm soapy water and use a fine scouring powder if this is necessary. Rinse the floors and wipe dry. If water is allowed to stand on tiles it may soften the cement in which they are fastened and so loosen them.

"I used to be an old misery to Sonny," says Mrs. Bell, "but my system was so sluggish it dragged on me like a ball and chain."

Many people feel that way, and quite often it's only caused by insufficient bulk in the diet.

Post's Bran Flakes help to prevent this trouble. They provide natural bulk in the form of bran to keep the food wastes moving promptly.

"Mum's a real pal nowadays," says Sonny. "She says we must both eat Post's Bran Flakes regularly and boy!... are they a treat!"

HELP keep your family free from the effects of faulty elimination by serving Post's Bran Flakes regularly. They are so appetizing, so wholesome and so convenient. If this does not readily relieve constipation due to insufficient bulk in the diet, consult a physician.

Milk Price Increases

HASTINGS, March 6—(ENS). — Beginning the first of the week, Hastings residents paid an extra cent per quart for milk, raising the price to 9 cents, and 5 cents per pint. The pasteurization law, which has been in force for the last few days in this district, was given as the reason for the increase. An outside firm, peddling milk here, has been delivering pasteurized milk for some time and Scott Fife, local milk peddler, has been granted an extension of one week to bring his pasteurization equipment into operation.

ONE FALSE STEP

BY KATHRN BEMIS

CHAPTER XII

Janis came excitedly out from under the manipulations of beauty experts on the motion picture lot, the make-up changing her into some one so unlike herself that it alarmed her. But the beauticians who painted on brows, touched up her hair, her hands and nails, had declared she was gorgeous, and enlightened her about many good points she had not suspected she had.

She was photographed in many of her lovely new dresses, in sports and street clothes, and in her mink coat from so many angles that she lost count. She managed to smile naturally and to feel quite at home in this new thrilling business of apearing before a camera.

At last, she was released, and there was nothing to do but go home and wait in breathless suspense for the verdict.

LATER that night, when dressing for dinner, even when expecting Rock to arrive any second, Janis was inclined to feel discouraged. She realized that she must soon have a substantial income in order to pay all the bills that had come in today's mail, and keep up the household expenses as usual.

Rock, of course, might help her out, but it didn't seem fair to expect him to settle grocery, dress and millinery accounts which had accumulated before their marriage. In fact, she wondered why she had allowed Lucinda to talk her into having charge accounts at so many high-priced stores. Now, if she didn't make good in the movies——

She went to her desk, grabbed up the bills, stuffed them out of sight in a drawer.

Tension in the Air

Janis knew the dinner that night was a failure, in spite of the delicious food served by Maud with the grinning satisfaction of a cook who knows her art is perfection. Rock and Lucinda acted out of sorts; from the oxtail soup on through the chicken in curry, rice pilaff, stuffed peppers, avocado salad to the raspberry ice their conversation lagged.

Janis left the dining room with them, outwardly composed, but actually jumpy with nerves. She thought it might be due to the strenuous day she'd had, and tried to get hold of herself.

Rock strode into the living-room, saying: Can't hang round here much longer. I'm dog-tired—and got to get up at 6 A.M. What a life!" He settled his sturdy frame in a deep lounge chair with a sigh.

Janis went to a window and adjusted a white velvet drape. She thought: "Why should Rock be so irritable when he has such a chance in a picture—when he and I have such a dear sweet secret between us?"

Maud brought in the coffee service, set the tray on the coffee-stand. Janis dropped into the low chair before it and began pouring.

Lucinda's brittle laugh filled the room. She leaned forward on the divan, clutching her thin, black-skirted knees with highly varnished fingertips. She asked Rock bluntly: "What went wrong today? Director get fussy?"

"Fussy's no name for it! He blew sky-high. We had seven retakes on the staircase scene. I was limping in the last shot. Good grief—my feet! If Doyle gets indigestion, he'll tear out the whole scene—and all my work gone for nothing!"

Worries

Janis handed Lucinda a cupful of steaming dark coffee. She took it, saying: "You should worry, sweetheart. You'll still get paid for your work. Cheer up—this coffee's good. But drink it black. You've got to sleep tonight—get rid of your jitters."

"Thanks for the advice," Rock told her absent-mindedly, his sharp glance fastening on Janis in long, full-skirted gold taffeta. "Isn't the little girl looking swell this evening?" Then his eyes narrowed. "That another new dress?"

Janis, who had been soberly considering her two guests, now brightened.

"Yes, it's new," she said quickly. "I'm glad you like it. Lucinda thought the color keyed up my personality."

Lucinda lifted an eyebrow in Rock's direction. "So Dairre said—our famous couturiere has a way with her—clever sales talk."

"And you let Janis fall for it?"

Rock looked stormy, set down the cup and saucer Janis had just given him.

"Don't be horrid. The poor child is entitled to a fresh frock, now and then, isn't she?"

"Out at the studio they though I had a stunning wardrobe," put in Janis defensively. "They said my mink coat, specially, would help wonderfully."

"Taffy doesn't mean a thing," snapped Rock.

Janis gathered that Rock thought her extravagant, and perhaps she had been, but he should know that a girl had to keep up a front. What would he say if he knew she had already wagered a staggering part of twenty thousand on a screen career?

The tension in the room now was so tight it threatened to snap any second, and Janis could think of no logical reason for it. For some cause or other, Rock seemed provoked at Lucinda, and Lucinda acted nervous. It was all Greek to Janis.

Another Visitor

Sally Chesser came floating into the room presently, and Janis felt like thanking her for saving the chilly situation, although she was not overly fond of Sally.

"Hello, everybody!" sang out the effervescent Sally now. "Look me over! I've just started an interior decorating job that will net me a Summer in Europe. How's that?"

"Grand," said Lucinda, without enthusiasm. "You don't need a chaperon, do you?"

"How about lending a deserving fellow a few nickels?" put in Rock. "I've always said a woman with money was convenient to know."

Sally giggled, dropped on a stool at Rock's feet, began rolling her big black eyes at him.

Janis asked her with a frigid politeness, "Will you have coffee?"

"Oh, definitely! I've been too busy t othink of dinner. If you've cake—anything at all, I'd be so grateful."

"I'm sorry, there's no cake," Janis informed her stiffly. While pouring the coffee Sally was continually bobbing in to sponge meals and, this once, Janis intended to apply the brakes to her brazenness. Besides, Sally's interest in Rock was a little too much to endure at the moment.

Sally potted prettily, snuggled closer to Rock's knees: "Sally get no take," she lisped.

She was appealingly small and too attractive to be looking at Rock like that, thought Janis apprehensively; her olive skin and midnight hair gave her an exotic allure that might easily cause disaster. Lucinda acted both amused and irritated at the show Sally was putting on, but Janis' left thumb surreptitiously felt the space on her fourth finger where her wedding ring should be—if she had a wedding ring—and was uncomfortable.

Rock wore a shadowy smile now, appeared to be enjoying himself. Janis wondered how long she could endure seeing him admired by other women without making a protest, although a wife's protests wouldn't count for much if the man himself didn't behave. But she shook off this unwelcome supposition. Why should she think that Rock would ever actually let her down? He wouldn't—because he loved her.

The Black's Call

luxurious home had suffered made knew she must regain her poise, pretend to be glad to receive more company. She regretted not telling Maud to say she was out to any one else who came. She sensed, rather than heard, footsteps coming toward her over the velvet carpet, and ndifferently turned her head.

"Oh, I'm so glad to see you!" Janis exclaimed breathlessly, her former animosity toward this man abruptly forgotten.

She shook hands warmly with Mary Black, then with her brother, presented them to her other guests.

"We were driving by, wondered how you were getting along, and decided to drop in," said Mary, seating herself on the nearest vacant chair, and throwing back her sables.

"I'm enjoying the house so much," Janis said, slightly confused. All the damage the furnishings of this luxurious home had suffered made her feel like the worst kind of tenant.

Dr. Black lowered his long, tweed-covered figure into a chair beside Janis. Sally gave an unexpected giggle that seemed common and decidedly out of place, and Janis was inclined to be ashamed of her.

Sally shifted her flirtatious dark eyes from Rock to Dr. Black now, and Rock wore a frown. But whatever fascination the girl had, apparently did not register with Dr. Black, for his gray eyes rested wholly upon Janis.

She felt her color rise.

"How have you been " he inquired in that high-pitched voice of his that was like an anesthetic.

For a swift instant, Janis felt the soothing insistence of it. "Busy—very busy," she told him, looking past him at the vase of roses covering a bad stain on the piano's ivory top.

"Stephen just returned from Alaska—and I've been on location in Arizona, or I would have been

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY

IS IT THE LOWEST

EVEN IF your partner's card on your opening lead is an eight or nine spot, you should not necessarily read it as encouraging, suggesting that you repeat the suit. The paramount question is whether or not you read it as the lowest he holds. If you decide that he probably has a lower card or cards, then you can reckon that he played a higher-than-necessary card seeking another lead of the suit. But, no matter how high it is, if you figure him to hold no lower ones, then you may treat it as discouraging, suggesting that you shift suits.

In the West during this deal sat a young player of promise who had not been at the game very long. She had just about arrived at the stage in her instruction at which she knew the conventional leads and had been taught the main fundamentals about teamwork between partners. Among these was that a high card from your partner indicated a desire for repeat of the suit led and a low one betokened a shift.

She properly led her heart K to take the opening trick. When she saw East's 7, a fairly high card, she repeated, laying down the A, which declarer ruffed. The declarer promptly dropped the trumps, discarded a club on the set-up heart Q and conceded a diamond trick, ruffing her other diamond and so making an overtrick. West learned her important lesson cheaply, at the mere cost of an overtrick, not of a game. Since the 7 was the lowest heart out of sight, after declarer played the 3, it was a discouraging card and West should have shifted. Had she realized that, she would have shifted to a club and the heart Q never would have been set up for the declarer.

If West leads the spade 9 to South's 10, what should South then lead in striving to make 3-Spades on this deal?

Carol Orders All Nation Behind Army

Warns Of Sacrifices Ahead To Save Rumanian Borders

BUCHAREST, Mar. 7 — (AP).— King Carol II, opened Parliament to-day with a declaration that all the resources of Rumania would be thrown behind her army as a "supreme guarantee of our independence and of the integrity of our borders."

Disclosing that taxes would be materially increased to bear the cost of keeping 1,600,000 men under arms, the King said:

"I am sure my people will accept such sacrifices for the sake of the country and peace."

Strict neutrality, he said, will be continued even in the fields of foreign commerce "in order to assure the essential flow of supplies to our army and our people."

Carol's statement was approved in a long session of the Crown Council last night amid signs of an even sharper struggle between the Allies and Germany for Rumania's surplus of raw materials.

Carol appeared in the uniform of the Royal Guard with Crown Prince Michael at his side in the garb of an infantry lieutenant.

The King told Parliament that the government is assured of the stability and continuity necessary to execute a long-range program "which will include intensification of production in all lines."

In a declaration that relations between Rumania and other nations are good, the King mentioned by name only Italy and Bulgaria.

A New Demand.

Viroel Tilea, Rumanian Minister to London, was reported on his way home to deliver a British proposal that Great Britain be accorded equal treatment with Germany on Rumanian exports, including oil, the

He Wows 'Em

NEW YORK, March 7 — (CP)—Considerable amusement was created in a Brooklyn courtroom when a Toronto detective, accustomed to the dignity and formality of Canadian courts, addressed the presiding judge as "Your Lordship."

Testifying yesterday in the trial of Ernest Kehler, Winnipeg boxer who fought under the name of Ernie Haas and who is charged with the murder of Dr. Walter Engelberg, German Consulate Attache, last December 5, Detective John Nimmo was called to the stand to tell of Kehler's arrest in Toronto December 18.

Judge J. Brancato asked the detective's age.

"Twenty-five, Your Lordship," said Nimmo.

Defence Attorney Leo Healy asked the witness to repeat the statement.

"Twenty-five, Your Lordship, the detective repeated with emphasis.

Spectators in the courtroom broke into laughter and Healy, when quiet was restored, told Judge Brancato:

"Remember that one, Judge."

Later the embarrassed witness referred to the judge, usually addressed in United States courts as "Your Honor," as "Your Worship."

The Brooklyn Eagle took the opportunity to play up Nimmo's well-meaning remark in its front-page account of the trial. It's two-column story was headlined: "Canadian wows 'em."

Hint Sweden Has Red Peace Terms

Wants To Get Isthmus Viipuri, Petsamo; Germany Behind It?

STOCKHOLM, March 7 (AP) — Reports of preliminary negotiations here toward a settlement of the Soviet Russian-Finnish conflict — possibly starting with an armistice — attracted attention today although they lacked open confirmation.

(Dispatches to Paris newspapers said the Russian peace terms were in the form of an ultimatum expiring at midnight March 8-9. Russia's demands were said to include surrender of Hanko, naval port in southwestern Finland, and the Hanko Peninsula.)

Official Swedish circles said they could neither deny nor confirm reports that Sweden had submitted peace terms from Joseph Stalin to the Helsinki government.

One theory was that negotiations thus far had proceeded through the Russian minister to Sweden, Madame Alexandra Kollontay, the Finnish minister here, Eljas Erkko, who is former Finnish foreign minister, and the Swedish foreign office.

Significance also was seen in reports that Dr. Juho Paasikivi, Finnish diplomat, is in Stockholm. He headed the Finnish delegation in unsuccessful pre-war negotiatons at Moscow on Russan territorial demands which Finland found a threat to her independence.

If peace negotiations are under way, Scandinavian political quarters assume that Berlin also is interested.

There are unconfirmed reports even that the German minister to Finland, Dr. Wipert Von Bluecher, has conferred in Helsinki with a representative of Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, Finnish commander-in-chief, and Finnish government officials.

What Stalin Asks

According to the current reports, Stalin has called for surrender of the Karelian isthmus to Russia, along with the city of Viipuri, all of

Allied Airplane Production Now Leading Germany Air Chief Informs House

LONDON, March 7 (CP) — Two German planes were engaged by Royal Air Force fighter planes off the east coast of England tonight.

Onlookers saw one raider almost collide with a British plane as the fight in the clouds began.

In a few minutes the second raider, with two R.A.F. fighters in pursuit, appeared. Then came three more fighters and the two raiders were driven out to sea, onlookers said.

Earlier in the day R.A.F. craft shot down a German plane off the northeast coast of Scotland.

The Air Ministry announced that Royal Air Force fighter planes shot down a German plane off the northeast coast of Scotland shortly after noon.

R.A.F. planes earlier were announced to have scouted the German naval bases of Wilhelmshaven, Heligoland and Cuxhaven and most of the principal cities and ports of northwest Germany last night.

The air ministry said the planes drew anti-aircraft fire and great searchlight activity but all returned safely after covering an aggregate of 10,000 miles. It was the second successive night of such reconnaissance.

The German plane announced shot down is the 44th German raider shot down on or near the British coast since the outbreak of war. In addition, nine German planes are believed to have failed to return.

The German plane flew over Aberdeenshire a few minutes after 2 p.m. Anti-aircraft guns opened fire and R.A.F. fighters took off on the succesful chase.

A statement on the flights over Germany said:—

"Most of the principal cities and seaports of northwest Germany, including Bremen, Hanover, Hamburg, Wilhelmshaven and Cuxhaven were visited while other aircraft maintained the customary security patrol over island bases of German mine-laying seaplanes.

"Intensive searchlight activity marked the passage of reconnaissance aircraft over Germany. Beams of a bluish hue most frequently were encountered.

"Near Cuxhaven a battery of 20 to 30 searchlights came into action on the approach of our aircraft but were quickly evaded.

"Over Bremen anti-aircraft guns opened heavy fire and bursts of orange-colored flame marked the course of the British aircraft.

Biggest Liner In World Defies Nazis

Huge Queen Elizabeth Reaches New York To Be Laid Up For War

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP) — Britain's new 85,000-ton liner Queen Elizabeth, completing one of the strangest maiden voyages in maritime history after running the U-boat gauntlet, dropped anchor in the safety of New York harbor today with no visible guns on deck but protected by a mysterious new anti-mine cable.

Observers were at a loss to understand how the cable operated, since it surrounded the ship high above the water—with no apparent drop-net into the water for a sweep effect.

Naval experts explained the new protective device against magnetic mines as follows:—

The cables, although high above the water, were designed to exert an electrical force which would nullify the attraction of the steel hull to the mines, so that they would not rise toward the keel of the vessel.

Not a Note of Color

Painted a drab gray, the 85,000-ton liner passed Ambrose Lightship shortly after 9 a.m. EST and headed toward the Narrows, with the skyline of New York 20 miles distant.

The bluish-gray coat of the vessel, unrelieved by a single note of color, blended into the haze over the harbor. She looked like a ghost ship as she reached quarantine and dropped anchor.

Having missed the morning slack tide, the Queen Elizabeth was to remain at quarantine until about 3 p.m. to await a tide permitting her to tie up at pier 90 at the foot of 50th street.

The first welcoming salutes came from a salvage and a press tug. The Queen Elizabeth responded with a throaty roar from her whistle and ran up the yellow quarantine flag.

No Guns In Sight

No guns were evident. Her life boats, of which she did not carry a complete complement, were uncovered. Members of the crew and a number of stewards, their white jackets emphasized against the dull background, waved from the rails.

As she reached quarantine several planes soared overhead and numerous harbor craft circled round the vessel which rode high in the water.

Planes flying out of New York first sighted the Queen Elizabeth off Fire Island, cutting up a mile-long wake as her giant engines turned up apparently close to her top speed of more than 32 knots.

Only a few figures were seen on the decks, and from the planes there was no indication that the world's largest ship even had a name painted on her gray-smudged prows.

Not until a plane made a second circle over the Queen Elizabeth did the ship even make her nationality known. On the second circle, crew members broke out the Union Jack and some of the crew waved.

Black smoke belched from the Queen Elizabeth's two slanted funnels as she suddenly straightened out from her previous zig-zag course and cut a direct line for New York harbor—sure, now, that she was in safe waters.

Below the water-line, the ship showed dark red and along the water-line there were patches of black under the gray paint, indicating her "war paint" had been applied for the audacious voyage to the United States.

Preparations were made to greet the Queen Elizabeth at her new berth at pier 90, at the foot of west 50th street, where two dredges have recently been deepining the north side of the slip for her huge bulk.

The voyage of the 85,000-ton Queen Elizabeth was not only added proof, if proof was needed, that Britain controls the seas; it also enhanced the already great reputation of the Scotsman for taciturnity.

For the voyage of this largest potential target for enemy action was:

1. Made without an alarm, and
2. Not disclosed until late yesterday.

Hero Of Today

A grizzled, friendly-smiling man with piercing blue eyes, Capt. J. C. Townley, commander of the Queen Elizabeth, served 36 years at sea before winning the admiration of the world for his feat of running the German U-boat gauntlet with the huge luxury liner.

He joined the Cunard Line in 1904 as fourth officer of the S.S. Saxonia, became first officer of the old Mauretania in 1913 and received his first command, the cargo steamer Thacia, in 1915.

Year by year, Capt Townley rose to command of larger vessels—the Arania, the Lancastria, the Georgic, the Queen Mary—until he advanced to the most coveted post in the British marine service as master of the world's largest liner, the Queen Elizabeth.

For him is was a weird maiden voyage — without fanfare, without the champagne-sparkling gaiety that usually marks the baptismal voyage of a great trans-atlantic liner — sailing in deepest secrecy, with a skeleton crew and not a passenger, on a 3,000-mile crossing studded with the threat of disaster.

HELSINKI, March 7 — (AP). — Russian troops seeking to drive across the ice of the Bay of Viipuri to tighten the siege of the seaport of Viipuri suffered heavy losses under the fire of the Finns, the Finnish high command reported today.

More than 30 Russian tanks were destroyed on the ice, the high command said in a communique which stated the invaders "attacked fiercely" all day yesterday on the northwest of the bay.

Elsewhere on the strategic Karelian Isthmus front attacks were repulsed, the army reported, but on the eastern front it acknowledged a Russian success in the seizure of "a few islands" in Lake Ladoga.

Finland fought to strengthen her army by calling up the class of 1920 —mostly youths of 19—and all men of other classes scheduled for re-examination this year or in succeeding years.

Everyone Fighting.

Troops on land, the Finnish Air Force, the Navy and coastal defences all were used in actions against Russians attempting to cross the ice not only in the Bay of Viipuri but to the west in the Gulf of Finland.

One such attempt which the Finns repulsed, the communique said, took place off Haapasaari Islands, more than 60 miles southwest of Viipuri.

The Finnish Air Force was particularly active in punishing shelterless Russians on the stretches of ice, the high command saying:

"Our aircraft carried out reconnaissance flights and bombed and

Ottawa Airman Heads R.C.A.F. Overseas Staff

OTTAWA, March 7 (CP)—Group Captain George Victor Walsh of Ottawa has been appointed to command the overseas headquarters of the Royal Canadian Air Force and the major section of the new organization now has arrived in the United Kingdom, it was announced from the office of Defence Minister Rogers today.

Group Captain Walsh and his assistants comprise the major section of the headquarters staff, the defence department said.

The statement was timed to coincide with a similar announcement in London.

Some members of the new headquarters staff went overseas in advance of No. 110 (City of Toronto) army cooperation squadron to arrange for its reception, accommodation and equipment, the statement said. No. 110 Squadron landed in the United Kingdom last week.

"Although closely associated with the historical and significant arrival in the United Kingdom of the first air force unit to proceed overseas on active service, the establishment of an air force headquarters in the Old Country may be considered as a further indication of the close co-operation prevailing be-

Lebrun, Daladier Receive Envoy Welles

PARIS, March 7.—(AP)— President Albert Lebrun received Sumner Welles, United States' Undersecretary of State, at the Elysee Palace to-day Later Mr. Welles went to the War Ministry office for an interview with Premier Daladier.

The President's investigator spent the night travelling from Lausanne, Switzerland, in a special railway car, accompanied by Joseph P. Kennedy, United States' Ambassador to Great Britain, who plans to continue to London during the day.

Welles comes here from Berlin, where Adolf Hitler is reputed to have told him last Saturday that Germany would attempt to fight until she obtained unchallenged political influence over Bohemia-Moravia, Slovaki, Poland and Hungary possession of colonies and release from British sea power.

During his three-day stay here he was expected to find French opinion unyielding, based on one idea: Beat Germany first.

During his visit here, it has been announced, he will confer with officials of the Polish government in exile.

He is expected to stay until the week-end and go to London, probably Sunday, for an interview with Prime Minister Chamberlain.

Rogers To Avoid Session At Air School

OTTAWA, March 7 (CP)—Present plans of defence minister Rogers do not call for his presence at the St. Thomas, Ont., Air School next Monday, the day set for Premier Hepburn of Ontario to visit the school where he charged "violent disturbances" had occurred, it was learned today.

Mr. Rogers at present is taking part in the Dominion election campaign in the Maritimes and, while nobody at his department would be quoted, it was said his plans include no visit to St. Thomas Monday.

The defence minister, if he follows his campaign schedule, will not be far from St. Thomas, however, for next Tuesday he has an address scheduled at Stratford, Ont.

In a statement issued on the defence minister's authority here last night, Mr. Rogers said: "I am glad Mr. Hepburn has accepted my offer to arrange for him to visit the Royal Canadian Air Force technical training school at St. Thomas and see conditions for himself."

Aliens Seeking Citizenship; 2,000 A Month

OTTAWA, March 7—(CP).—Canadian citizenship has become popular among aliens who, before the war, were in no hurry to change their allegiance and today naturalization officials reported a sharp increase in citizenship applications.

They estimated that the 375 Canadian court houses where aliens may apply for naturalization, have been receiving applications at the rate of nearly 2,000 a month since the war started.

In addition to direct applications for citizenship there has been a flood of correspondence from foreign-born persons in Canada seeking information as to their status and responsibilities.

Applications received by court clerks are, according to statute, kept on fyle three months before being passed upon by a judge. But in the meantime copies of all applications are registered in the naturalization branch, Department of the Secretary of State.

Last Minute News Flashes

BASEL, Switzerland—(AP)—Swiss newspapers reported today that Colonel-General Walther von Brauchitsch has inspected newly-arrived troops at Grenzach, on the German side of the Rhnie near Basel. The German commander's inspection tour followed a week of troop movements north of the Swiss Rhine border, the newspaper said.

HELSINKI.—(AP) — The Finnish press bureau tonight declared it believed Russia plans presentation of territorial demands "more far reaching in character" than those rejected by Finland prior to the war.

"No special events on the Western Front.

"Our own air reconnaissance continued against England. A single British airplane on the night of March 5-6 entered German Heligoland Bight, touching northwestern German coast districts.

"One British plane north of Syit Island entered Danish territory."

BERLIN, Mar. 7 — (AP). — Authorized German sources said today that Germany never had left any doubt that it regarded passage of volunteers through Sweden to Finland as a hostile act—not against Germany but against the principle of neutrality.

They expressed doubt of the authenticity of reports that peace terms had been transmitted from Soviet Russia to Finland.

MONTREAL, March 7—(CP). — Canada Steamship Lines announced today the Midland Shipyards at Midland have been sold to the Kingston Shipbuilding Company. The sale price was not disclosed.

The yards, where some of the largest Great Lakes vessels were built, have been idle since 1927. The C.S.L. acquired the yards in 1926 when the company purchased the Great Lakes Transportation Company.

French Destroyer Wipes Out Twelfth Sub; Fleet Chief Says Sea War On The Wane

PARIS, Mar. 7 — (AP).— The French Navy has sunk 12 German submarines, captured 18,000 tons of German shipping and with the British Navy has broken the back of Germany's threat to block the sealanes, Navy Minister Cesar Campinchi declared to-day.

(British sources have reported that the two Allied Navies have destroyed a total of about 50 submarines.)

In a survey of the first six months of the war Campinchi asserted that "Allied naval supremacy is better than ever and Germany's main fleet does not move much nor far from its bays."

"The French sailor has given blow for blow to the Germans," Campinchi said. "For each cargo boat lost by us our sea and air patrols have almost matched that rate with a German submarine. The Simoun has just brought to a dozen the number of Nazi submarines lost."

Got One Before.

The Simoun, 1,319-ton destroyer, already has been credited on February 27 with sinking a submarine off the Spanish coast.

France's commercial fleet has shrunk less than two per cent. through German action, the total loss being 15 ships of 71,511 tons, but no French warships have been destroyed, Campinchi said.

Besides new shipping and German prizes put into service, France yesterday floated a new warship,

Drunk, and Sorry Phones Robber; Mails Cash Back

TORONTO, March 7 (CP) — A conscience stricken holdup man today returned $14 he had taken from Louis Tsafaroff in a holdup at the latter's restaurant early yesterday.

Tsafaroff said he had received a letter and the $14, presumably from the man who had held him up. The letter was unsigned but there were initials on the back of the envelope.

"The man said he had been drinking and was sorry," Tsafaroff said.

Two hours after the holdup yesterday Tsafaroff received a phone call, the caller stating he was a brother of the holdup man and offered to return the money. Last night a man called the office of The Daily Star and told an editor that he was going to send the money back.

"I am the person who held up the restaurant at Yonge and St. Clair," the man said. "I feel terrible." He said he and another youth had been drinking and were

1 Slain, 2 Injured In Quebec Bailiff's Raid

CHICOUTIMI, Que., March 7.— (CP)—Michel Tremblay, 66, was killed and two others were wounded when a bailiff attempted to make a seizure at nearby St. Ludger de Milot, according to word received here today.

Scant information here said that Albert St. Hilaire was wounded in the lung and Gustave Maltais suffered a leg wound in the affair. Both were taken to hospital at Roberval, where the condition of St. Hilaire was described as serious.

An inquest was scheduled for Roberval tomorrow morning.

Police said the bailiff, J. A. Cote, and several witnesses had gone to the house ocupied by Tremblay to make a seizure. An argument started and developed into the fight that cost Tremblay his life.

What To Do With 18 Billions In Gold Keeps U.S. Experts Heads In Whirl

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)— The United States government today owns 519,653,568.5 ounces of gold (valued at $35 an ounce) worth $18,187,875,598.61. This is about 63 per cent of the world's total monetary gold.

European and Asiatic countries needing cash to buy war supplies or other United States products, or seeking a safe place for their treasure, are shipping more gold at the rate of about $50,000,000 a week.

During 1938 United States imports of gold were more than $2,000,000,000. During 1939, largely as a result of war-frightened gold shipments, the United States added $3,132,000,000 to its hoard.

Even if the treasuries of other countries should be drained of the gold they now possess, the avalanche probably will continue to flow toward the United States in the form of the more than $1,000,000,000 worth of the precious metal mined annually.

What—if anything—to do with that rapidly increasing gold hoard is providing treasury, federal reserve bank and private economists and fiscal experts with endless hours of figuring and pondering.

Gold itself is a yellow, non-corrosive, lustrous metal which can be hammered into jewellery, used to fill teeth, beaten into goldleaf, or spun into gold thread to ornament uniforms and regalia. Otherwise

British Blockade Net Yields Catch Of 6 More Plump Italian Colliers

LONDON, Mar. 7 — (CP), — Six more Italian coal ships were held at the Contraband Control Station at The Downs to-day as Great Britain proceeded with her blockade against German coal exports.

The cargoes of eight others, totalling about 100,000 tons, were ordered unloaded yesterday. Another was released because it sailed from the Netherlands on March 1, before the blockade deadline.

The six ships escorted to The Downs last night were the Puzzuoli, Ischia, Integritas, Pamis, San Luigi, and Semien.

A new Anglo-Italian trade agreement was rejected last month by Premier Mussolini "when it had reached the point of being ready for signature," the Daily Telephagh reported.

"Britain is ready to accept industrial plant, aircraft, engines and armaments from Italy," the newspaper said. "She is also prepared to buy large quantities of Italian vegetables which formerly had been exported to Germany, in part payment for coal, although these are not required for the British market. It is understood that the total value of these Italian exports would have been about £20,000,000 a year."

Despite the British seizure of German coal exports to Italy, the newspaper said:

"Prolonged negotiations have given good reason to believe that a mutually satisfactory arrangement could be made by which Italy would

Whole Air School Open, Rogers Assures Hepburn

TORONTO, March 7—(CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn, whose charges of "violent disturbances" at the St. Thomas air training base opened a sharp dispute between him and Defence Minister Rogers, today had the Minister's assurance that "every opportunity" would be given Mr. Hepburn "to see the school at work under every-day service conditions."

Mr. Rogers' statement, made public through his Ottawa office last night while he was in the Maritimes, welcomed Mr. Hepburn's acceptance of "my offer to arrange for him" to visit the school "and see conditions for himself."

Earlier the Ontario Premier had accepted the offer and announced he would visit the school Monday, but added: "If Mr. Rogers does not come I may exercise my authority and appoint a commission to investigate the troubles."

There was no comment last night from the Defence Minister's office whether he would also visit the

Rules Adopted For Accidents At City Schools

Rules and regulations governing accidents happening in and about school property were adopted by the Board of Education at its meeting on Tuesday night. The procedure adopted is as follows:

1—Nurse or school doctor will render such immediate first-aid as is necessary.

2—Child will be taken home, or parents advised, when further medical attention will then be arranged by the parents.

3—Accidents to students occurring on school property, or adjacent to school property, which are reported to school principals, must be reported by them to the Public School Inspector, who in turn will submit same to the Board each month, giving full details.

4—When, in the opinion of the principal or nurse, an injured child should have medical attention before being moved, and the school doctor is not available, the principal is authorized to call another physician to administer first-aid. Any further medical attention necessary, however, remains the responsibility of the parents.

Two Forces Seek Control

It is unofficially reported that the army and navy have been seeking control of the air force in so far as it supports their various activities.

"Nothing in the progress of the war has shown that there is any reason for dividing the air force between the navy and army any further than at present," Sir Kingsley said in an interview.

Sir Kingsley won a point against army control Jan. 9 when the cabinet announced that R.A.F. units in France would be unified under Air-Marshal A. S. Barratt rather than under army command. Marshal Barratt consults with Viscount Gort, commander of the field forces.

Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, is understood to want the R.A.F. coastal patrol placed under admiralty rule.

This force, assigned to ward off German raiders, acts in liaison with the navy, and is under command of Air-Marshal Sir Frederick Bowhill.

Its problems were extended last night when German planes made the first nocturnal raids of the war. Two Germans bombed and machine-gunned the 695-ton British tanker Shelbrit II, and a lightship off the Norfolk Coast broadcast an SOS during a similar attack.

Criticized Both Ways

Sir Kingsley faces criticism from many aviation experts.

Some say he is building and buying planes too rapidly, so that they become obsolete in a fast-changing industry, others say he is so pre-occupied with this bugbear that he is acquiring planes too slowly.

Sir Kingsley's name was mentioned Monday in rumors of an impending cabinet shuffle, and the political commentator A. J. Cummings printed in the News Chronicle today a "persistent rumor" that the next air minister would be Sir John Reith, who became minister of information two months ago.

Whether or not Sir Kingsley retires, he contends that "the system of unified control (of the R.A.F.) has justified our expectations."

The air estimates to be debated are token only. The actual amount to be spent is a state secret.

LONDON, Mar. 7— (CP Cable). — Great Britain and France have passed Germany on the basis of numerical expansion of their air forces, Sir Kingsley Wood, Secretary of State for Air, declared in the House of Commons to-day. On the basis of quality, the Allies are far ahead.

The Air Minister gave the nation a peek, but only a peek, behind the curtain of official secrecy surrounding aircraft production in this country in presenting the estimates of his department to Parliament.

He expressed confidence "that even on a numerical basis the output of aircraft now accruing to us and to France to-day is in excess of that of Germany."

Britain's production of aircraft was doubled during the past year and the quality of individual models was improved. In addition, great progress has been made in rearming many types.

"I would sooner have 100 Wellingtons or 100 Spitfires or Hurricanes than a much larger number of their German counterparts," the Air Minister declared.

He revealed that since the outbreak of war the production of Spitfires and Hurricanes, Britain's No. 1 and No. 2 fighter planes, has been doubled, and the output of bigger and heavier bomber types has been increased by 50 per cent.

The Minister said the estimates presented to-day, details of which were withheld, involve "the greatest expenditure" of this kind in Britain's history.

He said the R.A.F. had carried out more than 1,000 sorties into German territory by day and night since the outbreak of war.

First Plane Turned Out

Sir Kingsley said plans for production in the Dominions are beginning to bear fruit and that the first military aircraft manufactured in Canada already had been flown.

"Large additional orders recently were placed in Canada and the United States," he disclosed.

The Air Minister announced that the Empire training scheme schools in Canada, Australia and New Zealand will produce 20,000 pilots and 30,000 other airmen annually.

He said the British Overseas Airways Corporation has adopted and ratified provisional contracts for acquisition of Imperial Airways and British Airways Limited. A day for transferrng these undertakings to the new corporation, which has been organized by the air ministry as a public corporation under government control, soon will be fixed' he added.

In surveying the air war to date he said 44 German aircraft had been brought down around British coasts "without a single loss on our side" and many more had been forced down on neutral territory or upon the sea.

In asking for funds for developing the R.A.F., Sir Kingsley said the air force was preparing for a "great expansion of strength which we know will be required."

Personnel Tripled

Where last year the total strength of the air force approached 100,000 men, that is the strength today of one command alone of a force which is divided into coastal, fighter and British Expeditionary Force commands.

Prime Minister Chamberlain announced army estimates will be presented in the House next Tuesday.

He announced New Zealand soon will be joined to the Empire air routes by way of Australia, with weekly service across the Tasman Sea. Resumption of North Atlantic service, he said, will depend on the "inexorable needs of the military situation."

He added he hoped that difficulties preventing regular service between Britain and Portugal will shortly be overcome. The Portuguese capital, Lisbon, is the eastern terminus of Pan-American Airways.

The minister announced a civil aviation advisory committee will be set up to "safeguard the position" of British civil aviation after the war.

Of the fighting feats of the R.A.F., Sir Kingsley said British fliers had sighted German submarines on more than 100 occasions, and had made more than 60 attacks. He said R.A.F. planes had successfully escorted more than 700 convoys.

A Records Office.

The R.C.A.F. war organization has been amended to provide also for establishment of an Overseas Record Office, which will operate with the overseas headquarters to meet requirements of the Canadian squadron in England "and of others that will undoubtedly proceed abroad for service in the theatre of war to which they may be assigned.

Mr. Rogers indicated that the overseas headquarters will comprise officers, airmen and civilians. Besides the air officer commanding, the establishment provides for staff officers responsible for the training of personnel in air force squadrons, a liaison officer between the R.C.A.F. and the Royal Air Force, and administrative officers responsible for personnel and organization.

Provision has been made for the equipment, accountant and medical officers who will be seconded from the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, and dental officers, seconded from the Canadian Dental Corps.

Personnel at Aire Force headquarters will include clerks, equipment assistants, motor mechanics, and a number of airmen for general duty. The Records Office will have a personnel of eight, three of whom will be officers and five airmen.

Other officers with Group Captain Walsh on the overseas headquarters staff are: Wing Commander F. V. Heakes, who has been employed for some time as liaison officer for the R.C.A.F., at the Air Ministry in London; Squadron Leader A. P. Campbell, Squadron Leader B. M. Aronson, Flight-Lieutenant C. C. P. Graham, Flying Officer W. H. Schroeder, Flying Officer W. A. Dicks, Pilot Officer E. C. Millar, and Pilot Officer Hart R. V. Massey, son of the Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom, Hon. Vincent Massey.

Group Captain Walsh was born in England and came to Canada at the age of 11. Before his recent departure for England, Group Captain Walsh was acting member of the Air Council for Air Staff.

Political Winds Blow Gale Of New Charges

(By the Canadian Press.)

The political winds blew up a gale of renewed controversy today in the Dominion election campaign after a stormy night of electioneering in which at least 16 prominent public men and one woman made appeals to the voters.

It was the most active period of the campaign so far with opposition party speakers outnumbering those for the Government for the first time since the ballot battle started.

Cabinet ministers defended the Government's trade treaty policy and war record, Conservative Leader Manion spoke before his first public meeting in Quebec province, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation moved its campaign into Quebec, and spokesmen for the New Democracy movement aired their views in a general acceleration of the campaign.

Trade Minister Euler said at Hanover, Ont., that Prime Minister Mackenzie King deserved re-election on the trade agreement with the United States alone, while in Lethbridge, Alta., Resources Minister Crerar said the pact was a "great achievement."

At Sherbrooke, Que., Dr. Manion charged that Mr. King and Justice Minister Lapointe were trying to keep Quebec Province separate from the rest of Canada. He urged thoughtful people of Quebec to end this kind of "humbug" in the election.

Opposition to conscription was voiced again by the Conservative leader, who said that a "whispering campaign" was being carried on in Quebec that he would bring in conscription.

Mrs. Manion Aids Husband

In one of the rare occasions in Canadian history when the wife of a party leader has spoken publicly on behalf of her husband, Mrs. Manion gave a radio speech from Sherbrooke in her native French. She stressed the need for action to meet the youth problem and upheld her husband's opposition to conscription. It was her first public address.

Wartime regulations and censorship drew fire from three opposition speakers. At Edmonton, Lieut.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, attacked censorship regulations which he 'said resembled "those imposed in Nazi Germany."

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. national chairman, in Montreal warned against the dangers of wartime reg-

Russians were active in adjacent areas and in Northern Finland. One Russian bomber was shot down during the day.

The men called up today for duty included men who previously had been rejected for reasons of health.

The new call to the colors came while the vanguard of the Russian besiegers of Viipuri still were in virtually the same positions they occupied almost a week ago outside the key Karelian Isthmus city.

Military observers expressed belief that the final Red Army assault on the depopulated and devastated city was being delayed by failures of Soviet attacks on Finnish lines east and southeast of Viipuri.

Unless the Russians can break through these lines and flank the defenders, these sources said, invading troops entering the city would be in a pocket with Finns on the east, west and north.

If the citizenship request has been rejected by the judge the Secretary of State has no alternative but to approve. But if the judge has granted citizenship the Department, if it has other information, has power to disapprove.

Once the application has been accepted and approved the Department at Ottawa sends an oath of allegiance from to the applicant who completes it according to statute and returns it, after which he receives his certificate of naturalization.

Many Cases Of Neglect.

In most cases the new applications are from those who, in time of war, desire to secure their right to live in Canada and who, for one reason or another, have neglected this formality.

Applications from old-residents, some having come to Canada as long as 50 years ago, often are made for the purpose of coming within the scope of the Old Age Pensions Act.

In a recent political speech Justice Minister Lapointe said some countries were urging their nationals who had migrated to Canada to acquire citizenship in the Dominion so that their work as enemy agents might be facilitated.

Officials here made no comment as to the extent this reason figured in the increased applications but it was intimated that aliens of this type were unlikely to succeed in obtaining citizenship.

gold has little practical use.

Since practical use of the metal itself has such limited possibilities, the question of what if anything to do with the United States' accumulating pile of gold bars has split economists into two schools of thought.

One group, including many of the Treasury and Federal Reserve Bank system's, contends that the country's gold is already "working" since it serves as the base for United States currency.

Ownership of that vast stock of gold, they contend, is an asset to the United States since it guarantees the nation's paper currency and provides a "nest-egg" of negotiable metal which might be sold or transferred to some other country if needed in the future.

The only problem ownership of so much gold creates, they say, is in the administration of credit machinery, including the question of inflation.

Campinchi contended that the German war against shipping was waning, supporting this with the assertion that 68 Allied and neutral ships were sunk in December, 63 in January, and only 46 in February, of which 27 were neutral.

He said the French convoys had lost only four out of 2,000 ships escorted since war started and that the Allies had moved thousands of troops and France had imported Colonial workers without losing a man.

The minister disclosed that the new battleship Jean Bart will be equipped with two turrets of four 380-millimetre (14.9-inch) guns and six turrets of three 152-millimetre (5.9-inch) guns. The range of her big guns will be more than 25 miles.

Manitoba Rink Turns Back Hall's Challenge

WINNIPEG, Mar. 7 — (CP). — Manitoba turned back a determined bid by Ontario to remain unbeaten to-day after seven rounds of the Macdonald's Brier bonspiel and hold its lead of one game over the great Saskatchewan rink skipped by Bill Dunbar of Kinley.

Howard Wood's Winnipeg four gained an 8-6 edge over the 1939 Brier champions, the Bert Hall quartette from Kitchener, in one of the most exciting games of the four-day 'spiel. Dunbar handed Nova Scotia its sixth defeat 16-6.

Alberta and Northern Ontario were tied with four victories each, but this morning Cliff Manahan's Edmonton rink hit top form to whip the well-rated Kirkland Lake four skipped by Jim Davis 19-5. Davis was off form and missed frequently. On the sixth end he took out two of his own stones with his last rock and Manahan counted four.

New Brunswick kept step with Alberta at five victories when Nick Tibodeau handed Prince Edward Island its seventh setback by 14-8. Bill Finlay's British Columbians drew level with Quebec at two wins apiece by trouncing the veteran Col. Archie Bell of Quebec City 19-5.

Only Northern Ontario this afternoon and Alberta to-night stand between Manitoba and its ninth Brier championship in 14 years. Saskatchewan plays New Brunswick and Ontario.

Hall and Wood uncovered almost every shot in the curling bag this morning and the wily Manitoba skip was invincible. After a blank first end Wood scored one and matched Hall's third-end two with a pair on the fourth.

A two on the ninth gave him a 7-4 margin, and it was 8-5 going home. Wood lay three when Hall delivered his last rock, drawing to the button for a single that fell two short of tying the game.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Mar. 7 — (CP). — General buying on a moderate scale in the final hour upheld early gains on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today and wheat futures prices closed ½ to ¾ higher. May was quoted at 89⅞, July 91¼ to ¼, and October 92⅜.

Light buying in oats and barley took care of hedging sales in the coarse grains futures pit. The price range was steady and unchanged.

Chicago was about ⅝ cent higher, Buenos Aires was ⅛ to ⅜ cent down.

receive British coal and pay for it by products of her own factories and such a plan may still be worked out.

"Some method may be devised to assist Italy over the difficulty produced by the stoppage of these particular supplies, but on the main principle of the blockade of German exports a compromise is impossible."

The Times said:

"German products," no matter what kind, no matter to which country, will be stopped. The British reply to the Italian protests will be sure to make that clear, while at the same time declaring the government have no wish to handicap Italian industry or the industry of any other country except Germany. Everything will be done to minimize the temporary hardships and inconveniences to third powers, neutral and non-belligerent."

He said he happened to remark to his friend: "What do you say if we hold this place up?"

He "honestly" had no intention of staging a holdup but when he went inside and asked the man at the cash register how much money the man had, the "first thing I knew he was handing me some money."

He said he didn't have a gun. "I would be afraid to pick up a gun, drunk or sober."

He then said he was returning the money to the restaurant by mail.

CAMPBELLFORD

People Fail To Realize Value Of Trees

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7. — (ENS).—Seventy-five per cent of all nursery stock sold in Canada is in the ornamental class, according to W. A. "Bill" Hogle, local nurseryman, who outlined a few of the interesting facts concerning the growth and planting of trees before Rotarians at their weekly luncheon held in the St. Lawrence Hotel Monday. Emphasizing the amount of use to which shade and ornamental trees were being used Mr. Hogle stated that along one newly built highway in Western Ontario some twenty-five thousand Norway maples had been planted.

"Despite the fact that the cost of trees of this type is not great they are neglected by people who fail to realize how they improve the appearance of a lawn or garden."

He told the club that rose bushes that some people go into very extensively show a loss ratio of ten per cent per year and this amount in some of the larger gardens which have anywhere from two to four thousand bushes constitutes a considerable portion of the nurseryman's business.

The multi flora Japonaca is the most widely used rose stock in the province and the hardiness of this particular species has served to build up a demand for it. Dutch and Belgian roses which are taken off the boats at Montreal and Quebec offer strong competition in the eastern province, however, according to the speaker they are not as hardy a plant as the Canadian variety. The fact that they sell at seventeen cents a bush as against fifty cents for the native plant makes them attractive to many buyers despite their high mortality rate. "This plant doesn't usually live more than a year since it is not hardy enough to withstand the rigors of the Canadian climate.

Speaking of apple trees Mr. Hogle stated that the hardiest variety for use in Eastern Canada was made by grafting native varieties to imported French crab understock. A modern orchard of 50 trees to the acre will begin to bear at the end of the 6th or 7th year and at the end of the 10th summer may average one barrel per tree while at 15 years the yield would be three barrels per tree. The theory that the best apple districts in Ontario are along the shores of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario is wrong declared Mr. Hogle who claimed there were many splendid orchards as much as one hundred miles north of Lake Erie. Though the Greening apple brings the highest price on the export market sixty per cent of the apples sold here are of the Macintosh variety which if picked at the proper time and placed in cold storage (a temperature of 34 degrees) they can be taken out in March in as good condition as they were when put in. Rotarian Harold Carr moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Clarksburg Fire Levels Store

CLARKSBURG, Ont., March 7 (CP)—Bullets cracked and a tower of flame shot 100 feet in the air when a terrific explosion, following fire, rocked this village 15 miles west of Collingwood last night.

The fire broke out in Roy Lougheed's general store and threatened the entire business section before it was brought under control by the Collingwood fire department. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

Volunteer firemen were forced to retreat when the flames exploded ammunition in the store. Before outside help arrived the fire caused a 500-gallon gasoline tank near the store to explode. The crowd ran for shelter as the blast occurred.

Arrive To Soothe United States

Third Nazi Vessel Nabbed In Indies

ARUBA, Netherlands West Indies, March 7—(AP).—The German freighter Seattle, which sailed Monday night with a lumber cargo, was reported to-day to have been intercepted at sea, presumably by allied warships guarding the western Atlantic against German attempts to run the blockade.

Reports received here said the master of the Seattle had sent a message reporting his plight.

No mention was made of another German vessel, the Mimi Horn, which also sailed Monday night.

An earlier attempt by three German vessels to get away failed last week. One of the ships was captured, another was scuttled and a third returned to port.

The Seattle, a motorship of 7,369 gross tons, was operated in the Pacific coast trade with Germany by the Hamburg-American Line before the war. She made regular visits to San Francisco, Los Angeles, Tacoma, Seattle and Vancouver.

The Mimi Horn, a 4,007-ton motorship, traded between Germany, Belgium, Great Britain and the West Indies. Both ships were preparing to return to Germany when the war began.

Springbrook WI Displays Fine Antiques

BONARLAW, March 7—(ENS).—The meeting of the Springbrook Women's Institute was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Jeremiah Thompson, Springbrook. There were eighteen members and four visitors present.

The roll-call, name an early settler in Rawdon Township, was answered in an interesting manner. Mrs. Swayne, on behalf of Mrs. M. Neal and Mrs. James Mumby, thanked the branch for the flowers, letters and cards she received while ill. Mrs. W. J. Barlow also thanked the branch for the lovely plant she received. It was moved that a letter of sympathy be sent Mrs. A. Haslitt. Mrs. A. V. Brown and Mrs. Alfred Williams then presented Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Barlow each with a beautiful cut-glass vase for their untiring services in connection with the wardens' banquet.

It was decided to hold a pot-luck dinner on March 13 at Bonarlaw and that Mrs. D. Wellman give the demonstration at the second class of meat cookery. Mrs. M. Fitzgerald, convener for the meeting, took the chair and the program, opening with community singing, with Mrs. F. Balman at the piano. The motto was well prepared by Mrs. Walter Heath and enjoyed by all. Mrs. John S McKeown gave the history of the 12th Line School, and Mrs. Alfred Williams gave the history of the Springbrook School. An exhibit of antiques was on display, and of interest was an old shawl brought from England many years ago, the property of Mrs. George Thompson, and brought to this country by her grandmother.

Also a Red Cross doll owned by Dr. Iona Wellman was indeed interesting, as it was very popular during the Great War. The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem. Lunch was served and a social half-hour spent.

Why Wait So Long?

Premier Hepburn has given an interview to the press, and his claim is that several hundred airmen, "fed up and disgusted because they got no training," marched from the St. Thomas air school three weeks ago, and that many were absent after three days despite the efforts of military police."

Defence Minister Rogers on hearing of the charge, made an offer to Mr. Hepburn in this way: "Let Mr. Hepburn visit the school at St. Thomas. At the same time we will make arrangements for such representatives of the press as desire to be in attendance. He and they may ask all the questions they like. The doors will be open. The entire subject can then be given full public discussion and the conditions at this school reported as the press sees them."

That seems fair enough but there is something about the whole business we do not like. This country is at war, and the discussions of our war effort which become public property are not for our own consumption. Not by any means. They are being picked up and sent around the world. They reach Germany just as readily as they reach our own newspaper offices.

If Mr. Hepburn had reason to believe that something serious had gone wrong at the St. Thomas air school — three weeks ago—it would have been an easy matter for him to have got into immediate touch with the Minister of Defence and told him about it. We do not regard the Minister of Defence as Liberal or Conservative, but as an individual who is holding a mighty responsible position today on behalf of all the people of this Dominion. Mr. Hepburn's plain duty would have been to inform the Minister three weeks ago of what was taking place.

Dealing In Peace And War

United States War Department finds that on taking inventory it has a large supply on hand—artillery, rifles and such stuff. We take it that such material goes out of date like any other stock. Better things are being made, guns which will shoot farther and faster and do much more damage with a given amount of expenditure.

So United States is going to have something like a clearance sale. South American nations and any other countries not presently at war can buy this surplus stock, some of which dates back to the days of the war of 1914-18. Brazil has already planned to purchase 90 long range six-inch field pieces. So when United States gets done with her clearance sale of surplus war goods a good many nations may be fairly well armed in a sort of a way.

Meantime United States has two busy ambassadors touring Europe to see what the chances of peace might be. There is talk too that the real idea is to plan now for the rebuilding of a new world after the war, a world in which there will be little armament, and more than ever a desire on the part of people to live in peace and settle their differences without blows. And with any such move most reasonable people will be ready enough to agree.

It does look for the moment as though United States were having it both ways. Seeking in Europe in the midst of war for some new stones on which to rear the peace temple of the future, and at the same time telling other lesser nations presently at peace that United States has a fine old stock of war equipment which it is ready to sell at bargain prices. Seems a trifle hard to add that up and come to the conclusion that it produces the right answer.

Hitler's Two Reasons

There has been little actual information given out telling what took place when Sumner Welles, representative of President Roosevelt, visited Hitler. There was sufficient though to make it known that Hitler desired to see an end to the war between Finland and Russia.

Hitler would no doubt be wise enough to make some such admission. For two reasons: Sympathy with Finland is strong in United States, and it would be one way of appealing to that sympathy and turning some of it toward Hitler himself.

The second reason has more substance. Hitler has found that the transportation system in Russia has been sadly disorganized by the sending of troops and supplies toward Finland. There has been little opportunity for Hitler to reap the benefit he expected from his tie-up with Russia from which country he anticipated he would receive an unbroken supply of raw materials. If Russia were not so deeply involved in trying to conquer Finland it would be better for Hitler. Of course he could not put the case that way to Sumner Welles. He might even have made it appear that he was concerned with the survival of Finland. But Hitler's real reason is that he wants Russian supplies to begin moving in his direction in greater quantity and regularity than has yet been accomplished.

Looks Like a Good Field

It does look as though any young man undecided on what to follow for a life's work ought to seriously consider going in for statistics. We have tilted quite a distance in the direction of and in favor of statistics. Perhaps governments started the thing because we never yet met up with a government that admitted it had all the statistics it needed.

Now the idea has spread. We learn that St. Catharines has what is termed an epidemic of measles and that there have been 739 cases reported since the first of the year. It is possible to compare that with the situation in 1936 when there were but 665 cases. Possible too to narrow it down to the point where it can be stated 30 cases were reported in the last 24 hours.

On the Tenth Concession and in the nearby village there never were statistics kept on measles, mumps, whooping cough, ringworm or any such thing. The younger generation, it was taken for granted, was liable to have such things, and if they didn't then they were lucky or they were going to be in for a mighty bad spell when they took them later on when they were older.

But now all such things are statisticized. Whether that's a good word we are not certain, but it says what we have in mind. It must give more people more things to do; must cause the sale of more pens and bottles of ink, more desks and more blank forms. So it does look as though the field of statistics is promising for the young chap who shows an aptitude for doing his sums in school and putting down the right answers.

The Singing Of Madrigals

We do not know of another city in our country where an organization such as The Madrigal Singers exists — and keep on existing. Peterborough is unique that way. There are plenty of ladies' choirs in Ontario, many more of them in the Western section than in the central part, but none of them as far as we are aware concentrate on the singing of madrigals. For purposes of musical festival competition some of these choirs and bodies of mixed voices will turn to madrigals, but for the purpose of competition only. In Peterborough Dorothy Allan Park's Madrigal Singers are essentially what the name indicates, although they do not confine their efforts entirely to the madrigal. We are moved to doubt if there is an organization in Ontario which could compete successfully with the Peterborough choir in the singing of madrigals.

The madrigal is actually an old form of musical expression. It is not merely a song, but it is the unusual timing or texture of the music which makes it a madrigal. It is quite unlike the even flow such as one finds in the singing of hymns where all the parts go along together. There can be two or more distinct movements of song under way at the same time. They can be sung by ladies' or men's voices alone or by mixed voice parties, and the number of parts in which they are written varies from three to as high as ten in some of the more ambitious undertakings. It is a form of music which reached its highest degree of development in the 16th and 17th centuries.

When the Peterborough organization selected madrigals as the field of its musical devotion it was not making an easy selection. But it was attaching itself to a musical tradition which is old and entirely worthy of survival.

There Was No Contempt

The Kingston Whig-Standard carried an editorial which was of sufficient length to fill the available space for the day, and it is of such importance to newspapers and the public that it would have attracted even more attention were it not for the world affairs which crowd themselves in for immediate attention.

It came about this way: There was a fatal accident on a road leading to Kingston, but when the case was called for trial the grand jury reviewed the evidence and returned a verdict of "no bill." That meant the case would end right there and would not go to trial. The Whig-Standard did not believe that the facts warranted any such finding, and said so. It urged that the case should be re-opened, and that is what was done. The driver of the car was indicted a second time, and a second grand jury found a true bill. A conviction was registered and a jail term imposed.

The editorial to which we referred dealt with criticism of the Whig-Standard by W. F. Nickle, K.C., counsel for the defendant, and a former Attorney-General of the province, when he was arguing for the dismissal of the charge, on the ground that the court had no right to place the indictment before a second grand jury after the first one had brought in "no bill."

Mr. Nickle urged that the press should have been brought in for contempt of court. He put it this way: "Instead of the evidence being heard by grand jurors it was being heard by editorial writers." The Whig-Standard says there was nothing in the way to prevent such action. Mr. Nickle himself could have taken it. If the newspaper by its comments had laid itself open to contempt charges then the logical course would have been to come to grips with the situation and settle the point via the contempt of court route.

The Whig-Standard has gone far into the matter and quotes at length various findings showing the right of criticism. Lord Russell of Killowen (The All England Law Reports, Rex vs. Gray):

"Judges and courts are alike open to criticism, and if reasonable argument or expostulation is offered against any judicial act as contrary to the law or the public good, no court would or could treat that as contempt of court."

The contention of the Kingston paper is clearly stated in these words:

"The moment either individuals or newspapers cannot discuss freely, frankly and honestly proceedings that have occurred or findings that have been recorded in any division of the judicature system, at that moment democracy, as it is known in British countries, ceases to exist."

A case which is waiting to be heard before the courts cannot be discussed in newspapers, and our papers observe that ruling absolutely. Possibly for two reasons, (1) they have to, and (2) for the major reason that they want to. But when a case is finished and a newspaper honestly believes there has been a wrong result it is at liberty to say so. Moreover it is its duty. The Whig-Standard followed that course and as a result the finding of a grand jury was set aside, a second jury reversed the finding of the first, a conviction was registered and a jail term imposed. To claim there was ground for contempt of court in such a course was merely pulling a long bow.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We were thinking of laying in a little more coal to tide us over to spring, but perhaps it would be better to first ask Mr. Hepburn if it would be all right to buy it.

Grain cargo shipments are being unloaded at Erie, Pa., and that is about as close as we have come to indications of approaching spring.

One candidate speaking at Port Rowan says if National Government is returned the radio fee will be $1 or else abolished entirely. We hardly thought it possible that in a war year the old radio would be able to shoulder its way toward the front.

In the report of a court case where a woman is asking damages for having been struck by a car it was recorded: "She walked to and from the witness stand with seeming difficulty." And that we presume is exactly the way she should have walked.

Governor Dickinson of Michigan, 81 years old, filled out the last part of a term and now announces he is ready to try for it again. So any of the young fellows who claim youth must be served have a chance to prove their point.

When tax rates are being struck it is common enough to comment on the rates in various communities, but the truth is the tax rate means little unless one knows exactly the basis of assessment.

SPECKLED HEN

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My speckled hen now wants to cluck, the notion looks though it had stuck, she's cranky as can be; she turns up feathers round her neck, thinks that her nest's a quarter deck, she hits right straight at me.

¶ She's been like that three days or so, and didn't wait for snow to go, she's stubborn in her way; she's signed a lease upon her nest, and she won't share it with the rest, looks like she's going to stay.

¶ She's got a door knob where she'll sit, don't seem to worry her a bit, a china egg's there too; I think she'd set on spuds just now, it wouldn't bother her no how, most anything would do.

¶ And I've heard lots of people say, it's instinct makes her feel that way, obeying nature's rule; of that perhaps I'm not so sure, for clucking I don't know the cure, she's stubborn as a mule.

¶ My speckled hen is wise at times, about her I could write long lines, she's smart as she can be; when with a spade I dig a worm, before I have a chance to turn, why she'll find two or three.

¶ But when her clucking days are come, she seems to me uncommon dumb, her thinking seems to stall; she'll sit on door knobs day on day, in sorrow I'm compelled to say—she has no brains at all.

Tax Officers Take Most Of Big Salaries

MUCH is heard of the man who makes a big salary, but David Lawrence, writing from Washington to the New York Sun, says the taxing division of the Government likes him. He's ripe for the picking when the season arrives. The policy is to let a man make all he can and then take it away from him. Of this one salary under discussion the government takes $277,000 of the $420,000. The story:

WASHINGTON.—Many people here who have been worrying about how to balance the Federal budget have had some new worries given them by the man who wants to limit executive salaries and incentive payments in large corporations.

Thus, a holder of a few shares of the stock of American Tobacco Company has proposed that the salary of George W. Hill, president, be limited to $100,000, but if anything like that happens Washington will be considerably disturbed because, as matters stand now, Uncle Sam gets $277,000 out of Mr. Hill's earnings of $420,000 a year. If the $320,000 above the $100,000 limitation were distributed among the stockholders these stockholders would each bet between 5 and 6 cents apiece more per share of stock held, but Uncle Sam would get hardly anything in taxes.

The Treasury would lose enormous sums if any such thing would happen to executive salaries or incentive compensations generally. The public does not realize the extent to which the graduated income tax system now in effect depends on men of extraordinary capacity to earn big annual sums.

The publicity that is often given to large salaries fails to tell how much of it is net to the executive. Thus, in the case of Mr. Hill, he pays the Federal Government $277,000, but he probably pays additional sums in State income taxes, too.

BUT the principle back of the question raised in connection with the case of the American Tobacco Company's executives is even more interesting from another tax angle. Mr. Hill, for instance, says that unless the stockholders pay him what he thinks is the value of his services to the company, he will not continue. In that respect he is like any other individual who values his services in terms of what he can do to help the gross income of a corporation grow. Mr. Hill's compensation has been based on his ability to bring the gross income of the company up higher and higher each year. Under the present incentive plan Mr. Hill gets 10 per cent of net profits of American Tobacco Company when they rise above $15,000,000. Now it so happens that when the net income of the company goes up, the Federal income taxes of the corporation also rise, but something else far more important than Mr. Hill's individual taxes or the income taxes of the company is involved. The latest statement shows that the sales for 1939 amounted to about $362,000,000. This means a huge volume of sales on which, for every package of cigarettes, the Federal Government collects a high percentage.

Thus, the tobacco tax today is one of the most productive of all the internal revenue collections. Uncle Sam and the other taxing authorities get 9 cents out of every 15-cent package of cigarettes. So on the ordinary sales tax alone the Federal and State and city governments nowadays have a 60 per cent interest in cigarette sales. Anybody, therefore, who increases the total sales is helping the Treasury collect more revenue.

IT IS NOT generally realized the extent to which cigarettes are taxed today. Thus in New York 1 cent goes to the city, 2 cents to the State and 6 cents to the Federal Government. Out of the remaining 6 cents must come all the money paid to the tobacco farmer, the manufacturer, the wholesaler and retailer, as well as all distribution and selling costs and whatever profits are earned by any of the different intermediate factors involved in the whole operation.

What is true of the tobacco business is true of other businesses. Men of capacity and genius like George W. Hill who have made salesmanship a life work have gradually earned more and more income for the stockholders, but also have gradually increased Uncle Sam's total collections as sales have been increased.

The man who is going to cut down the incentive for the executives may think he is doing the stockholders a service, but the income tax experts hereabouts say it will mean less and less money for the Treasury under any such plan. As a matter of fact, the Treasury is for bigger and bigger salaries for executives, because when the tax collector comes around he takes sometimes as high as 80 per cent. And strangely enough that is one of the very reasons for unemployment today. Few men who are earning large sums feel they can take risks in investing in business, because if they lose the Government doesn't pay them anything, but if they win the Government takes nearly all the winnings. Hence, risk capital, so essential to small businesses, especially, and the creation of new jobs, is diminishing constantly.

• We Have Enough Censors Now

SOMETHING AKIN to amazement greeted yesterday's announcement by Premier Hepburn that the showing of the news film, "Canada at War," had been banned from Ontario, at least until after the Dominion election of March 26. Mr. Hepburn handed down this interdict in his capacity as Chairman of the Appeal Board of the Ontario Government Motion Picture Board of Censors. He attempted to justify it by claiming that the film, produced under official Federal auspices in the "March of Time" manner, was "nothing but pure political propaganda for the Mackenzie King Government."

It is indicated in Ottawa that this action is likely to have wide repercussions. It is in the public interest that the whole case be fully examined. Of late, considerable clamor has been raised in criticism of the Federal Government's official wartime censorship regulations. The Queen's Park move is surely more flagrant than anything yet contrived at Ottawa!

Mr. Hepburn unwittingly but conclusively condemned his own action when he said, "No party, the one in power or any other, is going to get away with that sort of thing." He had reference, of course, to the Liberal Party at Ottawa and to the film in question. But it will occur to the people, regardless of their political affiliations, that it is time to ask whether any party in Ontario, "the one in power or any other," is going to "get away" with the sort of thing just decreed in Toronto!

Aside altogether from the film under consideration, the principle invoked is a thoroughly vicious and highly dangerous one. Mr. Louis de Rochemont, producer of "The March of Time," asserted emphatically last night in New York that the film was prepared "for world-wide exhibition" as "straight-forward pictorial journalism." "We are prepared," he said, "to substantiate every statement which comes from the screen." It does not appear, therefore, that "Canada at War" was devised simply to further the political ends of Mr. King's Government or any political unit. True, that status may be disputed. In that case, it would be proper to have the production reviewed by an impartial group of expert critics. But by no stretch of the imagination can Mr. Hepburn be considered as being impartial in his judgment where the present Prime Minister of Canada is concerned! And, apart from that personal consideration, a censorship system in which the Premier of a province, be he Mr. Hepburn or anyone else, is the chief censor and final arbiter in matters which may directly affect his own political prejudices or party fortunes is obviously wrongly founded and should be effectively reformed at once. From innocent beginnings — and it is not indicated that the present case is by any means innocent—can develop an insidious but none the less real form of dictatorship, and the people of Ontario want none of it.—Brantford Expositor.

• Tells Britain How To Win War

IT MAY BE that readers of Canadian papers have grown weary of advice from people in United States telling how Britain should carry on the war. But the end of such advice is not yet. Another letter-writer has come to the front in the New York Sun, and he knows exactly how the war can be won in six months. We quote:

To the Editor of the Sun: Sir,—If England clings to the old tradition that Britain always bungles at first, but wins her war anyway, then she is doomed, because the combined resources of Germany and Russia and the neutrals will outweigh those of England and France. And with Hitler or his successor in Holland and Belgium and in control of the Channel ports, communications between England and France will be severed, and Germany will bomb England and her fleet to her heart's content. France will be too much occupied by the German and Russian invasion through Belgium and Switzerland, so will be unable to help, and with their Hitler or Stalin, or both, in control of Scandinavia, England will be besieged and beaten; her colonies have no navies and troopships would never reach the British Isles.

However, England has a seldom talked about, huge and marvelously equipped air base not so far from Alexandria. She has planes there. It is not an excessive distance from there to southern Russia, or to Rumania, and, anyway, Turkey is about mid-way. Now suppose England was to drop her pussy-footing and acknowledge that Russia is actually fighting with Germany against the Allies, and issue a stern ultimatum to Russia to halt her invasion of Finland within a short time limit, or else—It might save Finland and the Scandinavian peninsula. But what is more likely, Stalin being familiar with recent British diplomacy would pay no heed to her and continue on his course.

Then pussy-footing have been discarded for action, England would declare war on Russia, and within a few hours British bombing planes could and should be over the Russian oil fields—and make a good job of it. With this done Hitler would soon provide the necessity for Allied seizure or destruction of other oil fields which need not be named—and the war would be over within six months, for no modern army can fight without ample gasoline and oil. And I believe peace would be concluded with representatives of the German people, and other peoples, because some of the dictators and their help would be absent from the meeting.

The world looks to British leadership in Europe. The little countries are crumbling. Those already fallen have seen their non-combatants, even children, slaughtered or enslaved. Small nations no longer look upon England as a protector, so they either knuckle under to the dictators or courageously die. Their victors are getting more brutal and emboldened. Unless their planes are disrupted there will be no neutral countries in Europe.

So England must strike and not merely defend. In the oil fields of southeastern Europe lies the key to world peace in this decade, bringing with it international sanity in armament reduction and the prevention of world bankruptcy. Then, indeed, chastened nations can get together and agree on a more nature's bounty which will produce evenly balanced distribution of international amity and more contentment among the common peoples of the world. Such is my belief and hope.

To The Editor

LEGION HALL

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I notice in Saturday's issue of your paper that the hall given by the citizens of Peterborough to returned soldiers of Peterborough is going to be sold, as I understand it is going to be sold for little. I think the ratepayers and the citizens should be consulted and enlightened on the whole subject before it is sold, and also all returned soldiers before any action is taken. The Legion made an awful noise about one of our aldermen when he made a remark about one of their comrades. Now the shoe is on the other foot.

The City Council gave $10,000 of the ratepayers' money toward remodelling it, and $25,000 dollars was raised by public subscription. Now they want to hand it over for a mere song. If the returned soldiers cannot carry on it should revert back to the City Council and the ratepayers. It would be a great asset to the city; it would make a great public hall for meetings, just what we need in this city. I would like to get a few ratepayers and approach the City Council and get some concrete information about the [illegible] thing.

PSYCHOLOGICAL WAR

THE LONDON SPECTATOR makes a good point about public morale in wartime. Hitler, of course, has long emphasized the psychological factor, delighting to keep prospective victims "on the jump" by issuing horrific threats from time to time. Therefore, according to the Spectator, those who emphasize the terrific character of this or that impending blow "without at the same time explaining our own rising and striking power" are playing into Hitler's hands. The best reply to alarmists is full information about the Allies' strength.—Winnipeg Tribune.

Only 94 Quebec Candidates In Ring So Far

MONTREAL, March 7—(CP). —Quebec Province, which has yet to see on the public platform the party leaders contesting the Dominion elections three weeks hence, is proceeding slowly with the nomination of candidates.

To-day, five days away from official nomination day, only 94 candidates have entered the fight for the 65 seats the Province holds in the House of Commons. In the last general elections in 1935 there were 213 contestants and indications are the number this time will be smaller. The defunct Reconstruction Party had 44 men in the field in 1935.

So far, 45 Liberal candidates have been named, with the Conservative Party's 31 National Government candidates next in line. There are four Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidates, six Independents, three Independent Liberals, two Social Credit, one Communist, one Labor and one Independent Conservative.

Twenty-six of the Liberal candidates are seeking re-election, as are five of the candidates supporting Conservative Leader Manion's National Government platform. There were 55 Liberals from Quebec in the last House of Commons, five Conservatives and five Independent Liberals.

Expect Lively Action Yet

A flood of nominations is expected before the end of the week, since both the Liberals and Conservatives have signified their intention of contesting all the seats. The province's three elected members of the cabinet—Justice Minister Lapointe, Postmaster-General Power, and Works Minister Cardin—have not yet been nominated. There have been no nominations at all in some constituencies.

In most of the constituencies where nominations have been held, the fight is a straight duel between Liberal and National Government candidates. There are seven three-cornered struggles and one five-cornered fight.

A woman—Miss R. B. Joan Adams—is one of the candidates in the five-cornered battle, in Montreal-Verdue. The only woman nominated in Quebec so far, she is running as an Independent against a C.C.F. candidate, an Independent Conservative, a National Government and a Liberal candidate.

Doctor, Aviator Risk Lives To Save Woman

BERLIN, N.H., March 7—(CP). —A 71-mile "mercy flight" in a driving snowstorm to the side of a sick woman in a Maine forest cottage, twenty-four miles from the nearest highway, was completed successfully yesterday with the return here of Dr. Edward R. B. McGee.

Taking off in a storm that dropped 20 inches of snow here, Dr. McGee and Pilot John E. West flew blind for nearly an hour last night before landing on the ice of isolated Lake Parmachenee with the help of a compass, a flashlight, and a few lanterns set out to mark the "runway."

Their patient was Mrs. Albert Desmoulin, wife of a caretaker, who had become critically ill of an internal hemorrhage. When Dr. McGee arrived at midnight the woman was in such a delicate condition the doctor could find no pulse. Two hours elapsed before his work produced the first faint beat.

Although hospital treatment was indicated, the continuing storm with an accompaniment of sleet and rain forced the doctor to return here without her, deferring the patient's transfer until to-day if the weather clears. Her cottage is in virgin country in the extreme north-west corner of Maine.

The flying difficulties for West were enormous, with a takeoff at 10.30 p.m., a blind flight by compass in a heavy snow, and a ski landing on a lake that had to be found by dead reckoning, with only lantern light for markers. West, 31 years old, had made similar "mercy flights" before.

Godbout To Keep His Pledge On Women's Vote

QUEBEC, March 7 (CP)—Quebec's Legislative Assembly gave first reading Tuesday to three bills of the new Liberal government and heard Premier Adelard Godbout indicate his party would not abandon its plan to grant woman suffrage in Provincial elections.

Replying to Opposition Leader Maurice Duplessis who asked if the government, despite opposition by Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve, intended to introduce such legislation, the Liberal head said that "when some people give their word they keep it."

(Forecast in the speech from the Throne Feb. 20 at the opening of the current Legislature session, the vote-for-women project was opposed Saturday in an official comunique of the Cardinal.)

"I cannot say just now when or in what form the legislation in question will be introduced," Mr. Godbout said. "However, as is the case with all legislation, we have no intention in this case of making political capital out of the highest sentiments in the Province."

Public bills introduced would change the end of the Province's fiscal year from June 30 to March 30; allow universities to acquire for experimental purposes unclaimed human bodies, and amend the Quebec Fisheries Act. Fisheries Minister P. E. Cote, despite a request by Mr. Duplessis, did not supply details of the latter measure.

No Wonder You Are Constipated!

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? Bread, meat, potatoes? No wonder you're constipated . . . due to lack of "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft, bulky mass in the bowels. It's this mass that helps your bowels move.

The common sense thing to do about it is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. This ready-to-eat cereal will give you just the "bulk" you need. Lighting Peterborough By Gas First Discussed In 1857 Question Let Drop Until 1870

It seems hard to realise that up to seventy years ago, Peterborough's streets, stores and houses were illuminated only by lamp and candlelight. There was no electrical power and all it represents and the railway was the only means of mechanical transport. Gas first came in 1870.

The first suggestion of lighting by gas was made in 1857 when a prospectus and method of prosecution was submitted to the town council. It was to be made from wood sawdust and mill refuse, and fantastic as this may now seem, the method was evidently practical, for the Mayor, James Stevenson, was authorized to go to Palmyra, N.Y., to inspect similar works. The mayor returned with a favorable report, but the matter was dropped.

It was not until 12 years later, in August, 1869, that a meeting was held to form a company to engage in the manufacture of gas. Messrs. Romaine and Carnegie addressed the council and a resolution was passed granting the company the use of the streets for the purpose of laying gas mains and that the council would be prepared to light the principal streets with a moderate number of lamps.

On September 24 a bylaw was passed granting the gas company exclusive right to, as a gas company, to use the streets for ten years and undertaking to use 20 lamps at $20 per annum each.

Work commenced in October, gas works were erected and mains laid along Simcoe street and up George street to Hunter street by the end of the year.

Gas First Used

On March 4, 1870, gas was first used in Peterborough. A great advance from the oil and candle system.

In 1881 a proposition was made to the council that the town buy the Gas Works at $16,000, as the town at that time was paying $1,000 a year for gas used for municipal purposes.

It was fourteen years after installation of gas that Peterborough had electric lighting. The first poles were erected on George street on May 13, 1884, and the light first turned on on May 23, with seventeen lights on George street. The directors of the pioneer Electric Lighting Company were A. T. Pousette, T. G. Haslett, R. Hall, Wm. Davidson Wm. Welsh and H. E. Irvine, the latter of the Royal Electric Co. of Montreal.

To conclude briefly the story of illumation, in April, 1900, there was an amalgamation of the local gas and electric light companies under the name of "The Peterborough Light and Power Company Limited" with a capital of $200,000. The principal shareholders were T. G. Haslett, Jas. Stevenson, Thomas Bradburn, Richard Hall, George A. Cox, Wm. Davidson and Wm. Walsh.

New incandescent lights for stores and residences to be introduced and other improvements in the general service promised.

As is well-known this company is now incorporated with and part of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario.

War View Split Costs Herald Editor Williams

LONDON, March 7—(CP Cable).—Conflicting views on the functions of the London Daily Herald as a Labor organ in wartime has led to the resignation of Francis Williams as editor-in-chief of the newspaper, published by Odhams Press, Limited.

Mr. Williams, financial editor from 1929 to 1937, when he became editor-in-chief, was succeeded by Percy Cudlipp, editorial manager. A brief announcement was carried in the Herald on February 16, but articles regarding the change in editors, published in the New Statesman and Nation, London weekly, have increased public interest.

A contributor to the New Statesman intimated that Mr. Williams' resignation marked a transituation of the Herald from a Labor Party organ to a non-political journal. Mr. Cudlipp, denying that any new course is planned for the paper, declared his aim is "that the Herald's value to the Labor movement shall increase."

In a letter to the New Statesman, Mr. Williams wrote:

"I held, and still hold, that since Socialism is both a political creed and a Social philosophy, and since the future shape of society for many years will be determined by this war, a Labor paper has certain very specific duties to perform during it.

"These duties are not continued to a legalistic adherence to the line of party policy. It is, of course, highly important that the Herald should be a day-to-day exponent of that policy. But in addition, or so it seems to me, it has the responsibility of an official Labor paper to keep its readers informed on the serious problems which have been created by the war and are likely to be created by peace when it comes and to put before them a responsible, intelligent and reasoned discussion of these problems in leaders and special articles.

Trouble Over Column

"I hold, in short, that no amount of snappy presentation and slick sloganizing can justify the absence in a Labor paper at such a time as this of the sustained endeavor to inform and education its readers on the grave public issue which by their very nature require considerable thought and concentrated attention.

"This view was, I may say, shared by all those many labor and trade union representatives with whom I had contact.

"The controversy between Odhams and myself on this matter was proceeding with some forces when the issue was sharpened by their strong objection to my own signed political articles which had been a regular feature of the paper for some time—and one, if I am to judge by the very large number of letters I have received and by my experience with Labor speakers at local party conferences, which was considerably appreciated.

"This objection to my political articles reached a climax in a refusal to allow publication of an article by me on 'Finland's lesson to the Allies' except in a substantially cut form to which I could not agree and finally in issuing, over my head, of instructions for suppression of that article after it had been set up in type.

"After such action I considered, as I think any self-respecting editor could not avoid doing, that I had no alternatives but to offer my resignation.

"Subsequently I was asked by Odhams if I would remain as political and economic adviser to the paper without any executive powers. I felt, and those leaders in the Labor movement both in Commons and outside it with whom I discussed the proposal agreed with me, that to do so could serve no useful purpose.

"Therefore, with some natural regret, I severed my connection with the paper whether the Herald, under a non-Socialist editor for the first time in its history, will give enhanced service to that cause in the future, time will show."

HE wasn't timed but John Miklosh set some kind of a speed record. Miklosh was cutting timber. A complain, half a mile away, heard him yell and a short time later saw Miklosh streak past. Massacre Lists Grow In Poland

ANGERS, France, March 7 (AP)—General Wladyslaw Sikorski, Premier of the Polish Government in exile, gave a detailed statement before the Polish National Council last night on atrocities and massacres which he accused the Germans of committing in occupied Poland.

He declared "this unprecedented terror is manifest proof of the weakness" of the Germans. Their actions betray their "uncertainty and worry," he added.

The general spoke shortly after the release of an official paper to appear with others in a "white book," the purpose of which will be to demonstrate that "the Germans are attempting to exterminate the population of Western Poland by a regime of the most cruel violence ever applied in Europe."

Among the crimes that the emigre government listed were:

Massacre at the same place of 6,000 Polish men and women since December.

Sadie Hawkins' Night Held By Bible Class

SPRINGVILLE, Mar. 7 (ENS).—This month's social evening of the Junior Bible Class of which Mrs. Everson is teacher, took the form of a "Sadie Hawkins" party held on Saturday night. It was a gala night for the boys and they agree that when the girls are doing the honors of the evening they certainly excel themselves. Many a young man had a fluttering heart as "Sadie Hawkins" drove into the yard, and presented herself at the door to take him to the show, and then to a cafe. It was indeed a big night for all, and the boys feel that the girls are to be complimented on carrying it all out so graciously.

BEES AND QUAKERS WIN TILTS TO DECIDE CAGE SEMI-FINALISTS

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

'Tis noted in the St. Catharines paper where quite a few Toronto senior ballsters are shopping around for jobs and berths down around the Niagara peninsula—the last senior baseball stronghold of the province. The item adds: "Failure of Toronto seniors to operate, for lack of commercial sponsoring, has tossed many ballhawks on the open market." Ah, yes, too true. With the old C.O.B.L. very likely to remain in hibernation another season or two, and Toronto a doubtful quantity this semester in senior T.B.A. competition, there are no prospective clubs in this end of Ontario at all but the Petes, and maybe Oshawa. It will take some tall hustling at the O.B.A. annual to line up a loop.

* * * * * *

In Belleville the other day, a gent sat down to eat in a restaurant and the waitress—wonder if it was Frenchy, pal of all the Petes' teams—nearly fainted at sight of him. And no wonder. He was Maurice Tillet of France, who goes by the rassiln' nickname "Angel." Now the "Angel" is by six city blocks the homeliest human in or out of captivity—a regular throwback to the Neanderthal man. Tiny bald head, jutting cheek bones, huge eyes, hanging jaw, gaping mouth with a couple of molars grinning through, and huge hairy body (though his body was, of course, covered decently in the restaurant!), he is a horror to behold. Yet Monsieur Tillet cashes in on his monstrous appearance, and rather doubtful rassiln' ability, to pack in record crowds wherever he performs.

About That Tourney

Fenelon Falls' puck association is asking for an entry from here in the annual hockey tourney on March 12, 13 and 14. Winners of the tourney get a trophy and 11 pigtex windbreaks, and runners-up get a cup and 11 wool windbreakers. All amachoors in the province are eligible, and O.H.A. rules govern play. Anyone here interested in the affair should write to Secretary John Townley at Fenelon Falls as soon as possible.

* * * * * *

Petes round-robin playoff series has been enlarged to embrace both Collingwood and Owen Sound, instead of just one of these clubs. The O.H.A., evidently suspecting there was a financial odor to the prolonged group playoffs up north, ordered both clubs to enter the round-robin series right away, along with the Petes, Kitchener and Port Colborne. Which about covers every intermediate "A" club which started the season, except Trenton Fliers and Belleville. Or does it? Anyway, the Sound and Collingwood meet Friday in their first round-robin clash, and the Petes trek to Kitchener tomorrow. Next week, Owen Sound is here Monday, and Collingwood is here Friday.

* * * * * *

Resting Up Tonight

And that's the intermediate "A" setup. The locals pull out at 12.30 tomorrow aft for Kitchener in their third playoff joust. All the boys—except Art Heal, who suffered more cold — had a stiff workout last night on good ice at the Brock, and they are laying off tonight to get a good rest. This tilt with the Greenshirts will mean quite a bit—though it can neither cinch a championship for the Buckaroos nor eliminate 'em — inasmuch as indications point to the Petes' toughest hurdle to a title being the K's. Though there aren't any setups anymore along the provincial playdown trail. The fact that there are now five clubs in the series is a break for the fans—if the ice remains okay—as the cash customers will now view an extra game.

* * * * * *

Friday night hockey fans here can see two sudden-death Industrial Puck Loop semi-finals tomorrow e'en in the Brock St. rink, commencing at eight bells. Quakers and Marines mix in the first one, and it'll be curtains for the rest of the season for one or the other; the second fray is between Westclox and Packers, and one of these will hang up the skates an hour or so later. The two finalists tangle next week in the two-out-of-three loop finals. Admission is low, interest is high and the shop hockeyists, many of 'em former O.H.A. stars, will really turn on the heat in this twin bill. Should pull in a good-sized crowd of hockey followers.

* * * * * *

Worry, Worry, Worry

Lack of ice outdoors is proving quite a worry to the Church League with finals all ready to be staged. A stiff frost is needed to fix up All Saints' rink, and the Brock arena is not available for a week on account of the O.H.A. playoffs listed for there. The league is now dickering with district rinks, we hear. At least three more games are coming up, and possibly five. All Saints and Murray St. Seniors may, if forced by bad weather, reduce their series to a sudden-death tilt. Park St. won from Mark St. in the first junior playoff. Ought to be some further word in a day or two.

* * * * * *

Schedule and officials for tomorrow night's big triple-header by the girl basketeers in the Y.W.C.A.: Quaker Aces vs. Quaker Debs at seven, Whitty Thirnbeck and Hymie Smith; Westclox vs. "Y" Gym at eight, Joe Cooper and Howie Macdonald; Belleville lasses vs. Peterborough Orfuns at nine in a return L.O.B.A. fixture, Joe Cooper and a Quinte official. Sybil Ecobichon is scorer. These should be swelegant hoop struggles and rate a big crowd of basketball fans—more on deck than usual since there is no Friday O.H.A. tussle listed. At the Y.M. last night, Bees beat Dominions 42-18 as Quakers copped a 57-44 win over C.G.E., and now it'll be Quakers and Bees in the semi-final, winnah to clash with Zephyrs for the title. St. John's go to Toronto this week-end, but we dunno for sure when St. Paul's play next in O.C.B.A. numbers.

Playing the Game For Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH'S INTERMEDIATE CHAMPIONS O.H.A., 1905-06.

Home-Breds Build Long-Term Record For Clean Sport

March 7, 1906, was a memorable night in Peterborough's hockey history.

For on that night Peterborough's unconquerable Intermediates arrived home from Goderich bringing with them O.H.A. championship laurels.

The "Sailors" had been downed in a struggle which had so aroused the Goderichites that bands of hooligans—not the players—attacked the small group of visitors, some of whom brought back mementoes of the onslaught in the shape of sizeable boulders.

How News Was Received.

A newspaper reported the Peterborough scene thus: "Hundreds of persons gathered at the Brock Street rink and at the Oriental Hotel, where the scores were received and when the wires told the story in the second half Peterborough was seen to be gaining. When the final score was announced the enthusiasm reached the climax. Cheer after cheer rent the air and the scene was a repetition of that in 1902 when Peterborough defeated Galt for the championship."

Up to that time the celebration of Mafeking night in Boer war days had been accounted the most extraordinary outburst of enthusiasm in the city's history. But a "new high" was established by the crowd of 8,000 which gathered at the station and in George Street. Bonfires blazed at street corners, and fog-horns paraded for hours.

Citizens Tender Banquet.

The boys were entertained by George N. Graham at the Oriental Hotel on arrival. But official honors awaited the banquet tendered by citizens of all classes. Hon. J. R. Stratton was toastmaster and speakers included R. R. Hall, M.P.; T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., and officers of the O.H.A., including W. A. Hewitt, D. L. Darroch and A. W. MacPherson.

The personnel of the team was: Goal, Ernie Wasson; point, Rollie Glover; cover point, Bill Crowley; rover, Fred Whitcroft; centre, Harry Morgan; left wing, Bill Cavanah; right wing, Chris Graham.

Intermediate honors cinched, the invincible Peterboroughs tackled the redoubtable Marlboros in the Mutual Street arena on March 17, and again came home with the honors, this time of a victory by a score of 6-3. The famous Dukes in 1905 had won the Senior O.H.A. championship.

A Whirlwind Finish.

But on March 23 was fought out what is still deemed by many of the older fans the most remarkable game ever played in Peterborough. The Brock Street rink was the scene of this struggle. The local stick-handlers got away to a disappointing start. Scores were piled up against them until, with seven minutes to play the tally stood 11-6 for the visiting team of Varsity stars. The crowd was in the blues—awaiting what seemed to be inevitable defeat. Then things began to happen. In as many minutes five goals were notched for Peterborough. The gloomy crowd became a howling, frenzied mass. The score stood 11-11. Then, says the report:

"Glover started a pretty rush and passed to Graham, who came up nicely to score the winning goal with one minute to play."

Staunch, home-bred athletes played the game for Peterborough in 1905-06, as they played it in many other memorable years before and since. And they are still playing it in consonance with the fine traditions that have been a-building since the old days on fields of Ashburnham—the old home to which Rollie Glover returned to open his campaign a few days ago.

CONTINUITY

BY A FORMER EXAMINER SPORTS WRITER

Canada has learned from the Motherland how closely interwoven with the fabric of continuing social well-being is the athletic training of her youth. No Canadian centre has a more enviable record than Peterborough for broad-gauge achievement in the field of sports. It is not an overnight record. Many still among us remember the homeric days of lacrosse—the days of Joe Begley, Jim and and Jack McCabe, George Lipsett, Fred Dobbin—and a host of others who played the game for Peterborough without recompense other than sheer joy in the game.

To-day brings an anniversary reminding us of the home-coming of the hockeyists of 1905-06, bringing with them the laurels of the Intermediate O.H.A. Championship.

"The victory is all the more creditable," remarked an editorial commentator of March 6, 1906, "because of the fact that they are all home-brews. Every man of the team was either born in Peterborough or has learned the game here, and they play hockey for the love of the pastime and not for pecuniary reward."

Rollie Glover, who for so many years was one of the most zealous of workers in the organizational period of the Ontario Hockey Association, speaks to-day what is in the minds of many others who shared with him the onerous spade-work, when he remarks: "I have always believed in athletic training as an important part of the school of life."

Peterborough's home-bred boys played well the game for Peterborough. Where are there any who are better fitted to carry forward Peterborough's interests with a more keenly developed sense of the social values that reside in ORDERLY CONTINUITY?

See Mrs. Walton New Champ; Storey Put Out

WINNIPEG, Mar. 7 — (CP). — The suspicion lurks here to-day that at least two Canadian badminton championships will fall into new hands when the national tourney concludes at Winnipeg's Winter Club on Saturday afternoon.

Opening rounds yesterday in the five open events left spectators with the conviction that Mrs. W. R. Walton of Toronto will succeed Marjorie Delaney of Quebec as the women's singles titlist. At the same time, the showing of doubles champions Rod Phelan and Jack Sibbald of Toronto indicated the defending titlists are below the form that carried them to national supremacy in Toronto a year ago.

Mrs. Walton, who campaigned in England last year when Miss Delaney won the Canadian title at Toronto, romped through two rounds and her forceful stroking and court generalship was sufficient to establish her as favorite in the singles division. Miss Delaney, who drew a bye in the first round, moved past her second round opponent handily.

Betty Snell of Ottawa scored the section's biggest upset, stopping Manitoba champion Audrey Garnett of Winnipeg in the opening round, 6-11, 11-5, 11-3. Jean Eckhart of Vancouver ousted fourth-seeded Mrs. Guy Perodeau of Ottawa 10-12, 11-7, 11-3.

SStorey Is Beaten.

Pheland and Sibabld were unimpressive when they defeated Eddie Lemon and Ems. Long of Winnipeg in an interprovincial competition match last night, 18-16, 15-12. The match was one of a series between Alberta and Ontario in the fight for the Manitoba Cup, emblematic of interprovincial doubles supremacy in Canada.

In the interprovincial competition, Ontario ousted Alberta three matches to nil, and Manitoba stopped Saskatchewan 2 to 1. Only four provinces were entered. Manitoba will meet Ontario on Friday in the final.

Biggest upset in the men's singles came when Eddie Lemon eliminated fourth-seeded Jack Storey of Toronto, 17-15, 18-17 in a second round match. Dick Birch, Montreal, Johnny Samis of Vancouver, and Jimmy Forsythe of Winnipeg, first-second and third seeded respectively, advanced handily.

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

AVALON, Calif., March 7.—(AP)—Gabby Hartnett, Chicago Cubs catcher-manager, is going into action sooner than he expected—all because of the Finnish war. He hadn't planned to play ball until the Cubs reached San Antonio, Tex., en route home, but agreed to appear along with eight other members of his team in a game at Los Angeles Sunday for the benefit of the Finnish Relief Fund.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Detroit Tigers are expected to start Rookie Dick Conger, Los Angeles policeman's son and ex-college star, on the mound against Brooklyn in their first exhibition game Sunday. Second Baseman Charley Gehringer probably won't play because of a lame back.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — The ghost of the last world series reared itself in New York Yankees' first intra-squad game. Lefty Lee Grissom, obtained by the champions from Cincinnati Reds this winter, was pitching airtight ball until Charley Keller tripled with a man on base.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—It has taken only two workouts for George McQuinn, St. Louis Brown's front rank slugger of last season, to show he still swings a big bat. He has the camp hopeful he can lead the Brownie out of the American League cellar.

ORLANDO, Fla. — Washington Senators see a chance of reviving a deal with Detroit Tigers that would send Shortstop Cecil Travis to Detroit for either Hank Greenberg or Rudy York now that Charley Gehringer is ailing. The veteran Tiger infield star is suffering from a strained back.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.—That title of captain must have been just what Arky Vaughan of Pittsburg Pirates needed. He slammed a homer over the rightfield fence yesterday to lead Mike Kelly's crew to an 8-0 victory over Jake Flowers' nine in a six-inning intra-squad game.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

After a couple of days' layoff, the leads and seconds finally got started again—and we hope to reach the finals by to-night. Some of the games were very close and the boys skipping for the first time got a lot of experience.

The boys had a good time down in Oshawa—that's all.

As yet we have no reports from the ladies playing at Kingston. We believe they were playing very late last evening.

It is expected that six rinks from Lakefield will be down to-morrow night to play in the annual inter-town competition.

And don't forget the Saturday afternoon bonspiel.

J. Field with 294 had a high single for the winners and Don Penrose hit 748 to take high three. There were 10 teams competing in the league all winter at the Duffus' Alley, a mixed league of girls and men, and the competition was keen throughout. Following are the playoff game results:

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

JACK SHEWCHUK, Boston Bruins.

(By Central Press Canadian.)

Some years ago you may remember the many words that stared out from the printed page about Geo. Selkirk when the Yankee outfielder trotted out with a No. 3 on his back to take the place in the New York Yankee outfield that for 15 years had been occupied by Babe Ruth. At the start of the present hockey season Jack Shewchuk was in a somewhat similar spot with the Boston Bruins.

Jack Shewchuk

He started the season with the Bruins after a couple of winters spent with their Providence farm team, and all he had to do was take the place of Eddie Shore. Shore played a few games in Boston at the start of the season, but other than that Shewchuk has rounded out a capable blue line staff, the other members being Dit Clapper, Johnny Crawford, and Des Smith (who recently replaced Jack Portland in a trade). John Michael is the full name of this N.H.L. newcomer, and he's sometimes referred to as "Choo Choo." He was born at Brantford, Ont., and will celebrate his 23rd birthday this June, giving him a number of years in which to rise to the top among major league defencemen. As an amateur he got around considerably, playing with Brantford Juniors in 1934-35, with Sudbury Cubs the next winter, and with Copper Cliff's Memorial Cup finalists in 1936-37, after which he made the pro jump. His better than six feet of altitude and 190 pounds stamp him as a typical Bruin.

Yanks Retaining Twinkletoes In Left Field

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 7 (CP)—He's often hit the deck only to come up fighting. His bones have been broken. Many ambitious newcomers have tried to drive him to the bench. But after six years, George Selkirk still is left fielder for New York Yankees, world baseball champions.

Barring injury, the Canadian-born gardener will be in the Yankee left field on opening day, flashing afield in the fashion that earned him the nickname of "twinkletoes."

Since joining the club in 1934, Selkirk has compiled a batting average of .302. In all but one of six seasons he batted better than .3300. Born in Huntsville, Ont. He has been a consistent home-run hitter, and has kept right up with the team leaders at driving in runs.

Selkirk made a fine comeback last season after he slumped to a .254 average in 1938. With 21 home runs and 101 runs batted in, he was one of the important cogs in the Yankees' run-producing machinery. He ended the season without serious injuries.

In Ruth's Shoes

Selkirk was under a severe mental handicap when he joined the Yankees late in 1934. For he succeeded the mighty Babe Ruth in right field and had to win the confidence of the fans who for years had been accustomed to cheer the Babe. After making good in the eyes of the partisan bleacherites, he ran into many physical mishaps.

Midway in 1937 at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, he broke his collarbone coming in to make a shoestring catch. Later that same year he cracked his elbow. The 1938 campaign had just started when he tore loose the ligaments of his right wrist sliding into second base.

Bowling At Duffus'

DUFFUS ALLEYS

Quaker Oats had Bill Howes in top form last night as he paced a crowd of hard-hitting bowlers from the Quaker League, Ackerman's, Westclox Office, Motor League and Raybestos-Nashua-Sealrights. Bill counted 823 to keep away from Roy Lewis, Walter Crary, J. Dunkerley and the veteran, M. J. Duffus, who tossed around in 700 figures.

Margaret Johnston's 680 featured a starry group of Westclox Office and Ackerman's girls' scores. Miss Johnston wiped off corner pins in pro style as she stepped along with the ace trundlers of the night. The good scores included:

Quaker Oats League: W. Howes 823 (307), O. Perdue 682, A. Guerin 669, E. Logan 650, C. Clements 644, J. Ferguson 643, A. Barrett 622, H. Adams 615.

Westclox Office: Miss Johnston 680, Miss Sisson 541, Miss Webster 519, Miss Saunders 512, H. Yelland 685, H. Delahaye 656, E. Dawe 654, R. Manlece 639, K. Kitchen 618, F. Stevens 617, H. Guppey 604.

Ackerman's League: Miss Boorman 586 and H. F. Waddell 609.

The Dominions And C.G.E. Lose Decisions

Bees and Quakers settled any doubt as to playoff positions, in last night's final senior city league doubleheader by trouncing Dominions and C.G.E., the two tailenders at the Y.M.C.A.

The second-place Bees ran their victory streak to six straight games, the year's longest string, with a revamped lineup, winning 42-8, and Quakers led at all times to erase C.G.E. 57-44 in a good game.

With the regular schedule completed Bees now meet Quakers to determine the top-place Zephyrs' opponent. Jim Thorburn of the Bees dropped in 12 points although shifting to guard, to run his total well over the century, far in advance of the field.

Final league standing:

	Won	Lost	Tied
Zephyrs	6	1	1
Bees	6	2	0
Quakers	5	2	1
C.G.E.	2	6	0
Dominions	1	7	0

Finish Strong

Bees, after trailing through a good part of the opening half, cut loose near the end of the frame to lead 22-10 at that mark, from which point were never threatened. A good passing attack by the front line with neat sniping and standout defense work by the guards gave Bees their edge.

Dominions had a good share of the play but threw away plenty of good scoring chances with faulty shooting and ineffective passing. Bees, in winning their sixth straight ran up another high score to total 294 points for eight games, an average of 36 points a game. Whaley, Ascott and Rogow starred up front for the winners with Whaley notching 16 points in a good shooting exhibition and Thorburn and Craig playing a stellar game at guard.

Csumrik, Currie and Wolstenholme stood out for the losers. The teams:

Bees (42)—Centre, Ascott (2), forwards, Whaley (16), Rogow (4); guards, Thorburn (12), Craig (10).

Referees—D. Sedgewick, R. Dyer.

Electrics Out

Quakers eliminated any chance of C.G.E. catching them by beating the Electrics 57-44 in a fast battle. Both teams played offensive basketball, stressing fast breaks and sharp-shooting. Quakers took the lead early and ran their edge to 26-15 at the half, which carried them to victory, despite C.G.E.'s last half 30-26 scoring margin. Both teams played fast, hard basketball all the way with Quakers having a little better shooting to earn the nod. Quakers made 5 for 11 free throws and C.G.E. 2 in 5 tries. Jakafby, Patterson, McPherson and War led the winners with Holmes, Galley and Dundas best for C.G.E. The teams:

C.G.E. (44)—Centre, Holmes (14); forwards, Dundas (10), Galley (12); guards, Archibald (4), Braodley (5).

Referees, Dr. Worton, Don Sedgewick.

NORWOOD WHIPS MADOC IN FIRST GAME OF THE PLAYDOWNS

Mixup Delays Game For An Hour As Stirling Team Appears To Also Take Part In Playdown

NORWOOD, March 7—(ENS). — With over five hundred fans waiting impatiently, member of three T.V.L. teams dallied around the ice at Norwood arena, last evening, putting in time until League Secretary Wib Kingston of Campbellford could be contacted by phone, and a most unusual situation cleared up. There have been occasions in the past where teams have failed to appear for a game, but rarely, if ever, have three squads arrived to participate in the same match.

Such was the case last night, however, when both the Madoc Micmacs and the Stirling Shells came prepared to meet the Norwood Hornets in the initial game of the Trent Valley League playoffs, between the second and fourth teams in the standing. After considerable delay, official word arrived declaring the Micmacs in and the Shells out, so the encounter finally got under way about 9.20 o'clock.

Out of Their Slump

Recovering most opportunely from a losing slump, which they suffered at the tail-end of the T.V.L. schedule, Alex Kempt's Hornets came to life with a bang, to hand Percy Naylor's Micmacs a severe 8-0 drubbing, and take the first game in the best two-out-of-three series. The second tilt will take place in Madoc on Friday evening, with the third one if necessary back in Norwood on Monday. The winner of this round will meet the victor of the Campbell-Tweed series to decide the 1940 Trent Valley League champs.

Not a single penalty marred this sixty minutes of fairly brisk, although slightly one-sided hockey display, which Referee J. Sabatino of Lakefield had little difficulty in handling. The homesters, minus the services of Dude Brady and Ike O'Leary, but, with Archie Weir aboard, made a return to their earlier season form, and demonstrated their superiority throughout all three stanzas.

An especially good omen for the Norwood team, were the five goals which the Hill-N. Rogers-Puffer line picked up, showing that this combination is beginning to click once more. All three passed and backchecked more effectively than they have in the past four games, with the result that Puffer drew credit for three goals and one assist, Hill got one counter and three assists, and Pep Rogers, one goal and two assists, for a total of 11 points.

Webb Opens It

From the faceoff after four minutes in the initial stanza, Bud Webb scored the opening tally with W. Rogers assisting. The major portion of the play this period was confined to the Madoc zone, with frequent pile-ups around the visitors' cage. In one of these Rothwell took a pass from Hill to notch Norwood's second counter and with half a minute remaining Puffer combined with Hill to make the count 3-0 for the homesters.

The Hornets continued to force the play in the middle frame, Pep Rogers clicking for another goal shortly after it had started, taking Puffer's pass right at the goalmouth. Bud Webb, on a solo effort, missed by inches, and the hard-pressed Micmacs began to clear the rubber down the ice. At the three-quarter-way mark Hill and N. Rogers combined for the second and final marker of this session.

Just one minute in the last canto, Hill sent Puffer in the clear for Norwood's sixth tally. For the next brief space Madoc threatened more seriously than at any other period during the game, but some exception fine saves by McMaster kept them off the score sheet. Puffer next scoring from Pep Rogers, with Rothwell successful less than a minute later on a brilliant solo try. This concluded the scoring, the count still remaining 8-0 at the final bell.

Goalie Ken Martin was the busiest and best for the Micmacs as he saved them from a much greater trouncing by a valiant effort in the net. The visitors missed greatly the services of their playing captain, Akey, who was out of the lineup. Most effective for them were Keller, Heyworth, Emery, Larone, and Stewart. The teams:

Norwood.—Goal, McMaster; defence, Rothwell, R. Webb; centre, Puffer; wings, N. Rogers, Hill; alternates, Weir, Aboud, Richardson, W. Webb, W. Rogers.

Referee.—J. Sabatino, Lakefield.

Greatest Of All?

Fort Myers, Fla., March 7. (AP)

OSCAR VITT, the old Detroit infielder, isn't certain that Bob Feller is destined to be baseball's greatest pitcher, but Oscar has his suspicions. He is getting a thrill out of handling Feller, watching the youngster steadily develop.

"Bob won 24 games for Cleveland last year and lost nine," Vitt said. "I think I had to pull him from only three game. If he gets a little more control of his curve ball nobody will beat him. He'll be the greatest we ever saw.

"Some days now he is just as fast as Johnson ever was, and he has that curve that Johnson didn't have. If he had had Derringer's control they would be lucky to get one hit a game off the kid. Honest, I hate to say how good a pitcher he's liable to be."

Playoff Chance Looms Tonight For Dutton Crew

NEW YORK, March 7 (CP)—Manager Mervyn (Red) Dutton gets a chance to steer New York Americans into the National Hockey League playoffs for the Stanley Cup, an achievement with which he will be satisfied considering the prospects of the old men of Manhattan when the season started.

The Americans play Boston Bruins at New York, while the last-place Canadiens oppose Chicago Black Hawks at Montreal. If the Canadiens lose, the Americans can clinch the sixth and last play-off position by turning back the Bruins. Otherwise, they will still have four games in which to make the grade.

Dutton was about ready to throw up the works in mid-season and he actually asked waivers on a group of veterans. Some of his standbys were slowed to a walk and others couldn't find anyone anxious to combine with them. About the only two players who gave Mervyn the Red really first-class service all winter were his goaltender, Earl Robertson, and a young forward, Murray Armstrong.

Some others tried hard, like Harvey Jackson and Charlie Conacher who were eager to show their old Toronto teammates they could come back. The addition of Eddie Shore from Boston heartened the defence and the Americans finally steered a wobbly way out of the cellar late in January. They have been in sixth place ever since.

Manitoba Holds Unbeaten Record, 3 To Go

WINNIPEG, Mar. 7 — (CP). — Manitoba, eight times Macdonald's Brier Canadian curling champion since the classic was inaugurated in 1927, turned into the final day of the 14th annual bonspiel to-day with an unbeaten record and three tough games to go.

Howard Wood of Winnipeg, who won the Dominion title in 1930, successively faces Bert Hall's Kitchener rink, which captured the Brier for Ontario last year, Northern Ontario and Alberta.

Hall saw almost his last chance of successful defence of the championship vanish in the sixth round last night when he lost 12-5 to New Brunswick with the veteran Nick Thibodeau of Bathurst playing a grand game. It was Ontario's third loss, and at best he could only tie Manitoba. In Brier history no rink with more than two losses has been victorious.

Those Dunbar Boys.

Wood's greatest threat is the rink of Saskatchewan wheat farmers led by Bill Dunbar of Kinley who moved into sole possession of second place yesterday afternoon with a 10-6 win over Cliff Manahan of Edmonton, who won the Brier for Alberta in 1933-37.

Manitoba beat Saskatchewan 8-6 in the first round on Monday, but it was Dunbar's only setback up to to-day. He is drawn against Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Ontario.

New Brunswick, Alberta and Northern Ontario are tied in third place with four wins each, but the latter two shatter the deadlock in their engagement this morning. Other morning pairings are: British Columbia-Quebec, Prince Edward Island-New Brunswick.

Yesterday afternoon Hall beat Prince Edward Island 13-9, Saskatchewan beat Alberta 10-6, Northern Ontario downed Quebec 16-8, Manitoba bested B.C. 12-7, and New Brunswick beat Nova Scotia 14-10.

At night Northern Ontario outlasted Nova Scotia 12-6, Manitoba beat Quebec 13-7, Thibodeau upset Hall 12-5, Alberta downed Bill Finlay's Vancouver four 7-6 in one of the best games of the bonspiel, and Saskatchewan handed Prince Edward Island his sixth defeat 17-4.

How They Stand.

Standings after the 6th round last night in the Canadian championship curling competition:

Rink.	Won	Lost.
Manitoba	6	0
Saskatchewan	5	1
Alberta	4	2
Northern Ontario	4	2
New Brunswick	4	2
Ontario	3	3
Quebec	2	4
Nova Scotia	1	5

Norwood H.S. Plans Benefit Battle

HAVELOCK, Mar. 7 (ENS). — A special exhibition game between the Havelock and Norwood High School teams of the Trent Valley Interscholastic Hockey League has been arranged for this Friday night at the Norwood Arena. It is a special benefit match staged by the Norwood High School squad to help defray the expenses incurred when their star player, Mickey Puffer, had his shoulder broken during the C.O.S.S.A. playdowns in Belleville last Thursday.

In looking over the team's scoring statistics for the past season, Coach D. Craighead discovered that Mickey, the Norwood squad's leading scorer, had tallied two-thirds of his team's goals. In eleven games, Puffer scored 39 out of a total of 63 counters.

The game is scheduled to start at 8 p.m., with skating afterwards for anyone wishing to do so. The admission price will be the same as usual.

Patrick Suspends Pusie From Lions

VANCOUVER, March 7 (CP)—Guy Patrick, manager of Vancouver Lions in the Pacific Coast League, last night suspended Jean Pusie, unpredictable French - Canadian defenceman who deserted the team and left for home a week before play-off time without even saying good-bye.

Patrick said the action would bar the colorful rearguard from organized hockey until the suspension was lifted and could prevent Pusie from ever taking part in professional hockey again. President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League was informed of the suspension and other leagues would be asked, through him, to ostracize Pusie.

Political Winds

ulations and said his party would fight for preservation of liberties in Canada as well as overseas.

Criticism of alleged radio censorship was voiced by Denton Massey, national government candidate in Toronto-Greenwood, at Midland, Ont. "Let no one tell you that there is no air censorship in Canada," he said.

The "March of Time" film on Canada's war effort is being used "in at least one place as political propaganda," Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, charged at Edmonton.

Film "Mackenzie's Work"

Col. Drew said that the film, banned in Ontario, had been advertised in a Vancouver paper with the statement "all this was the work of one man—Ian Mackenzie," Federal pensions minister.

Declaring there should be no private profit in the making of war weapons, Col. Drew said all weapons for which there is no private market should be made in factories operated by the Dominion government.

The Liberal Government's propaganda and pamphlets will not win the war, he stated.

The Government's duty is to equip the people with the weapons to fight a war but "all we have is yellow circulars with the statement that something is done."

Prime Minister Mackenzie King was talking like a "dictator" when he said no members of his cabinet would join a National Government. Why should he speak for all members of his cabinet? Justice Minister Lapointe and Col. J. L. Ralston, Finance Minister, would be welcomed to a National Government and it was significant neither had "closed the door" to such a step.

Name Juggling

Conservative Leader Manion's proposal for a National Government in Canada is "coming to be universally regarded as name-juggling only," Revenue Minister Ilsley said in a 15-minue broadcast from Halifax.

It was similar to the "change from Tory to Liberal Conservative, then to National Liberal and Conservative, the party remaining the same throughout."

"If by any chance we are wrong about this and Dr. Manion really intends, if elected, to select Social Credit and C.C.F. ministers, the duty of every voter is clear. He should go to the polls, if necessary on a stretcher, to prevent such a tragi-comedy from occurring.

Of the three opposions to the government, the "group or faction headed by W. D. Herridge, the New Democracy so-called," was the weakest. It was made up entirely of the Social Credit group and "It is not just clear why the advocates of a momentary experiment as a cure-all for our peacetime ills should have a distinctive war policy."

While New Democracy followers were "modified conscriptionists," the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation "on the contrary are against conscription. And they are against participation, except for profit, in the war at all.

National Regime Needed

"A nation at war needs a national government," said Leopold Macaulay, former Conservative leader in the Ontario Legislature, in a 30-minute election address broadcast over an Ontario network from Toronto.

"By national government I mean a government representing those persons of goodwill who believe in the paramount importance of making a supreme war effort on behalf of the whole nation without regard to domestic political philosophies and without regard to past party political affiliations.

"It must be united in a 'win the war' effort that submerges all other issues. It must put the nation before party, efficiency before patronage, brains and ability before party service.

"It makes my blood boil to hear Mr. Mackenzie King say that only the Liberal party can conduct Canada's war effort. That statement alone proves that Mr. King has the wrong slant on Canada's war effort. It is an all-time high in political hypocrisy and intolerance."

Canada's government rests in the people and not in 16 cabinet ministers or 245 members of parliament, Labor Minister McLarty said at Galt.

Mr. McLarty asked is an appeal to the people could be construed as a scuttling of parliament. The opposition claimed to have had sufficient information with regard to Canada's war effort to scare the government, but why wasn't that information used now?

Karl Homuth, National Government candidate in Waterloo South, has been quoted as saying at Milton Tuesday that any "frank speaker faces arrest" and as labelling Prime Minister Mackenzie King as the "Hitler of Canada.' The people of Canada know Mr. Mackenzie King, Mr. McLarty said, and the people of Galt know Mr. Homuth.

Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, had been quoted as suggesting in Calgary that Ontario people buy Alberta coal. But why didn't Col. Drew suggest that in Ontario?

Will Need Everything Shortly.

Every ounce of manpower available in Canada will be needed in the next few months for production of war materials, Tranport Minister Howe said at Newmarket.

He reviewed Canada's war effort in relation to military afafirs and the changes and growth in industry resulting from the war.

To make effective war effort, Canada would have to remain economically strong enough to continue its effort for the duration of the war. It would be more spectacular to induce in a "terrific splurge of spending" at the start but it would be of little use to the allied cause if Canada were to bankrupt herself in the effort.

Mr. Howe looked for the war to continue for many years and expressed the belief that all Europe would be drawn into the struggle before it is over.

Canadian people "would not stand for "conditions of the past 10 years in the period following the war, Hon. J. Earl Lawson of Toronto said at Hamilton.

Mr. Lawson said the Dominion's first concern must be to win the war and to avoid post-war conditions of unemployment and relief.

"The war will not be over in any short period of time and don't believe there will be any revolution in Germany," he said. Neither could an uprising be expected in Russia, where the aim of the people was to convert the world to the Soviet's economic system.

school. The statement said Mr. Hepburn was being asked to say at what time Monday he would like to make the visit "so that the commanding officer may be available to conduct him and members of the press, and show them the whole operation of the technical training school."

A Protest Parade.

Mr. Hepburn, bitter critic of the Federal Government's war effort, made his charges last Tuesday. He said several hundred men from the school paraded the streets of St. Thomas in protest against lack of training. He further charged that St. Thomas newspapermen were warned by the censors that the story could not be published.

Mr. Rogers followed with a categorical denial Tuesday night and said the Premier could visit the school and take any newspapermen along and ask questions freely.

Yesterday the St. Thomas Times-Journal in a statement said it had had no communication with the censors before or after publication of a new story February 10 regarding a new system of "leaves" at the school. The paper's statement said it had "learned sufficient, however, to convince us that there had been trouble in the nature of a partial walkout at the school and that it had been due in great measure to a misunderstanding over a new system of week-end leaves brought into force through the replacing of a single-shift work system with a double-shift work system."

From St. Thomas yesterday came also protests of two British squadron-leaders. G. R. Hicks, commanding No. 1 wing, said he considered the reports of trouble "an insult to the intelligence and integrity of the airmen of the R.C.A.F., and R. F. C. Metcalfe, commanding No. 2 wing, termed Premier Hepburn's statements "full of inaccuracies."

wait the return of peace, smaller, more easily replaceable craft carry the allies' supplies and troops.

The new Queen moves in and overshadows in size and potential splendor her sister ship, the Queen Mary and the French liners, Normandie and Ile De France, all laid up "for the duration" at the outset of the war six months ago.

As news of the Queen Elizabeth's audacious trans-Atlantic dash leaked out, the new but considerably smaller British liner Mauretania, was moved out of the North river pier that harbors the Normandie and Queen Mary to make a place for the new Queen—and it promised to be a tight fit.

The Mauretania was taken to the midtown pier of the now idle North German-Lloyd line from which the Nazi merchant flagship Bremen sped away just before the war began on a hazardous voyage home, by way of the Russian Arctic port of Murmansk.

Reply To German Boast

The Queen Elizabeth's maiden trip was—besides a dash to safety from danger of bombings ahd the resultant high insurance rates at home—obviously a "British reply to German claims of submarine power and to the boasts of the Nazi high command over the Bremen's circuitously passage, on which a British submarine commander had a chance to destroy it—but held his fire.

"Her arrival in New York," the Press Association said of the Queen Elizabeth, "give Adolf Hitler and Admiral Raeder, chief of the Nazi sea terror campaign, a startling shock in view of the Nazi claim to 'control of the oceans.'"

Nothing was said in London of any convoy or armament that might have helped the Queen Elizabeth to her rendezvous with her sister ships in New York.

When her inside fittings are completed she will be the finest as well as the largest ship afloat. Harbor sources speculated that she would remain in her unfinished stage, to be readily convertible to any special uses as Britain's needs arose.

The Queen Elizabeth slipped out of her builder's yards at Clydeside on Feb. 26 and lay at anchor off the mouth of the Clyde until last Saturday when the dash to North America began.

Once at sea, she had a potential top speed of 32 knots although her new engines had to be worked in gradually.

When the British press and people finally opened up with their secret, acknowledging that the new pride of the merchant fleet was bearing the name of their Queen across the seas the Queen herself travelled last summer on a memorable visit, the London Daily Herald said:—

"On June 20, 1939, it was announced officially that Feb. 26, 1940, would be the day for moving the Queen Elizabeth. She kept to schedule.

"Had any evilly disposed central European personage wished to interfere with the proceedings, he had his due notice."

the shores of Lake Ladoga, and some territory in the Petsamo district on the Arctic coast.

Sweden's interest in any peace negotiations is believed to have been prompted by the increasingly difficult position of this country in view of her state policy as regards passage of foreign aid to Finland and new reports that Finland is considering an appeal directly to Great Britain and France for military assistance.

Reported conversations in Berlin between the Swedish explorer Sven Hedin and Adolf Hitler and his foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, are regarded by many observers as associated with the supposed German-Swedish interest in seeing the war in Finland settled.

No Scandinavian Mediator?

Doubt was expressed in some informed circles, however, whether any mediation bid from a Scandinavian country had a reasonable chance of success.

These sources believed the Kremlin to have become embittered over admitted Scandinavian sympathies for Finland to such a point that a mediator's role would be difficult.

The Finnish attitude toward negotiations was regarded as questionable, depending on the Finns' opinion of their chances of continuing their defence.

It was pointed out that the Finns have expressed a consistent willingness to negotiate provided they can do so with honor and full recognition of their national integrity.

On the other hand it was reported that German pressure on Rumania now included a demand for the country's entire 1940 wool crop.

The native yarn industry would be ruined if such a demand were fulfilled, economic experts said, and if Great Britain and Germany were to share alike in Rumanian oil only 800,000 tons of the 1940 maximum production, estimated at 4,000,000 tons, would remain for other disposition.

This remainder would not suffice to maintain Rumanian trade with the Balkans, Italy and other countries—trade in which Rumania receives other products in exchange for her oil—aside from supplying Rumania's own military needs.

More pointed perhaps than Rumania's promises of oil is the question of delivering it. Bucharest experts predict that Germany will be more than 400,000 tons behind schedule on oil receipts by the time traffic is organized on the Danube this spring, probably as late as April 1.

The ice-locked Danube has started to break up in its upper reaches and the dispatch of a German barge fleet to help gather oil and grain will follow as soon as the way is clear.

Latvia's government-owned, railways, with 2,000 miles of track, had 140 accidents, of which 17 were fatal, in the last fiscal year.

Rider Knocked Off Horse By Motor Truck

HASTINGS, March 7—(ENS). — Don Beamish is out $116. Virgil Oliver received a severe shock, a horse had to be shot and a motor transport truck was damaged in an unusual accident on Highway No. 7 about three miles west of Norwood Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Beamish attended a sale at a farm west of Norwood and purchased a four-year-old colt, weighing about 1,300 pounds, for $121. Virgil Oliver, also of Hastings, accompanied Mr. Beamish to the sale and, after the animal was bought, was commissioned to bring the horse to Hastings, a distance of about nine miles.

Bringing the horse down the highway, Mr. Oliver was riding it bareback when a motor transport truck appeared from the rear. The truck drew alongside and appeared to be passing the man and horse when the animal suddenly lurched forward and jumped into the front of the truck. Oliver was thrown head first to the icy road and fell in front of the wheels of the truck as the driver brought it to a stop. The animal received two broken legs in the smash, and Oliver was knocked out for a few moments from the crash to the road. The colt was brought to a neighboring farmhouse where its injuries were determined and it was then shot. Mr. Oliver's injuries, apart from the shock, were superficial. The truck was observed by passing motorists being towed for repairs. Provincial Constable David Silvester of Peterborough was called to investigate the accident. Mr. Beamish purchased the colt for $121 with a net loss of $116.

Sheriffs Named

London, March 7 (CP)

THE KING today appointed new sheriffs for England and Wales in ancient fashion by pricking a roll with a steel bodkin in a Privy Council meeting at Buckingham Palace.

The meeting was attended by Earl Stanhope, the Marquese of Salisbury, the Marquess of Londonderry and W. S. Morrison, minister of food. After the pricking of the sheriff's roll routine business was transacted.

HAVELOCK

Fathers and Sons Conduct Service

HAVELOCK, Mar. 7 (ENS). — "Responsibility of Fathers" was outlined by R. W. Goheen, principal of the local High School, and "Responsibility of Sons," by R. W. Umphrey, principal of Trent River Public School, the principal speakers at a special father and son service held on Sunday evening in the Havelock United Church. A large representation from the entire village attended this service, which was conducted by the Rev. Andrew McLauchlin.

A male choir of 24 blending voices took part in the service, singing as a special number "Church in the Wildwood." William Platt and C. Kennedy sang as a duet "Somebody" and a fine vocal solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," was rendered by F. G. McTavish. Mrs. R. Campney officiated as organist. The lesson, Col. 3, 9-20, was read by Wallace Buchanan.

Reminding parents that they often assist their children with their homework, R. W. Goheen, speaking on the "responsibility of fathers" urged that they demonstrate the same interest in religious education. Co-operative effort was stressed by R. W. Umphrey as in his talk on "responsibility of sons" he dwelt on moral and religious training. A fact of note concerning the two principal speakers, both teachers, was that they were classmates at Normal School during the 1921-22 term.

The service provided a fitting conclusion to a week devoted to boys' work. Last Friday evening an exceptionally successful father and son banquet was sponsored by the Firebrands Trail Ranger group, directed by Mentor Foy Wright. Among the one hundred and sixteen men and boys in attendance was A. C. Denike of town, who was the initial organizer of the local Trail Ranger and Tuxis groups here over thirty years ago. Three generations of Mr. Denike's family were present, his son Gordon Denike, and grandson David, both of Havelock.

Ted Gall, member of the Peterborough (Rural) constituency in the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament, who spoke at the banquet, was in attendance at the Sunday morning service.

Turners Given Contract For Army Tents

J. J. Turner & Sons have been awarded a contract for canvas goods amounting to $46,444 as announced today by the War Supply Board.

The total list of contracts for the week ending March 2 was 513, representing $2,736,833. It is understood that the Peterborough contract is mostly for canvas tents.

J. J. Turner & Sons have already completed several other smaller contracts let by the government, and have submitted bids on other work which has been disposed of.

At least five of Peterborough's industries have been engaged on orders that grew out of the emergency of war conditions. They included cereal orders to the Quaker Oats Company; supplying of bacon by Canada Packers; an order for searchlights to the Canadian General Electric Company; a comparatively small order for shell box fittings to the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company; and the tenders which have been let to J. J. Turner & Sons.

Mrs. W. A. Richardson Is Laid To Rest

Evidence of the high regard in which Mrs. William A. Richardson was held in this community was seen yesterday afternoon when St. Andrew's United church was filled with sorrowing friends as her funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. E. W. Young.

The public service was preceded by a private service at her late residence at 299 Margaret avenue at 11 o'clock in the morning. Dr. Young spoke at that service of the more intimate matters associated with her life—of her high influence in her home and in the Church Women's Association and the Women's Missionary Society.

The entire business and professional sections of the community were represented at the church service in the afternoon, at 3 o'clock and also present were a great number of women who had been Mrs. Richardson's friends for a long period of years. R. R. Harle was at the piano.

Dr. Young spoke of the high place which Jesus gave to women in connection with His life and work. Some of the most penetrating sayings of Jesus, he said, had been spoken to women. He recalled as examples the words, "God is a Spirit," and "I am the Resurrection and the Life," as having been spoken to women. He also alluded to the fact that women were close to the Cross at the time Jesus was being put to death, and even though they could do nothing to help Him, yet their very presence was a visible support.

He spoke of the first appearance of Jesus after the Resurrection, and pointed out that Jesus had first revealed Himself to Mary Magdelene. She and the other women brought His message to the disciples.

Dr. Young spoke of the place women take in the home, and of the influence they wield over the younger generation; and of their work in the church, of their fidelity and devotion to its principles. In these two matters Mrs. Richardson, in the days when she had strength and vigour, gave unstinting service with the utmost loyalty, he declared.

Pallbearers were E. J. Searight, Fred Rowan, Elsworth Curry, F. J. Gillespie, T. Hendry and Grant Gillespie

Interment was at Little Lake cemetery.

One of her daughters, the late Marion Grace Coon, was a missionary in China for many years. She died in July, 1938.

Mrs. Coon was born Emily Wattam, at Waupoos, near Picton, Ontario, and came to this city many years ago.

Surviving are six daughters, Mrs. M. G. Dobbin of Toronto, Mrs. R. J. Vickery of Lindsay, Mrs. W. H. Frise of Peterborough, Miss A. Gladys Coon of Ottawa, Mrs. W. L. Anderson of Ottawa, and Miss Elma Coon of Ottawa, and two sons, H. W. Coon of Galt, and Dr. A. W. Coon of Norfolk, Virginia.

Americans Are Aware No Difficulty Placed In Their Way In Visiting Canada This Summer

Extensive publicity by the Canadian Government and by many newspapers and individuals has quite dispelled any concern which may have existed in the minds of Americans relative to war restrictions in Canada as they affect tourists.

This information was conveyed to the Examiner in a letter received today from W. R. Freeman, purchasing agent for the Cincinnati Gas and Electric Company at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Freeman is owner of the new summer resort, "Glen Mull," at Haliburton, and wrote to obtain advertising space in the 1940 Vacation edition. In his letter he said that he has heard very few express concern over war conditions, and he stated clearly that Americans are now aware that it makes no difference to them if they visit Canada while the nation is engaged in World War II., except of course that it is to their advantage as the American dollar buys ten per cent. more than the Canadian dollar.

He says in part: "It might interest you to know that on my part I shall expect to bring somewhere between eighty and one hundred American tourists to my lodge this summer, which is an indication as to how most of those I have approached feel."

Last August J. D. (Doc) Bodley of Athens, Ohio, spent his vacation at Glen Mull and came back one day with a ten-pound trout from Kenessis Lake. This fish took the prize at the lodge but reliable reports reveal that Doc's friends at Ohio University have heard of the catch and are heading north this year to steal the honors from their friend.

THEY REMEMBER

At every social evening in the Legion Hall a little ceremony is observed that has an appropriate touch. The hall is darkened for one minute while the crowd stands in silence and an illuminated cross, on which a black sword is superimposed is the only light in the hall. This tribute to the men who died in World War I and also those who have given their lives in World War II is the Legion's way of revering their comrades.

Pushing Old Boiler Through Door Of Hall During 1911 Political Meeting Recalled

An Examiner reporter solved a 29-year-old political mystery at the Fraser-Strike joint meeting. He happened to mention to a staid resident of the district that he recalled reporting a meeting in the same hall during the reciprocity campaign of 1911 and that it was the noisiest gathering he had ever attended by reason of the fact that there was a continuous rumble like thunder coming from the back of the hall. It was so bad that Hon. J. R. Stratton could scarcely make himself heard and the reporter had never learned definitely what caused the disturbance.

The Centreville man smiled as he listened.

"I was in on that," he confessed. "We had an old empty boiler and we started pushing it in through the door of the hall. The Grits inside would push it out again and it would roll down the steps. Then we'd shove it in again and the thing kept up so long that I don't imagine the audience heard much of the speeches.

Donald Cameron Edwards, senior partner in the firm of Edwards & Angas Limited, died yesterday at Toronto in his eighty-seventh year. He had been ill for a week.

Born in Peterborough, Mr. Edwards had been a resident of Toronto since 1896. For more than half a century he held many executive offices, including that of chief inspector for the Citizens Insurance Company and later manager for Taylor Brothers, general agents for the Northern Assurance Company in Canada.

In 1889 Mr. Edwards was appointed secretary to the Eastern Insurance Company at Halifax, N.S., remaining with that company until 1895, when it was acquired by the Union Assurance Company of London, Eng. At this time he opened an adjusting business in Toronto.

Mr. Edwards was one of the chief adjusters in the losses arising from the Toronto fire in 1904, and in 1922 was chairman of the group of adjusters chosen to handle the claims arising out of the Haileybury conflagration.

He was a member of the Albany and Victoria Clubs and Christ Church (Anglican), Deer Park.

Father Was Town Clerk

Donald Cameron Edwards was a son of James Edwards who was for some years the town clerk and treasurer of Peterborough, residing on the west side of Monaghan Road, south of Jackson Park. The father was a prominent and active citizen. Another position which he held was that of secretary-treasurer of the Little Lake Cemetery in which he was succeeded by E. A. Peck, K.C.

Mr. Peck recalled to the Examiner this morning that he and Donald Edwards worked together in the law office of Scott and Edwards, which was located on the second floor of what is now the Utilities Commission premises on Simcoe street. The law offices looked out on Simcoe street and the alley leading to the market. J. W. Flavelle's grain office was on the ground floor.

Mr. Peck was a law student in the office of Scott and Edwards. He was articled to E. B. Edwards, older brother of Donald who was bookkeeper. That association continued for several years, Mr. Peck said. Many citizens will still remember Colonel E. B. Edwards who was head of the 57th Regiment, and one of the leading citizens of his time. He went west and practiced law in Calgary where he died.

Gerald Wood of this city is a nephew of Donald C. Edwards, whose wife was Lucy H. Cottingham, prior to her marriage. The Cottingham family came to Peterborough from Omemee. They lived in the fine old residence built by the Rev. Mr. Beck on the property now the site of St. Joseph's Hospital. The place was destroyed by fire. The family also lived in the house later the home of T. E. Bradburn at Charlotte street and Monaghan Road, recently converted into an apartment house. Walter Cottingham was a son of that family. He began work as a hardware clerk and eventually became president of the Sherwin-Williams Paint Company and a leader in Canadian industry.

Toronto, March 7 (CP)

"I stole a car," the lad said. "Will you please call No. 6 police station and tell them I am here." Then he sat down and awaited the arrival of officers.

Charge Of Theft Is Dismissed

Declaring that there was a bona fide cause for the accused's believing that he had the color of right for his action, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., dismissed a charge of theft against Victor Caban in police court this morning. "The case should never have been brought into this court," the magistrate added.

Caban was charged with stealing chairs, springs, tables, two radios and a quantity of other articles from Ward Martin.

He was defended by E. F. Sheehy and pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Martin told the court that he had rented two rooms from Caban in November and a short time ago was given orders to vacate. He claimed that his rent had been paid in full but that Caban claimed that witness owed him money for potatoes and for telephone calls. He had a quantity of his furniture stored in the barn at Caban's place on Park street and when he moved Caban had refused to give him the key of the place so that he could remove his goods.

Caban's story was that there was still $10 owing for rent and that in addition Martin had agreed to pay 75 cents a month for the use of the barn to store his furniture.

Magistrate Langley in dismissing the case said that it was a clear-cut case of detinue and should have been heard in the division court and not as a criminal charge. It was simply a dispute between landlord and tenant and no theft was involved.

John R. Hand Is Chosen C.C.F. Candidate

LINDSAY, Mar. 7 (ENS).—John R. Hand of Peterborough was chosen by C.C.F. supporters of Victoria and Haliburton riding as their standard-bearer in the March 26 election. Joint Meeting Is Held At Centreville

"Mr. King has always seemed to be suffering under the obsession that Great Britain is going to come back here some day and conquer Canada," W. Ross Strike, Conservative candidate in Durham, declared at a meeting of South Monaghan and Cavan electors in the Presbyterian Hall at Centreville Wednesday night. The meeting was a joint one, with Gordon K. Fraser, National candidate in West Peterborough and was also addressed by Mrs. J. H. Cridland, president of the Peterborough Women's Conservative Association.

J. L. McCamus of Cavan was the chairman and the musical portion of the program was contributed by three Bowmanville artists, M. S. Dale and Owen Nicholls, vocalists, and Kenneth Soanes, pianist, whose numbers were thoroughly appreciated.

"I have never seen the women showing so much enthusiasm as they have been displaying in this election," declared Mrs. Cridland, who was the first speaker. In this connection she referred to the fact that Miss Winnifred Kidd, former president of the Canadian Council of Women, was taking part in this compaign, the first time in her career to be involved i na political fight. Mrs. Cridland said there were two issues in the election: Canada's place in the war, and the record of the King Government. "Don't make any mistake about it," she said. "This is Canada's war; we are not helping the Mother Country, but helping ourselves. Dr. Manion, she said, had fought for Canada before and was now ready to fight for the country again.

The Youth Problem

Declaring that the youth problem was one of the most serious matters before the country W. Ross Strike remarked that it was not only going to be tackled but was going to be solved by the National Government.

Scoring Premier King for his action in scuttling parliament, the speaker said that Mr. King had established a very dangerous precedent. "He has cut deep into the vitals of the democracy we are fighting to preserve," he charged.

As for the Liberal warning about changing horses while crossing a stream, Mr. Strike said that he thought a far more appropriate and modern slogan was "You can't go places on a flat tire."

About Experience

Mr. King urged the electors, he said, to vote for experience. Yet of the four key men in his cabinet, Rogers, McLarty and Howe had only one term in parliament. As for Mr. King's war experience, the speaker said that he had no experience fighting the last war or helping to govern Canada in wartime. On the other hand Dr. Manion had had war experience and the fact that he had handled three different cabinet portfolios made him about the most experienced man at Ottawa.

"Winning the war is Canada's main problem," said Mr. Strike. "If we don't do that, we won't have to worry about the others."

The speaker charged that Mr. King had refused to allow Great Britain to establish air training schools here, but had been prompt to agree to the American proposal for a military road to Alaska through British Columbia.

"Mr. King's whole temperament and inclinations are unfit for the kind of action you need in a government at war," charged the speaker. "He has always been a stickler for the form rather than for the substance."

"On the other hand, Dr. Manion is a man of earnestness and energy and when he says that he's going to do a thing that thing will be done."

A Birthday Gift

Remarking that Wednesday was his birthday Gordon K. Fraser said that Dr. Manion had honored the occasion with a nice birthday gift: a promise that radio licences would be scrapped by the National Government. "They should have gone long ago," said the speaker.

Mr. Fraser said that he agreed with Ross Strike in regard to the horse swapping slogan. The trouble with Mackenzie King, he said, was that the Premier was still back in the days of the horse; he forgot that this was the machine age. "He has been trying to go places on a horse and it can't be done to-day," said the speaker, "especially when you are trying to run a war."

Liberals were still bringing up the bogey of conscription, Mr. Fraser charged, despite the fact that Dr. Manion had repeatedly stated that he was opposed to conscription. "What we say is that there should be some better method of enlisting those who want to join the army than the present government is providing," said the speaker, who declared that Peterborough men had been hitch-hiking all over the place trying to join the army and the only satisfaction they got was an intimation from the reruiting officer for the military district that they might stand a chance of being enlisted if they travelled to Picton at their own expense.

Discussing Mr. King's waunted trade agreement with the United States ,the speaker said that recently Cordell Hull had boasted to the Ways and Means Committee at Washington that the United States had sold $200,000,000 more goods to Canada than the republic had purchased from Canada in 1938 and that the treaty had helped to break the Ottawa trade agreements.

"I am not asking you to vote for me," he said in conclusion, "but I am asking you to vote for National Government."

Statesmen's Snapshots

HON. R. J. MANION

Members of Canada's House of Commons who must satisfy themselves with the simple letters "M.P." after their names, must stand in awe of Conservative Leader Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion.

Because, should Dr. Manion so desire, he can add a most imposing list of letters after his signature. While he only uses M.P., M.C., M.D. and C.M., he could also use L.R.C.P. of the University of Edinburgh, L.R.C.S. of the same university, and an L.F.P. and S. of Glasgow.

And should he desire to list the important public offices he has held, he would again have a most imposing list.

Because at one time or other he has held the portfolio of Minister of Defence, for two months he was Postmaster-General, a commissioner of Ontario's Liquor Control Board, the head of the Canadian delegation to the League of Nations in 1933, Canada's representative at the disarmament conference, and other offices almost as important.

Dr. Manion has been both an easterner and a middle westerner, a Liberal as well as a Conservative.

He was born on November 19, 1881, in Pembroke, but moved to Fort William as a boy.

Even as a lad he was interested in medicine and it was natural that he should follow this course at the University of Toronto, where he graduated with a splendid record.

After taking this degree at Toronto he took a post-graduate course in Edinburgh. When he departed he carried with him a gold medal in addition to his sheepskin.

When the world war made more and more doctors necessary for service overseas, Dr. Manion forsook his private practice and enlisted with the Anglo-French ambulance of the French army in 1915. Early the following year he transferred to the Canadian Army Medical Corps. In the battle of Vimy Ridge in 1917 his courage won him the Military Cross.

While Dr. Manion is now the leader of the Conservative party, he was, in 1917, elected to the House of Commons as a Liberal-Unionist. In 1918 he was chosen one of the government whips for Ontario and did such outstanding work that when Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen reorganized his cabinet, prior to the general election, he included Dr. Manion as Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. He retired from office with the government, but was returned to the House, this time as a Conservative, at the elections of 1921 and again in 1925.

In addition to his political and medical activities, Dr. Manion has also found time to do some writing, and is the author of a book of war experience called "A Surgeon in Arms."

He is known internationally because of the part he took in the deliberations of the League of Nations and also the Disarmament Conference in 1933.

In 1938 the Conservative party bestowed upon him its greatest honor by placing upon his shoulders the mantle of Sir John A. Macdonald as leader of the Conservative party.

At the opening of parliament in January, 1939, Prime Minister King said of him: "He brings with him high personal attainments and splendid professional achievements, as well as a wide and quite exceptional parliamentary experience, and, in other ways, a long and intimate association with the public life of our country."

Tweed Outfit Nosed Out In First Game

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7. —(ENS)—Held back by sticky ice the Sunocos were unable to give one of those flashy performances of hockey that the customers have grown to expect when they met Tweed in first game of playdowns. The locals won 6-5.

Twice during the opening a trio of Terriers led by Wager and Tummon flashed in and Turner beat them by throwing himself on the biscuit while they were deciding which way to pass. Actually they were right in on the goal and all they had to do was pass the disc while the Sunocos' defense was skating back from their own blue line.

Lead Threatened

Though the homesters were never headed their 3 to 0 lead was seriously threatened in the second stanza when the Tweed outfit tallied three times and from then on it was anybody's game. There were exactly two minutes and twenty seconds to play when 900 supporters voiced their objections as Referee H. "Bouncer" Halloway of Belleville gave Don Free a penalty for upsetting Ellsbury. It was the break Tweed needed to tie up the count as the score sheet stood at 6 to 5 in favor of the homesters, but the Terriers were unable to take advantage.

There were but four penalties handed out, all for minor offenses, as there was little heavy body checking or rough stuff. Orr was the only member of the visiting squad to visit the hoosegow. Don Couch who has been nursing an injured hand for the past two weeks again wore Sunoco's colors and gathered two assists during the evening. He supplied some of the much needed weight to the winners' attacking unit and showed plenty of speed as well.

Judging from the close battle it's likely a third game will be necessary to decide a winner unles sthe Hendy crew can hop into the lead and hold tight when they visit Tweed on Friday. If there's a third contest it will be played here next Monday with the final series beginning March 13 when the winners will likely meet Norwood.

Opened Scoring

Hendy opened the scoring for Sunocos when he bulged the twin on Robinson's pass from point blank range, followed by Blake who dominated much of the play for the homesters and worked hard dogging the puck all evening. He banged home the disc on a well-laid pass from Don Free during a ganging attacking when Sunocos were playing five men up. Wib was waiting out in front of the net and slapped it home following a face-off in the corner. Free and Couch combined for the third with less than a minute to play and gave the winners a safe 3 to 0 lead.

Blake was chased for boarding Ellsworth and Tweed turned on a power play with Ellsbury managing to slip one past Turner just as the whistle tooted for an off-side. Wager tested the Campbellford net minder from close range but failed to tally as Turner folded up on it. Not till half way through the period did Orr, speedy Terrier rearguard, pick up the puck inside his own blue line and evade Atkinson who was alone on the defense. He shot point blank to neatly beat Turner. The winners regained their lead as Robinson and Kelly tallied on a clever passing play but the visitors made the score 4 to 2 as Marsh lifted one into the corner with Tummon assisting on the play. Ellsbury lifted the puck into the net on a solo effort to make the score 4 to 3 and as Wilkes drew a penalty for dumping Ellsbury it looked as though the Terriers might get the equalizer. In furious effort to bring up the score Tweed rained in on the defence and while the disc was being passed around inside the blue line Cournyea was left uncovered long enough to register on Ellsbury's pass. While Orr was in the hoosegow Sunocos pressed their advantage and once more gave a clever exhibition of their passing attack as Blake rifled Couch's pass into the net.

Lex Chisholm Out With Broken Wrist

TORONTO, March 7.—(CP)—Lex Chisholm broke his right arm in today's practice and the rugged Toronto leaf right winger went to the sidelines for the remainder of the National Hockey League schedule.

Chisholm, who played for Galt and Oshawa before turning pro, checked Hank Goldup and the two crashed into the end boards. The break occurred between the wrist and elbow.

Leafs have survived a record run of injuries this season and only recently Syl Apps and Sweeney Schriner returned to the lineup after being on the shelf for lengthy periods.

Crippling Rheumatism

In the beginning rheumatism is often due to dyspepsia or indigestion, for if the digestive organs did their duty there would not be any poisonous uric acid in the blood to sow the seeds of rheumatism.

Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery — you tire quickly — feel depressed.

What you need is Dr. Williams Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. Increase Of Five Mills Expected In Campbellford Tax Rate As $10,000 Grant Is Refused Town

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7. — (ENS)—The joint meeting between Council and Utilities Commission ended in a deadlock on Tuesday evening. Called by Mayor Long in an effort to iron out the differences of opinion exisiting between the two bodies, the meeting was later pronounced a failure by Reeve Calver, chairman of the finance committee, who declared the commission's inability to give the corporation a $10,000.00 grant this year would result in an increase of five mills in the tax rate.

Chairman of the Water and Light Commission, J. O. Benor told the Council it was impossible to promise with any certainty an amount more than the $3,000.00 which had already been handed over to the corporation early in the year, which would mean, Council would be getting $7,000.00 less from the Utilities than in 1939.

Appointed chairman of the meeting Mayor Long reviewed the special session of Council called for the purpose of assembling budget figures last Friday. The downward scaling of relief costs would offset the cut of one-half mill in the subsidy he said, but even by cutting other expenses council would not be able to manage without the proposed grant.

Reeve Calver announced the town had ended up with a $3,000.00 surplus due to the fact that more than $9,000.00 in arrears of taxes had come in, while only $7,000.00 had been budgeted for. "All we can collect in arrears this year is upwards of $5,000.00 because the cream of these have already been collected." Sale of property had brought the corporation $1,098.00 last year, while this year there were only a number of lots and two houses slated for the tax sale. The school board's requisition for the current year was up $1,000.00 or approximately one mill, he said; at the same time the reeve forecast a saving in street oil providing the price does not increase.

Anticipating the commission's argument that they would need a larger surplus to provide additional equipment in case a new industry located here, the Reeve assured them that the corporation would be only too willing to come to the Commission's rescue with a loan if such were necessary.

Benor Replies

Chairman Benor, pointing out the difficulties of this procedure, declared it would place a distinct handicap on any negotiations which they might enter into. "This would mean we would first have to go to the council to ask them for a loan, and as happened last year the information might leak out and our efforts would have been wasted."

"There's a lot of work has to be done to our system as our load has practically doubled in the past six years," Mr. Benor said. He estimated collections for 1940 would amount to $42,840.00 or $2,000.00 above last year. The commissioner then outlined some of the changes that had to be made during the current year, claiming that with their expeditures and including the $3,000.00 already granted, the town commission would have a balance of less than $5,000.00 at the end of the year. Among the "must" he mentioned were new transformers and a new secondary line on the north of Front street; a new service on Grand Road and new primary and secondary circuits on Mill street to the Herald Block. Chairman Benor emphasized that the three transformers at the power plant were being overloaded and stated the only way for the commisison to be on the safe side was for them to either purchase a spare or a new bank ok three. "If one of those in use at present should fail it will mean that a section of the town would be without service for up to two months as these are made to order and it would take that long to get delivery, and all 3-phase power would be off. A new transformer at the plant would cost upwards of $2,000.00," he said.

When questioned by the reeve as why they had been able to make grant of $10,000.00 last year when they had approximately the same expenses, Mr. Benor replied that $4,000.00 had been taken from reserve to do it. "As a commission we have a distinct duty to perform to the people, and there comes a time when we have to face the situation no matter how much we may dislike it," he said, pointing out that since 1925 the comission had given the corporation $183,000.00 plus paying debenture charges of $94,624.80. "I cannot see where with a reserve of only $6,000.00 on hand we can make any promises. We have a responsibility the same as you have."

"If you could give the corporation $5,000.00 when you didn't have a $8,000.00 per year Hydro contract, why can't it be given to us now?" asked the reeve.

"In those years the money was not put back into the distribution system where it should be."

"Who owns the utilities" asked Deputy Reeve Donald.

"The people of the town of Campbellford own them and they elect the commissioners to look after their utilities just the same as you are elected to look after their interest on the council," Chairman Benor said.

He stressed the fact that expenses had not gone up, but merely that reserves had gone down. Over a period of 13 years $44,963.62 had been taken from the reserves to give the corporation grants totalling $183,000.00 which was more than sufficient to pay the town's entire debenture debt. The war is costing the commission an extra $5,000.00 a year according to the chairman, and this is made up of salaries for guards at the power house and the eight per cent tax on domestic light accounts, which is being absorbed.

"I don't see any reason why you couldn't let us have the money, and if you should require it the town can borrow from the bank and let you have what you need," announced the Reeve.

"It's not good policy for us to borrow if we don't have to," replied Mr. Benor. "The town tax rate shouldn't have been lowered without taking into consideration the condition of the Utilities," continued the chairman; to which the mayor replied that the tax rate had been set only after taking into account the people's ability to pay.

In reply to a direct question from Councillor Maguire, Mr. Benor declared, "It is my firm belief that the Commission will not be in a position to pay the addition $7,000.00 grant this year."

We Noticed

....This this the season of the year when many find themselves with unpleasant skin eruptions that are not at all flattering to new Spring bonnets—a condition for which our grandmothers prescribed the good old-fashioned dose of "sulphur-and-molasses."

....However, modern doctors advise us to simply eat less meat and fewer sweets, more lettuce, spinach, green vegetables and fresh fruit. If your skin is dry and chapped from March winds, try the method your mother probably used—washing it in warm milk.

....If your skin is oily, put some oatmeal into a muslin bag and go over your wet face with it. Let it dry before washing off. Equal parts of rosewater and witchhazel makes a good astringent to follow this treatment. Splash cold water over your throat and chin after your morning "splash," it's an enemy to that thickening line.

Do You Know?

To save your hands and finger nails from being hurt when using a wire scourer, try pushing the smallest washing-up mop into the centre of the scourer. The unpleasant task of washing out saucepans and dirty pans is made twice as quick and much more pleasant.

Keep a piece of soap in your work-basket. One of those tiny "guest" tablets will do beautifully. If you stick your needle into it instead of into a pincushion, they will never rust or get lost through working into the centre.

A correspondent writes: "My china, apart from that in everyday use, is continually covered with dust, and I'm always having to wash it. Now I stack it into neat piles and wrap them in transparent paper."

Meaning of Holy Week Is Outlined

The ceremonies of Holy Week was the subject of a timely and interesting talk by Father J. C. Moloney of the Sacred Heart Parish Wednesday evening at the March meeting of the Catholic Women's League, held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum. He took his listeners in imagination back to the centuries before the art of printing was invented, when nearly all teaching was by word of mouth and pictorial illustrations. Commencing with the triumphal entry of Our Lord into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday, Father Moloney explained the ceremonies of that day, followed by the Tenebrae (meaning darkness), which starts on Wednesday evening. This impressive ceremony commences with the Lamentations of Jeremias and the dominant idea is the treason of Judas and the Passion of the Son of God.

The ceremonies of Holy Thursday were explained. It is the day on which Jesus Christ instituted the Sacrament of the Holy Eucharist. Good Friday, a day of desolation, the Sanctuary is unadorned and the Mass of the Presanctified is said. On Holy Saturday the Church blesses many of the things used in her sacred functions and is in a special manner a day of blessings. Father Moloney impressed on his audience the beauty of the Liturgy of the Church during Holy Week.

Thet appreciation of the members was expressed to the speaker by Mrs. J. E. Sullivan and Miss Teresa Hurley.

Miss L. Hurley, president, was in the chair for the meeting, at which reports of various officers were read, and a request for workers for the annual Shamrock Tag Day, which is to be held on March 16, was made by Mrs F. J. Lynch.

A musical program consisting of two piano solos by Miss Alma Duffy, A.T.C.M., and a tap dance by Mr. James Gosselin, accompanied by Miss Agnes Grant, was much enjoyed The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Red Cross Work Is Making Smooth Progress

Among the 300 delegates who attended the annual meeting of the Ontario Division of the Red Cross Society, held on Tuesday at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto, were Mrs. R. H. Turner, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, Miss Helen Munro and Lt. Col. C. H. Ackerman.

Dr. Fred Routley, National Commissioner, was luncheon speaker, and Lt. Col. Cooper, president of the Ontario Division, was convention chairman.

Each week articles including socks, wristlets, caps, pullovers and hospital supplies go forward to headquarters from the local branch here, of which Mrs. R. H. Turner is president. The work is progressing quietly and smoothly under efficient supervision in the Red Cross work rooms at the Public Library, and due to the efforts of this group and other branches throughout Ontario, emergency shelves in England are becoming stocked with Canadian contributions. A supply is being held in readiness for the Canadian hospital at Taplow, which is expected to be available for occupancy about the first of April.

Ontario women made 254,000 articles for the Red Cross between October and January, it was noted in the annual report presented at the Toronto meeting of the Ontario division. Articles distributed to soldiers in training since the war began numbered 91,707, including 1,180 sent to the East Coast at the request of the National Headquarters.

During the society's national war appeal Ontario raised $2,508,000 or 60 per cent more than the provincial objective. More than 200,000 leaflets giving knitting and sewing instructions have been distributed and branches of the society in Ontario since the war began have increased from 76 to 400.

A large number of individual branches have developed special services, the report noted. Hamilton branch is training young women in motor mechanics and driving.

DOROTHY DIX

Girls Must Be Careful To Avoid Cause For Gossip. Unchaperoned Vacations May Be Harmless, but Beware Mrs. Grundy's Tongue.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have two lovely daughters, 19 and 17 years old. The older one has been working for six months and has been allowed to keep her money. Now she is planning a vacation away from the family at some resort hotel or adult camp. Heretofore we have always gone together somewhere for our holidays, and I feel a little hurt that she should want to break away, but I do not feel that I can stop her, since she is paying her own way. My only worry is that she is too anxious for a good time and may pay too high a price for it. She considers me old-fashioned because I do not believe it proper for two young men and two girls to spend week-ends together in near-by cities. My daughter and her friend seem to think that they can do as they please and that it doesn't matter what others say about them; that other women criticize them just because they are jealous of their good times. Won't you please tell these foolish girls how much public opinion affects a girl? MRS. S.D.M.

ANSWER:

You mustn't feel hurt because your daughter wants to break away from the family party for her vacation and go off by herself for her holiday. It is her Fourth of July proclamation of Independence. She is proving to herself that she is independent and on her own, and that she has out Mama's apron string.

It's bitter tea that a mother has to swallow when she realizes that she is no longer necessary to her children's happiness as they are to hers; that even her presence cramps their style, and that it takes a little of the fun out of even doing innocent things when Mother is continually reminding them to do this and warning them not to do that, and generally treating them like they are babies, while they think of themselves as sophisticated adults. But every mother has to go through this experience, and all that she can do is to gulp down her dose and pretend she likes it.

But you are quite right in being concerned about where your young unchaperoned daughter goes and what she does, because she isn't as capable of taking care of herself as she believes herself to be. And many a girl blunders through sheer ignorance into doing things that wreck her future, and many a one pays for a single good time with the repentance of a lifetime.

Many girls, for instance, think that they can flout convention and do as they please, and they boast that they don't care what people say about them. But when they have a little experience of life they find out that far more potent than any edict promulgated by the Supreme Court are the laws that Mrs. Grundy lays down and that any girl breaks them at her peril.

And they find out that what people say about a girl fixes her status in society and makes her the kind of girl whom people welcome to their houses, that worthwhile men want to take about and marry; or the kind of girl who is taboo in good society, whom mothers look down their noses at, and whom boys play around with and drink with, but don't pick out for a wife.

Certainly no girls who value their reputations would think of such a thing as going away on week-ends and staying at hotels with young men. Possibly it might be an innocent little excursion, but this is a censorious world and it would put the worst construction on it. The impropriety of such a good time is even recognized by law, as hotel registers frequently furnish the evidence on which divorces are granted.

It isn't enough for a girl just to be good. She has to look good and act good and have people say good things about her.

A Bad Bargain

Dear Dorothy Dix—For two years a gentleman in his middle seventies has paid devoted attention to a lady in her middle forties. The man has professed undying love for the woman, but keeps putting off marrying her on the grounds that he has to support his son, who is an able-bodied man of 45, married and has a son. Also two other sons in their forties object to their father's marriage, as he is quite well off and evidently they want his money. The lady in this romance is perfectly capable of taking care of herself. She doesn't want to marry the man for what he has, but because she is really in love with him. She is domestic and loves home and would make the old man a splendid wife. Do you think there could be happiness in such a marriage where there are thirty-two years' difference in ages?

A MUTUAL FRIEND

ANSWER:

I think it would be a grand break for the old gentleman to get such an admirable woman for a wife to make him a home and nurse him and care for him during his declining years, but it seems to me it would be a bad bargain for her.

Aged Romeos spry up when they go a-courting, but they collapse as soon as they get married, and they expect their wives to be combination cooks and trained nurses and to spend their time listening to them reminisce about the Rutherford B. Hayes Administration and rub their rheumatic joints. And that is no picnic for any woman in her forties who would like to step around a bit herself.

But I don't think your friend need bother about embroidering any more doilies for her hope chest, for evidently the old gentleman is under the thumbs of his sons, and they are going to see to it that he doesn't get married and bring in another heir to have a cut in the estate.

An independent woman of forty is sitting pretty on the top of the world, and she had far better remain there alone than to step down and off into trouble by marrying a man old enough to be her father.

Stealing Dates

Dear Miss Dix—Do you think it is right for a girl to take away her friend's best date, the one she depends on to take her about?

SALLY

ANSWER:

Why not? It is every girl for herself in love.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, March 8.

A day of great expansion and culmination of high ambitions is the augury based on major planetary activities. It is a time for reaching toward advanced goals in worldly affairs, and for the attainment of the heart's desires in social, domestic, humane and friendly relationships. In the purely private domain it is likely that the feminine element will prove a decisive factor. In other directions there may be small impediments to cope with.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to encounter a year in which there are no limitations to success, happiness and achievement, except in their own restraints and restrictions. It is a time for pushing in all directions to the goal of heart's desire, and should there be a few minor frustrations, the counsel and affection of elderly women are likely.

A child born on this day may be efficient, industrious and ambitious and also have a humane, compassionate, generous and expansive character. It may enjoy a successful and happy career, one of usefulness to its fellows.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

Serving Fruit In Any Course Done Simply Enough

If your heart is in the project you can serve fruit in any course of a meal—not in every course of the same meal (although in our house a whole meal of fruit is our idea of how it can be done even to the satisfaction of dyed-in-the-wool meat and potato addicts.

(We'll omit applesauce with pork, heaven)—but let us demonstrate with ham—and go on to the lesser known combinations.)

Orange and Spanish Onion Sandwiches

This must be made with a delicranberries with turkey, pineapple cate touch—you know it is the suspicion of garlic in a salad that gives it piquancy—in the same spirit the Spanish onion must be sliced thinly for this sandwich.

Using fresh whole wheat bread sliced ¼-inch thick by the bakeshop, spread it very thinly with butter or soft peanut butter. Pare oranges with sharp knife cutting through to the pulp to peel off all the membrane. Slice oranges not more than ¼-inch thick with very sharf knife. Cover bread with layer of sliced oranges, trimming orange slices to exactly fit bread—cover orange with slice of onions not more than 1-16 inch thick, then cover with buttered slices of bread. Press sandwiches together after wrapping and let stand at least 1 hour—most folks like a little salt or a little lemon mayonnaise on this sandwich.

Apple, Sweet Potato and Sausage Casserole

One and one-half pounds sweet potatoes when peeled after parboiling, 2 cups sliced apples (Spys are best), one or one and one-half pounds small link sausages. Put layers of sliced apple and parboiled peeled sweet potatoes in buttered casserole sprinkling salt and pepper and a little brown sugar and dots of butter over each layer. Cover top with sausages, pour about ½ cup boiling hot water between cracks to moisten potatoes and apples, and bake at about 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes or until sausages are cooked—if apples are sliced too thickly this will need ¾ hour.

Grapefruit and Orange Individual Salads

In the best hotels this would be served on romaine, but since it is hard to obtain in many communities we suggest flat leaves of lettuce for this.

Three whole sections of oranges and three whole sections of grapefruit (a convenient form of this comes canned), completely free of membrane, are needed for each person to be served. Wash and dry the flatter outside leaves of lettuce and arrange them on pretty salad plates—green glass is especially nice. Place alternates overlapping sections of orange and grapefruit in a row. French Dressing with Roquefort must have been created for this salad—make it with 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, dash of cayenne, 2 tablespoons vinegar, lemon or orange juice, 6 tablespoons salad oil, 1 tablespoon crumbled Roquefort (or Danish Blue). Mix and pass immediately.

Cut underripe bananas in halves lengthwise, then in halves crosswise so that each banana makes four fritters. Dip in fritter batter made by sifting together 1 cup flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, then add 2-3 cup of water and beat very smooth (about 3 minutes). Add 2 tablespoons olive or other salad oil. Fold in 1 stiffly beaten egg white just before using. Fry in hot fat at about 375 degrees Fahr, for 6 or 7 minutes, turning once. Drain on unglazed paper and keep warm until all are done.

These are more piquant than Yorkshire pudding with roast beef, but must be accompanied with brown Gravy. If served for dessert pass Lemon Sauce. You may use pineapple slices in place of banana and serve pineapple fritters with baked ham.

Grape, Grapefruit and Cherry Cup (Chilled).

This dish becomes ordinary if it is not chilled. It is at its perfect best when little seedless green grapes from California are used, but these are not always procurable, so use Malagas. Cut Malagas in half, remove seeds and prepare one cup. Prepare 1 cup grapefruit sections, and ¼ cup green or red maraschino cherries. Carefully combine without breaking pieces of fruit, chill thoroughly. Juice from bottled cherries gives enough sweetness and flavor to omit sugar. Serve in small stemmed glasses as a first course in place of soup.

Stuffed Cherry and Pineapple Salad.

Using Royal Anne (canned white) cherries, remove pit and stuff with either an almond or pecan. Provide 6 cherries for each individual salad.

Place a slice of canned pineapple on lettuce or bed of watercress. On top and in centre of pineapple place little mound of stuffed cherries. Pass cheese and toasted buttered crackers, and Fruit dressing.

Apricot and Banana Marlow.

Two ripe bananas, 1 cup sweetened apricot pulp, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 24 (or less) marshmallows, 1 cup whipped evaporated milk or 32 per cent. cream. Mash the bananas smooth, add the apricot pulp, then stir in the lemon juice. Melt the marshmallows over hot water and add. Chill. Cut and fold in the whipped evaporated milk, then freeze the mixture in tray of mechanical refrigerator without further stirring.

To Whip Evaporated Milk—Bring to boiling point in can in water to cover and boil 1 hour. Chill thoroughly, then whip—evaporated milk increases triple in bulk when it is whipped.

Stuffed Dates or Prunes.

Wash fruit well. The prunes may be steamed if preferred soft. Drain well, make a cut entire length of each and slip out stone. Fill the cavity with one of the following filling, put fruit into original shape, roll in powdered or berry sugar. Keep tightly closed in metal or glass container. Best when freshly made.

Variations.

Lemon fondant, cheese, salted nutmeats, peanut butter, candied orange or grapefruit peel, marshmallows, make good stuffing for dried fruits.

NOTE.—If I have not mentioned one of your favorite fruits and you would like a new treatment for it, please write naming your preferences.

QUESTION: I would like very much to have a recipe for uncooked fruit cake made from Graham wafers. Thank you, Mrs. G. R.

ANSWER: The graham cracker fruit cake recipe I have is cooked. I shall give you this recipe, and hope some of our readers who see your request can come to your help, and will send the recipe in to me. If they do I shall print it on this page.

Graham Cracker Fruit Cake

Two cups sugar, 2-3 cup butter, 2 eggs, beaten separately, 1½ cups milk, 2 cups flour, 2 cups sifted graham crumbs, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup each nuts or cocoanut, raisins, peel, cherries or candied pineapple. Cream the butter and sugar, add yolks, the milk. Mix flour, sifted cracker crumbs, and baking powder. Add this to sugar mixture, then add fruit and nuts, then fold in the whites which have been beaten stiff. (Fruit and nuts should be dredged with a little of the sifted dry ingredients.) Mix well and bake in 2 or 3 layers or in shallow cake pan, well greased, at 325 to 350 deg. Fahr. This is best frosted with rich butter frosting. A very delicious cake.

Bonarlaw

Mrs. J. M. Barlow is visiting friends and relatives in Frankford this week.

Holy Communion service was held in St. Mark's church on Sunday last at 11 a.m. and was well attended. Rev. Canon W. G. Swayne delivered an inspiring sermon on the subject "Why am I a Christian." The cut flowers on the altar were a memorial to the late Mr. S. S. McComb who was for many years a Warden of the church and member of the choir.

IN MEMORIAM

MONTGOMERY.—In loving memory of my dear husband, Joseph Wellington Montgomery, who died on March 7, 1938.

Two sad years since he left me
In this world to mourn and sigh,
When the angels came and took him
To that happy home on high;
Now I am sad and lonely
While he sleeps among the blest.
I never will forget my loving husband
As long as the Lord lends me breath.
And when the Lord does call upon me,
There I will go without a sigh,
And leave this world of care and trouble
For to meet my love on high.

—Ever remembered by his loving wife, Elizabeth.

MONTGOMERY.—In loving memory of our dear daddy, Joseph Wellington Montgomery, who departed this life two years ago today, March 7, 1938.

What is home without a father?
What are all the joys we meet
When, his loving smile no longer
Greets the coming of our feet?
You were true and very patient
Through the years you struggled on,
And those dear hands now are resting
Made a home and now is gone.
We watched him suffer day by day,
It caused us bitter brief
To see him slowly pine away
And could not give relief.
And in our aching hearts we know
He has found sweet rest at last.
So deep in our hearts lies a picture
Of our daddy laid to rest,
And in memory's frame we shall keep it
Because he was one of the best.

—Sadly missed by his two sons, Noble and Arnold.

The same people bought them week after week. They are of good size for the average customer (3 to 7 lbs.) and sold at 23c per lb. for nearly all, which is a good price for here." ONE FALSE STEP

BY KATHRN BEMIS

CHAPTER XIII

"WILL you have coffee?" Janis hastily asked Mary Black.

"No, thank you—we've just dined," she replied in a cultured voice entirely unlike Sally's.

"If you don't mind, I'd like to get a certain book from my old room," said Dr. Black.

"Certainly, Dr. Black—go up and help yourself," Janis told him quickly. If Maud hadn't dusted that part of the house lately, it would be just too bad.

He rose, saying, "I hope you found something interesting to read up there."

Janis was impelled to walk with him to the hall. "Frankly, I haven't looked at the books. I thought they were all medical."

She was vaguely aware of Sally's strident voice behind her, Lucinda's husky fawning tone, Rock's rudely arrogant tone. It bothered her that Mary Black should have to hobnob with people so different from herself—yet they were all Lucinda's friends who wandered in and out of this house at all hours. It was strange she thought, that up to now, she had mildly liked some of them Rock, of course, was different, and she hoped he wouldn't say anything to make Miss Black dislike him.

A Compliment

Dr. Black paused with one hand on the mahogany stair rail. He looked steadily down at Janis, as if feasting his eyes on sheer loveliness. "How very pretty you are," he said finally. And coming from him it sounded more honest than any compliment she had ever received. "I'll always remember you in that color. But there's something different about you since the last time we met—a sort of glow. What is it, my dear?"

She wanted to blurt out that it was love, but she put her tongue in her cheek and smiled up at him in confusion.

"Couldn't we see a little of each other?" he got out eagerly. "How about letting me take you to dinner Wednesday?"

He stood there so tall and broad-shouldered and well groomed, waiting for her answer. And she was a little indignant at herself for wishing that she could accept his invitation without getting into complications with Rock. There was a certain security about him, a hidden power that clutched her unwittingly in its embrace. For some unaccountable reason, she wanted to have and to hold his friendship.

"I—I'd enjoy dining with you, Dr. Black," she confessed simply, "but I'll have to let you know—later."

"May I call you around 10 in the morning?"

"Please let me call you," she suggested quickly. It would be better to talk to him when Rock wasn't around, and he'd be sure to call her up at the wrong moment.

She wondered what he would think of this marriage of hers, and was half inclined to explain everything to him.

She stifled this mad impulse just as he suggested, "If you'll come with me, perhaps I can recommend some books worth reading."

Her face lighted. "Oh, I'd appreciate it! I haven't read a good book in ages. I've been in such a whirl lately—but from now on, I'm going to reform."

Woman Ife Wanted

She started up the stairs ahead of him, the tight bodice of her gold taffeta gown clearly outlining the adorable curves that melted at her hips into the soft gathers of her swishing skirt. Like a man living a dream, he followed her, not missing a detail of this lovely young woman, who had come to him out of the nowhere at a time when he was becoming slightly cynical about women. Her bare white arms, the way her light auburn curls tumbled down over the back of her neck, the undulating ease of her carriage, sent him spinning into heady resolution. This was the woman he had been waiting for and, even if it meant long months of real effort, he meant to win her.

She paused with eager interest beside the high bookshelves in his former sitting room. He took down a heavy morocco volume, opened it caressingly. "Here's a splendid biography of Lincoln you might enjoy. Mary has read it several times."

"Thank you," Janis took the book from him, reflecting that if he knew how few biographies she had ever bothered to read, he'd think her an ignoramus. "I know I'll like it, too," she hastened to add.

His hand slid caressingly along the backs of books as he walked slowly to a corner shelf. Janis knew then how deeply founded was his love for good literature, and she envied him. She began to regret her neglect of books since leaving high school. She was inclined to feel ashamed before this man whose poise of intellect dangerously fascinated her.

He paused abruptly, took down a small red leather book, his homely, large-featured face glowing as he turned its pages.

"Do you know Tennyson? 'And you with me; and we shall light upon some lonely shore. Some lodge within the waste sea-dunes, and hear the waters roar.'"

The Spell of Love

He gazed down at her gravely. Beneath his outward severity there lurked an irrepressible fire that kindled in his eyes; his generous mouth parted in a slow smile that touched Janis strangely, like something momentous. He looked so physically fit, vital to his fingertips. Something powerfully dependable seemed to emanate from him. Even his plain features heightened his attractiveness in that silent moment their eyes held.

Her breath quickened. She had an absurb desire to lay her head on his shoulder and blurt out all her troubles to him. Instead, she said in a choking voice "It's—it's beautiful."

His gaze dropped to her lips, and she felt her mouth trembling, though he was about to kiss her. Then abruptly he broke the spell by turning about, replacing the book on the shelf.

He laughed a little self-consciously. "Fancy a man of 32 reading poetry to a young woman—boring her with it."

"Indeed I wasn't bored! I think it's wonderful—wonderful a busy doctor like you likes poetry. Perhaps, though, you see so much drabness, you find an outlet in singing words.

His gray eyes became startling in their intensity, "How different you are from most women," he said, in surprise. "You use your brain, don't you? I'm just beginning to realize how fortunate I am to know you. There's such beauty, such glamor in that little wistful smile of yours that comes and goes so swiftly. But what am I saying?" He tried a laugh, sobered quickly. "It will mean a great deal to me if we can be friends."

The suffocating depth of his earnestness made Janis want to cry. "Yes—we can be—friends," she managed, while wondering by what decorous manner it could be accomplished.

An Interruption

"Well," Rock Conover said suspiciously, "what's coming off here?"

Hands in pockets, he strode into the room with a proprietary air that made Janis wince.

Dr. Black locked his disappointment, but covered it by explaining matter - of - factly: "Miss Sheldon and I have been discussing books. Are you interested in literature, Mr. Conover?"

"As much as anybody needs to be," came deprecatingly from Rock. "I cover the detective magazines pretty thoroughly—lap up a Western thriller now and then."

Dr. Black glanced hastily at wrist watch. "It's time I was at the hospital. We'll continue our book chat later on, Miss Sheldon." He turned swiftly to the door, as if the room had suddenly become exceedingly distasteful to him.

Janis attempted to smile, but her lips froze with chagrin. Rock's attitude seemed so out of place, actually uncouth. Wasn't he interested in good books or had he only been trying to make Dr. Black uncomfortable?

"Do come again, Dr. Black," she invited defiantly. Perhaps when you're not too busy you'll be kind enough to suggest a course of reading for me."

"I'll be only too happy to," he said stiffly, and followed her out of the room.

She led the way downstairs and the two men followed. Her heart was pounding furiously and she held her head high in bold challenge to something or other impossible to define. She was dimly conscious that her feelings were not compatible with those of a blissfully contented bride, and she was suddenly afraid—afraid of a sinister force lurking around the corner from this oddly portentous moment.

Reminder From Rock

After the others had gone Janis and Rock sat before the wood fire in the living room. He said petulantly: "Don't forget your trip to Glendale when that man Black's around. You managed to be alone with him long enough tonight."

"What of it?" she flared in swift disdain. "He has a fine library—I was glad to let him tell me about it."

"Yeah? He mentioned wanting a certain book up there, but he didn't take it away with him."

Janis gave an inward start. She hadn't thought of it before, but it was true that Dr. Black had left the house without the book he had wanted. But he had read some beautiful lines to her—poetry.

SAVE YOUR ENTRIES

IF THERE is a need for all the entries you possess into the dummy, or into your own hand, you should conserve them carefully. When you find yourself in the hand which requires the lead several times, you should not waste that opportunity by leading a suit which can just as well be lead from the other hand. Use that chance for one of the leads which must come from that hand, and then lead the other suit when you find yourself with the lead opposite it.

Since this was in a duplicate tournament, North was straining to get the better score produced by a major contract as against a minor one. It happens that some pairs made 5-Clubs despite trump leads by ruffing two diamonds, discarding one on the finessed hearts, finessing spades successfully and losing only one trick in each minor. But this pair managed to go down at 3-Spades.

West led the spade 9 to the 10. South now should have finessed hearts at once, discarded a diamond on the heart A, then led the diamond J. If a spade came back, to his J, he then could have ruffed one diamond with the spade K, and thereafter would have lost only one more trick in diamonds, one to the club A and one to East's trump holding.

But South, after winning the first trick, led a diamond from his hand. When West returned a spade he finessed the heart, discarded a diamond on the heart A, but now had to shorten his own trumps with a heart ruff so he could lead a diamond for a ruff. Wasting that trump in his own hand enabled East to get two trump tricks, and so beat the contract.

If West leads the heart 9 to the K and plays the 6 on the A, South playing his Q and J, how should East then know that a third heart is his safest return?

Early Millbrook Post Office History Given

MILLBROOK, March 7—(ENS)—Some interesting history has come to light, following the use of the new Government Post Office at Millbrook, including the fact that the first office was a one-story, rough-cast building, which stood partly on the site of R. A. Ford's meat market, and part on the lawn of the adjoining residence. In fact the east window in the house was blocked in its view by the rear wall of the comparatively small building.

The building was the propery of the late William Carveth, well-known resident of Millbrook's earlier days, who for many years filled the office of bailiff, and was also in the insurance business. On the west side of the house, and fronting right on the street, was a butcher shop operated by Mr. Carveth and his sons, and now used as a garage.

As far as can be learned, Matthew Knowlson was the first postmaster, followed by Isabelle Knowlson, then by Richard Howden, one of the first Reeves of the village after incorporation in 1880, and he in turn was followed by the late William Vance, who with his daughter, Miss Lottie Vance, held the position for fifty years. In the adjoining store Mr. Vance carried on a grocery business, with some other general wares.

It was during Mr. Vance's term of office that the post office was removed to the then Kells' block, afterward purchased by the late Mrs. E. L. Burnham, and for several years it was located in the premises where Harold Nattress' barber shop now is; the old rough case building was torn down, and rebuilt as a kitchen to the house on the Carveth farm, west of the village, where it still stands.

After the appointment of Postmaster T. H. Collins, in 1920, he removed the office to his own building on the south side of King Street, where it continued until the official notice to remove to the new Government building on Wednesday of last week.

In conversation with Mr. A. H. B. Potts of Ottawa, Federal Superintendent of Land and Air Mails, guest speaker at the banquet, and who officially opened the new Post Office, the Examiner was informed that, whereas in 1840, in the lower province, it cost four and one-half perice to send a letter sixty miles, now by air mail, a letter may be sent from the Atlantic to the Pacific, for the price of an air mail stamp, six cents.

Among those from the local Horticultural Society who motored to Toronto at the week-end for attendance at the Provincial convention, were Mrs. G. F. Harrington, Mrs. P. Stinson, Mrs. W. C. Thorndyke, Miss Josie Sutton and Miss M. E. Needham.

Miss Jean Stinson of Cobourg was was home for the week-end with her parents, ex-Warden Percy and Mrs. Stinson.

On Friday, at the home of the secretary, Miss B. M. Turner, B.A., the Red Cross packed five lovely warm quilts, six babies' bonnets, three woollen sweaters, one wool cap for child (these donated by Miss Margaret Wood), and some other articles, and shipped them to headquarters at Toronto for re-packing in bales to be sent either to Finland or Poland. Every two weeks the Red Cross in Toronto packs bales for these two countries; soldiers' bales are packed and shipped every day.

Coming Back

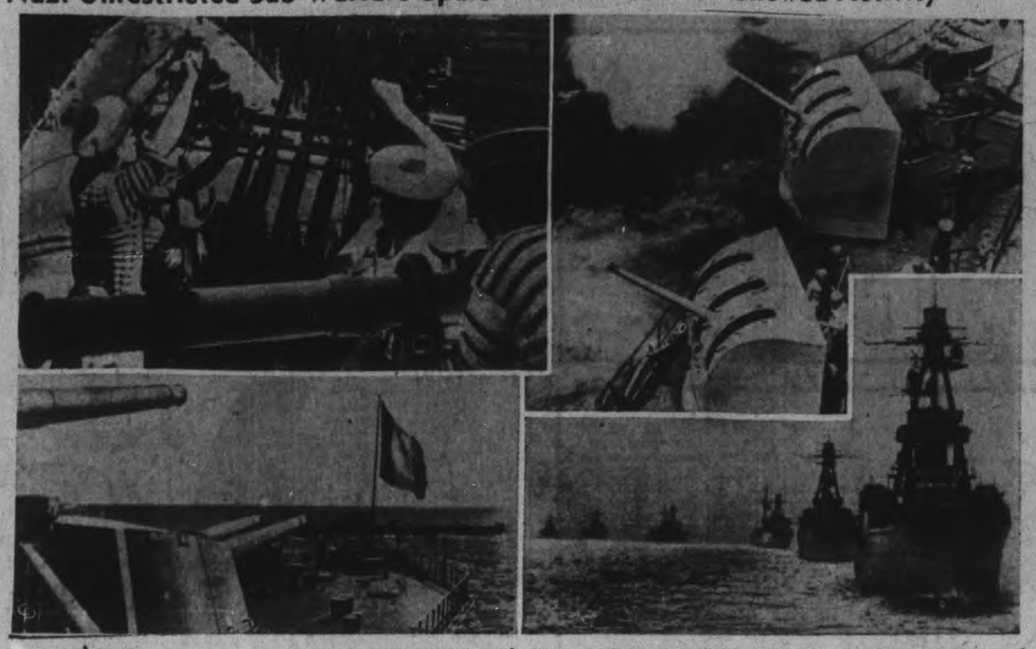
Toronto, March 7 (CP)

TWO HOURS after Louis Tsafaroff was held up and robbed of $17 in his north Toronto restaurant early today, he received a telephone call from a man who is believed by police to have been one of the two holdup men.

"I hear you lost some money," Tsafaroff quoted the caller as saying. He told police the men, one with his hand in a pocket as though he carried a weapon, sidled up to him at the counter and told him it was a holdup. He gave them the money from the till.

Tsafaroff said he told the telephone caller a hard-luck story and was promised that the money would be returned later today.

Nazi Unrestricted Sub Warfare Spurs French Fleet To Renewed Activity



TOP LEFT, multiple machine guns (or a "Chicago typewriter") aboard a French warship. TOP RIGHT, naval anti-aircraft guns with movable turrets to protect crews. LOWER LEFT, the mighty "mouthpieces" of a French battleship. LOWER RIGHT, the French fleet on parade. The mighty French fleet has been spurred into renewed activity by the campaign of unrestricted warfare being conducted by German submarines and by reports that Russia is supplying her ally with Red undersea craft to replace those sunk by the Allies. France is far stronger in naval manpower than Germany, with 90,000 Frenchmen to 75,000 Germans. Britain tops the list with 220,000 men, while Russia has only 50,000. The French and British fleets are working in close co-operation. Latest developments is that they have dispatched a joint squadron to patrol the northern coast of Russia to prevent shipment of Russian supplies and submarines to the Reich and to prevent any Nazi ships from taking refuge in Russia.

HAVELOCK, March 7—(ENS).—With St. Patrick's day in the offing, there was decided Irish touch to the program presented Monday afternoon by the Havelock branch Women's Institute as they assembled for their March meeting in the local council chamber. The members responded to the roll call with the "name of a town in Ireland" and joined in singing such well known songs from the Emerald Isle, as Mother Machree, Peggy O'Neill and My Wild Irish Rose.

Confronted by a last minute withdrawal of some important items from her already prepared program, the convenor, Mrs. Charles Taylor, solved the problem by introducing a "bingo game" which the members found interesting entertainment. The prize was won by Mrs. A. McMullen. Other numbers included: "Current Events" by Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke, and a vocal solo entitled "The Little Shamrock" by Mrs. S. Southward.

British Press Sees Quick Success For New Loan In '3 Per Cent War'

LONDON, March 7—(CP).—Quick success for the £300,000,000 ($1,335,000,000) war loan announced yesterday by Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, was predicted by leading newspapers today.

The loan will be issued next Tuesday at par, to extend for 15 to 19 years, and carry three per cent interest.

"The treasury has certainly demonstrated its ability to manage the gilt-edged market in wartime," said the Financial Times. "It is indeed symptomatic of this advance in market technique, by comparson with the last war, that the new loan, unlike several long-term issues of 1914-16, does not carry the right of conversion into any subsequent war loan.

"Those who subscribe to the utmost of their power to this first major appeal will have the added satisfaction of knowing not merely that they are helping pay for the war but they are protecting the real purchasing power of their remaining income."

The Daily Express said: "The little men have saved a million pounds a day for a hundred days (a reference to the war savings campaign). Now big business have a chance. Sir John asks them for a loan at three per cent. Sir John is handling the nation's finances with great skill. This is to be a three per cent war."

5 Per Cent in First War

The Daily Mail: "This sum should be available many times over. The people should rally to Sir John's new appeal and show by heavy oversubscription the resources and determination of Britain. It is indeed satisfactory to compare the prevailing rates of interest with the five per cent and more which were customary between 1914 and 1918."

The government's first war loan "is less than might have been expected," the Daily Telegraph said.

"It is but the first installment on the borrowing that will have to be done to cover the war expenditures in a year of what has been called 'the most costly war ever fought'" the newspaper said.

"There is a good deal to be said for the view that the chancellor might have been well advised to make a bigger bite at this first cherry and leave open a longer time for subscribing."

The Daily Herald said:—

"The Daily Herald hopes the government will get the loan it needs for the war. But it regrets that so high a rate of interest is being offered to wealthy lenders.

"Montague Norman and Sr John Simon have stepped much too near the slippery slope of dear money with this loan.

"We say to them: 'stop before it is too late'"

MRS. JOHN I. KIDD.

COTTESLOE, March 7—(ENS).—With the passing of the late Mrs. John Lawrence Kidd, formerly Christina Patterson, death removed from this community one of its most respected citizens, as well as the last member of a family whose forefathers were closely linked with the earlier history of Dummer township, she being the daughter of the late Archibald and Rachael Lowry, whose homestead was the farm now owned by Fred Girven. Over half a century ago, she married into a family, also pioneers, as J. I. Kidd's father was one of the original pioneers who helped erect and maintain the old kirk, at Colquhoun's Corners, later Cottesloe, and to which four generations of the family have made their contribution. Mrs. Kidd soon endeared herself to all members of the community and was always ready to help in time of need.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Kidd was held from the residence of her son-in-law, Richard Tedford, Lot 7, Con. 1, Dummer, on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. D. K. Perrie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Norwood, conducting the service at the house and the grave. He spoke of the deceased as being a joy to those who loved and lived with her and closed by repeating Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." The large gathering of friends and neighbors at the funeral testified to the esteem of the deceased.

Had Rheumatism, Headaches and Stomach Pains; Praises Syntona

Condition Followed Attack of Influenza and Lasted 6 Months Until He Rid His System of Excess Acids and Impurities This Safe, Natural Way. Feels Fine Now.

MR. JAMES BARRATT

"Syntona was a wonderful tonic for me and I would advise anyone who is feeling rundown at this time of year to take it," said Mr. James Barratt, 331 Simcoe Street, London, Ontario, only a few days ago.

"About six months ago I had 'flu and it left me very weak and rundown. My appetite was poor all winter and even the little I did eat would just sour in my stomach and give me cramps, gas pains and heartburn. Soon after that, I began to have splitting headaches and dizzy spells. Then I got pains in my legs and back and I felt tired and lame.

"That condition hung on so long I thought I would never get over it, when one day my wife got me started taking Syntona, and it has done wonders for me. I was only taking it a couple of days when my stomach began to feel better and I got relief from the headaches and constipation. Now, the pains are all gone and I am feeling fine. I enjoy my meals now! I sleep better and I don't tire so easily."

Syntona produces these results without the aid of drugs or depressors. It is made only from the pure extracts of herbs, roots and barks. It aids in the proper assimilation of food for energy and resistance and in the elimination of excess acids and poisonous waste matter. A splendid medicine for the whole family at this season.

All who suffer are cordially invited to call at Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, and find out for themselves about Syntona. It has helped hundreds here and can do the same for you. (Advt.)

Bombs Instead Of Pamphlets Demanded Of R.A.F. Raids

Keyes Insists Navy Run Own Air Arm

Italian Ship Bombed Off England; Raids Rousing Anger

LONDON, March 8—(CP).—Day and night German air raids on shipping roused many Britons today to demand retaliation.

The Air Ministry announced that new reconnaissance flights were made last night over Germany and for the first time over former Polish territory, but some parliamentary figures and newspapers voiced scorn for such pamphlet-dropping excursions.

Colonel Josiah Wedgwood, Labor Member of Parliament, expressed the hope that "We shall soon tackle the Germans with their own weapons on their own ground and drop bombs on military objectives."

He called the Royal Air Force's propaganda pamphlet flights over Germany "confetti raids," and suggested::

"Let us stop this farcical waste of lives, valuable machines and petrol which we shall need if anything serious comes along."

Admiral of the Fleet, Sir Roger Keyes, found in the shipping situation a fortification of his contention that the Royal Navy should control its own Air Force, independent of the Air Ministry.

"It has been 300 years since we suffered such indignities as we have suffered in the last few months," Sir Roger told the House of Commons last night.

Thus he renewed the argument expressed in some quarters for a partition of the R.A.F. which Sir Kingsley Wood rejected in the House yesterday, with a declaration he and Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, are fighting Germany—not each other. Sir Kingsley outlined the way in which the

Russian, Finnish Chiefs Both In Stockholm Are Expected To Discuss Terms; Helsinki Envoy Flies To Hitler In Berlin

Finn Army Fights On Facing Drastic Red Peace Demands

HELSINKI, March 8.—(AP). — The Finnish High Command reported to-day its hard-pressed forces defending the approaches by ice and land to strategic Viipuri were holding firm despite continued Soviet Russian attacks.

The nation's dwindling manpower kept up the stubborn resistance to the ever-replenished forces of the invader in the midst of peace talk in which Russia was reported to have made far-reaching, ultimatum-like demands as the price of peace.

Finland was silent officially on the demands but the unofficial reaction was that she woud reject them.

Success for the Finns all along the Karelian Isthmus front from the ice-bound coast south and southwest of Viipuri to Lake Ladoga on the eastern front was reported by the High Command.

In the island-dotted vicinity of Viipuri the army said its forces destroyed several tanks "and at least eight guns of batteries brought by the enemy onto the ice."

East of the seaport, the bodies of 400 Russians killed in Wednesday's fighting were left in front of the Finnish lines and the Finns said Russians lost seven tanks and two armored cars yesterday.

The army estimated 2,000 Russian dead were left on the field after an attack at Kollaanjoki, northeast of Lake Ladoga, on the eastern front, while elsewhere there was minor activity and local attacks "which were repelled."

Getting Ready

The Hague, March 8 (AP)

A ROYAL DECREE extending martial law to the "greater part of The Netherlands" is in preparation, it was announced today. Defence Minister A. Q. H. Dijxhoorn, made the announcement in the upper chamber of the states general in answer to questions as to what steps the government was taking in view of the "dangers of espionage."

Defence minister said secret service agents and the police were actively combating espionage.

More than a score of arrests have been made and in the latest case the prosecution has demanded sentences of five years each for Germans and Hollanders alleged to have sent weather reports for use by German fliers from a secret radio station near Rotterdam, Dijxhoorn said.

Hint Germany Active In Seeking Peace; Moscow Is Silent

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 8—(AP)—Sweden, anxious to keep Scandinavia from being drawn into war, today pushed a quick drive for peace in the Russian-Finnish conflict.

Her effort centred in Stockholm, which had established contact with Helsinki and Moscow, but extended in its ramifications to other capitals.

Reports of the almost simultaneous arrival in the Swedish capital of Finnish and Russian Field Marshals led to excited talk in Scandinavia of a possible conference between the two.

Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim and Marshal Vassily Blucher, once Russia's far eastern army commander, were said to be in the Swedish capital, centre of the new effort for peace.

Finland was known to be pondering Swedish - transmitted Russian peace terms, described as more severe than those she rejected on the eve of the war's outbreak.

(Reuters News Agency quoted well-informed sources as saying the United States might be asked to act as mediator, and reported from Stockholm that Frederick Sterling, United States minister, had conferred there today with Aljas Erkko, Finnish minister.)

Allies Prepared To Continue All Aid To Finns

PARIS, March 8—(AP).—Great Britain and France, who already have sent considerable aid to Finland, are ready to continue their assistance if the Helsinki Government decides to fight "to the bitter end," sources close to the French Foreign Office said to-day.

Commenting on Swedish efforts to negotiate peace between Finland and Russia, these sources declared:

"Finland has the possibility of taking the road which Sweden has invited her to explore, or of appealing to the Allied powers to increase their action. France and Britain, who have carried out the Geneva decisions in favor of Finland, are ready to continue their effort to safeguard the independence of that nation."

The same sources said Finland had appealed to France for technicians to supervise the use of equipment already dispatched by the Allies, which was reported earlier in the day to include 405 airplanes, 916 cannon and large quanties of lesser arms. Two thirds of the material already has arrived, it was said.

Britain has sent 230 planes, of which 67 were bombers, and France has shipped 175 pursuit planes, the announcement said. Britain's artillery contribution was 420 pieces and France's 496. Other Allied contributions were listed as follows::

124 machine guns, 5,000 light machine guns, 150 anti-tank guns, 2,300,000 shells; 450,000 grenades, 1,050 sea mines, 10,000 anti-tank mines, 50,00000 to 60,000,000 cartridges.

Besides the armaments that Great Britain and France have contributed, Italy and Spain have been routing arms consignments through France for the Finnish armies.

Germans Scuttle Steamer To Avoid Capture

LONDON, March 8—(CP).— The Admiralty announced today the scuttling of the 4,846-ton German merchant ship Uruguay by her crew when intercepted by a British warship in the North Atlantic. All of the crew were saved.

Convoy Escapes.

PARIS, March 8—(AP)—Scuttling of a German merchant ship, the 4,846-ton Uruguay, by its own crew when Allied sea forces overtook her was reported today by French authorities.

They said also that German submarines had attacked a French convoy without success. The positions of the Uruguay and the convoy were not given.

Sharp fights between French and German patrols east of the Vosges Mountains on the Western front were reported by the French to have resulted in one fatality for each side and the wounding of several Germans.

Italians Charge Flag Ignored In Ship Bombing

LONDON , March 8 — (CP). — Charges that a German plane deliberately dropped incendiary bombs on the 5,335-ton Italian freighter Amelia Lauro, killing one crew member, were made by survivors when they reached a British port today.

The body of the dead sailor remained aboard the burning vessel. The 29 other members of the crew were picked up by the 5,397-ton Italian freighter Titania and were later transferred to a coastal lifeboat. Having lost everything, the Italian sailors had to borrow clothing when they came ashore.

Tomasso Giacco Ello, 16-year-old survivor, said his ship was sailing fully lighted and that the crew of the German plane must have seen the Italian flag before attacking her. He added that the Amelia Lauro was unarmed, and that the plane came down to within a few yards of its deck.

"I heard a strange noise," Captain Massimiliano Lepaci said in telling of the attack. "I was asking whether our motors were working regularly or not when a saw a plane flying over our ship.

The body of the dead sailor remained aboard the burning vessel.

Returned, Dropped Bombs

"After examining her carefully the plane flew off, but 10 minutes later came back over us and threw four bombs on the vessel. We did not know at first what missiles were used; but we soon realized they were incendiary ones. They did not explode on the spot, but the deck had been almost destroyed and our radio damaged.

"The radio man was injured, and one of his comrades set up an emergency antenna and broadcast an SOS. Another Italian ship, the steamer Titania, came to us, and we were able to row to her. About one hour later explosions were heard on the wreck of the Amelia Lauro.

"The bombs were exploding. The deck was ablaze. We could do nothing, and the Titania transferred us on board the lifeboat that brought us ashore."

New 'Lawrence' Rides Herd On Arab Tribes

LONDON, March 8.—(CP)—Reuters News Agency, in a dispatch from Amman, Trans-Jordan, said last night that a new "Lawrence of Arabia" is leading a desert patrol of the Arab legion and will defeat any efforts of Germany to create an Arab revolt in the Near East.

The correspondent said that if the war moves to the Near East Britain will be in a far stronger position than the Turks were in the last war.

He wrote:

"Already there are signs that Germany is trying to emulate Lawrence by stirring the Arabs to revolt. But this is where the famous desert patrol of the Arab Legion will play its part.

"This body of men, true unspoiled Bedouins and fine warriors, recruited from the tribes of Eastern Trans-Jordan is headed by an Englishman—Clipb Pasha.

"He is known throughout the Arabian deserts as Abou Heeik—the Father of Chins—owing to a wound on the chin which he received in the last war.

"He knows more about the Bedouin tribes than any living Englishman.

"He has a reputation as a great fighter, won when he co-ordinated the Iraq anr Bedouin tribes in 1924 and personally led them into battle against marauding bands of raiders from Saudi Arabia.

"They will be our surest weapon against German agents trying to seduce with gold certain tribal elements across the border."

States Not Asked To Mediate Russo-Finn War

WASHINGTON, March 8.—(AP) —President Roosevelt said today the United States government had received no request for mediation in the Russo-Finnish war.

Beyond saying that, however, the President declined to discuss European reports that mediation efforts of the United States government might be sought.

The President told his press conference that such matters were of a nature that could not be discussed even if negotiations were going on.

To another inquiry whether Sumner Welles, who is making a fact-finding tour of Europe for Mr. Roosevelt, was participating in any Russo-Finnish negotiations, the President remarked there was nothing to be said on that.

A state department official said no request for United States mediation thus far either formally or informally had been received.

He declined to say what would be the attitude of the government if such a request arrived. The state department, it was explained, was following with greatest interest reports of mediation and peace prospects in the Finnish-Russian war, but was doing nothing more than that.

(In London, usually well-informed sources said today that the United States might be asked to mediate.)

Premier Dysart Retires In N.B. From Ill Health

FREDERICTON, March 8.—(CP) —The retirement of Premier A. A. Dysart was announced today. He will be succeeded by Attorney-General J. B. McNair. He also announced his retirement from the Legislature where he has held a seat since 1917 in Kent County.

The announcement of Mr. Dysart's retirement as Premier of New Brunswick came at the end of a two-day caucus of Liberal members-elect of the Provincial Legislature. He has been premier since 1935 and in the provincial elections last November he again led his party to victory.

In tendering his resignation to the caucus the premier said he had been reluctantly forced to his decision by insistent advice of his physicians and, as a matter of fact, had remained in office during the last year against the advice of medical counsel.

R. J. Gill, M.L.A.-elect for Northumberland and chairman of the caucus, made the announcement of the premier's retirement. Mr. Gill said the caucus unanimously regretted the premier's decision, and expressed the highest appreciation of the service he had rendered the province.

Only Key to Commission In Reserve Now Through Enlistment In RCAF

OTTAWA, March 8 (CP)—The National Defence Department announced today that under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan the only method of entry to the special reserve of the Royal Canadian Air Force for elementary flying training will be through enlistment.

Previously application could be made for a comission in the special reserve but under the present set-up all applicants who are accepted will be enlisted in the R.C.A.F. as aircraftsmen, second class.

Applications now on file for commission in the special reserve are being returned to applicants with an explanation of the situation.

Selection of applicants to take initial courses will be made by Air Force headquarters here, the department said, though this will be decentralized progressively until all selections for elementary flying training will be made by recruiting centres.

Applications for appointment to the general list of the R.C.A.F. still will be received from pilots with flying experience, but, the department said, it is not anticipated consideration will be given pilots with less than 200 hours of flying to their credit. Ordinarily commissions will not be given to applicants who have not previously held His Majesty's commission.

Special arrangements may be made from time to time, to take in a limited number of men as air-

Electric Girdle Sea Queen Wore Beats Nazi Mines—Now For All Ships

LONDON, March 8.—(CP Cable) —Great Britain has beaten Germany's magnetic mine with an electrical girdle for ships which neutralizes the trigger action of the underwater terrors.

The arrival of the steamship Queen Elizabeth at New York gave the world its first inkling of the apparatus which was evolved and perfected by British scientists after three months of intensive work.

The apparatus consists of a snake of wire around the upper decks of the ship with electric current running through it. How the current is energized and neutralizes the magnetic field of the ship is the secret of the whole device.

In effect it makes the ship non-magnetic. This destroys the effectiveness of the magnetic mine, which depends on the magnetic field of the passing vessel to fire it.

The apparatus has been installed on hundreds of ships ranging from yachts and trawlers to mighty battleships and ocean greyhounds like the Queen Elizabeth. Its effect is to turn each of them into a ship having no more magnetic effect than a wooden hulled vessel.

The principle was evolved in a naval establishment and developed by naval technicians and scientists. The navy calls it "De-Gauss equipment." The Gauss is the unit of magnetic flux.

It is the intention of the Admiralty to instal De-Gauss equipment on every British ship. It can be installed on an ordinary vessel in four days but on a ship like the Queen Elizabeth it takes two weeks.

30 Crew Afraid To Ride Liner Queen Elizabeth

NEW YORK, Mar. 8 — (AP). — Nearly 30 members of the Queen Elizabeth's crew quit the ship at Greenock, on the River Clyde, when they learned they were sailing for New York, one of those who stayed with the liner disclosed to-day.

They had signed on, said the crewman, thinking they were going to a commonplace cruise from Greenock to Southampton, about 700 miles down the British coast. They were to get "four pounds, two and 10," about $18.50.

"Some of those who got off," he continued, "were dissatisfied with the company's guarantees, and others said they had not been signed on to go to New York.

"There was a disagreement about a guarantee of their security. The commander, the chief engineer, and representatives of the British Board of Trade met all of the sailors at Greenock to discuss the differences. A guarantee of a bonus of £30 (about $133) was made.

"Despite this promise, about 30 crew members still were reluctant to continue with the voyage, so they got off. They were afraid to face the hazards. The remainder, inspired by their loyalty to the company and their country, were willing to proceed."

RAF Flutters Leaflets Over Poland, Nazis Say 11 Ships Raided In Night

LONDON, Mar. 8 — (CP). — The Royal Air Force to-day scouted German-occupied Poland for the first time since Great Britain went to war on account of the German invasion there.

The flight was part of reconnaissance and patrol operations "over wide areas of enemy territory" in the course of the night announced early to-day by the Air Ministry. It was the third consecutive night of such flights.

The communique follows:

"During the night the R.A.F. maintained their patrols and reconnaissances over wide areas of enemy territory.

"In the course of these operations our aircraft reconnoitred Western Poland and flew over the city of Posen (Poznan)."

R.A.F. bombers landed in France after dropping propaganda leaflets over Poland. It was said that only one plane was fired upon, although searchlights were encountered.

Among points in Germany proper scouted were Leipzig and a naval dockyard at Stettin.

The Air Ministry announced a German bomber was shot down today off Northern Scotland.

The raider was the second victim of the Royal Air Force off Scotland in two days and the 46th on or near the coast since the war began.

Finnish Chief Debates Chance Of Aid

British Press Urges Roosevelt Act; No Armistice Yet

OSLO, Norway, March 8—(AP).—The newspaper Tidens Tegn said today that the Finnish Government has laid the final decision of peace or continued war with Russia in the hands of Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim and that this decision depends on what possibility he sees of help from abroad.

According to the paper, Mannerheim has the alternative of striving for direct military help from Sweden on the basis practiced by outsiders in the Spanish Civil War, together with Norwegian civil labor to build defences, or asking the Western powers for help.

The last resort, the paper declared, is peace "either by compromise or violence."

London Reports.

LONDON, March 8—(AP).—Reuters News Agency said it was learned that direct discussions between Finnish and Russian representatives were taking place today, not in Stockholm but "elsewhere."

Reuters quoted Eljas Erkko, former Finnish Foreign Minister, as saying that public opinion should await events before jumping to conclusions—"The war in Finland still is going on and there has been no armistice."

The London Evening Standard said editorially that an offer by President Roosevelt to negotiate peace between Russia and Finland would "change the whole complexion of the affair."

"It might save thousands of brave Finnish lives and the independence of the nation which has won the right to freedom by the sword," it said. "We know the difficulties but we hope this call at least will be considered in Washington."

When John Marsh, Conservative candidate for Hamilton riding, spoke at the Kiwanis luncheon at the Empress Hotel today, a thrill of pride was felt by every member of the club. For not only is Mr. Marsh —a speaker famed across the entire Dominion—a Peterborough boy, but today by special request he had seated beside him at the head table the first man he ever worked for, Jim Fowler, for many years one of North Monaghan township's farmers.

When Mr. Marsh was invited to come to Peterborough he wrote to make sure that Mr. Fowler, his old employer, would be seated beside him today.

John Marsh is a son of the late Rev. Dr. Marsh of Springville and he attended Peterborough Collegiate. One of his teachers, L. J. Pettit, introduced him at today's luncheon meeting.

"The 'teen-age years of my life were spent here and I shall always feel it to be my home," declared Mr. Marsh. He recalled that Mr. Pettit and Miss Weir had prevailed upon him to make his first speech. "Finally I gave birth to it, and look where it landed me," he laughed. After graduation he went to work on Jim Fowler's farm as a hired man, he told the club.

Speaking on some aspects of Canadian life as he had found it, he told of his travels across this Dominion and from its southern borders north to the end of steel in each province. "The most interesting fellow I met was plain John Canuck. He's a grand fellow," he declared.

Reviewing the wealth of each province, the industry of their people, he declared with enthusiasm, "Oh, men, we have a wonderful country and a wonderful people." Only for the government of the province of Alberta did he have disparaging words. It is a province with a political structure that has been framed by a demogogue "who has sold the people a bill of false goods," using a pseudo religion to make plausible a political theory that threatens the entire Dominion's solidity," he said. "It is a province where two standards of honesty are being taught."

For the rest of the land, however, he had only words of high praise, particularly for the people that inhabit it. And he saw those people standing behind the British Empire in loyalty and devotion. That, he declared, is as it must be. For Great Britain is fighting for the very things that Canada too must preserve.

Liberal Rally Is Held In Keene Hall

Efforts of political opponents to discount the effect of the popularity of R. M. Glover as a candidate in this riding was producing the contrary result of emphasizing the importance of it, T. J. Carley, K.C., said on Thursday night at the Liberal rally at Keene.

Fred A. Eason was chairman, and Reeve W. A. Anderson introduced Mr. Glover, who recalled his holidays as a boy with his uncle, Louis Glover, who used to own a flour mill at Lang, then called Allandale. The other speakers were Mr. Carley and Lawrence Skeoch of the Faculty of Political Economy, University of Toronto.

Enduring popularity of any man was based on his character and his reputation in the community, Mr. Carley said. He said that there must be hundreds of persons in Peterborough, and even in some of the townships, who remembered with gratitude the personal help rendered by Rollie Glover during the early years of the depression when so many people found themselves out of work and in want for the first time in their lives.

The Peterborough Examiner, then published by Mr. Glover, was one of the few papers in the country which became a medium of community relief, Mr. Carley recalled.

"Mr. Glover did a great deal of that kind of work himself and in his own quiet way with only the thought of helping those who needed help in an emergency that suddenly became world wide," Mr. Carley stated. "Certainly there was no thought of political advantage or anything of that nature in the assistance Mr. Glover gave at that time, and there must be many people, especially in the city, who are going to remember him when they mark their ballots on election day.

That is one of the elements in a man's character that builds up popularity through the years, and it is why men and women are saying that, regardless of politics, they feel they should support Mr. Glover. And it will be an unfortunate day for this country if electors here and elsewhere ever came to disregard the character of the men they were sending to Parliament. After all, a record is always better than a promise.

Mr. Glover's record is known as a good living man, a business man, as an alderman and good citizen, and that is something which cannot be lightly set aside. It is something people look for in a candidate for Parliament."

Drew and Hepburn.

Mr. Carley referred to the accomplishment of the King Government in restoring the Canadian Air Force after it had been almost scuttled by the Bennett Government. "And then we see headlines in United States newspapers that there was mutiny in the Air Force of this country, an untrue story, which we are also told was broadcast in Germany, having only one effect of giving comfort to the enemy."

"If Colonel George Drew had been doing his duty as the Leader of the Opposition in the Legislature, he would have been criticizing Mitch Hepburn, for the Lord knows Mitch gave him enough to do. Instead of that we have seen pictures of them in our newspapers, posing together as close friends, and we all know that one thing they have in common is a hatred of Mackenzie King."

Mr. Carley said he had seen a sign in front of the National Committee Rooms, "I won't insult Conservatives by calling it the Conservative Committee Rooms," asking "Who would Hitler vote for?"

"If Hitler were over here I feel that he would find far more congenial company with Drew and Mitch than he would in the presence of Mackenzie King, who people recognize as a man of sound common sense and a reasonable steady nature that ignores the taunts of those who are imbued by personal hatred like the 'gold dust twins.'"

Leader of the Army.

Mr. Carley said that the wise appointments made by the Government in placing the best possible men in the most responsible positions was something that commended itself to every Canadian.

"It has been suggested that we should not say anything about the appointment of General McNaughton, a Conservative, as the leader of the Army. I would like to know why not. If the King Government had appointed some incompetent man to that position, would the voices of criticism been still? There would have been a great outcry in the country. But, when we have such men appointed, then why shouldn't we get some praise where praise is due? It was General McNaughton who said that there was no favoritism in this army, and if there was any wastage it was going to be wastage of shells and not of men.

"I don't want to hark back to the last war and the Ross rifles that jammed, the paper-soled boots that broke down in the mud of Salisbury Plains, or of such things as the horse that was traded for a duck and a drake and was then sold to the army. No government is perfect. All we want is fair-mindedness."

Mr. Carley declared that Hon. Dr. Manion had never received from the Conservative Party a mandate to form a National Government, that he had scuttled the party which had placed him at its head.

"Dr. Manion is talking about selecting the best brains in the country for a Cabinet. If he had the ability he claims for himself why didn't he demonstrate it when he was Minister of Railways? Under his administration the Canadian National Railways' deficit became worse and worse, and that was only one department of the Government."

Assured of Peace.

Mr. Skeoch in his address reviewed the Government's improvement of the Canadian navy and coastal defences and its plans to modernize the Militia. He also outlined the war program, and recalled that in September, 1938, after the Munich incident that the British Prime Minister, Hon. Neville Chamberlain had made the statement "peace is assured in our time."

"Hindsight is, of course, a very cheap commodity. The King Government exercised reasonable foresight, and began pushing forward its plans, within the limits of our finances."

Mr. Skeoch said that this country had been long committed to promoting peace, but the King Government had gone ahead with the building up of the Air Force for which it obtained greatly increased appropriations from Parliament. Referring to criticisms of the agreement with Great Britain for co-operation in an air program, Mr. Skeoch stated that in May, 1939, Hon. Dr. Manion found no fault in Parliament when he was informed that the proposal to train fifty pilots a year had been made by the British Government and not by the Government of Canada.

Germans Silent

COPENHAGEN, March 8 (AP)—Berlin spokesmen here declined to confirm or deny reports of possible German mediation, but it was a matter of common gossip in Berlin diplomatic circles that Berlin has been interested in Swedish efforts to end the Russian-Finnish war. Trustworthy sources said the Swedish explorer, Sven Hedin, visited Adolf Hitler several days ago with a private message from King Gustaf of Sweden asking Hitler to intervene.

Tanner, who talked by telephone with the Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet, did not indicate whether Finland's "contact" with Russia was that established yesterday between Erkko and Madame Alexandra Kollontay, Soviet minister to Sweden. Talks between the two were expected to continue today.

Telephone and other communications between Stockholm and other Scandinavian capitals continued to be severely censored in an apparent effort to permit the peace talks to continue with as little publicity as possible.

The Oslo newspaper Tidens Tegn, commenting on the talks, said the Finnish government had laid the final decision concerning continuation of the war with Baron Mannerheim. His decision, the paper said, was expected to hinge on what possibility he sees of obtaining help from abroad with which to continue the struggle.

Great significance was laid on the fact that Soviet leaders apparently had established contact with the Helsinki government despite previous assertions that they would negotiate only with the Soviet-sponsored government set up at Terijoki in the wake of the Red army.

MOSCOW, March 8.—(AP).—Evidences of Russian readiness to make peace with the Finish government at Helsinki were lacking in Moscow to-day.

The press did not mention the reports circulating throughout the world of Russian terms presented to the Finns. No information concerning any peace negotiations was available in authoritative quarters. Officials were non-committal.

The Komsommolskaya Pravda, organ of the Soviet Youth Movement, gave prominence to an article declaring that "the days of the Mannerheim-Tanner regime are counted."

The article, reprinted from the organ of the "Finnish People's Government" established with Moscow's recognition at Terijoki, in Russian-occupied Finland, said Helsinki was "doomed by the heroism and might of the Red army and the failure of foreign states to fulfil their promises of extensive aid" to Finland. It was signed by Otto Kuusinen, head of the Terijoki regime.

"It is time for the soldiers and citizens of Finland to decide whether it is worth while to spill more blood for Mannerheim and Tanner," it said. "The Finnish people want to live in peace."

brush and weeds, and across the ditches and hillocks.

With feline stealth the Highlanders wiggled along on their stomachs or bear-crawled on their hands and knees reconnoitring enemy trenches, capturing outposts, seeking information on the enemy's strength.

The enemy, of course, were men of the 48th. But they were posted secretly and it was up to the patrol to find them in the baffling blackout.

Lieut.-Colonel E. W. Haldenby is giving the 48th a heavy diet of night work and the men love it. It may sound like a glorified game of hide-and-seek, but there is competition in it and it is training that teaches a man how to keep his skin whole in combat.

"The present phase of activity on the Western Front is largely night patrols and reconnoitring," Colonel Haldenby said. "Our Canadians helped to control No Man's Land in the last war. With these night exercises we can do it again."

So essential is the need for stealth in such work that some of the Highlanders snaked only 500 yards in the two hours the exercises lasted.

Then they swung home behind their pipers to a hot meal and welcome bunks.

NEW YORK —(CP)— The New York Times said editorially today that the dramatic voyage to New York of the new super liner Queen Elizabeth "proves that the British are looking ahead to the days of peace, and the laurels of peace which must be won."

"The British were right in not leaving such a ship at the mercy of an air attack at home," the newspaper added. "Their luxury liners will have a job to do when the war is over."

Market Tolls Remain For This Year

Alderman Walter Stocker ran into a little opposition Thursday afternoon when he attended a meeting of a special committee named to deal with the market question. Alderman Stocker was not a member of the committee, but had been asked by Mayor Hamilton to sit in.

The first blast came after Alderman Stocker had taken an active part in the discussion regarding conditions at the market and spoke critically of Sanitary Inspector MacPherson.

"I'm getting fed up on this criticism of Inspector MacPherson. The boy is doing good work, but Walter won't leave him alone. We have listened to a constant barrage of criticism for several weeks now," said Alderman McIntyre.

When Alderman Stocker spoke up again a few minutes later, Alderman McIntyre rose and started to put on his coat, saying he was going to leave if the meeting was to be carried on in that manner. He was prevailed on to stay by the chairman, who said there was an item dealing with the incinerator coming up for discussion.

The meeting had been called to decide whether the market toll would be let in the usual way or whether it would be advisable to appoint a full time city employee to this work.

It was finally decided that Jim Brown would be given the tolls again this year on condition that he observe strictly a list of duties which are to be outlined in writing by the chairman of the committee. Alderman McCannan, Mayor Hamilton, Alderman Bradburn, McIntyre and McCannan all contended that the market hall, steps, lobbies and tables must be kept cleaner than has been the case in the past.

Mr. Brown is popular with the farmers, and we cannot help but be influenced by the fact that he has done pretty good work there for several years, and his tender is already in for this year.

On motion of Mayor Hamilton and Alderman McIntyre it was decided that Mr. Brown would be paid $15 to recompense him for revenue lost while the weigh scales were under repairs and this sum is in full payment of all claims to date.

Alderman Bradburn urged that the council give consideration to a plan whereby one man would look after the market and the rest room as well.

On motion of the Mayor and Ald. Bradburn it was decided to recommend that the Council study this proposal not later than October 1, 1940.

C. E. LaBranche Elected Head Humane Society

C. E. LaBranche was elected president of the Peterborough Humane Society at its annual meeting Thursday night after Fred Marshall, president for the past two years, resigned the post. Mr. Marshall's name was proposed by the nominating committee to carry on, but he declined.

Election of a successor was left until the next meeting, but during a lunch served at the end of the meeting, Mr. LaBranche's name was proposed, and he accepted the post.

A highlight of the meeting was the report of the secretary, Mrs. W. A. Young, who declared, "that preventative work still takes precedence in the society's work, entailing both investigation and follow-ups "for it is, in almost all cases, useless sto warn offenders unless a return trip is made to see instructions are complied with," he declared.

"Just so long as supposedly Christian people believe tieing a dog to a tree, in all sorts of weather, with a barrel for a kennel and snow therein for bed constitutes justice, just so long will this part of our work take most of our time and strength," she said.

"We regret to report only 69 paid memberships and of this 69, 57 were secured and collected by two members—this in a city with a population of approximately 25,000 is something we as a society cannot be proud of. We feel sure there are just as many animal lovers in Peterborough as in any other city its size." She asked that each member secure at least ten new members during the coming year.

Work at Standstill

While reporting the work of the Junior society at a standstill, Mrs. Young said that children are eager to join up, and urged the extreme importance of the training of the younger generation in animal care. "Train a child to be considerate towards animals and you have laid the foundation of, almost invariably, a splendid character," she declared.

She revealed tha the Peterborough Humane Society was the first in Canada to protest the showing of the Jesse James picture, in which cruelty to animals was alleged. Due to the protest a representative of the American Humane Association is now resident in California, and is protecting animals used in pictures, she said.

She related that many complaints have been received about the practice of companies about Peterborough using wheels in place of sleighs in making winter deliveries. All offenders were notified, but two bread companies are still using wheeled vehicles, she said, claiming that one animal dropped from exhaustion while being so employed. "The remedy," she declared, "unless we take the offenders to court, is with the housekeepers. Refuse to patronize a firm that sends a wheeled vehicle to your door in winter. One can reach offenders through their pockets if not through their hearts." She also protested the use of nose bags in feeding horses on city street. "One cannot call it humane," she said, "particularly in summer months."

She called for a boycott of gasoline stations which, she said, were still exploiting animals in the vicinity of Peterborough.

"Dog Poisoners"

"We regret that people known as 'dog poisoners' are still living in our city," Mrs. Young said. "Several owners have lost devoted companions as a result of this cruel practice. While we are in sympathy with owners of gardens said to be destroyed by dogs, we think this method of retaliating is despicable, and have tried to trace these people." She advocated, in place of poison, that garden owners use a repellant that may be purchased cheaply.

In his address to the society, President Marshall paid tribute to the work of Dr. Thomas Johnston, veteran inspector for the society, and to E. S. Martin, former treasurer, whose ill-health forced his retirement from participation in the affairs of the society. Both men had done valuable work and the society was deeply grateful, he said.

Acting Treasurer W. J. Rapsey reported that the society had receipts for the year of $623.45, and expenditures of $583.00. He regretted that the financial position was not as strong as a year ago and attributed the fact to reduced subscriptions and lowered tag day receipts.

Officers elected were: Honorary Patrons, G. A. Macdonald, Mayor James Hamilton, and G. K. Fraser; Honorary President: Col. C. H. Ackerman and Thomas E. Sargent; 1st Vice-president and Acting President, M. V. Powell; 2nd Vice-president, Mrs. E. S. Martin; Secretary, Mrs. W. A. Young; Honorary Treasurer, E. S. Martin; Treasurer, W. J. Rapsey; Press Secretary, Mrs. S. O. Shields; Calendar Secretary, Mrs. R. N. Stuart; Executive Committee, Mrs. S. C. Warne, Mrs. R. Ross, Mrs. McWilliams, Mrs. R. Abbott, Mrs. G. Helson, Mrs. M. Burnham, Mrs. M. V. Powell, Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Howden, Miss M. Collins, Miss B. Latimer, Miss E. Wood, and Messrs. James Dutton, G. A. Gillespie, George Helson, Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson, and Robert. Inspector, Dr. Thomas Johnston.

The general public is taking a greater interest in the work of the society, Dr. Thomas Johnston declared in his report. More infractions of the law are being reported and cared for, than ever before. He said that an epidemic of disease among cats is his greatest problem and that during the past two years he had examined 300 and found most to be diseased. The epidemic is now nearly stamped out, he said.

He declared that Peterborough has the best-cared-for horses he has seen, and complimented drivers for that fact.

During the year, he reported, he destroyed 279 cats and 275 dogs, examined 2,000 animals, investigated 500 complaints, and answered 3,600 telephone calls. He covered 7,000 miles by motor in the course of his duties.

Guest speaker was Rev. Dr. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's United Church, whose informal address on animals was enthusiastically received by members. He was introduced by the president, and C. E. LaBranche moved a vote of thanks, seconded by Thomas Sargent. Dr. Young told of controveries that raged in England and Ireland over vivisection and the "humane killer" in packing houses, and expressed surprise that no such controversies were noticeable in Canada. He urged the work of education by the society among the youth of the city, said that much of the cruelty practised by children could be avoided by education.

Completes Maiden Voyage In Safety

HON. J. G. GARDINER.

When a railroad harvesting special pulled out of Ontario for Western Canada 39 years ago, one of the ticket holders was a young Ontario lad called James "Jimmy" Gardiner. He was going west to make his fortune. Last month the same Ontario farm lad boarded a train for the west, but this time he went as Canada's dynamic Minister of Agriculture.

In the two generations that have passed between these train rides a volume in Canada's political life has been written by this booster of the west.

During the intervening 40 years, droughts, dust storms, grasshoppers and crop failures of all kinds failed to stop this pocket-sized enthusiast. He was eventually called Canada's miracle politician.

James Garfield Gardiner was born on a farm in Farquhar, Ont., in 1883. His education was not nearly completed when his Scottish Canadian parents were caught in the depression of 1890 and left their Ontario home for Nebraska. But five years later the family was back in the some Ontario district starting another farm.

When he was 18, the west needed young harvesters and Gardiner headed for the golden wheat fields and riches. He got a job on a farm in Southern Manitoba and for the next few years put his heart and soul in the farm work during the summer months and into schooling in the winter. He studied and taught and eventually earned a B.A. from the University of Manitoba. As successful in teaching as in politics, he was made a principal.

He quit teaching in 1914 when he was elected to the Saskatchewan Legislature. In 1922 when a Liberal government under the Hon. C. A. Dunning was elected, the portfolio of Minister of Highways was given to J. G. Gardiner. When Dominion politics lured Mr. Dunning into the Federal field, Mr. Gardiner became Prime Minister of the province. In 1929 his government was defeated but was put back into power in 1934. In that election not a single Conservative remained in the Saskatchewan House. A year later, within a few days of his 52nd birthday, he became Dominion Minister of Agriculture in the Mackenzie King Cabinet.

Mr. Gardiner has first-hand knowledge of mortgages, droughts, farm purchasing power, moratoria and credit. He has studiously refrained from actions which would hurt the credit of Saskatchewan or the west. His fiscal policy has been toward balancing the provincial budget and funding Saskatchewan's large floating debt. He has always believed that the old rules are the best rules: thrift, economy and efficiency.

UNITY

Not an Accident . . . but an Achievement

The REALITY of Canada's unity in this day of great national effort is a source of dismay to our enemy —and a factor of strength to ourselves and to our Allies . . . What Canadians should realize most fully is that their national unity does not exist through accident . . . It is the direct consequence of resourceful, determined and painstaking administration during recent years by an experienced and nationally-minded federal government . . . During the past five years the peacetime policies of the Mackenzie King Government —with respect to both domestic and external affairs—have been designed and executed with one main purpose in view—the strengthening of Canada's bonds of nationhood . . . Because those policies were sound; because they increased the measure of contentment throughout Canada; because they avoided clashes between provinces and races and creeds; because they were equally considerate of agriculture, industry and labour . . . because those policies have been truly national in scope, Canada is today putting forth a great, united, national war effort.

These are the sort of things which have contributed to unifying our nation:—

A Program of Trade Treaties—lowering Canada's tariff barriers and opening new market opportunities for citizens of every province . . . achieved by the Liberal administration in spite of the opposition of Conservatives, and the indifference of C.C.F. and Social Credit.

Development of the Trans-Canada Airways —bringing the people of East and West into overnight contact . . . created by the Mackenzie King Government from the ashes of the first airway attempt—sabotaged by the Conservatives.

Support for the Canadian National Railways System—Liberals have been steadfast in standing behind this great national enterprise of the Canadian people . . . while Conservatives have worked assiduously for destruction of the system.

A National Agricultural Policy—a new conception of federal encouragement for the farm families of every province.

Publicly Owned Central Bank—the Bank of Canada, focal point of our national financial problems, was changed to public ownership by the Mackenzie King Government . . . reversing the Conservative policy of a central bank owned by private stockholders.

Co-operative Action on Unemployment Problem—the Mackenzie King Government has co-operated willingly and continuously with the provincial governments in efforts to overcome the unemployment problem . . . the Conservative policy of denying all federal responsibility in this matter was rejected by the Liberals.

Parliament's Right to Decide on War —Mackenzie King promised the people of all Canada that the country would not be committed to war without the sanction of parliament . . . He held to that pledge honorably and steadfastly, in spite of the personal abuse which was heaped upon him and his government by hot-heads who did not represent the collective views of Canadian people.

No Prior Commitments—the King Government —wisely interpreting the wishes of the Canadian people—refused to commit this country, in advance, to a policy of fighting wars at unpredictable times, at unknown places and for undetermined causes.

The Quebec Election — when certain political opportunists in the province of Quebec attempted to disrupt Canadian unity and seriously halt our national war effort the men of the Mackenzie King Government were the ones who went in and fought to preserve national solidarity . . . The Conservative national leader remained silent during this crisis— when his voice should have rung out on behalf of national unity . . . Because the courageous action of Mackenzie King and his Quebec ministers helped the electors to keep the only true issue clearly in mind, Quebec was able to reaffirm her proud position . . . squarely and loyally and warmly behind Canada's national war effort.

FORWARD WITH MACKENZIE KING

VIEWS OF BRITAIN'S PRIME MINISTER

Appreciation of Canada's unified war effort by Mr. Chamberlain at Birmingham, February 24, 1940:

"In London we see every day members of Canadian contingents on leave from their headquarters, and when we think that these men have travelled many thousands of miles, leaving behind their parents, wives and even young children, to cast in their lot with us against the tyranny of the aggressor, we must be profoundly impressed with the moral greatness of the cause which has inspired so intense a conviction of its righteousness.

"I said just now that besides men we were receiving munitions and material from the Empire and I should like to give you an idea of the scale on which THEY and WE are working. We expect, for instance, that in the first 12 months of the war we shall be spending over $400,000,000 in Canada alone."

A GHOST CABINET WILL NOT HELP YOU

Thus Right Hon, Ernest Lapointe looks realistically on the Build-up of Myth and Fable that is paraded under the toe of "Nationalism." When courageous blows were needed to maintain national solidarity, where was the unnamed and unnameable file of spectral warriors?

A Ghost Cabinet can solve no problems. Non-existent now, it will still be non-existent in the days to come when West Peterborough's interests will require well-informed representation at Ottawa.

Hitler Should Speak Again

The liner "Queen Elizabeth," the newest Cunard-White Star creation, and sister ship of the "Queen Mary," has made its first Atlantic crossing. On June 29, 1939, official announcement was made that February 26, 1940, was the date set for the moving of the Queen Elizabeth, and that was the date on which the vessel left the Clyde for New York.

There is a good business reason for having this crack liner in New York, and no move has been made to conceal the reason. It is safer there than in the Clyde where German raiders have made several appearance. Also the John Brown shipyards on the Clyde need the space for other vessels.

We do not know if there is anything unusual regarding the voyage apart from the recent declaration by Hitler about Germany ruling the seas. We have not the least doubt that had a German raider or submarine come across the Queen Elizabeth the proud vessel might have gone to the bottom. In fact we are rather sure of it.

There was a very nice margin of what one could call plain nerve in sending that £28,750,000 liner out to sea. There were thousands who saw her depart and yet they kept their secret. There were no reports sent out telling how the maiden voyage was going. Possibly there might have been anxious days for the owners and for members of the families of the crew. But all that is known is that the Queen Elizabeth left the Clyde on February 26 and is now in New York. So it might be well for the Fuehrer to repeat his speech about Germany having control of the seas.

A Fair Explanation

The St. Thomas Times-Journal lives close to the new air school where Premier Hepburn claims there was such trouble some three weeks ago. Mr. Hepburn said censorship was applied to keep reports of the incident from reaching the public.

The Times-Journal apparently felt it was under obligation to make a statement on that point, and that statement has already been published in the Examiner. The St. Thomas paper knew there was something unusual going on because there were so many airmen walking the streets of the city. Its reports described the place as being "aswarm with them." Reporters tried to secure statements about the trouble and to some extent succeeded. It was found that the point in dispute had to do with changing the school from one shift to two, and arranging the "leaves," that is the time at which the students would be allowed to leave school.

The Times-Journal did not suppress the news, but it published the story on February 20. There was no application to the censors regarding the report, and there were no instructions from them. The course followed by the St. Thomas paper is a good example of what a sensible paper staffed by competent and trained men does with such a report. The explanation is that "Having in mind the general war censorship regulation that nothing must be printed that would aid the enemy or in any way prejudice recruiting, training or discipline of the armed forces of Canada, we endeavored while giving the public the facts, not to say anything which would conflict with these regulations. We had no communication direct or otherwise with the censors at Toronto or Ottawa either before publication or afterwards. We felt at the time, and still do, that what we published covered the situation and did not conflict with the general censorship regulations."

Three weeks afterward Mr. Hepburn comes to the front with the charge that the men walked out because they were fed-up and were receiving no training. His story is quite at variance with that used by the Times-Journal, and it is noticeable that Mr. Hepburn did not sensibly impose upon himself the spirit and terms of censorship regulations which the newspaper felt it proper to observe. If those terms apply to newspapers—and they do—they should also apply to Mr. Hepburn.

Open The Door

The Police Commission in Kitchener met in closed session and decided to ask for the resignation of four members of the force. Previously there had been a move by members of the City Council to ask for an investigation.

At the meeting of the Police Commission members of the press were asked to leave owing to the insistence of Judge Clement, who referred to the unfavorable publicity Kitchener had been receiving. His reasoning as expressed was this: "The public is not entitled to know my thoughts on these matters, only my final decisions."

Mayor Meinzinger had a different view: "Citizens are entitled to know what goes on in view of the fact that the Police Commission is spending public money."

The Magistrate, third member of the Commission, took the same view as the Judge, so out went the reporters. The four dismissed members of the force were given no opportunity to state their case or defend themselves. It is recorded they were dismissed on the recommendation of their Chief.

Holding such a meeting with the press excluded is inviting the very thing which Kitchener does not want—unfavorable publicity. When there is an undesirable situation, and apparently Kitchener has one in its police department, the best way out is to open the door and then deal with the matter. All that is said becomes public property, and the taxpayers are then enabled to follow the course of evidence which led to the ultimate decisions of the members of the Commission.

There have been so many cases of this kind that the point is hardly worth arguing. But here it is: When the meeting is closed and the press, and through the press the ratepayers themselves, are forced to stand on the outside then the way is prepared for any interpretation people care to put upon it. In the absence of facts they turn to rumors. An officer may be dismissed for good and sufficient reasons, but if the people do not know the reasons then it is so easy for the sympathetic story to make the rounds that he was "framed."

The real situation is that while the Police Commission control the police force the taxpayers are the ones who find the money to pay the bills, and the policemen are actually employees of the taxpayers, and it is an old and quite a sound principle that the man who is paying the bills should be entitled to know whether or not he is getting value for his money. If Kitchener desires to get away from what it terms "unfavorable publicity" regarding its police department, then the one—and only—way to do it is to open the doors and let the people know all about it.

They Need The Funds

What? Another "drive" for funds? Yes—and it starts on Monday. Perhaps you argue there have been too many appeals for money, but you will understand better when it is stated this drive is for the Salvation Army. It is for $10,000, and it includes local effort and war effort. It is for huts in Canada, huts in England where we now have our own soldiers and for huts in France, where the Army already has 100 in operation serving troops in that country.

A good many people who are not actively identified with the Salvation Army are always ready to dig down for their funds. They do so many times when there is no "drive" on because they feel this organization knows how to spend money where money is needed and in a way which gives full value.

The Army possesses the machinery or the plant and equipment—call it what you will—to come to the rescue of people in distress, and they are doing that work every day in the year. That's what entitles them to a careful hearing and a ready response when they put on a drive for funds.

What Germany Is Doing

Often enough we hear it said that something or other can wait until after the war. That view means that the war is all important, and that is a fact. But fighting a war is not all done at the front because the strength at the front can well depend on the strength at home.

Right now Germany is going ahead as usual with its annual Leipzig spring fair, where in fourteen large buildings all manner of manufactured goods are on display, and where Germany is this year selling propoganda as well as merchandise.

They have their agents on hand to explain to all visitors that there is no danger of non-delivery when ordering German goods. They impress upon them all that it will be only a matter of time before Germany has won the war.

Most of the visitors and prospective customers are from European countries from which there is little trouble entering Germany. It is stated in a despatch from Leipzig that not one United States visitor has been registered so far.

There is little satisfaction for the German people themselves to go to the fair. They have been foregoing cameras, machines, soap, cloth, etc., but the foreigner who desires to place an order can have all he desires and it is possible to make arrangements to pay in cash or barter.

The idea is plain enough. Germany wants to sell her manufactured goods abroad so that foreign credit may accrue. She will accept payment in butter, oil, scrap metal or anything which she needs. Germany realizes she must conserve her strength at home through keeping up her home business. It's plain truth—the strength of a nation at home is closely related to its strength at the battle front.

Italy And Her Coal

Any prediction based on what is taking place in the war zone is subject to revision, but it does not look as though there were going to be serious trouble over Britain having put an embargo on coal going from Germany to Italy. Italy understood what it was all about as well as any other nation. Britain is at war with Germany and has placed a two-way blockade against that nation. Britain will seize anything it can by way of imports and do exactly the same thing to exports.

Italy knows that all countries are in the same position regarding trading with Germany. If Britain can step in—and she generally does—and intercept the cargo that is exactly what will be done. There are no exceptions and no exception will be made in the case of Italy.

Italy protested loudly and well, and that was right enough. Britain does not desire Italy to be without coal, something which that nation always has to import, but Britain is not going to stand aside and see Germany exporting coal. Britain will supply Italy with all the coal needed and take payment in such things as Italy can supply to Britain.

Italy is in the strange position of being allied with Germany for years, although it may be a fact that Italian people themselves did not know what strange company they were keeping. Mussolini will have to protest sufficiently so that he can blame Britain for the whole thing. Britain makes no bones about what is taking place. The patrol seizes the coal ships as fas as they are out in open water on their way to Italy. Don't be surprised if before the controversy is over the Welsh coal miners are digging out coal to be shipped to Mussolini.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There was a strike of choir members in a church at Kingston, thus striking something which sounded like a sour note.

Barney Ewell broke the track record when running at State College, Pa. His explanation was that his feet were so sore he ran as fast as he could to get the thing over.

Italian steamer Mira was bombed and raked by machine gun fire by the Germans when passing through the North Sea. That must hvae been on a day when the Rome-Berlin axis was not working.

Two men were arrested in Toronto for having entered a Baptist church to rob the safe in which there was no money. If they had been attending the church they might have known a good deal more about how the finances stood.

London, Ont., youth stole a violin and sold it for $1 and he was given three months in a Reformatory. Two other men, brothers, stole scrap metal and they drew one month in jail. There must be some artistic offence in stealing a violin which most people have not previously understood.

New words come to the front. The government announces there is now in operation a simple enough plan which determines the "hatchability" of eggs. Seems to us that in former years we used to let the old hen work away on them for three weeks and then if she got nothing we'd come to the conclusion that either the hen or the eggs were no good.

CHORES

¶ When I was but a little man, I used to take the coal oil can, and journey to the store; I swung it as I went along, and hummed perhaps a simple song, and did it after four.

¶ They'd fill the coal oil can for me, and hand it careful as could be, so oil would not come out; the grocer had a safety trick, for he would always pause to stick a spud upon the spout.

¶ When I had finished up my tramp, why then we had to fill each lamp, an oily sort of trick; and then we'd take the scissors too, and try to nip a line right true, when we would trim the wick.

¶ The parlor lamp was gay indeed, gave all the light that one could need, a dignified affair; and when you went to tend the thing, as cautious as most anything, you stood upon a chair.

¶ They had to clean the chimneys too, and have them shining bright as new, it needed touch quite deft; when that was done I'd lift the can, I'd seen just how it ran and ran, there wouldn't be much left.

¶ And when come time to go to bed, I always saw that chore ahead, no matter what my plan; I knew that it would not be long, before I heard again the song—to fill the coal oil can.

Refused To Use English When Welles Called

AT 9:45 on the morning of March 1, Sumner Welles, United States Under-Secretary of State, stepped off a train in the Anhalt Station at Berlin. Six months earlier, almost to the hour, Hitler had announced the invasion of Poland and unleashed a war. Now as President Roosevelt's special emissary drove down the Wilhelmstrasse on the way to the Adlon Hotel, air-raid sirens suddenly began to wail.

The alarm was only for practice, but appropriate nevertheless: according to all the official accounts, Welles' mission was to listen to just such sound-offs from statesmen as well a war device—in Rome, Berlin, Paris, and London.

Welles had started his official talks three days earlier in Rome. The first conference was with Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's Foreign Minister and son-in-law. Ciano spoke in fluent English. Later the same day the Under-Secretary had an interview with the Duce at the Palazzo Venezia. (The Fascist dictator once studied English but never spoke it well and lately has grown rusty. On this occasion the two might have conversed in French, but Mussolini cagily insisted on sticking to Italian, with Ciano acting as interpreter.)

Rome immediately was flooded with rumors that Germany, backed by Italy, would use Welles' visit to launch a new peace offensive in which it would offer to restore at least nominal independence to Poland and Czecho-Slovakia if the Allies would end the war, admit the Reich's hegemony in Central Europe, and restore its colonies.

From Welles, who is a model of tacituirnity, correspondents received no satisfaction. He merely said that the conversations had been "very helpful." Next day the Under-Secretary conferred impartially with the British, French, and German Ambassadors. Then a new tide of rumors rolled in when he announced that he would return to Italy after the completion of his tour and that he would next visit Germany but take a roundabout way of getting there by going through Switzerland. Corresapondents finally ferreted out the reason for this: Welles' valet is an Englishman named Riggs who would have been subject to internment in the Reich and consequently stayed behind, with most of the baggage, at Berne.

Welles traveled to Switzerland in the private car of Count Ciano. The Swiss also were willing to offer a private car, provided the Germans would promise to send it back, as much of their rolling stock has crossed the border not to return. The Reich made no promises, so when the American left Switzerland it was in a first-class sleeper provided by Germany, with an official photographer attached. The train's diner was on a strictly non-ration basis with plenty of soups, chicken, wine, beer and coffee.

BUT the atmosphere in Germany was the atmosphere of war. All week the German papers had thundered denials of the stories in Rome that the Fuhrer would propose some peace moves to Welles. And the Under-Secretary had been in Berlin only a few hours when he heard this view even more forcefully explained by Ribbentrop.

Unlike Mussolini, Ribbentrop has long spoken excellent English. But ever since the outbreak of war he has refused to use either French or English, so again Welles had the experience of talking through an interpreter with a man with whom he might have spoken fluently. Consequently the two-and-a-hour interview with Ribbentrop really meant the waste of half that time.

Berlin correspondents could squeeze nothing from Welles but a statement that the conversation was "very interesting." But DNB, the official German news agency, boosted it into headlines all over the world. It issued a purported summary of the conversations which revealed that Ribbentrop had given the most complete and uncompromising exposition of German aims on record.

These boiled down to: (1) "the final security of the German Lebensraum," a phrase which was translated for Welles' benefit to mean a Nazi Monroe Doctrine for Central Europe; (2) "freedom of the seas," which was interpreted to mean the destruction of British sea power and the dismantling of bases like Gibraltar, Malta, and Singapore; (3) return of prewar German colonies; (4) after all this, limitation of armaments. If the Allies didn't accept these conditions, DNB threatened that the Reich would unleash an attack that "will place in the shade all previous ideas of military penetration power."

Next day Welles was received by Hitler himself. Death's Head Guards saluted the envoy as he entered the Chancellery. Hitler not only pounded home Ribbentrop's points but also reputedly told Welles that he did not consider the United States truly neutral.

In London and Paris the arrival of Welles was awaited this week with the diffidence due a man laden with a bouquet of dynamite. But despite a widely proclaimed unwillingness of the Allies to talk peace except on their own terms, one of the most curious feelers of the war popped up in London. It came from the Marquess of Tavistock, a thin, untidy man with a large nose and a small head, known as "Britain's richest crank." He formerly was connected with the Link, a pro-German organization, and now heads its successor, the British Council for Christian Settlement in Europe. This time he approached Foreign Secretary Halifax with a peace plan, similar to those circulated in Rome, and said that it came from the German Legation in Dublin. Next day the Dublin Legation denied the whole story. Halifax laughed at it.

• British Are Frank And It Pays

THE British habitually are frank with themselves when they get into a jam. That is one of the reasons why they so often come out on top at the end.

So there is nothing surprising about the plain statements from Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Lloyd George about the need for raising all the foodstuffs possible as long as the war is on, and then conserving to the limit all that is raised.

The problem of getting something to eat while the dispute with the Nazis lasts is, they agree, quite a sizable one.

Indeed, Mr. Lloyd says in effect that things are more acute than they were in 1918 when the British had a three-week supply of grain between them and hunger.

In many countries, probably in most countries, statesmen would hesitate a long time before making statements of this sort everybody at home and abroad to hear.

In Nazi-land, for example, bad news which cannot be hidden is camouflaged and dressed up in pretty phrases, and where it can be concealed every effort of censorship is applied.

But that is neither necessary nor wise in Great Britain, and it would not be necessary in the United States, because in these countries people, except under the New Deal regime in this country, have been taught from childhood on that the thing to do is to learn to "take it," and face difficulties as they are and lick them.

For in these countries, and their like, government and the land belong to the people. The first is their servant, the second is their property.

And naturally they take a view of things quite unlike the view people take in countries where the government is their master and the land belongs to that master, not to them. —Detroit Free Press.

• Stranglehold Talk Is Nonsense

HERR VON RIBBENTROP is reported to have to' Mr. Sumner Welles yesterday that Germany is not prepared to consider peace unless and until Great Britain's "stranglehold on the economic life of the world" is broken. Of what does this "strangehold" consist? If Herr von Ribbentrop chooses to describe it as sea power that enables Britain in time of war to obtain essential supplies for herself and to deny those supplies to her Continental enemies, then he is defining for Germany a war aim which can only be achieved with the destruction of the British fleet. But if he means that in normal times of peace Britain is hogging the good things of the earth—its reserves of oil and minerals and crops—to the detriment of other nations, then he is talking nonsense.

For the plain fact is that in times of peace Britain's reserves of all these things—British oil and British rubber, British sugar and British copper—are available to the merchants of every nation at precisely the same price that is paid by Englishmen themselves. There is not one price for tin at Singapore for British manufacturers and another price for German manufacturers. Any German—any Swiss, any Russian, any Scandinavian—can and does buy British raw materials in the world market at the world price. Moreover, British capital with which to develop the resources of other countries can likewise be purchased at prices which make no discrimination between nations as such. For example: in the post-war years a great many millions of pounds of sterling of British capital went into Germany to help rebuild that country. And there much of it was trapped.

It is true, of course, that merchants of other nations—Germans, Danes, Greeks, Japanese—must have British exchange if they are to purchase British products, and this means that they must sell goods of their own abroad. It is also true that in this respect Germany has also suffered (along with all other nations) from the rising tide of economic nationalism in the post-war years and the multiplication of high tariffs. But what have Herr von Ribbentrop and his Fuehrer done to remedy this situation from Germany's point of view? They have aggravated the very problem that was chiefly responsible for Germany's economic trouble by taking that country into a deliberately planned "autarchy" which isolated it still further from the paths of international commerce. They have shaken the confidence of foreign countries, and of the foreign markets on which their trade was dependent, with their endless threats of war. And they have governed their own country with such scorn for the standards of civilized conduct that sentiment everywhere has turned against the German nation, with a still further loss of markets. When Herr von Ribbentrop talks of "strangleholds" let him not forget that Hitler has strangled the goodwill of most of the world.

RAW MATERIALS

GERMANS and pro-Germans have rent the air with their cries that a hostile world, led by Great Britain and France, has denied Germany access to raw materials. The truth is that for many years past there have been superfluous stocks of almost all foodstuffs and raw materials raised in the tropics and sub-tropics, and that primary producers of all nationalities have been offering their goods unavailingly at far less than the cost of production.

Other powers, no less than Germany, have been faced with the need to purchase foreign currency, for even the British and French Empires and the United States have to buy vast quantities of goods from outside sources each year. The United States, for instance, takes a heavy annual tribute from Great Britain for cotton, tobacco and petrol; the Argentine is our largest supplier of beef and great furnisher of wheat and maize; the Dutch East Indies have a virtual monopoly of the sale of quinine, so necessary throughout our far-flung Empire; China is almost our only source of supply of soya beans.—National Review, London.

ALASKA HIGHWAY

STRANGELY enough, in view of the fact that no money is in sight for the project, the Alaska highway has been receiving a good deal of attention in the past few days. Just why this sudden fanning of interest should take place is difficult to understand. If the Dominion is called on to finance the major portion of the highway, it may be taken for granted that it will postpone such an expenditure until after the war. The cost has been estimated at from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000. The only real justification for the road lies in its potential value as a military highway linking an outpost of the United States with the parent country. Yet it has been denied in Washington that the U.S. War Department is interested.—Edmonton Journal.

TWENTY CENT WHEAT

DR. MANION shouldn't over-emphasize the Conservative wheat marketing record from 1930 to 1935 while he was a member of the Government. During the winter of 1932-33 wheat sold as low as 20 cents for No. 1 at South Alberta primary shipping points, and the average for the year was only 35 cents to South Alberta farmers—while Australian farmers, not hampered by Prime Minister Bennett's "sound money" were getting 65 cents a bushel.

As for telling Western wheat growers that John Bull should be paying them $1.50 per bushel for wheat today, Dr. Manion shouldn't be so anxious to reduce their loyalty to a dollar value. Farmers want a fair price for their wheat, which they are in a good way to get, if they are not out to gouge John Bull when he's fighting for his life. — Lethbridge Herald.

SWISS UNDERSTAND

IT IS EASY to understand why Switzerland should send $225,000 and an important medical mission to help Finland. The Swiss appreciate that any of these days they may find themselves in the same box as the Finns. If the Germans get the idea they can outflank the French Maginot Line by a sweep through Switzerland, the Nazis won't bother about neutrality laws. They will just invade Switzerland without hesitation. Then, the Swiss would be in the same boat as the Finns are today.—Windsor Star.

Anti-Mine Cable About Sea Queen Keeps U.S. Naval Experts Guessing

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—The mystery of the anti-mine cable girdle which encircles the Queen Elizabeth and which may be Great Britain's answer to magnetic mines intrigued naval experts today.

The Cunard White Star Line, owner of the $28,750,000, 85,000-ton vessel, the world's newest and largest, made it clear that the device is an admiralty secret.

Line officials would say nothing except that it is called the "electrical de gausse" and is named after the Swedish scientist who pioneered its design.

Captain J. C. Townley, who brought the world's largest ship through an historic maiden dash to a safe berth alongside two other "war refugees"—the Cunard's Queen Mary and the French Line's Normandie—would not discuss the device except to say, "I've known about it only five days."

Asked whether it prevented the explosion of any mines, he commented dryly, "you never know whether you've passed over a mine—unless it goes off."

Magnetic mines have been sown in British coastal waters by German airplanes and submarines. These mines, unlike the usual anchored type, are dropped free and sink to the bottom, and thus must be laid in fairly-shallow coastal zones to be effective. They are detonated when the steel hull of a ship actuates a magnetic plunger within the mine.

Strung Below Deck Windows

The girdle of 10 to 12 heavily-insulated cables on the Queen Elizabeth are strung like metal fixtures riveted into the plates just below the promenade deck windows.

One naval expert expressed belief the cables set up a field which neutralizes the magnetic mechanism in mines. Thus, a mine attracted to the steel hull would be neutralized or repelled by the cable circuit.

He also believed the device would be effective against more recently-developed mines which contain a pendulum set into motion against internal detonators by a steel hull.

Another observer ventured the opinion that the cables form a loop antennae for the transmission of powerful long-wave radio beams sufficient to explode mines.

The Cunard Line, in a statement explaining the ordering of the ship to New York harbor, said in part: "In view of existing circumstances, it was decided that the ship should proceed to New York, which she did, leaving last Saturday and arriving yesterday after an uneventful voyage at moderate speed.

"Her interior accommodations are not wholly complete, and no plans have been made for the vessel beyond tieing her up at pier 90 with the Queen Mary."

One of the 378 crew members, however, disclosed that "20 marine engineers and naval architects" came over on the ship. That gave rise to speculation that the ship might be completed while in her berth here.

Soil Conditions Discussed At Ennismore

ENNISMORE, March 8—(ENS).—Ennismore was fortunate in being among the centres chosen in the County of Peterborough where farmers' meetings were held with the purpose of discussing questions of vital interest to farmers under present day conditions.

On Tuesday afternoon in the parish hall an appreciative audience gathered much information from the two speakers who addressed them, F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative of Peterborough County, and R. S. McKercher, Seaforth.

Soil and crop improvement was a subject which brought up for discussion such matters as fertilizers as well as the proper and most profitable seed grain to be sown. The second subject to be discussed was that of Swine Diseases and their Prevention." Much valuable information as to the bacon situation at the present time was available to the farmers who were privileged to question the speakers on any problems pertaining to farm interests.

Frequent Visitor

The death of the late John McColl of Cobourg, who died recently at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. F. Galvin, Peterborough, brought forth expressions of regret from his many former Ennismore friends. During the years that Monsignor McColl, now of Lindsay, was parish priest of Ennismore his brother was a frequent visitor here and it was during these years that the late Mr. McColl became so widely known throughout this community. Sincere sympathy is expressed to the deceased's immediate family, and also to his surviving brothers and sisters who were all well-known to many here.

Political Rally

The first local political meeting of the present election campaign was that held in the parish hall on Friday evening by the National Conservative candidate of the riding, Gordon K. Fraser.

Practically a full house listened to addresses by three speakers, and as if to break the monotony and bore of an all-political evening the addresses were interluded by motion pictures in which were screened the scuttling of the great Graf Spee as well as some interesting news reels.

The first speaker to take the platform was E. A. Peck, K.C., of Peterborough, a former M.P., who incidentally is the solicitor of this municipality where he is widely and favorably known.

John Corkery referred to the present as a time of national crisis, of national emergency, when a national government such as that offered by Dr. Manion and not the party government of Ht. Hon. Mackenzie King should rule Canada.

The final speaker of the evening was the candidate himself. "Consider the policies of the two parties rather than the candidates," said Mr. Fraser. "I have only the kindliest feelings towards my opponent, Mr. Glover. I like him and I hope he likes me." The speaker cited many instances of weakness in the King administration such as its lack in preparedness for war despite the enormous sums of money which had been voted for defence purposes.

In closing his address the candidate made mention of the fact that in the last Federal election the Conservative candidate received eight votes in Ennismore. "I want just as many," remarked Mr. Fraser, "seven won't do. Give me at least eight and if I get more I will be more than delighted."

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Sports Program Is Staged At Armouries

Peterborough and Lindsay soldiers and their friends were entertained last night at the local armouries when an enjoyable sports program was staged between athletes of the two towns. About 500 men made the trip from Lindsay by bus and private cars. Lt.-Col. H. H. Brown, O.C. of the Battery, was on hand with Lt. Kennedy in charge of sports, and a number of the staff present. Lt.-Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne and his staff of this city also attended.

The program was arranged through G H. Roper of the Y.M.C.A. as a return visit Capt. Doug Loomis was in charge of arrangements at the Armouries, and Charles Quinlan lined up the boxers. There was a basketball game played at the Collegiate, by courtesy of the School Board, with St. Paul's having a 35-10 margin over the 45th Battery. Following the program, the Battery and contestants had refreshments and a swim at the 'Y.'

Fine Mitt Bouts.

Five boxing bouts, a wrestling exhibition, and a display of weight-lifting all provided entertainment for the assembly. Fred Williams of Peterborough won the wrestling with a fall in eight minutes over Harry Stearns of the Battery, with Gene Hurtubise as referee. They scaled 165 pounds each. The "Y" body-building group of Stan McBride, Cliff McInroy, Jim Hardy and Bill McEwen, demonstrated various exercises, weight-lifting and drew applause. They showed the standard Olympic lifts.

In boxing, Maurice Coderre of this city at 128 pounds held Jim Nicholson to a draw, after the latter had previously defeated Coderre. At 145 pounds, Bill Joiner decisioned Harry Wright of Lindsay. Jack O'Neill, going 160, of Peterborough, won a technical knockout over Basil Reid. Harry Low of Peterborough, 150, won on points from Frenchy Bishop. In a rousing 170-pound battle, Dutch McIlmoyle of this city and Ev. Jones fought to a draw, Jones being cut up and Dutch tiring at the end

Soldier Jones of Peterborough and Sgt.-Major Smith of the Battery were referees, with Archie Menzies and H. Fraser judges, Al Clark announcer, and H. Gosse timer.

Remember When—

For striking Red Horner, Toronto defenceman, on the head with a hockey stick during a match at Toronto, Paul Runge, Maroon forward, was fined $50 and suspended from the National Hockey League for two games, two years ago today. In imposing the penalty President Frank Calder said Runge's previous good record had been taken into consideration.

Hastings Club Wins 12 Games

HASTINGS, March 8.—(ENS)—In a friendly return series of badminton games in the town hall Wednesday evening, Marmora players were defeated 12 games to 6. Hastings ladies excelled in the tourney by taking five games against none for the visiting Marmoro club. In the mixed doubles, Hastings won 5 to 4 and the men's doubles saw a tie with two games to each club. It appears the Hastings Amazons are more proficient, to quite an extent, than are the men of the Hastings club. In several tourneys here this winter, the local girls always won more games than the men.

Following the tournament, a refreshing lunch was served in the council chambers. Bob Scott of Marmora moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Hastings club for the enjoyable evening the visiting club had taken part in and he extended an invitation to the Hastings club to come to Marmora, when they should decide, in view of the fact the town hall here will be under repair for the next three weeks. Mrs. C. M. Baker, president of the Hastings club, replied accordingly. Earl Darling of Hastings was pianist for a brief dance in the hall after lunch. Results:

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Down in Basketball Dell—otherwise the Y.W. on Simcoe St.—tonight, the damsels will hold forth in grand and glorious manner. Two Ladies' Loop scheduled fixtures, plus a Ladies' Ontario Basketball Assoc. playdown tilt betwixt our Orfuns and Belleville. Now the belles of Bella Villa, though trounced the last start, have class. They're tall, buxom gals with plenty of oomph, not to say swish. They'll give the classy local lasses a lively p.m., starting at nine o'clock. Before that, Quaker Aces meet Quaker Debs at seven, and Westclox tackles "Y" Gym at eight. All three tussles should be good, and the public is invited. With no O.H.A. game here tonight, the girls' cage contests should draw well.

* * * * * *

For puck fans, there is a double-header this e'en at the Rue Brock, the two Industrial League sudden-death semi-final frays. Quaker Oats collides with Outboard Marines at eight, and Westclox mixes with the Canada Packers at nine. Losers in each game are ge-finished for this semester, whilst the victors meet next week for the league title. With so much at stake, the puckists will be working their heads off like a political campaign manager as The Big Day approaches—and folks can bank on seeing two tight and exciting struggles. At low admish, this twin bill play-off ought to bring a big bunch through the portals.

Valley Of Thumps

In ye olde Thump Valley Loop—where a patch on the pan is as common among puckists as lipstick among collitch colleens—the semi-final brawls are now on. It's Norwood Hornets vs. Madoc in one bracket, with the Hornets practically a cinch, and Campbellford vs. Tweed in the other setup. With Campbellford just about a sure thing. Hornets had a game already and go to Madoc Friday, third if necessary being in Kemptville come Monday. There'll be blood on the moon ere the Campbellford-Norwood serial is o'er, mes hearties.

Petes pulled out shortly after noon today via taxi for Kitchener and their third O.H.A. round-robin playoff. Final result will be wired back after the game. Owen Sound Trappers will be here Monday eve and ducats, both reserved and rush, go on sale tomorrow. It's now a five-club series, and should prove plenty interesting—though we may not see many more melees here, if the ice goes. The Trappers lost an exhibition tilt to the locals some time ago on Peterborough ice, but they had several pretty fair excuses for their showing. Claimed their regular goalie was in the hospital that night, that they had played a tough game the previous evening, that they were tired after the long haul here, and also that the smaller rink bothered 'em. Well, we'll see this playoff series.

Incos Quit Bumping

Kitchener scribe, describing the Greenshirts' soft win in Port Colborne, said the Incos held their own for a period when they were bumping the K's hard at defence, but when they eased up in stiff checking later, the fast-stepping Greenshirts waltzed in close regularly to score. He adds: "When Peterborough invade Kitchener Friday for their second clash of the round-robin, they're likely to find the opposition a good deal stronger than they did last Friday when they met and defeated the Shirts in Peterborough by a 5-2 score. Greenshirts hit their stride at Port Colborne, displaying the form that enabled them to make a walkaway of the group schedule. It was the second straight reverse for Incos, who also were victims of a setback at the hands of the unbeaten Petes."

An enjoyable banquet was held last gloaming at King Edward School for a trio of victorious teams. The school copped soccer honors last fall and puck honors this winter in the School Leagues, and their Royals won the midget title recently in the Southend Hockey League . A notable athletic showing, with much credit for it going to Don Crawford. Among those at the spread, besides the boys, were K. S. Wightman, inspector; F. H. Dearborn, principal; Father Maloney, of the Sacred Heart Church; Alex Kay, donor of the soccer cup; Stroyan Leith, prexy of the local soccer association; and others. A nice affair.

Comes The Finish

C.G.E. Shop Hockey League comes to a conclusion tomorrow aft in the Brock Avenoo. Two final playoffs are billed and admission is as free as the wind. Switchgears tangle with the Wire Dept. at 1.30 in the return tilt of their home-and-home senior finals, with Switchgears toting a five-goal lead into this number. At 2.30, the junior final is on betwixt Tool Room and the Machine Shop Bees, the former having a three-goal edge on the serial to date. Some right lively hockey may be expected in both these jousts as the clubs, studded with O.H.A. stars, battle to the finish of their season.

Soldiers and their friends, some 300, of Lindsay and this city enjoyed an excellent sports program at the Armouries last p.m. It was arranged by the "Y", with co-operation of the officers here and of the Lindsay 45th Battery, with the School Board loaning the P.C.I. gym for a cage game. Weight-lifting and rasslin' were popular, but the boxers really proved the big attraction. In better shape than in their previous clash, the Peterborough pugilists made a real showing. Maurice Coderre held Jim Nicholson to a draw, Bill Joiner outpointed Harry Wright, Jack O'Neill gained a technical kayo over Baz Reid, Harry Low won on points from Frenchy Bishop, and Dutch McIlmoyle and Ev. Jones fought to a thumping draw. A swelegant card all around. Results in elsewhere.

Bowling League Completes Third Section

In a night when queer things happened the City League completed the third section of its season's schedule at Duffus Alleys last night.

Gordon's, with Jack Playford contributing 894 to a 3783 team total, took four points from Capital Grill. When Bill Burford counted 841 with a 390 single Grants tied Grafton's 2 points each. Turk Walton's 804 put Jay's back in a second place tie with Duffus when they took the Lock Co. team for 3 points while the Duffus squad were dropping a 3 to 1 decision to C.G.E.

During the evening Old Lady Luck turned thumbs down on Lefty Kearns, Harold Freeman, Stan Adamson, C. Richardson and Bill Tugby, while Jack Playford was running wild in both C.G.E. and City leagues. Scores:

Falkirk, Rangers Up Against Gruelling Test

LONDON, March 8 (CP Cable)—Sixteen Scottish Soccer clubs meet Saturday in the second round for the Scottish wartime cup. The games stand out on a card that finds most of England's teams engaged in regional group fixtures.

Leaders in the east and west Scottish regional groups, Falkirk and Rangers face a gruelling cup test on the former's ground. With Falkirk particularly strong on the attack and the light blues boasting an airtight defence, the advantage of home ground may prove a deciding factor.

The cup contests will be played on a sudden-death basis. First-round games were decided in two-game, home-and-home series with goals counting on the round.

Hearts tackle Raith Rovers, conquerors of the famous Celts, at Tynecastle Park and in other hard battles St. Mirren play at Hamilton and Dunfermline at Clyde. Dunfermline drew a bye in the opening round.

Hotspurs Favored

The new competitions for London and Southern clubs present attractive fixture lists. Tottenham Hotspurs, leaders in South "C" clash with Brentford at White Hart Lane and are favored to retain their place at the top of the standing.

Crystal Palace, out in front with a two-point advantage in South 'D' is away to Watford, its closest competitor.

Another match between championship contenders is scheduled for Chesterfield, where Sheffield United provide the opposition. The teams are locked at the top of the East Midlands group with 14 points each. Preston North End may break into a clear lead in the north-west. The squad has a home tilt with Carlisle, tail-ender in the league, while Bury, at present sharing top berth with Preston, goes to Burnley.

Stoke City's 3-1 victory over Wrexham last week-end put the team on top of the western section and it should encounter little difficulty against New Brighton tomorrow.

Kilmarnock vs. Albion Rovers.
Dumbarton vs. Airdrieonians.
Hamilton Academicals vs. St. Mirren.
Hearts vs. Raith Rovers.
Falkirk vs. Rangers.
Clyde vs. Dunfermline.
Dundee Un. vs. Third Lanark.
Morton vs Motherwell.

King Edward Boys Tendered Banquet

A banquet was tendered in the King Edward School Auditorium, last night to the members of the school hockey and soccer teams, also the Royal hockey aggregation of the Southend Midget League, composed of boys belonging to the school, with the exception of three, who were present to celebrate the occasion on winning the three trophies. The purveying was under the supervision of the ladies of the Home and School Association.

F. H. Dearborn, principal of the school, was chairman and introduced the guests and speakers. Alex. C. Kay, well-known umpire and bird lecturer congratulated the soccer team on winning the cup that he had presented to the school athletic association 17 years ago. J. Dugan, accepted the trophy on behalf of his team-mates and finished his reply by expressing the opinion that they surely had "learned to play the game" in life.

Rev. Father Maloney, of Sacred Heart church, spoke of the excellent co-operation and good fellowship existing between the two schools thereby bringing out the superb harmony in athletics in the south-end district during his 15 years of association. Captain J. Anderson, accepting custody of the silverware on behalf of his team.

The principal speaker, K. S. Wightman, school inspector, congratulated the various teams on their success but emphasized that good sportsmanship must be carried into the home as well as the field of sport also, concluding his advice with an appropriate thought that co-operation was essential in business while travelling through life.

Other speakers were Vice-principal Don. T. Crawford, David Buchan, well-known referee and Stroyan Leith, president of the Soccer Association.

ALF PIKE
Rangers

(By Central Press Canadian)

Alf Pike

Last October, while the major league hockey teams were in training, Lester Patrick announced that there would be but two changes in the Ranger team that finished a bang-up second to Boston Bruins in 1938-39. Cecil Dillon had been traded to Detroit and Larry Molyneaux sent to the minors, and replacing them were Kilby Macdonald and Alf Pike, both recruits from the Ranger farm system. The two newcomers have fitted smoothly into the squad. Pike's role being that of utility player, usually filling in at centre or left wing. Previous to entering the National league he had but 11 games experience as a pro, those at the end of the 1938-39 season when he moved up from the Rovers to Philadelphia Ramblers in the Int.-Am. loop. The jump to the top team in the R-R-R-R system came as a wedding gift to Pike, who was married a few days after the announcement of his promotion was made. He's a good-sized player, standing six feet and weighing around 185 pounds. Winnipeg was his birthplace (22 years ago) and the scenes of his first hockey endeavors. He played through the usual city leagues and then spent two seasons with the famed Monarchs, adding something to that fame himself, as in his second year he played a vital part in his team's capture of he Memorial Cup. Thence to New York Rovers and so on.

Jack Playford's 973 High Score For City

The bowling addicts who sit and talk about bowling feats and tough luck games can now add Jack Playfords name to the list, and gossip about the pin that wouldn't go down. Rolling his first game for Production No. 2 team in the C.G.E. Men's Shop League last night at Duffus Alleys Playford had marked up eight straight strikes. In the ninth frame his first ball was a seemingly perfect hit but the stubborn 5-pin refused to go over. He took it out in his next try for a spare and then went on in the tenth to strike out for a 415 game. His brilliant effort beat George Robertson's 412 for high game in Duffus Academy this year and the 973 total he finished with smashed Bill Masters 957 rolled on the K. of C. Alleys a couple of months ago.

The good scores included: J. Playford 973 (415), F. Jones 722, T. Martin 670, V. Shaughnessy 643, W. Carter 640, C. A. Lister 622, A. Ferguson 620, A. Sands 611, C. Baker 607, A. Mattucci 606 (317), A. Sanderson 606.

Famous Golfer Comes Here From Toronto

The Kawartha Golf and Country Club has engaged the services of Lex Robson, one of Canada's top-ranking golfers, as professional for the 1940 season.

He comes from the Lakeview Golf Club in Toronto, where he has been for the last 3 years; prior to this he was with the Islington Golf Club for 7 years.

The directors of the club feel fortunate in securing his services and are confident that his engagement as club professional will be popular with the members.

Robson's ability as a golfer and teacher of the game is well-known. He has achieved the distinction of always being at the top of competitions he engages in, while some of his pupils have become champions themselves.

Robson's Record.

His record in the last few years is one which is most outstanding. He captured the Canadian Professionals' Association championship and was runner-up once. He won the Ontario open championship and has been runner-up three times. In the Canadian open championship he has been runner-up and first Canadian professional in this international event three times.

He has been runner-up in the Quebec open and has won the Miller trophy six times in 1931, '32, '34, '35, '36 and '39.

Mr. and Mrs. Robson take up residence in Peterborough at the end of the month, Mr. Robson commencing his duties at the club on April 15.

MANITOBA RINK WINS BRIER TROPHY WITH UNBEATEN RECORD

Wood Captures Trophy For Second Time

WINNIPEG, Mar. 8 — (CP). — Howard Wood, who reconsidered a decision to retire from major competition this year at insistence of his 21-year-old son, ranks to-day with the immortals of Canadian curling — two-time winner of the Macdonald's Brier Tankard.

Wood, who won the Brier from Manitoba in 1930 and played third for Jimmy Congalton when that Winnipegger took the Tankard in 1932, completed a nine-game sweep of the 14th annual Dominion championships last night.

It was Manitoba's ninth victory in the classic and the fourth time it had been won in straight games. Gordon Hudson and Leo Johnson of Winnipeg accomplished the feat in 1929 and '34, and Ab Gowanlock of Glenboro, Man., turned the trick in '38.

Whips Manitoba 17-11

Only Hudson, in 1928-29, and Cliff Manahan of Edmonton, in 1933-37, had previously skipped two Brier champion rinks and Wood made sure of his second victory last night by beating Manahan's Albertans 17-11 in the ninth and final round.

Peter Lyall of Montreal, Brier mistee who addressed the curlers the presentation of prizes, termed the crowd "the greatest spectacle in the history of curling." Mr. Caverhill of Montreal presented the Tankard and miniatures to the Wood rink and Mrs. Walter Stewart of Montreal presented silver trays to the second-place Saskatchewan rink, skipped by Bill Dunbar of Kinley.

Wood passed safely through a gruelling program yesterday, beating the 1939 champions, Bert Hall's Kitchener, Ont. four, 8-6 in the morning and defeating Jim Davis' Northern Ontarians 13-8 in the afternoon before engaging Manahan.

Eight Wins For Dunbar

Dunbar, who lost 8-6 to Manitoba in the first round, scored eight successive victories thereafter to take second place in his first Brier. He beat Nick Thibodeau's New Brunswick rink 11-9 in a thrilling 13-ender yesterday afternoon and came from behind last night to top Ontario 10-8.

Manahan and Thibodeau tied for third with six wins each. Davis, Hall and Bill Finlay's British Columbians counted four victories apiece, Quebec won twice and Nova Scotia and Rankine McLaine's Prince Edward Islanders one each.

Finlay beat McLaine 12-7 in the eight round, Hall topped Stan Rafuse of Bridgewater, N.S., 11-7 and Manahan beat the veteran Col. Archie Bell of Quebec City 14-7.

At night Thibodeau beat Bell 15-11, McLaine gained his first win, 11-9 over Rafuse, and Finlay beat Northern Ontario 11-8.

OF ALL COLLECTIONS

BOWLING GREEN, Ky.—(CP).—When Kenneth Marshal's unique collection of advertisement pencils was stolen, local merchants sent him duplicates of those he had collected here. But he still has to duplicate souvenirs from out of town.

Champion Canadian Curlers

Manitoba won the Canadian curling championship for the ninth time in fourteen years and Howard Wood skipped his second rink to the Canadian championship.

Havelock Edges Lakefield Badminton Club

HAVELOCK, March 8—(ENS).—The Lakefield Badminton Club in a return visit to the local court last evening, lost out by a single game to the Havelock players, in a keenly-contested round-robin session. Three victories apiece in the mixed and two wins each in the ladies' doubles left the round tied 5-5. A slight advantage in the men's doubles, however, in which Havelock won two of the three contests, gave the homesters a victory on the night's play, with seven victories in 13 games.

Refreshments were afterwards served by the home group, and the visitors' hearty appreciation of the evening's entertainment voiced by their president, Bill Edworthy. Bert Haryett replied on behalf of the Havelock group.

Farnsworth Bees Outscore Plainfield 7-1

TWEED, March 8.—(ENS)—Stepping into the fast league-leading Plainfield team in the first of the best two-out-of-three games in the finals of the Tweed Rural League for the Dr. Welsh trophy, the Farnsworth Bees soundly trounced their opponents 7-1.

Farnsworth gained a four-goal lead in the first period, and were never in danger of losing the game from that point, as they kept the Plainfield boys disorganized throughout the game. D. Palmateer tallied the first counter on a long drive, while R. Palmateer bounced in a long shot for the second counter. Baker shot a long drive from centre ice which bounced over Pennington's stick into the nets to make the count 3-0. Lajoie drove one from the blue line to make the count 4-0. Only one penalty was handed out, and that to Rivers for tripping in the first period.

Pennington in the Plainfield nets was replaced at the beginning of the second period by Dunning, who played a smart game of net minding for the second and third periods. The Bees made the count 5-0 at the commencement of the second period, when D. Palmateer took a pass from Baker in the corner to tally. Parks tallied the only Plainfield goal when he took a pass from Carleton, in a scramble in front of Mouck. Meraw went off for tripping.

The last period saw Farnsworth increase the lead tallying two counters, the first by D. Palmateer on a pass from Baker, and the last counter in the closing seconds of play by Meraw on a pass from Lajoie. Only two penalties were handed out in the last period, with R. Palmateer and Emerson getting the gate for tripping.

Lineups:

Plainfield: Goal, Pennington, (Dunning in second period; defence, Parks (Dunning in first period); centre, E. Denyes; wings, G. Denyes, Platt; subs, Harrison, C. Carleton, Gray, Moore, H. Carleton, V. Emerson.

TWEED, March 8.—(ENS).—Roslin Imperials representing the Tweed Rural League in the Dr. Robertson trophy series in the South Hastings county play-off were eliminated on Wednesday night by the Zion Hill Irish, by way of the shutout route, 3-0.

The first period was scoreless, while in the second frame, the Zionites tallied twice, Simms tallying the first count unassisted, while Tummon took a pass from Dickey for the second counter. Simms took a pass in the third period to bring the count to three goals for Zion Hill. No penalties were handed out in this game.

Wallbridge Wins.

In the second game of the double header, Wallbridge nosed out the Foxboro Foxes, 4-2 in a closely contested game. As a result of this win, Wallbridge now meet Zion Hill in the finals for the Dr. J. J. Robertson trophy.

The first period was scoreless, while in the second period Wallbridge went two up on goals by Muir and Ronsky, both unassisted. Green received the only penalty of the game.

In the last period, Noel Guay tallied for the Foxes to cut the lead to one goal. However Green came back for Wallbridge to increase the lead to two goals, which was again cut one goal, when Stojan tallied unassisted. However in the dying minutes of the game, Wallbridge sewed up the game when Ronsky took a pass from Rowbotham to give the victors a two goal lead. Vermilyea and Spencer went to the box in this frame.

Line-ups:

Wallbridge— Goal, Carson; defence, Semark and Vermilyea; centre, Rowbotham; wings, Ronsky and Green; subs, Muir, Jarrell, Woods, Yerwood, Christopher and Greenwood.

Hawks Wallop Canadiens 6-1; Bruins Win 2-1

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Contributing heavily to Chicago Black Hawks' sensational showing in this National Hockey League campaign, which was supposed to be an experimental year for the Blackbirds, is their almost complete lack of individual sensationalism.

"We've got a scrappy bunch of hockey players—no prima donnas," says Coach Paul Thompson. "I think we've got as even a distribution of power as any club in the league."

Doug Bentley

The Hawks turned on their distributed power last night at Montreal to defeat the Canadiens 6-1 and all but cut off the Habitants' last chance at a Stanley Cup playoff position. No player got more than one goal and the outstanding individual achievement was that of Rookie Douglas Bentley, who fired one goal and helped in three.

The Hawks, moving strongly in fourth place, can tie Toronto for third by beating the Maple Leafs at Toronto on Saturday and again at Chicago on Sunday.

Thoms, Allen, Johnny Chad, Dahlstrom, and Gottselig were other scorers besides Bentley. Charlie Sands scored for Canadiens with less than three minutes to play.

Amerks Edged.

Meanwhile Boston Bruins, as expected, took over first place by scoring early and beating the Americans 2-1 at New York. As usual the Bruin sauerkraut line of Milt Schmidt, Woody Dumart, and Bobby Bauer predominated.

But the last bitter battle for the league championship is just starting.

Boston is one point ahead of the New York Rangers and has four games to play, compared with three for the Blueshirts. The two contenders meet twice next week, at Boston on Tuesday and at New York on Thursday, and the title will be hanging in the balance.

Milt Schmidt

Schmidt sent the Bruins ahead in the first period with Bauer's aid, and there was no further scoring until 11 minutes had passed in the third. Then Schmidt with Dumart assisting scored the second goal. Hooley Smith narrowed the margin with a New York score four minutes from the finish.

The Americans could have clinched the sixth and last playoff spot by winning. As it was, they remained seven points ahead of the Canadiens and have four games in which to register a single victory that will assure them of the last Stanley Cup slot.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press

Woody Dumart, Milt Schmidt and Bobby Bauer, Boston, combined to give Bruins a 2-1 victory over Americans by getting all five scoring points for their team.

Doug Bentley, Chicago, got a goal and three assists as the Black Hawks swamped Montreal Canadiens 6-1.

Eagles Are Beaten By Four Goals

(By the Canadian Press.)

If Gus Giesebrecht is trying to get his job with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League back again he is going about it in the right way.

Giesebrecht at times has enjoyed considerable success in the major circuit, but at present is playing for Indianapolis Capitals, the Wings' farm team in the International-American League.

The Capitals went out last night and beat New Haven Eagles 7-6, chiefly on the strength of Giesebrecht's four goals.

The victory widened the Capitals' first place margin in the western division to five points over Pittsburg Hornets. In another contest last night Hershey Bears kept alive their playoff hopes by drubbing Philadelphia Ramblers 6-2.

In addition to Giesebrecht, Wilder, Jack Keating and Carl Liscombe, got goals for the Capitals. Marcel Tremblay scored twice for the Eagles with the other goals going to Tony Hemmerling, McCully, Patterson and Gus Mancuso.

Cattle, Calves Easy On Week, Hogs Hold Firm

TORONTO, March 8 — (CP). — Cattle trade opened the week fairly active but became draggy toward the close of trading this week on the Toronto livestock market. Butcher cows, however, remained active at prices 25 cents higher than the previous week. Steers and butcher cattle were slightly easier at the close. Veal calves closed 50 cents lower at the top, with common to medium calves 50-75 cents lower. Hogs held steady to firm. Good lambs were 15-25 cents higher. Sheep were steady.

The quality of cattle offering was not as good as during previous weeks. Quality considered, prices held almost steady on steers and butcher cattle. Butcher cows were 25 cents higher. Bulls were firm. Good weighty steers sold mostly at $7-$7.25 with a few making as high as $7.50. Common sold downward to $6.50. Very few butcher steers and heifers were good enough to sell higher than $7-$7.25, although odd sales did reach as high as $7.40. Common butchers sold downward to $6.25. Best butcher cows brought $5.25-$5.75. Common butcher cows sold downward to $4, with canners and cutters at $3.25-$3.75. Good butcher bulls brought $5.25-$5.50, with bolognas down to $4.50. Fed calves were steady with good making $8-$8.50; tops up to $9, and medium quality down to $7. The offering of stores was very light, the few offered selling from $6-$6.50, milkers and springers were lower, with top tested cows bringing $70-$75.

Calves Ease 50 Cents.

The calf trade opened steady but weakened to close 50 cents lower on good vealers, and up to 75 cents lower on common to medium vealers. At the close best calves brought $10-$10.50, with a few tops at $11. Common light calves sold as low at $5.50, up to $8.50 for medium quality.

Hog sales were about evenly divided between the live and dressed basis. On the live basis, bacons brought $9 off-trucks; on the dressed basis sales were made from $12-$12.25, mostly at $12.15.

Included in the sheep and lamb receipts for the week were 1,400 Westerns. Prices recovered part of the previous week's decline; good lambs selling from $10-$10.15. Common to medium lambs and heavy lambs brought $7-$9. Good light native sheep sold at $5.50-$6, with some light Westerns up to $6.50. Common sheep sold downward to $3.00.

of unnamed persons and unknown policies."

Manion in Saint John

At Saint John in the first speeches of this Maritime campaign, Dr. Manion repeated his charges that the first division of Canadian troops went overseas lacking modern equipment and offered to back up this accusation with proof. He said his information came direct "from the highest officer who took the division to England."

More local administration of national harbors instead of the present system of "remote control" was advocated. Dr. Manion also declared that Defence Minister Rogers was inexperienced, a "spreader of falsehoods" and "one or two degrees worse" than Hon. Ian Mackenzie as Defence Minister.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, leading lieutenant of Dr. Manion, referred to Mr. Rogers at Brandon, Man., and said if the Defence Ministry had been filled by Col. J. L. Ralston, Finance Minister, "it would have been a good appointment."

The railway question was introduced into the campaign again by Mr. Stevens who denied "persistently repeated lies" that Dr. Manion favored amalgamation or unification.

Two Cabinet Ministers took Premier Hepburn of Ontario to task. Revenue Minister Ilsley told a North Sydney, N.S., audience that despite the Premier's "irresponsible charges and statements" present signs indicated an increase of Liberal seats in Ontario.

Trade Minister Euler at Strathroy, Ont., criticized the "loose talk" of Mr. Hepburn and said such talk cannot be "of assistance to us in carrying on the war."

Those Wheat Prices.

Hon. W. D. Herridge, New Democracy leader, at Prince Albert, Sask., advocated parity wheat prices for Western farmers and said that in the prosperity of Western primary producers is the foundation alone of an economy for all the Canadian people.

"We must get back to the idea of the strength in a central government to administer the affairs of the nation," Lieut.-Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, told a Victoria audience.

He said it was time for Canadians to decide whether "we are one nation or not; whether any of us concerned with the welfare of Canada, speak as Canadians, or whether the dangerous tendency of sectionalism will prevail."

The election is to determine whether "there shall be a government that is actually going to put into effect the express wish of the Canadian people that we stand behind the Empire," he said.

Colonel Drew challenged Premier King to answer the charge of Murdo MacPherson, K.C., at Regina that a British admiral directing ships convoying troops overseas could not have his office on Canadian soil and that the naval officer had to charter a yacht and transfer his office to that craft outside the harbor.

The Banned Film

In his speech at Stratford trade minister Euler referred specifically to Mr. Hepburn's action in banning the March of Time film production "Canada at War" from Ontario and in charging that a "violent disturbance" had occurred at the Royal Canadian Air Force technical training centre at St. Thomas.

Referring to Mr. Hepburn as "that young man of whom we used to think a great deal," Mr. Euler said: "I received today a message from Shanghai, China, telling of how a paper there had featured a story of mutiny in the Air Force of Canada at St. Thomas. Loose talk cannot be of assistance to us in carrying on the war."

Mr. Euler said there had been criticism of the government for not getting out a film depicting Canada's war effort. He had thought the first war picture to be released in the Dominion should be one detailing the war effort of the people of the country.

"The film was made and shown at Ottawa, where those who saw it thought it excellent. It was distributed all over Canada except in Ontario. Not even Dr. Manion said the purpose of the film was propaganda. I sometimes wonder if Hepburn is leading Manion or Manion leading Hepburn."

All To Be Needed.

Canada soon will exert her full war effort, Transport Minister Howe said at Kirkland Lake. "The efforts of every man and woman in Canada will be required soon for war production."

Mr. Howe said Canada was better prepared at the start of this war than at the start of the First Great War.

Mr. Howe said the Liberal government had done more since 1937 to develop aerial traffic in Canada than ever had been contemplated by the last Conservative administration.

He challenged the statements of Conservative speakers that their party deserved credit for establishment of Trans-Canada Air Lines. The present government had spent $20,000,000 for every $1,000,000 spent by the previous government towards the servce.

T.C.A. planes would operate twice daily across Canada by April and points now without feeder lines would be linked up by summer.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Conservative Minister of Trade and Commerce, said at Brandon, Man., that the most important issue before the people was whether the old form of government was to stand or give way to a one-party Parliament.

Mr. Stevens claimed that Canada was unprepared for war, that the Liberal Government had failed to take advantage of co-operative offers and that Prime Minister Mackenzie King had even gone on record as saying that in case of defeat in the March 26 Federal election he would have nothing to do with a National Government.

Mr. Stevens said several members of the Liberal Cabinet had "had it all arranged" to go to the Senate, but under party discipline were required to remain and assist in the election campaign. Mr. Stevens said these men were Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Public Works, Hon. C. G. Power, Postmaster-General, and Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Mines Minister Crerar in a broadcast address at Brandon, Man., attacked the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation's attitude toward Canada's war effort and said "the peacetime program of the C.C.F. as of all Canadian parties depends on victory."

Canadians were inclined to take it for granted that the war would be won upon relatively easy terms, but in the Allied countries overseas it was understood the war would be long, desperate, and uncertain. The people understood defeat would place them "under the heel of a conqueror more cruel, more bloodthirsty, more despotic than the world had seen since Genghis Khan."

He appealed for realization that Canada may prove the decisive factor in an Allied victory and that a half-way war effort might mean the loss of "food, warmth, security."

Italian Ship Fired

The latest casualty in the aerial warfare at sea was the 5,335-ton Italian steamship Amelia Lauro, bombed and set afire off the southeast coast last night. Another Italian ship, the Titania, answered the Amelia Lauro's SOS and 29 men, three of them wounded, were brought ashore.

Meanwhile, a flier from a German plane shot down off the east coast yesterday was rescued from a rubber life raft.

Sir Roger, called back to service in the navy this week after years in retirement, said: "I am sure that before long this awful desecration of the North Sea will be destroyed." But this could not be, he argued, "until the navy has full control of its own air arm."

The Daily Mail asked "Why do our planes fly over German naval bases without attacking?"

"Our ships are bombed often enough," it said.

"Is the R.A.F. thoroughly prepared to resist the expected spring attacks?

"Are we evolving new types to deal with the long distance attacks on shipping or to outstrip the Messerschmitt 110?

"This is how the people are talking."

Sir Kingsley Wood told Commons yesterday that the Allied air forces are superior to and growing faster than Germany's. Hugh Dalton, Labor, commented that "too many Germans are bombing our ships and getting away," and voiced belief that the Messerschmitt 110—German twin-engined fighter monoplane—is superior to any British craft.

Bert Withers Recommended For Garbage Job

Bert Withers was recommended for the contract to collect the city's garbage at a reduced tender of $10,600 by the Property Comittee of the City Council sitting Thursday night.

Expectations of a rough and tumble battle over the awarding of this contract failed to materialize when Alderman Stocker found himself the lone dissenter and the only one in favor of giving the contract to W. T. Hughey, who was bidding for the first time. At a previous meeting when the committee expressed doubt as to Hughey's ability to carry out the contract, the latter had agreed to have his two brothers sign with him as a guarantee but last night it was learned one brother had refused to come in.

The figure of $10,600 is $400 less than the original tender of Withers, but he agreed to drop this amount usually paid for removing the cans from the incinerator, and to do the work just the same. The vote came following a motion by Aldermen Dutton and McIntyre with six in favor and one against.

Alderman Dutton who opened the discussion said "I have given this question considerable thought and I have not confidence in the ability of Mr. Hughey to fulfill the terms of the contract. He is depending on the assistance of two brothers for equipment and one has failed to sign. After all Withers has twenty years experience and if we award the contract to Hughey we are the ones who would be taking the chance, not Mr. Hughey."

Ald. McIntyre—Withers has given good service down through the years and often collect rubbish that does not fall within the meaning of garbage, such as tree branches. He helped us out a few years ago when we attempted to collect the garbage ourselves with the city truck and found it couldn't be done."

Chairman Herb McCannan interjected at this point that the committee wanted three men to sign the contract from Hughey and they hadn't signed.

Ald. Stocker — How many are signing Withers' contract?

Ald. McCannan—Just himself.

Ald. Stocker—There is $1060 difference in the two tenders and you will answer for it if you give it to Withers, I'll call for the ayes and nays. If it was your own private business and not the taxpayers' money you wouldn't consider it for a minute.

Ald. Wilson—I have checked up on this man Hughey and I think he knows quite well what he is doing."

Ald. Ovens—Hughey has given us no satisfactory assurance that he can carry out this contract. I want to be fair, I don't know either party, but in my opinion the work should go to a man who has the equipment and experience otherwise we'll have the whole thing on our hands in a few months and would have to pay whatever a bidder might ask then.

Ald. Dutton—I am amending my motion asking Withers to drop off $400 for collecting the cans at the incinerator but to still do this work.

Deputy City Clerk Outram was instructed by Alderman McCannan to phone Withers and suggest this change. Withers agreed but rather reluctantly as he stated the work was worth the original bid. The vote went six in favor and one opposed and on this division Alderman Stocker didn't even ask for the ayes and nays.

Lindsay Arsenal To Make Shells

LINDSAY, March 8 — (ENS). — Tenders are being called by the War Supply Board for the erection of seven metal buildings at the Dominion Arsenal at Lindsay. These buildings, Bruce McNevin said today, were being erected as storehouses for the machines and material being removed from the main arsenal buildings to make room for new machinery for the manufacture of heavy shells, and munitions of other types.

Would Ban Rugby.

Trustee Dan McQuarrie, himself a rugby player of note in his youth, told the Lindsay Board of Education that rugby should be banned in the Collegiate Institute since it is "too rough" and "too dangerous" for children of High School age. "Rugby is a craze," he said. "It is all right for universities but not in collegiates. Many doctors are opposed to it as too strenuous and parents live in fear that their sons will be permanently injured while playing it.

Trustee George Beall joined the discussion by expressing the opinion that "we shouldn't put a fence around the children."

Father and Son Separated By Death

Henry Hutchinson of Lake Penage is seen here with his arm around his son David when they were re-united after the son had stayed away from home for several months. The re-union was then brought about through a news item appearing in the Examiner when the boy was picked up on a vagrancy charge. However, the son apparently would not stay at home and this week was found dead in a box car in Quebec.

Trail Comes To An End For Wandering Youth

The end of the trail has come for young David Hutchinson, the boy who was picked up here a year ago last month on a vagrancy charge and who was restored to his father at Lake Penage, in the Sudbury district through the medium of a news story in The Examiner.

Unhappily the joyous reunion that followed the discovery that the boy who had been sought by his parents for eighteen months was not a permanent affair.

Today Chief Constable Samuel Newhall was informed by the Quebec provincial police that young Hutchinson had been found dead a few days ago in a box car at Charney, Quebec, and that he had been identified by the fingerprints the Peterborough police had taken when he was in custody here.

Little information is available as to the cause of the boy's death or as to what happened to him after he and his father left Peterborough for Lake Penage in January 1939. Obviously the wander lust had entered into the lad's soul and he was not satisfied to remain with his parents. The probabilities are that he took to the open road again and it ended in a box car in Quebec, far away from the lonely island home in the north.

When arrested here Hutchinson gave the name of David Black and the police were unable to get any information about him. It was not until a woman from the Sudbury district who happened to be visiting Peterborough and who knew that the lad had been missing from his home for months saw the story in The Examiner that the parents learned the whereabouts of the boy. The father made a hurried trip to Peterborough, crossing frozen Lake Penage by dog team to catch a train for the south.

When he arrived here he found David in jail serving a ten day sentence for vagrancy. The assistance of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., was sought and he immediately telephoned to the Minister of Justice at Ottawa and had the boy released in time to leave for Lake Penage that night with his happy father.

Mr. Fraser mentioned as a proof of the interest that is being shown in the present campaign that in the afternoon he and John A. Bradshaw had attended a meeting in the schoolhouse at Rockcroft in Harvey township and twenty-five electors were in attendance. One elderly couple said they had walked nine miles to be present at the meeting.

A GOOD IDEA, PERHAPS.

During a meeting of the special committee on the market Thursday afternoon, Walter Stocker happened to mention that an eminent physician was holding a mental clinic in the Department of Health rooms during the afternoon. This drew a remark from Alderman Bill Ovens, who said "It might be a good idea if we all attended this Clinic for an examination before we tackled the garbage question."

CAUSE REFLECT WAR.

A touch of war conditions is making itself apparent in the post cards being sent from Florida this year. They are not all taken up with palm trees and bathing beach scenes. One received at the Examiner office from J. H. Nash of London from Ft. Lauredale, shows a German freighter tied up at the dock, and the explanation is given: "Defying a warning shot across her bow the German freighter Arauca outran a British cruiser along the Florida coast and entered Ft. Lauredale harbor for safety. The freighter sailed from Tampico for Germany with much-needed oil. The British cruiser stands guard outside the three-mile limit ready to attack if the Arauca leaves the harbor. Thus the European war may at any minute break out on the Florida coast."

Greater London before war-time evacuation claimed a population of 8,655,000.

Relief Costs Down $11,514 In Two Months

Relief costs in the city of Peterborough for the months of January and February of this year show a decrease of $11,514.82 as compared with the same period in 1939. This information was placed before the relief committee of the City Council which met Thursday evening.

Alderman Dutton, the chairman, told the meeting the per capita cost was up because almost all of the employable men who had been receiving relief are now employed, and those still on the rolls are full time charges. Previously many of the relief men would be constantly on the lookout for odd jobs with the result that they would be off relief at least one week in four. He added that the committee had been given wonderful co-operation by the heads of industries in placing men and he expressed hope this would continue. "The present situation is very encouraging and we hope to have Mr. Metheral compile a chart giving the names, ages and training, if any, of all men still on the relief rolls, in the hope that more of these might be absorbed into industry."

Inspector Metheral's report revealed that at present there were 231 families less, 696 individuals less and 15 less single men on the rolls than at this time last year. Two more single women had been added this month.

Workman Carries Gas Mask When He Goes To C.G.E.

When Alan Austin walked into the Canadian General Electric company plant here with a gas mask over his shoulder, he was gawked at by 1,700 amazed Canadians. But no less amazed was he when he found he was the only one who was carrying that precautionary equipment.

For he had just come from England, where gas masks are worn every day and ever place as a matter of course. Just as a man here wears a tie. He's in Peterborough installing a new machine for the C.G.E.

Alan Austin is just now becoming adjusted to this Canada at war. It is far different from England, and far more pleasant to live in just now, he infers.

"Just what did you find most different?" a reporter asked him last night.

"All the lights," he answered like a shot. "And then all the food you get in cafes."

It took him quite a few days to get used to snapping on an electric light without first looking to make certain the blind was down. Even yet, it wouldn't surprise him to hear an A.R.P. warden knocking on the door with a warning against showing light at night. He still isn't comfortable about it all.

Because in England, he said, it is amazing how much light a single ungarded lamp seems to throw at night. To come to Peterborough, the Electric City, its streets, houses, factories, ablaze with thousands of glittering lights, made him gulp with astonishment. It's all very strange and un-warlike.

Pleased With Canada

That didn't mean that he was dissatisfied with Canada's part in this war. On the contrary, people in England are highly pleased about the part this country is playing and are fully confident that this Dominion is doing all in her power to assist the Motherland.

He kept harking back to the amount of food that is served in cafes in Peterborough. He still can't get accustomed to the sight of a huge steak on a platter. Or to the amount of butter served to each customer.

"I went into one of your cafes the other day and ordered a steak—just an ordinary steak," he said. "And, do you know, they brought me the side of a cow."

English cafes are far different. The food served there is enough for a man of small appetite, but the man with the healthy hunger goes away from the table unappeased. Butter served is microscopic but sometimes a waiter, on the prowl for a tip, will sidle up to a customer and tell him, out of the corner of his mouth, that he'll try to get him a little extra.

Intensely interesting to Canadians who have had applications for army, navy, and air force service on fyle for months, without even official acknowledgement being given, is his story of the experience of Englishmen. Now in England no one doubts that the war effort is being carried on vigorously—no one there is suspected for very long of putting half-hearted effort into prosecution of the war. Yet the average Englishman is experiencing precisely the same official treatment as are Canadians, Mr. Austin said. Thousands of them have offered their services time and again, only to be turned down, and they're pretty impatient about it. Here they are, good men and true, many of them veterans of the Great War, volunteering to serve their country and being told by that country that they aren't needed—not yet at any rate.

The answer is, said Mr. Austin, that there aren't many men being killed and the government has all it can handle. It knows more will be forthcoming when they are needed, and in the meantime there's no point in burdening their training quarters beyond capacity.

Proof of all this, he said, lay in the large numbers of Englishmen who are volunteering for service in Finland. If all were being accepted who volunteered their services, there wouldn't be a Finnish brigade.

Knows His England.

This is an Englishman who knows England at war. He was in the Motherland until last month, and spent a good deal of his time in London itself. He was in London the day war broke out and saw the reaction of its people. He saw them calm but concerned, willing to serve but sorrowful that it had to be.

And then came that first air raid warning. People accepted it calmly enough, he said, everyone hurrying to shelters and feeling a bit sheepish when no plane came down except a British one shot in error. When the second warning came about three one morning it was with reluctance that householders went to shelters, sleep still in their eyes. And when nothing happened that time the feeling of sheepishness got stronger. A few days later came the third warning and this time people strolled rather than hurried to safety and again nothing happened.

"What do you do while you wait an hour or two in an air raid shelter"

"Oh, listen to the radio, play cards, or sleep. Some people have their shelters fixed up to be very cosy," he explained.

Dangerous at Night.

It is at night, though, that London becomes really dangerous. There are a great many accidents and most of them are the fault of people themselves. "They forget that while they can see a bus coming toward them, the bus driver can't see them," he said. Car and bus lights throw a dim light only a few feet into the utter blackness.

As illustration of the complete blackness of a London night in war and the startling brilliance with which a single light penetrates, he told a story about Royal Air Force planes flying overhead and noticing the complete blackness broken almost incessantly by pin points of light far below. Those lights were like the flashing of thousands of diamonds. Investigation, he declared with not a muscle in his face twitching, showed that the lights were caused by the opening and closing of front doors of publichouses.

Contrast that blackness with Peterborough's George Street any night in the week and then you'll know why this young Englishman isn't quite comfortable yet.

Factories Camouflaged.

Most startling change in England is the work of camouflage being carried on by great factories. Some of them are skilfully camouflaged to represent rows of houses, with the gables and chimneys and even shadows from those gables and chimneys. At close-up view they don't appear very convincing, but just get up on a hill above them and some distance away and they'll confuse you, said Mr. Austin. He told that at his factory, a subsidiary of the General Electric Company, the walls had been painted to resemble a row of workingmen's houses. Entrance to each supposed house in the long row was skilfully painted in, but one of them actually was a door—to the factory. The trick, he said, is to find the right door when you want to get into the building. As often as not he finds himself trying to get through one of the dummies.

Mr. Austin expects to be in Canada for a couple of months before returning to England.

Trent and Elgin Win Openers In Tedford Cup

NORWOOD, March 8 (ENS)—The annual Tedford cup tournament began last evening at the Norwood arena, with four teams entered in in the sudden-death elimination series to decide the winner of the coveted rural league trophy. In the initial game of a fast-moving double-header fixture, the fleet Trent Riverites won a 5-3 decision over Westwood, the recently crowned E.P.R.L. champs. In the second, the Havelock Albions suffered a 4-2 setback at the hands of a bolstered Elgin crew. Now the winners of this series, Trent River and Elgin, will engage in a final tilt to determine the 1940 owners of the Tedford cup.

In the initial match, Trent River grabbed a three-goal margin in the first period and playing a nice brand of hockey were never once headed by their aggressive opponents. The game was clean throughout, although play roughened slightly towards the last, and five minors were dished out in the final stanza.

Hamilton combined with Jamieson to notch the opening counter for Trent River, nine minutes in the first period. Parcells added another from George Brown, three minutes later, and Hamilton scored again on a solo effort before the end of this session to make the count 3-0 in their favor.

Struggling to even it up in the middle frame, Westwood managed to tally once at the halfway mark, when Gill accepted a pass from Buck for their initial goal. This was later nullified by C. Chaplin, with Hamilton assisting, and George Brown combined with brother Jim, with only a minute remaining, for an additional marker, which concluded Trent River's scoring for the evening. Despite continued efforts by Westwood in the last canto, they were were to bulge the hemp but twice, making the final count 5-3. Buck notched the first from J. Graham and Green got the last from Gill.

Particularly outstanding for the winners were Hamilton, Jamieson, McLaughlin and Jim Brown, while for the losers Sargent, Holmes, B. Mortlock, Buck, Gill and Green were most effective.

The Havelock-Elgin Tilt

A one-goal lead which Havelock took early in the first period, when Pollock combined with Hagerman for the opening counter was short-lived. Before the end of this session Elgin rapped home three goals to reverse the decision, making the score read 3-1 in their favor. The tieing marker was notched by Petticrew, with Radford also in on the play, and Wilson then combined with Petticrew to send the Elgins ahead. Metcalfe placed them two up with only a minute left to go. Lone penalty went to Hoffman of the Albions.

Pressing hard in the remaining forty minutes, the Albions were outlucked on all but one of numerous scoring chances. Hagerman aided by Pollock clicked for the locals second and last goal, just four minutes after the start of the middle session. Shortly before the final bell Radford combined with Petticrew for Elgin's fourth counter placing a win safely in their possession.

Penalties in the second went to Pollock and Whitney of the locals and Boyle of Elgin Petticrew of the winners was the lone occupant of the hoosegow during the final canto. Whitney's was a five-minute sentence for grabbing the puck in his hands and tossing it out of danger.

Star of this second tussle was Elmer Preston who came through with a spectacular effort in the net. Also good for the winners were Radford Petticrew, Boyle and Scott. Best for the Albions were Pollock, Hagerman, Hoffman, Brunton and Whitney.

The teams:

Trent River: Goal, Hill; defense, McLaughlin, A. Brown; centre, G. Brown; wings, J. Brown, Parcells; alternates, Jamieson, Hamilton, Chaplin, VanVolkenburg, C. Stevenson.

Referees: G. Rothwell and W. Webb, Norwood.

O'Shea, Taylor Upset By Walton Team

WINNIPEG, March 8—(CP). — Out of a starry field of 91 badminton players from Montreal to the Pacific Coast, Mrs. Dorothy Walton of Toronto is proving the outstanding performer in the current Canadian championships here.

It seemed quite possible today as the event entered its third session that the All-England women's singles champion could win three championships. She is favored to take the women's singles title, and has moved impressively onward in the mixed and women's doubles events.

The Toronto pair had the power in the clutches to upset Vera O'Shea of Vancouver and Margaret Taylor of Kelowna, B.C., 18-15, 15-12.

Mrs. Walton teamed with Red Phelan of Toronto to advance in the mixed doubles impressively, defeating Ethel Garnett and Ed. Lemon of Winnipeg, 15-12, 18-16.

Dick Birch of Montreal, defending singles titlist, ousted young Alan France of Kelowna, B.C., 18-11, 15-9, and Jimmy Snyder of Toronto eliminated Jimmy Forsythe, third-seeded Winnipeg player, 18-16, 9-15, 15-3. Victory sent the pair into the semi-finals.

Ontario won the Manitoba Cup, defeating Manitoba two matches to one, in the annual interprovincial competition. Quebec, last year's titlist, did not defend its title.

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

LAKELAND, Fla. March 8 (AP)—Detroit Tigers are starting their 1940 conditioning backward. They now have two players on the hospital list, Charley Gehringer with a lame back and Barney McCosky with an upset stomach.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.—Paul (big poison) Waner had this to say about the rigorous routine, new to Pittsburg Pirates, that manager Frank Frisch has imposed at training camp:—"Some of the pitchers and catchers told me they never worked harder in their lives and after I'd been in uniform for half an hour I saw they weren't talking through their hats. But hard work of this kind never hurt any ball player."

LONG BEACH, Calif.—Eddie Collins, Jr. is looking more like his famous dad every day. He sparked Philadelphia Athletics to a 4-1 triumph over Seattle yesterday, making several fine catches in centrefield and in the eighth inning beating out a drag bunt, stealing second and scoring on a hit by Dee Miles.

BRADENTON, Fla. — If young Eddie Miller doesn't show up in Boston Bees' in camp today—he's a holdout. That's the word of Casey Stengel.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

It will be Jack Fanning vs. Al Gibbs in the final Leads and Seconds game this evening, at 7.30 p.m. These two rinks have came through by real hard curling and deserve the right to play off for the Ross L. Dobbin "Front End" trophy.

It is nothing new for Al Gibbs to be in the finals as he won this trophy last season. It will be a new venture for John Fanning, and we hope that both teams come out from their corners full of fight, and may the better team win.

With six rinks coming down from Lakefield to-night, coupled with the Leads and Seconds finals we should be entertained with some high class curling.

The Western Provinces made it one, two, three in the Macdonald Brier Competition held in Winnipeg all this week. Nice going.

A number of mixed rinks from the club expect to play in the Brereton-Raw bonspiel, held at the Granite club all next week. We believe this bonspiel is the biggest of its kind held anywhere in Canada. Already it looks like a full quota—64 rinks.

And a word to the wise: Don't forget our bonspiel tomorrow afternoon at 1.45 p.m. The season is getting on, so used your own judgment.

Valleyfield Wins Despite Loss Of 7 In Strike

VALLEYFIELD, Que., March 8. — (CP).—Victims of the first major hockey strike in the history of the game in Quebec, Valleyfield Braves prepared to-day to carry on in the Provincial Senior League playoffs, still uncertain whether the move that forced them to release seven of their best players helped or shattered the team's chances.

Judging from the Braves 2-1 victory over Sherbrooke Red Raiders last night in the second game of the P.S.H.L. semi-finals, release of the players, "because they wanted their salaries and bonuses guaranteed to the end of the playoffs," did not harm them.

The clubs move to Sherbrooke Sunday for the third game of the best-of-five series and if the Braves can do as well they will be ranked as the wonder team of the year. Their victory last night, with intermediates filling in for the released regulars, squared the series, for Sherbrooke won the opening game 2-1.

Georges Perron, Valleyfield secretary, said the seven players "had all been paid up for the regular season."

He described the action of Chick Cromoll, Ray Mullins, Marcel Despelteau, Lionel Lafontaine, Henri Matte, Jean Huguet and Jean Lapointe as "little more than a threat." It was a case of "pay or we won't play," he said.

Perron said the club would report the matter to the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association with a strong recommendation that the players "be suspended from hockey for anywhere up to 20 years."

Reds' Lombardi Puts Zip Into Training

TAMPA, Fla., March 8.—(AP)—The hardest working player in the Cincinnati training camp is Ernie Lombardi, the goat of last world's series. As game as he is big, Ernie wears the expression these days of a man who intends to make his detractors eat their words.

The slugging catcher never has explained what happened to him in the big series, when the Yankees bounced him around like a rubber ball. The most he said was: "I don't know what happened."

Probably that is the literal truth, but it would have been easy for him to have said that Keller knocked the wind from him when they collided at the plate, and that he was a hurt man for the remainder of the dizzy game.

Now he is working like a rookie. Already he has caught two full intercamp games, one of which went 12 innings. A teammate confided that Ernie was at least two weeks ahead of last spring in his conditioning, and said he would be willing to bet Ernie was coming back to hit at least .320.

There is another case in the Cincinnati camp very similar to Lombardi's. Johnny Vandermeer looks like he might have a comeback in his system, too. Manager Bill McKechnie is sure of it. If both of them should return to their 1938 form, the Reds probably would be a shoo-in.

Havelock Balks At Wall Along Highway

HAVELOCK, March 8—(ENS).—A fairly lengthy session was held by the Havelock Municipal Council on Monday evening, as considerable discussion surrounded some of the items brought up at this regular March meeting. Present were Councillors E. J. Leeson, James Ketchen, William Martin, and Fred Pollock, with Reeve Ernest Seeney presiding.

A representative of the advertising department of the Peterborough Examiner addressed the Council in regard to the annual vacational edition in which the municipality had a page of advertising last year. The Council were of the opinion that since the local advertisement benefits the immediate district as well as the village, the Belmont and Methuen Council should be asked to co-operate. Final decision in this matter was laid over to the next meeting, until Reeve Seeney and Councillor Martin, as a committee, interview this other body.

On motion of Councillors Leeson and Pollock, three cords of dry body hardwood will be purchased from R. Sanderson at $7.00 per cord, and 15 cords of green body maple from A. Spencer at $6.50 per cord.

Due to the claims against the village last year, the local rate for public liability insurance took quite a sharp advance. The new premium of $216 as presented by agent E. Fennell was accepted, on motion of Councillors Martin and Ketchen.

No action was taken by the Council regarding the question of Miss H. Spencer's business tax, her father, A. Spencer, appearing on her behalf to address the meeting.

The splendid work which the Havelock-Belmont Red Cross Society is carrying on, was commended by the Council in a special vote of appreciation to the executive and members of that energetic body.

On motion of Councillors Martin and Pollock the tax collector's roll was extended to the next meeting.

The clerk was instructed to notify District Engineer Sears of the Department of Highways, that owing to the reduction of the Government subsidy, the municipality does not now feel financially able to consider the plan to place street lights and a sidewalk along that portion of the highway not already so completed within the village.

The clerk was instructed as well to request the school principals, through the Board secretary, to warn the pupils against using the highway on their way to and from school, but rather to use the sidewalks on Ontario Street.

On motion of Councillors Pollock and Martin, some men will be engaged to cut down the bumps at the village crossings, also to open up catch basins and prepare for spring draining.

The Reeve was authorized to issue a warrant for the sale of the following properties: Miss Duffield's two lots; Isaac Barlow estate, two lots; Mrs. George Would property; Sanford Hubbell's property.

On motion of Councillors Leeson and Ketchen, the following general accounts were ordered paid: W. J. Akins, telephone, salary, postage, $68.85; William McAdam, work at Town Hall, $5.00; Department of Health, insulin, indigent, $1.38; D. F. Miller, services, $2.40; village treasurer, pay sheet No. 5, $24.00; Ed. Fennell, public liability premium, $216; Mrs. E. Johnson, re Foley estate, $10.00; H. B. Puffer, 1939 roll, postage, telephone, supplies, $16.44; Mrs. B. Dewey, re Foley estate, $10.00; Thomas Forsythe, snow plowing, $24.00; Wesley Stillman, snow plowing, $24.00; Richard Sanderson, fuel indigents, $2.25; transferred to Public School Board, on 1940 requisition, $600; transferred to High School Board, on 1940 requisition, $300; Havelock Standard, advertising and auditor's statement, $46.95.

The following relief accounts were ordered paid on motion of Councillors Ketchen and Pollock:

G. W. Chiles, food, $12; William Smith, food, $2.52; R. Sanderson, fuel, $5.00; medical, based on four at 35c, $1.40.

The meeting was adjourned to Monday, April 1.

Nazi Slave Ship Aground Where Boarded

The Nazi prison ship Altmark is pictured fast in the ice of Jossing Fjord, Norway, after she was boarded by tars from the British destroyer Cossack in violation of Norwegian neutrality. The Altmark, which served as an auxiliary to the late German pocket battleship Graf Spee, carried 326 British seamen in her holds. The men, crews from ships sunk by the Graf Spee, were freed and brought to Scotland by the Cossack. The action of the British brought about an exchange of notes by the three nations involved.

Emily Friends Honor V. Dunlop

EAST EMILY, March 8—(ENS).—On Tuesday evening the Misses Alta Moncrief and Lulu Dunlop entertained in the form of a kitchen and pantry shower in honor of the latter's sister, Miss Violet Dunlop, a bride of this week.

The gathering was held at the bride-elect's home on the Third Line of Emily, about twelve ladies being present. The evening was spent in playing progressive euchre.

During the evening Violet was asked to take a chair under a large white bell hanging in the centre of the large living room and Miss Alta Moncrief said a few words on behalf of those present, asking her to accept the various gifts which were drawn into the room in a small decorated wagon by two small sisters of the bride-elect, little Marguerite and Jean Dunlop.

In a few well chosen words Violet thanked all for their gifts and asked them to come and visit her in her new home.

The gifts were then opened and placed on a table.

Prizes were then presented for cards, which were: Highest score, Miss Mildred Magee; consolation, Mrs. Harold Mitchell, and lucky number, Mrs. Bill Chatten.

Dainty refreshments were then served.

Christian Literatu re Badly Needed

LAKEFIELD, March 8—(ENS).—Mrs. J. W. Ridpath was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Y.P.S. of St. Andrew's church, Lakefield, on Monday evening.

Mrs. A. H. Clark, devotional leader, led the society in the "Service of Worship for Youth." She opened this part of the meeting with the theme song, "Living for Jesus."

Mrs. Ridpath's talk was on Christian Literature.

"One of the greatest responsibilities confronting us as christians is the distribution of christian literature not only in non-christian lands but in our own as well. We are concerned that in every land there should be suitable books and periodicals carrying the Christian message, that there should be also for those just learning to read a literature simple in form and interesting to adults. The need for this is acute, for if Christian agencies fail to provide it many anti-christian forces will enter the field.

During the program short readings were given by different members and a pleasing solo by Miss Jean Clark was much enjoyed.

Millbrook YPU Plans Play For Competition

MILLBROOK, March 8—(ENS).—The Citizenship Department had charge of the program for the Young People's Union on Monday night, the president, B. B. Dawson, taking the chair in the absence of the convener, Edna McKnight.

The talk on "Is drinking necessary for popularity" was given in an impressive and informative manner by Mr. F. L. Edworthy, who marshalled facts that strongly opposed the affirmative of the question. The devotional period was introduced by soft music, those assisting the leader being Mary Dawson, Mary Burnham, George Sisco, Leitha Edworthy and Brentin Dawson.

During the business period, announcement was made of the pot luck supper the young people are holding at the church on Friday, March 8, at 6 p.m., and the St. Patrick's Day party, the recreational department of the Peterborough Presbytery (in the west district), is holding at Millbrook on Friday, March 15, with all young people's societies of the surrounding countryside, invited as guests.

The local organization will enter the dramatic competition of the Presbytery with a one-act comedy, "Rooting for Ruth," which is now under preparation, and which will be presented locally as soon as the characters have mastered the play.

A hymn and the benediction closed the meeting.

GARDEN SMARTNESS

By ALICE ALDEN

FIGURING on doing a little patchwork this spring? It's more fun to coax roses and onions to grow if you're getting a suntan at the same time. This ballerina dress is one of the answers, and certainly it's more feminine than denim overalls and brother's old shirt. If a shower comes up in your garden, have no fears—the striped pique carries a promise not to shrink more than one per cent. That means, too, that this dress will look and fit practically new when you get your two-weeks-with-pay this summer. Nothing could be smarter for a game of beach tennis. Stripes are blue or red on a white background.

Helen Roger Auxiliary Meets

The March meeting of the Helen Roger Auxiliary of Knox United Church was held at the home of Mrs. G. Hutchinson, 304 Pearl Avenue. Mrs. H. Clegg presided for the opening exercises. Silent prayers were offered while quiet music was played, and following the opening hymn, Mrs. A. McKenzie led in prayer.

The worship service was in charge of Mrs. I. Oesch, who took as her theme, "Into all the World." Scripture readings dealing with the journeys of St. Paul were given by Mrs. Oesch. Mrs. G. Rutchinson led in the dedication prayer. A beautiful sacred solo, "The Hymn of Peace," was sung by Miss M. Morton.

A chapter of the study book, "The Ministry of Healing in India," was reviewed by Mrs. Oesch, assisted by Mrs. H. Clegg, Mrs. A. Sproats, Mrs. R. Hansom and Mrs. D. Gourley. It described the great need of India for medical service, and how the Christian medical missions are serving India's people through the hospitals. A short social period followed the meeting.

Quiet Music Opens Easter Meeting

Quiet music, an Easter call to worship; several minutes' silence; and a prayer for missionaries, led by the president, Mrs. J. Gerard, opened the Easter meeting of Knox W.M.S. Auxiliary. After a short business period conducted by the president, Mrs. E. Benson led the worship service, which included the hymn, "Jesus Christ is Risen Today"; responsive readings of the Le Deum Laudamus, and prayers by Mrs. S. Thexton, Mrs. A. E. Sanderson and Mrs. Benson. A pleasing duet entitled "Our Blessed Redeemer," was sung by Mrs. A. Wedlock and Mrs. N. Hughes.

Mrs. A. I. Brown of George Street Church, guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Lewis, and brought an informative Easter message in which she explained Easter customs and symbols. Mrs. Roy Laing thanked the speaker.

Eastern Star, L.O.B.A. Celebrates Anniversary

A delightful anniversary dinner celebrated the seventeenth birthday at the Eastern Star, L.O.B.A. Thursda yevening in Knox United Church, when 35 members and guests were present to honor the occasion.

The tables were done in a pink and white color scheme, the head table centred by a handsome birthday cake upon which twinkled 17 candles. Tables were further decorated with spring flowers, a charming setting for the gay birthday party.

Brother Robert Ritchie, presided as chairman and acted as toastmaster, while Sister Deyman, capably performed the duties of pianist. The National Anthem was heartily sung by all in response to the toast to the King.

Sister A. Rosborough, W.M. extended in gracious words a cordial welcome to the guests of the evening to which Sister Foster, Johnson, Pilling and DeLong, responded on behalf of the visitors.

In proposing the toast to the Grand Lodge, Sister Rose Sexsmith, a charter member extended the good wishes of the local lodge to their superiors as they meet next month in session in Ottawa with R. W. Sister Campbell, grand treasurer of Ontario, bringing the message of thanks in response. The ladies of Knox congregation catered in their usual efficient and generous manner to the L.O.B.A. members whose thanks and appreciation were voiced by Sisters Deyman and Clee, while Mrs. John Allen, representing Knox Church, assured the visiting lodge that it had been a pleasure to entertain them.

At the conclusion of their birthday dinner, the party repaired to the Orange Hall, where progressive euchre was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening, the prizes being won by Bro. Scott and Sister Wood, while everyone voted it a most enjoyable affair. Sister Moncrief was in charge of transportation from Knox church to the Orange Hall, while Sister Manley, a past mistress and A. Rosborough W.M., were the reception committee.

Importance Of Women's Franchise Stressed

Mrs. M. C. Cullen, 122 Dufferin Street, was hostess to Group E of George Street Women's Missionary Society on Thursday afternoon for a meeting attended by fifteen members and two visitors. The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. J. Miles and Mrs. B. Frederick.

Interesting articles on the importance of the use of the franchise by women, and their influence in the cause of temperance, were given by several members, with Mrs. S. Wildman as leader. Too many women neglect their privilege of using the franchise, she said.

Miss E. Might told an absorbing story of the missionary work of the Scudder family in India—commencing with two Scudder brothers whose interest was first aroused by an account of the work in India done by Carey. They established a Scudder mission and the first missionary hospital. Forty-three of their descendants have since been connected with missionary work in India.

Mrs. S. Wildman was heard in an enjoyable solo, with Mrs. E. White at the piano. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Finnie and her committee.

Vivid Lipsticks Salute The Spring

"It's so easy to be enthusiastic about Spring style notes just now, there's so much that's new and intriguing coming up in fashion news to stimulate one's imagination," a representative from a Fifth Avenue Salon told us this morning. She has just arrived in town to tell Peterborough women about the startlingly vivid shades in lipstjcks that are becoming so popular with the new Spring ensembles. Stressing the use of a clear red lipstick this season, which is becoming to most clothes colors, to practically any skin-type, blond, brunette, in between or gray-haired, she explained that it is more flattering, and much smarter to affect only a little rouge, relying on the lipstick for that vital dash of color.

Because there's such a great to-do about clothes combining red, white and blue this Spring, she advises true red lipstick for wear with these costumes. Some of the popular shades she told us about included Siren, Daredevil, Cockade and Scarlet, startling shades that accentuate the gay militant note featured in the new wardrobes.

Business Girls Resent Term "Stylish Stouts"

If you notice a gleam of malice in the eye of any slender, attractive business girl in Peterborough today, and more particularly if she is hiding a croquet mallet behind her back, you can be sure that it's all intended for the Examiner's social editor.

Stylish stouts indeed!

But before the croquet mallet descends on her cranium, before the gleam of malice penetrates 'oo deep the social editor has a word of explanation. She had two stories on the hook—that's where stories are kept in a newspaper office—one was about a New York fashion show recently held, the other about a Peterborough fashion show soon to be held.

The rest is tragedy.

"Stage Fashion Show for Stylish Stouts" appeared the heading above the Peterborough advance story. The stylish stouts intended for New York had got transpianted, and apt to be transplanted, too, is the Examiner's social editor — she knows only too well the futility of attempting to explain to slender Peterborough girls that an unthinking male compositor did the trick without malice in his heart.

Group Tea Is Given Irish Air

The spirit of St. Patrick's Day dominated a successful tea of the West End Group of St. Paul's Ladies' Aid Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Lacheur, 550 Gilmour street. Mrs. H. G. MacKenzie, president, Mrs A. T. Barr and Mrs. T. F. McArthur, received with the hostess.

Daffodils in an old-fashioned cut-glass comport were a bright splash of color on the tea table, around which danced miniature figures in green and gold costumes. The glow from yellow candles in silver candelabra brought out the glimmer of a cellophane cover which was an overlay to a paddy green cloth. Presiding were Mrs. W. A. Burrell, Mrs. C. E. Blewett, Mrs. Walter McKee, Mrs. R. J. Goring

Gay aprons with ruffles of green were worn by the home-cooking conveners, Mrs. W. Hill, Mrs. O. Moore and Mrs. H. Stenson, and an Irish air was also given the attractive table by pots of Shamrock tied up with yellow cellophane, and a cover patterned with St Patrick's Day symbols.

American "Highlander" and Bride

Omer Jette, of Albany, N.Y., went to Canada because adventure lured him to war as it did thousands of other Americans in 1914 before the U.S. entered the World War. Jette joined up with the Cameron Highlanders and in due course will find the adventure he seeks. Meanwhile he has found romance. He is shown here with his bride, Marie, a French-Canadian girl he met and married in Ottawa. They are looking at a photo of Jette's former military buddies—a company of the New York National Guard.

W. A. Spring Tea Pleasant Affair

A Spring tea of St. Andrew's Church Women's Association was a pleasant affair of Thursday afternoon at the home of the group leader, Miss Elizabeth Scott, 109 Hunter street Mrs. Paige Rowell, president, Mrs. E. W. Young and Mrs. H. L. Beal received with the hostess.

Mrs. Terrot Glover directed guests to the tea room, where clever decorations carried out the theme of St. Patrick's Day. Pouring were Mrs. R. Harstone, Mrs. F. L. Robinson and Mrs. W. J. Thompson. Mrs. Ken Kingston and Mrs. David Brown were tea room conveners, and assisting to serve were Mrs. J. G. Wharry, Mrs. D. V. Ketcheson, Mrs. Alex Donnelly, Mrs. J. W. Beaton

Mrs V. S. Foster and Mrs. W. A. Conner were in charge of the home-cooking table, and Mrs. E. Wightman was treasurer.

DAILY HABIT

By ALICE ALDEN

HERE'S more proof that our American designers are turning out the type of costume we need day in, day out, and at not too much money. A working girl's salary doesn't go too far toward a Paris original, after all. Some of it goes, for instance, for week-end travel in the spring or, at least, for Sunday dashes to the shore or other nearby spots more interesting than the home town. This navy blue crepe costume is a good travelling met now that streamlined trains permit white touches. The long-sleeved jacket gives that completely-dressed feeling we like to have en route and on arrival, and its white pique revers may be flipped outside a collarless, trim navy coat. The simple frock has a white cummerbund of the pique, but, worn without the jacket, will take any kind of belt, including the wide red suede.

IF SPAGHETTI TASTES FLAT
Add a few drops of a concentrated relish
WHETHER you buy spaghetti in the can or cook it yourself, you will improve the flavour wonderfully if you add a little H. P. Sauce. A good way is to stir in H. P. while heating up or cooking the spaghetti: And some people like the H. P. flavour so well that they will add a little more when the spaghetti is served on their plates. One good point about H. P. is that you use it sparingly. A little of this thick, fruity sauce imparts a lot of flavour and it's a flavour that is appetizingly delicious. Don't forget H. P. Sauce next time you have spaghetti or macaroni. Use it also for flavouring soups, stews, meats, fish, fowl, sandwiches and salads.

DOROTHY DIX

Attractiveness in Woman is Purely Matter of Taste. Amiability, Sense of Humor, Some Brains and Looks Are Good Qualities.

A young woman writes asking if I will give her the formula for attractiveness. Why, my dear child, there is no more regular cut-and-dried, follow-this-recipe-and-you-cannot-fail rule for acquiring attractiveness than there is in making a sponge cake. Attractiveness doesn't even consist in possessing any specific qualities. It depends on a thousand intangible assets.

Nor is there any standard of attractiveness. It is purely a matter of taste, for the very attributes that draw some of us toward an individual repulse others.

Some worship the tall, stately, goddess type of woman. Others prefer the pocket venus. Some adore the roly-poly girl. Others will look at nothing but a living skeleton. The college highbrow and the beautiful but dumb each have their following. There are those who are vamped by the vivacious and those who prefer the quiet girl with the Madonna look in her eyes. So there you are, with every man having his own ideal of what he finds attractive in a woman. So what is a poor girl to do? As I have said, there are no plans and specifications that always work for making a charmer, but if I were giving a recipe for attractiveness I should say:

Take all the good looks, natural and artifical, upon which you can lay your hands. Beauty is not absolutely necessary in a woman, for some of the most fascinating women who have ever lived have been as homely as mud fences; but it is undeniable that pulchritude is a great help, especially in the beginning, for we all just naturally like to look upon a woman who is easy on the eyes.

Fortunately the great majority of people are not connoisseurs in beauty and do not demand the real, pure, bottled-in-bond and blown-in-the-glass brand. They are willing to take a woman at her face value, so to speak, and this enables girls who are not really pretty to pass off on the public a synthetic good looks that is compounded of cosmetics and the latest things in bobs and gay and flowing chiffons.

Having then secured an adequate supply of good looks by hook or by crook, if nature did not provide them for you, see that they are carefully cleaned. Do not spare soap and water and pressing, for nothing is more attractive in a woman than for her to appear spic-and-span and as if she had just come out of a bandbox. On the contrary, nothing renders her more disgusting than to look untidy and untubbed, and as if she had only just been fished out of the ragbag or the garbage can.

Next take a moderate amount of brans—not too much — for most men are more afraid of an intellectual woman than they are of a ravening lion, and even the members of her own sex are apt to find one of the feminine intelligentsia hard to endure, because she patronizes them too much.

But, on the other hand, a certain amount of brains is absolutely necessary to attractiveness. They are the yeast in personality that makes it raise and keeps it from beng flat and heavy. But they must be used judiciously in just the right proportion. The brand called "common sense" is the preferable one and gives the best results.

Put in a pinch of the salt of humor. Nothing is so flat and tasteless as a woman who never can see the point of a story and who has to have every joke diagrammed for her. A very little of her goes a long way with all of us. On the contrary, we never weary of the bright, cheerful, good - natured woman whose laughs are hung on a hair-trigger, who can find fun in any situation and who carries sunshine and good cheer with her wherever she goes.

Use plenty of the sugar of amiability. The beauty, the wit, the siren have their hour of charm for us, but it passes. The woman who is sweet and gentle and lovely has the lure that never ends. Time cannot wither nor custom stale her infinite attraction. The sweet girl always has plenty of friends. The sweet mother is always adored by her children. No flapper lures a husband away from a sweet wife. Just sweetness is the biggest factor in any woman's attractions.

Next read the new books and the current papers and the magazines, so that you may be an interesting companion instead of a bore. Learn how to play a good game of bridge and golf and tennis, how to swim and how to dance, so that you will be an asset to any group, and not one of the misfits who never work in anywhere.

Finally, season these other attractions with pep to taste. Make it spicy, but not too hot. Be neither a petter nor a prunes-and-prisms girl. No girl is more attractive than the girl who has a modern exterior, but who keeps all the old-fashioned virtues of modesty and delicacy shrined in her heart.

There are those who think that it is attractive for a woman to be hard-boiled—for her to be sophisticated and blase and self-centered and selfish. I think this is a mistake, and that the very essence of feminine attraction is for a woman to be tender and adaptable and sympathetic, and for her to be able to merge herself into those she loves until she is absolutely selfless.

So then here is my recipe for attractiveness: To good looks and pretty clothes add intelligence. Season with the salt of humor, sweeten wth the sugar of amiability, flavor with a dash of paprika of modern ways and serve in a sauce of tenderness.

We Noticed

....If you're going military-minded in your ensemble this Spring, why not try that new and interesting fashion team—khaki with black, or khaki with olive green?

....You might order a long-line suit of military-blue wool, boldly brass-buttoned—or how about going all-out patriotic in a red cashmere coat, a ten-gallon blue felt and crisp white accessories??

....And if you want to be really up on the rung of fashion's ladder, it's practically assured if you let your coat be trimmed as meticulously as an officer's uniform with passementerie and shining buttons—have your pockets like knapsacks, your handbags like kitbags—then accent it all by bright dashes of scarlet—with vivid lips to match.

WOOL SOCKS WON'T SHRINK if you LUX them this way

With Lux you avoid the use of hot water (which shrinks wool), and the cake-soap rubbing (which mats fibres) and harmful alkali (which roughens the texture). It's the alkali in ordinary soaps which makes wool socks, sweaters, shirts and woolly undies rough and "scratchy"—Lux contains NO harmful alkali.

Lux Flakes dissolve in lukewarm or cool water—so you don't risk hot-water shrinkage when you wash with Lux. Why not wash all your woollens the LUX way—preserve their shape and their soft, fluffy texture.

2. Wash quickly in lukewarm-to-cool water rich in gentle Lux suds. Never rub. Never soak.
3. Rinse thoroughly in lukewarm water. Squeeze socks, roll in Turkish towel and knead out moisture. Unroll.
4. Dry immediately, hanging on sock frames away from extreme heat, such as radiators or stoves.

3190 SIZES 16-48

The woman who is inclined to be on the larger side will look her best in this redingote dress. You can wear it under your coat now. Later on you can wear it in town by itself, for it looks just like a separate dress and coat. Make it of a smartly practical dark shade, which, incidentally, will tend to minimize your figure. Set it off with colored print insets or spanking white for that fresh spring look. The vertical lines will give you slender height. If you prefer, the dress may be made without the skirt inset.

Style No. 3190 is designed for sizes 16, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39-inch material, 1 yard 39-inch contrasting.

IT'S NO secret that lots of school girls get their pyjamas at the boys'-wear departments in our stores. Simplicity, excellent tailoring and easy-fitting tops are features not always found in feminine styles. Here, though, is a new and frisky-looking pyjama every girl will like. The butcher-boy blouse is cut for freedom at the shoulders and arms, and buttons in a jiffy down the front. Trousers have an adjustable waistband. The material is one which may safely go to the laundry, a fine cotton and spun rayon with candy stripe. Most of you will think of using the pyjama top as a tailored bed jacket or even a beach coat come summer.

Baby Chicks

THIS SHOULD BE A PROFITABLE year to raise Early Hatched Broilers. We have big, growthy, easy-to-raise New Hampshire day-old Cockerels, each week at 6 cents each as ordered. Mrs. Mackey, Fort Hope Highway, has this to say of her last year's purchase: "I could sell the Cockerels the year round if I had them. My milk-fed Cockerels paid for the Pullets. The same people bought them week after week. They are of good size for the average customer (5 to 7 lbs.) and sold at 23c per lb. for nearly all, which is a good price for here." Orders booked as received. Better write us to-day—G. A. Brethen, Hill-Crest Farm. Telephone 250, Norwood.

ONE FALSE STEP

BY KATHRN BEMIS

CHAPTER XIV

ROCK got up, touched a match to the hot stone of the fireplace, lighted a cigarette. He blew a thick cloud of smoke through his nostrils. Then he sad quickly: "You'd be irritable, too, if you were in deep like I am. Bills, bills—nothing but bills! In a few weeks I'll be on my feet—but now I'm in a jam.

"I'm sorry, Rock."

"Yeah? How about letting me have five hundred?"

Janis gasped, stared at his poker-faced countenance as if seeing it for the first time. Her laugh sounded a trifle shrill. "That's funny. I was thinking of asking you the same thing," she chopped out. "I've a big stack of bills, too."

"Cut the kidding. You know I can pay you back soon—my picture job isn't too bad."

Financial Trouble

"I'm dreadfully in earnest, Rock. I've spent altogether too much of my inheritance on a—a sort of wager with myself."

"You little—Somebody ought to beat some sense into you. Do you mean to sit there and tell me you're a fake—not what you pretended all along? I thought you were rich. Well—it don't make sense."

He hurled his cigarette to the fire with a violent twist of his wrist.

Tears brimmed Janis' eyes her lips quivered, but he was indifferent to it. Instead of taking her into his arms and telling her that nothing mattered but their love, he stood menacingly over her and got out sarcastically: "So you're close to broke! I don't know whether to believe it or not. It's a swell situation for me, all right. Why didn't you tell me—before——"

He left the sentence swaying dagger-sharp between them.

"Oh, what's the use? You're driving me crazy—I've got to think!"

She sat where he had left her, rigidly upright, deathly pale. The slamming of the front door confirmed many suspicions in her mind. Something tore at her consciousness, making the godlike mental image of Rock Conover crash to dust at her feet.

Then all at once, her feeling of stunned incredulity turned to furious contempt. Married only a few hours and her husband tried to borrow her money! Why hadn't he explained to her that he was in debt, why had he said he would share the expense of running this home? Oh! It was too despicable!

Alone With Thoughts

She dragged herself upstairs. Her head swam, every muscle in her trembling body seemed weighted with lead; a steel dagger could have made no deeper wound in her heart than Rock's cruel words.

She switched on the lights in her bedroom, flung open a casement window. Cold clear air rushed sharply into her face. She filled her lungs with it, trying to gather strength and courage. She stared out at the black night. There was no light in the heavens, nothing seemed to be stirring.

The sickishly sweet scent of the gardenias out by the patio came up to her, the last faint chirp of a sleepy cricket sounded, the hoot of an owl, then all was silent again.

She shivered suddenly and slammed the window shut.

She threw herself into a chair, buried her face in her two hands, burst into sobs. The ringing of the telephone beside her bounced her upright. Who could be calling this time of night? One of those wrong-number pests, probably.

With a resigned sigh she picked up the receiver, said dully, "Hello!"

Rock Calls

"Janis darling! You and I can't quarrel! I had to call you!"

Rock's voice made her heart leap. She could not control it and, battling it, could find no voice.

"Honey, are you there?"

"Yes," she managed finally.

"So you're still peeved! Don't you see—it was the way you acted that made me fly off the handle. You were so standoffish it riled me."

Had she—had she been "standoffish," as he said? Had Rock simply been provoked at her attitude—was she to blame for all this misunderstanding?

"I didn't—didn't mean to get angry, either," came from her almost apologetically, "but somehow I felt——"

"It was about my needing money, wasn't it? But you asked why I was irritable, remember? And I told you the truth. If you'd rather hear fairy stories about my millions——"

"No, Rock—not that. But a while ago you said I had the house for a year and you'd do the rest, and now——"

"But, sweetheart—that was the plan if I were living in your house. As it is, I have to pay all my expenses—and a man in pictures has to look prosperous—the public——"

"Why—yes. Maybe you've been putting on the dog a little yourself. What's the harm?"

She bit her lower lip to keep from saying how she hated it. She even hated to think about it.

"Say, I'll tell you what, darling—tomorrow night we'll go out and celebrate—just we two."

"What is there to celebrate, Rock," her voice said shakily. But her unruly heart was singing of love—Rock loved her, or surely he wouldn't be talking to her now.

"Don't be like that! We'll make a night of it—go where big stars go. I've got to get in practice you know. My days coming!" Tremendous assurance was in his short laugh.

She passed it by with: "You can't play all night and do good work the next day—and 'Crazy Day' is your big chance."

"But I don't have to work for a few days. Jilly Morse is down with flu—and most of my scenes are with her. Feature that—the famous Jilly Morse!"

"Going Wild"

Janis had never seen this new star whose beauty and talent were being highly exploited by newspaper, magazine and radio. "Is she as beautiful as they say?" Janis sounded slightly concerned.

"Absolutely—even more so. But what's that got to do with us? I'm trying to tell you, tired as I am, that you and I are going wild tomorrow night—or rather tonight—it's already morning."

Relief relaxed every nerve in Janis' body. Rock was once more the persistent lover. He had come back to her, he never had gone away—really. She had misjudged him, she was married to him, and she loved him.

"See you later—my own darling," came from him in that vibrating tone that could always set the pendulum of her heart furiously swinging.

She swallowed hard, said tremulously: "Yes, dear—later."

Humming a sweet little melody under her breath, Janis slowly undressed. She wondered why she had been so miserable only a few short minutes ago, and censored herself for doubting her husband. As a matter of fact, she had been unkind to him. It would cramp her a little but she could let him have that five hundwred. She had been petty judging him rashly for no sane reason, and she was ashamed of herself.

Hereafter if she didn't know how to treat a husband, she deserved to lose him. Even if her bank balance was getting low, she'd soon be in a picture—every one out at the studio had raved over her possibilities. Rock already had his picture work cut out for him and would make good.

Together they would have so much income it made her head swim to think of it. Then they could openly declare themselves a happily married couple. What a day that would be! And they wouldn't have long to wait—just one short year.

A Bad Dream

She slipped into rose silk pajamas and pirouetted gayly before a door mirror, laughing aloud at her reflection. Defiantly, she thrust out her tongue at the slim little figure she saw. "Of all the dumb clucks—you're it, Janis Sheldon!" she told herself. "When you're plain lucky you can't see it. Fortune, fame, love—why it's all here for you to snatch. Life is—wonderful!"

With this declaration, she switched off the lights, crawled into bed, curled up like a kitten and went immediately to sleep.

She dreamed being chased by a ferocious - looking animal with nine tails but, when it began to talk, she could not make out what it said.

She awoke at nine o'clock with a feeling of frustration. If only she could have understood what that creature had mumbled to her. Then she managed to shake off whatever it was of worry or fear lurking in the back of her consciousness.

She sat up, dangled her legs off the bed, shoved her feet into rose satin mules, and shuuffled into her shower. If there was ill omen that silly dream, she would completely demolish it with gayety, laughter, the sheer joy of living.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, March 9.

The lunar and mutual aspects bearing rule on the affairs of this day are rather conflicting, but eventually culminate in constructive and satisfactory results. Preliminary to success there will be a decisive breaking up of static or long-thwarting conditions which, when doggedly attacked, will pave the way for sound progress and a stabilization of the fortunes. Real possessions should increase, but be alert to wiles and schemes and sign papers cautiously. In the domestic, social, and sentimental relations there is much security and happiness.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of very definite progress in the matter of advancing their interests and enhancing their fortunes. These may be put on a stable basis by the breaking up of old, congested, or stagnant situations to make way for constructive results by hard work, initiative and sound judgment. But be wary of schemes and sign all papers with care. A similar state of advancement and security pervades all domestic, social and affectional relationships. Elders are of benefit.

SEE THE LITTLE CARDS

FAILURE to note the size of the small cards, and make the logical inferences from them, can prove as costly to you as failure to notice what suit has been led and therefore suffer a revoke penalty. Many a time your partner's lead may prove that he has not a four-card suit and consequently enable you to count the number of cards in the suit held by the declarer. That knowledge, added to what you already know, may enable you to deduce other important facts and point the way to correct defense.

South's only possible excuse for his bidding was that he rated himself as a fine player of the cards and his opponents as very weak on defense. He was right on half of his hypothesis.

West led the heart 9 to the K, South playing the Q. East next took his heart A, South playing the J and West the 6. He then led his diamond 3. South ran three trumps, the spade Q and J, entered dummy with the heart 10 and ran three more spades, discarding all of his clubs and making five-odd.

East defended his diamond return, arguing that he feared South had the club A, in which event a club switch would have cost a trick. His safe return was a heart. Had West held four hearts, his correct lead would have been the fourth-best 3. So either South had one more heart, making the 10 a dangerous entry to dummy, or two more, in which event West could have ruffed a third heart lead. West's failure to open the heart 3 originally was the key to the hand and, if read rightly, would have resulted in a two-trick set.

PEACE DEAL SHIFTS TO MOSCOW

Hitler Sounding Italy On Nazi War With Scandinavia

See Ribbentrop's Trip To Rome Aimed At Pressure On Duce

LONDON, Mar. 9 — (CP). — Indications increased to-day that Great Britain and France are considering greater aid to Finland, if peace negotiations fail to end the Russian invasion.

Officials kept silent on the Russo-Finnish negotiations. It was apparent in high quarters, however, the British Government wants no Finnish "surender."

Many newspapers demanded that British and French aid be given to Finland on the largest possible scale, if Finland should find Russia's peace terms unreasonable and unacceptable.

As the German Foreign Minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, sped to Rome on a mission which British diplomatic commentators interpret as an attempt to make Italy a more active partner in the western war and perhaps in striving to settle the northern struggle, conferred yesterday with Giuseppe Bastiannini, Italian Ambassador.

The conference, first since the Italian Ambassador's return from a visit to Rome, was at the invitation of Lord Halifax, and was said to be concerned mainly with the dispute over Britain's blockade of Italian coal purchases from Germany.

It was indicated, however, the talks extended beyond this to the entire sphere of Anglo-Italian relations.

The meeting was described as friendly and tending to improve the situation on the coal controversy, but it was not disclosed whether any settlement formula was found.

The British reply to Italy's protest over seizure of Italian ships carrying German-mined coal will be

Slays Jack Rabbit

Meaford, March 9.

BILLY THOMPSON, of Meaford, found a new way of killing off the large jack rabbits this week.

Thompson said he was coming down at a terrific rate of speed over a ski trail as a big jack popped up in front of him. Thompson swerved to one side and brought his ski pole down with such force that the rabbit toppled over dead. He brought the rabbit into the town to prove his story.

619 Candidates Nominated; 227 Contests

TORONTO, Mar. 9 — (CP). — More than 600 candidates will be officially nominated on Monday to contest the Dominion general elections on March 26. A survey by The Canadian Press to-day showed 619 accredited candidates in the 245 Federal constituencies.

The question of acclamations, of course, can not be decided until the official nominations are concluded on Monday, but the unofficial list of candidate salready indicates a contest in 227 seats, and of the remaining 18 constituencies where so far only one candidate has been announced, 17 are in Quebec. In 1935 there were no acclamations.

The Liberal Government forces have nominated 239 candidates to date. The Conservatives have 193 National Government candidates, and there are 96 Co-operative Commonwealth Federation aspirants in the running. Various other political schools of thought are represented by 89 candidates.

Prince Edward Island is prepared for a straight fight between Liberal and National Government candidates in each of its four seats.

In Nova Scotia's 12 seats a total of 30 candidates are ready, with a Liberal in each seat, and Liberals and National Government candidates are named in each of New

Finn Delegation Reported Riga-Bound As Reds Demand Helsinki Bow To Full Terms Before An Armistice

Blum Predicts Army To Aid Finland Minus Norse Consent

PARIS, March 9—(AP). — The French cabinet thoroughly explored today the latest developments in the Finnish-Russian war as newspapers predicted the Allies would be willing to intervene with an expeditionary force if Finland gives the word.

Premier Daladier and his ministers were closeted for 2½ hours with President Albert LeBrun, and a communique—avoiding details of the deliberations—said only that the Premier in reporting on the international situation was particularly emphatic in regard to Finnish developments.

The communique's mention of the importance attached to the Finnish question, however, bore out statements yesterday that Great Britain and France are considering expanding means of aiding the Finns.

That an expeditionary force is being considered despite rumors of peace negotiations between Russia and Finland was indicated in the press with a noticeable hardening of French opinion toward the Scandinavian neutrals.

Won't Ask Norse, Swedes

Former Premier Leon Blum, writing in his Socialist Le Populaire, said there was reason to believe that France and Britain—if formally asked by Finland—would "transport an expeditionary force without submitting their decision to the express consent of Norway or Sweden."

Already, the Allies have dispatched 400 warplanes, nearly 1,000 cannon and lesser arms to the embattled northern government.

Meanwhile Paul Reynaud, Finance Minister directing the French economic war against Nazi Germany, marshalled for Sumner Welles the facts and figures on his behind-the-front campaign. Reynaud's conference with President Roosevelt's investigator was held after the cabinet meeting.

Reynaud's latest public pronouncement was his broadcast of February 29, declaring that the nation's financial structure is sound, but announcing revaluation of the gold supply on a basis of current foreign exchange and restriction on food consumption.

Rumored Settlement

No matter what the terms of rumored settlement were the peace would be pleasing to Germany it was believed here. If Russia got little out of the deal the Nazis would would take pride in the fact that while they subdued Poland without difficulty Russia failed to humble Poland, a much smaller power. It would be a confirmation of Nazo belief in the superiority of Germany's striking power over that of any other nation.

For the allies a humiliating peace for Finland would be distressing. It would mean another triumph for the aggressive spirit against which they are fighting and the nullifying of encouragement that Finland's early success gave small nations to stand up for their rights.

Bailiff Cleared In Shooting Three Men Resisting Eviction For $35 Rent Bill

ROBERVAL, Que., March 9—(CP).—A rent bill for $35 was the indirect cause of a dispute which brought death to one man and the serious wounding of two other St. Ludger de Milot villagers under treatment in hospital here.

Witnesses declared yesterday at an inquest into the death of 66-year-old Michel Tremblay, shot Tuesday at St. Ludger with his two sons-in-law, that non-payment of the rent bill resulted in an evicition order and the tragic dispute in the nearby village.

Tremblay, who was shot on the threshold of the home of his son, Jean Baptiste Tremblay, when an armed bailiff arrived to carry out the eviction order was "responsible for his own death," a coroner's jury decided.

The jury exonerated Bailiff J. A. Cote, who admitted having fired revolver shots at Tremblay, Gustave Maltais and Albert St. Hilaire. Cote testified it was the first time he had carried a gun while carrying out his duties.

The inquest was conducted in Robervale hospital. Maltais and St. Hilaire, the dead man's sons-in law, under treatment there, testified from their hospital beds. Maltais is in grave condition from a wound in his right side. St. Hilaire is being treated for a lung wound.

Bailiff Cote said he had fired at the three men who stood in the doorway of the Tremblay home when Joseph Gaudrault, the landlord who had obtained the eviction order was knocked down by a blow from a rifle butt.

Finland Gloomily Predicts She Must Refuse

STOCKHOLM, March 9.—(AP)—Negotiations toward a Russo-Finnish peace appeared today to have shifted to Moscow, with Sweden's role in the matter more or less finished.

Attention was centred on the whereabouts of Dr. Juhu Justi Paasikivi, Finnish negotiator who was reported to have left Stockholm and was believed to be in Berlin or en route to Moscow.

Paasikivi led the Finnish delegation which unsuccessfully negotiated in Moscow before the Russian invasion began last Nov. 30.

There were rumors that Riga, Latvia, might be the centre of final negotiations, and that a Finnish delegation is en route there to meet Soviet representatives.

These reports developed as efforts to settle the war in Finland drew toward a climactic stage with the probable outcome still shrouded by indecision and official secrecy.

It became known here that Russia had demanded fulfillment of her terms before even accepting an armistice.

That Sweden has acted to establish contact between the negotiators of Russia and Finland was confirmed by the Swedish foreign office, but authoritative sources denied that Sweden had urged the Finns to accept Russia's peace conditions, or that Sweden's actions were under pressure from Germany.

When the negotiations finally were begun between the two reluctant parties, each fearful of displaying weakness, the Finns expressed a desire for an armistice. The Russians refused, it was reported, contending peace conditions must be established in advance.

Finland Gloomy

The conditions, which drew gloomy expressions of refusal from Finnish citizens, have been described unofficially as follows:

Finland to cede to Russia the Karelian Isthmus, the city of Viipuri, the entire north coast of Lake Ladoga, Hanko peninsula and its naval port, and at least part of the Petsamo district fronting on the Arctic ocean.

They are described as much more severe than the Russian demands which preceded the invasion.

(In Helsinki, some Finns saw in the Russian terms an effort to gain time for polishing a new offensive strategy, while others thought these were bargaining points, subject to reduction if Finland were in a mood to take them seriously.

(Officially Finland was silent concerning the peace moves, and a government spokesman said, "The situation has not changed' 'in reference to fighting in bitter progress on the Karelian Isthmus.

With success or failure of the peace efforts pivoting on whether Russia will lower her demands to a compromise basis, it was generally held that Finland never coud agree to yielding Hanko.

This peninsula in Southwestern Finland juts into the mouth of the Gulf of Finland and is regarded the key to the gulf, and to Finland's independence as well.

(British newspaper commentaries and a French spokesman suggested that Finland would be unwise to give up essential defence positions lest she be vulnerable to any future Russian inroad, as Czecho-Slovakia was to Germany after the Sudeten concessons of September, 1938).

A NEW METHOD of impressing the girl friend was originated here today when Randolph Coleman, Colgate University freshman from Winnetka, Ill., sent a girl friend a postcard three by four feet. It cost him 86 cents for stamps but he believes it will be worth it for he is trying to convince Jane Hardy of Sweet Briar, Va. that she should accept his invitation to the junior prom here on May 3.

Swedes Denying They Acted As Mediators

STOCKHOLM, March 9 (AP)—Although officially confirmed here that Sweden had acted as go-between for Russia and Finland in preliminary negotiations, there was strong insistence the Stockholm government was in no way acting as mediator.

It was stated further that the initiative toward negotiations came from Russia and not Sweden; that this Scandinavian country did no more, in effect, than to lend its good offices for establishing contacts and for presentation of Moscow's terms.

There was no evidence that negotiations were continuing here, and Sweden, in common with Norway and Denmark, now looks to Berlin and Moscow for further developments.

In some quarters here, Germany is regarded the actual "behind-the-scenes" mediator, and increasing attention is being directed to the question of to what extent Germany may make diplomatic capital in northern Europe, if the Finnish war is settled.

A German Plot

If some agreement can be reached, it was assumed Germany will try to extend her influence in Scandinavia by arguing she had safeguarded this region's neutrality.

Italians Hint Neutrality Plan Stands

Expect Ribbentrop To Sound Stand On Scandinavian War

ROME, March 9—(AP)—An informed Italian source said today Italy probably will retain her policy of non-belligerency after the visit here of the German foreign minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

This informant said the visit, while "important," is not regarded by Italians as an occasion for alarm.

Adolf Hitler was believed in Italian circles to have taken the initiative in sending Von Ribbentrop, and diplomatic sources suspected he might be seeking Italy's aid in case of war in Scandinavia as a result of British-French help to Finland.

Vatican authorities, meanwhile, announced Pope Pius XII would receive the German Foreign Minister in private audience Monday.

Italians assumed that Von Ribbentrop's conversations with Premier Mussolini and Count Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, would cover the entire international situation including the Finnish-Russian conflict, the Italian-British coal controversy and the possibility of war spreading to Scandinavia, the Balkans or the Near East.

Well-informed Fascists expressed belief Germany is inclined to exert pressure on Russia to moderate her peace terms to Finland.

Reds Gain Hold On Shores Of Viipuri Bay

HELSINKI, March 9.—(AP). — The Finnish High Command announced to-day that the Red army driving across the frozen bay of Viipuri had secured "a restricted foothold on the north-west shore of the bay" and captured some islands.

The great battle for Viipuri continued with undiminished intensity in the midst of efforts from outside to find a basis for Finnish-Russian peace.

The advance of the Russians on the northwest shore of Viipuri Bay produced a grave threat to Viipuri's coastal communications with the rest of Finland, menacing the Finnish defenders of the city from behind.

To the east of Viipuri, the army announced, "all enemy attacks were repulsed" with the Russians sufREDS GAIN

25 Tons Of Rock Trap, Crush 2 Quebec Miners

MALARTIC, Que., March 9—(CP). —Two miners were crushed to death early today when a solid block of rock weighing about 25 tons crashed down on them while they worked in an underground level of the East Malartic Gold Mines near here.

One of the men, Joseph Ryztola, was dead when rescue workers dug them out about two hours after the accident. The other, Nick Perry, still was alive but died of injuries soon after.

Officials of the mine said no other miners were involved in the accident as the men were working together away from others on the third level, about 350 feet underground. The huge block apparently was dislodged by the digging, pinning both men in its fall.

French, Germans Tangle In Vosges Area

PARIS, March 9 (AP)—French and German patrols west of the Vosges Mountains on the Western Front engaged yesterday in a sharp combat supported by artillery on both sides, the French command reported today.

Details of the fight or losses suffered were not disclosed.

German reconnaissance planes penetrated as far as the Paris region last night. Visibility was low throughout eastern France, and air "alerts" were not sounded.

This morning's communique said: "Nothing to report."

Just Watching Says Berlin Of Peace Talks

BERLIN, March 9.—(AP).—Authorized German sources insisted today that Germany, neutral in the Finnish-Russian war, still was standing on the sidelines and watching the situation.

Inquiries as to Germany's role in the rapidly developing discussion of means of ending the northern conflict drew only evasive replies.

German activity in the European diplomatic situation was emphasized, however, by the departure of Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribben trop for Rome to confer with Premier Mussolini.

German sources avoided direct replies when asked whether official Germany had taken notice of the presence here of Finland's venerable ex-president, Per Evind Svinhufvud.

(Havas News Agency said a report was broadcast in Helsinki that Adolf Hitler had seen Svinhufvud.)

ST. THOMAS — (CP). — Details of the civic inquiry he called to investigate his own charges that a "serious disturbance occurred at the R.C.A.F. training centre here, were announced to-day by Premier Hepburn. The hearing, opening on Monday morning, will be conducted under the Ontario Constables' Act, and will be presided over by W. H. Stringer, Commissioner of Provincial Police. "Give Finland All We Have For Honor Of Crusade" Dramatic U.K. Press Plea

LONDON, March 9.— (CP).— If the Finns appeal to the Allies for direct aid rather than accept Russia's peace terms, "they must have all which can be furnished them, for the honor of our crusade," the Daily Telegraph said to-day.

The Daily Mail, recalling that Britain and France surrendered 45 Czech divisions, the Maginot line of Bohemia and the great Skoda Works in return for 12 months to further ther war preparations, urged the allies not to lose "the only really strongly fortified position in Scandinavia."

"There can be no illusions in Scandinavia," said the Daily Telegraph. "Once Finland submitted to multilation, Bolshevist armies would be immediately on Norway's frontier. Sweden would see the whole of the eastern Baltic and Gulf of Bothnia dominated by the Bolshevist power.

"We cannot think of any Scandinavian statesman, though he cares for nothing but the interests of his country, would advise Finland to choose peace on these conditions.

"It would be the height of folly to expect from the past workings of the Nazi-Bolshevist alliance any proposals which a small nation could trust. There is no chance that the Finns will accept terms tantamount to their national death and individual ruin. They will fight to the last.

"The course of events cannot be certainly foreseen, but changes may be swift. If negotiations prove they will not give Finland peace with honor she will doubtless appeal to Britain, France and the rest of the world for help.

"She must have it swiftly and in ample measure. The Finns have fought with noble hardihood. Their bodies have been a rampart of the freedom and spirit of man against barbarism resurgent.

From the allies they must have all which can be furnished them for the honor of the crusade."

The News Chronicle said:

"This week-end will be one of the most critical of the war. For within the next few hours Finland must decide whether to accept Russia's demands or go on fighting.

Ex-Suffragette Leader Shoots Successor To Husband's Affections—"Sleeps Better"

COLUMBIA, S.C., March 9.—(AP) — Answering all questions with "I don't remember" or "I can't tell you," Mrs. Mae (Maisie) Walker Burleson, 51-year-old artist and one time suffragette leader, was detained by police today after she shot and killed her former husband's second wife.

The Galveston, Tex., divorcee, hiding a revolver in a bag, walked into a hotel cafeteria yesterday, and shot Mrs. Richard C. Burleson, wife of a United States army colonel stationed here, in the back.

Then the divorcee quickly walked around in front of the table and fired again, before witnesses could stop her. Taken to city jail, Mrs. Burleson said, after lengthy questioning, "I shall sleep well tonight."

In divorce litigation a few years ago Mrs. Burleson named as correspondent the woman who became her husband's second wife.

TORONTO, March 9 — (CP). — Arthur W. Roebuck, Independent Liberal member for Toronto-Bellwoods, and Thomas A. Kidd, Conservative member for Kingston, have resigned their respective seats in the Ontario Legislature to run for the House of Commons.

Under the Dominion Elections Act no person may be nominated for the Dominion House while he or she is a member of a Provincial Legislature.

Mr. Roebuck was first elected to the Legislature in 1934 and was Attorney-General in the Mitchell Hepburn Liberal administration from 1934 to 1937.

Lt.-Col. Kidd became M.L.A. in 1926 and was Speaker of the assembly in the Henry Conservative administration from 1930 to 1934.

On Monday Mr. Roebuck will be nominated in the Dominion election as a Liberal in Toronto Trinity and Col. Kidd as National Government candidate in Kingston City.

Big Year Ahead For Lake Shipping With More Traffic To Salt Water

MONTREAL, March 9 (CP) — Canada's war effort and shipping problems created by the war are expected in shipping circles here to make 1940 an unusual and a prosperous year for operators of boats along Canada's inland waterway system of the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes.

Shipping men here think the war may have a definite effect in changing, for its duration, the shipping pattern. In normal summers, transatlantic boats transfer their inbound cargoes at Quebec. Montreal and other ports, and lake and river boats take the cargoes to the heart of the continent.

Shipping men expect this will be changed. The Lake boats probably will travel to the salt water ports to deliver and pick up cargoes, increasing the length of their trips and increasing their revenues considerably.

Grain rates, at seven cents a bushel from the Lakehead to Montreal are up one cent a bushel over the 1939 opening rate. Early in 1939 the grain rate dropped to around the four-cent mark. Operators do not expect 1940 will provide a repetition of that experience.

The tempo of business on the lakes last year was: spring, fair; summer, terrible; fall, tremendous.

Most firms expect heavy cargoes throughout the season. There is a heavy volume of grain at the lakehead to be moved east when navigation opens. The companies expect a heavy package freight business to develop, aided materially by business inspired directly through Canada's war effort.

'Stuck' With Most Of World's Gold New Bogey For US Money Wizards

WASHINGTON, March 9—(AP). —What would you do with $18,187,875,598.61 in gold?

United States Government officials, Senators, representatives and some economists, fearful that the United States will accumulate all, or most, of the world's gold and be "stuck" with it are pondering on what to do with that huge gold hoard.

Adolf A. Berle, Jr., assistant Secretary of State, suggested recently that the United States might be willing to make a gift of some gold to assist in the reconstruction of Europe after the war.

"It seems fantastic today," said Berle, "to suggest handing over some of our accumulated gold as a free gift to re-establish international currency, to let other nations set their houses in order and thereby re-establish trade and normal life. But this may not seem nearly as fantastic a few years hence."

Berle's suggestion is only one. Elsewhere have sprung up these proposals, plans and schemes:

1. Purchase of foreign-owned islands off the United States coasts for defence purposes.

2. Purchase of foreign-owned territories on the American continent as sources of rubber and other needed raw materials.

3. Distribution of all, or a large portion, of the gold hoard in old age or other pensions.

4. Purchase of surplus American commodities for free distribution to the unemployed.

5. Reduction of the public debt.

6. Purchase of large amounts of tin, manganese, chrome, nickel and other strategic materials to insure stocks in case of war.

7. Expansion of the currency by issuing a large volume of paper money backed by the buried gold.

Trapper and Dog Drag Pal For 50 Miles

WRANGELL, Alaska, March 9.—(AP). — His paralyzed partner safe in a hospital, a weary Athabascan trapper told yesterday how he alternated with his dog in pulling an "ambulance" sled over a tortuous fifty-mile route.

Mike Williams, 42, of Telegraph Creek, was stricken more than two weeks ago with a malady that paralyzed one arm and his body from the waist down. His partner, Henry Gleason, loaded him on a sled and began the long haul from their camp far up the Iskut River.

Most of the trip was over frozen snow and glare ice. Both man and dog had difficulty in keeping their footing. Gleason made camp only twice, once for shelter from a storm which held them ten days at the mouth of the Stikine River.

"The choice of Sweden is even more unpleasant than that of Finland. She has to decide whether she will press Finland to accept terms which, in effect, will leave that country at Russia's mercy and will go to the length of barring help from the western powers, or whether she will, stand by her Scandinavian neighbor and act in the spirit of the popular slogan, 'Finland's fight is Sweden's fight.'

"Present indications are that she will choose the former course. The Swedish people must regard their role with the greatest misgivings, for none of them can fail to see the ominous parallel with the situation at the time of Munich. 8. Loans to "solvent" foreign countries to support their monetary systems and enable them to continue trading with the United States after the war.

Some economists believe that, even if no deliberate action to reduce the gold hoard is taken, the amount held may diminish after the war. The gold piling up here, they explain comes:

1. From the favorable balance of trade resulting from the fact that the United States now exports more than it imports. When the war ends this trend might be reversed.

2. From war-frightened nations seeking a safe place for their treasure. It is expected that at least some of that gold will be recalled in peace time.

3. A. Goldenweiser, research director of the Federal Reserve Board, and one of the outstanding gold experts in the United States, sums up the situation as one which must depend, for its eventual solution, on restoration of world trade and monetary stability after the war is over.

Hepburn To Hold Inquiry At Air School

ST. THOMAS, Ont., March 9 — (CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn plans an inquiry, within the scope of the Ontario Government, into conditions at the Royal Canadian Air Force technical training centre here which, he asserts, resulted in a "violent disturbance" at the school a month ago.

The Premier announced his intention last night after another telegram from Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of National Defence, in reply to Mr. Hepburn's allegations of a "walkout" of aircraftsmen at the training centre.

Details of the manner of the probe, to be opened Monday, were not announced immediately. There may have been a hint, however, in a statement in Mr. Rogers' latest telegram: "You have further advised me that you propose to question public officials and local citizens. That is a matter on which you must make your own decision."

At the same time Mr. Hepburn said he would not accept a previously tendered invitation from the Defence Minister to visit the school Monday, accompanied by newspapermen, and "ask any questions you or they wish to ask."

Mr. Hepburn took occasion to label as "just welching" Mr. Rogers' attitude in his telegram, which read in part: "I do not propose to share your responsibility for making the Royal Canadian Air Force the target of a bitter political controversy."

No Reflection On Staff

To The Canadian Press, Mr. Hepburn issued a statement declaring that his demand for an inquiry was not intended to reflect on "the character or efficiency of the officers and staff at this training institution nor on the personnel of the school in any way." Rather, he said, the officers and personnel "are victims of inefficiency in the department of national defence at Ottawa.

"I realize that the men who comprise the training staff are handicapped greatly through the lack of proper facilities and that they undoubtedly have been carrying on under difficulties."

The training centre, which has an enrollment of about 900 men and an additional 250 personnel, was originally built as a provincial mental hospital. At the start of the war Ontario offered it to the Dominion Government for military purpose.

"I thought Rogers was willing to co-operate in this matter," Mr. Hepburn said in reference to Mr. Rogers' telegram, after arriving at his farm home here from Toronto. "But I find now he is just welching."

The Telegram

"1. That there was a violent disturbance at the Royal Canadian Air Force training centre near St. Thomas, involving several hundred men.

"2. That it took the military authorities several days to round up the men.

"3. That I had given the men blanket leave so that I could deny there had been any disturbance.

"4. That the censors warned local newspapermen that the story could not be published."

The first of these, Mr. Rogers said, had "no foundation in fact" and the second was "equally untrue." The third he termed "absolutely untrue."

"Your statement that the censors had warned local newspapermen that the story of the alleged occurrences at St. Thomas could not be published is also untrue," the Minister said. "It has been denied officially by the censorship authorities in Ottawa and by the editors of the St. Thomas Times-Journal."

It was announced from Mr. Rogers' office that whether or not the Premier visited the training centre newspapermen still will be allowed to go there.

LAKEFIELD

Three Members Of Wong Family Prize Winners

LAKEFIELD, Mar. 9 (ENS). — The annual commencement exercises of the Lakefield High School drew a capacity audience to the Memorial Hall on Friday evening. The program opened in snappy form with choruses by the girls of the Glee Club, "God of Our Fathers, There is my Home" and "Some Folks" with Charles Renaud conducting. The girls, dressed in middies and skirts with scarlet ties, brought rounds of applause after each appearance. Other choruses during the program were "Ye Mariners of England," "The Mill," "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall" (with whistling chorus), "Piggy Wiggy Woo," "Abide with Me," and "Taps."

J. W. Ridpath, chairman of the High School Board, was chairman, and in his opening remarks he gave a hearty welcome to all on the occasion of the annual commencement exercises. "Another milestone has passed in the history of the High School, bringing many joys and some sorrows. We have one of the best modern schools in the province. The report of the High School inspector who recently visited the school showed that he found our school very satisfactory. The teaching staff and especially the department of the pupils drew his attention."

The prizes for the annual field day were presented by F. Munroe of the staff. Audrey Patterson was the winner of the junior girls' trophy, while Joe Maloney carried off the boys' junior cup. To Margaret Hunter and George Tanner went the senior pupils' cups. Archie Stewart and Tanner tied, and a 440-yard dash was run off with Tanner winning by a close margin.

The mile race consolation prize, a memorial medal in memory of the late Dr. Mackenzie, was presented to Bill Nicholls. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Kenneth Mackenzie, this prize was presented by Mr. Smith of The Grove, also the trophy to Kevin Leahy for the mile race.

Miss Cora Charlton contributed three numbers, "Homing," "Wooing of the Rose," and "Spring Comes Laughing," Miss Mary McKercher accompanying.

J. F. Harvey, principal, spoke of the value of education which is so needed at the present time, especially in the war crisis. He urged that if possible parents see that the child is enabled to secure their diplomas.

The following pupils were given diplomas:

Intermediate—Gladys Allen, Isobel Bullock, Carl Hurl, Doris Jackman, Hilda McConkey, June McConkey, Greig McMullen, Burrit Mann, Norma Parks, Muriel Payne, Evelyn Reid, Maryalice Renwick, Cecelia Towns and Rose Wong.

Miss Doris Charlton, who is now attending the Peterborough Normal School, gave the valedictory address.

The general proficiency shields donated by citizens of the village and the prizes given by the School Board, were carried off by three members of the Wong family. To Bernice Miller went the E. W. Bailey Shield, Rose Wong the F. L. Erskine Shield, Lily Wong the E. H. Northey Shield, Mary Wong the C. S. Tanner Shield, and the E. J. Millage Shield to Doris Charlton.

The highlight of the evening was a one-act play, "The Pampered Darling." All parts were ably taken and were direction by Miss Bessie Dunn. Connie Gibbons, the younger sister Elizabeth Brown, Janet Gibbons, very much concerned over her brother's sudden illness, Helen Kelly, Mrs. Perkins, who kept house, Lois Yale, three girls going to the week-end party, Annebelle Greene, taken by Maryalice Renwick, Jessica Bacon, Winnie Murphy, and Joy Garland, Gladys Allen; Norma Evans, the fiancee of Janet Gibbons. Archie Stewart, Dr. Rudolf von Happensburger, the German doctor, Gordon Hampton, Victor Gibbons, the pampered darling, Stafford Hill, Floyd Davis, Victor's chum, Fred Bennington, and Dudley Fields, who gave Victor the secret of his sister's week-end trip, Bill Clark.

Following the play two snappy tap dance numbers were given by Jean Miller with Miss Aileen Young accompanist.

A realistic camp fire scene under the capable leadership of Lloyd Minchall, gave all the boys a part to play. A number of songs and stunts were carried off with the Indian evening prayer, "Father, a needy one stands before Thee, I who sing am he," bringing the program to a close.

Finns Take Red Posts.

The army said a Russian detachment, whose size was not given, was "completely annihilated" at Lavajaervi, that the Russians again lost "a large number of men" in furious but fruitless attacks throughout yesterday at Kollaanjoki, and that at Kuhmo, below the nation's narrow "wasp waist," the Finns captured some Russian positions, "much booty and 125 prisoners."

For the third successive day the high command told how the Finnish air force bombed and machine-gunned Russian forces seeking to beat their way across the ice of the Bay of Viipuri. Besides the troops, it said, there were columns of trucks, sledges and tanks.

Six Russian planes were reported shot down yesterday.

There was no official comment today on the reported peace negotiations but the communique showed clearly that the overtures had brought no let-up in the fighting.

CHAPTER XV

JANIS ordered Maud to take her tray down to the breakfast room. She was too jubilant now to be stuffed away upstairs. She must have beauty of living things around her, look out at green trees, twittering birds, sit where she could see the Fall roses flaunting a riot of color against a high stone wall.

The canary in the cage by the breakfast room window, began a lusty trilling when she appeared. She stuck a piece of cookie in his bowl, regardless of his health. "Celebrate, Dicky!" she cried laughingly, and sat down at the small table.

"I'm simply famished, Maud—and everything's marvelous," she sang out.

"No wonder, Mis' Sheldon," grinned Maud. "You-all didn't eat 'nouf dinner las' night to fill a chickadee."

Janis scowled, quickly erased it. "But this is a new day, Maud. Who could help being happy on such a glorious morning?"

"I don't know, Mis' Sheldon—deed I don't agreed Maud, and went to answer the front dorbell.

Janis Learns Things

Sally Chesser came in breathlessly, her black eyes snapping, as if she were furiously intent upon some particular mission. At first Janis was not particularly glad to see her, then abruptly her lips parted in a smile of welcome. It was perfect to talk to someone, even Sally, in the midst of this happy mood which was touching her senses like the spontaneous caroling of angels.

"Lucky you!" Sally exclaimed, glancing at the tempting food on bright yellow china. "I thought I'd come in and see if you were ever up before noon.'

"Mercy, yes—always. Sit down. Had breakfast?"

"After a fashion."

Sally settled herself unceremoniously in the chair opposite Janis, threw back the squirrel-claw collar of her cheap rust coat, jerked her tight hat to more comfortable angle, said crisply: "Don't care if I do. What a stunning negligee!"

"She would!" snapped Sally.

"Bring Miss Chesser coffee," Janis said to the hovering Maud. "And bacon and eggs—and some of your good doughnuts."

Maud went kitchenward, pride winging her feet. Whenever she was allowed to show off her cooking, her cup of happiness overflowed.

"This is grand," sighed Sally, nearly good-natured. "I guess a real breakfast won't do me any harm for a change. A girl like me gets careless about eating. You know how I tear around—forgetting it's mealtime."

Janis flung her a penetrating look, wondering if Sally always had the price of a meal. She remembered some of her own difficult days, felt sorry for Sally.

"I know,' she assured her gravely. "I'm so glad you dropped in. I'm feeling high—want to celebrate with some one."

"Really?" Sally seemed surprised. "But then, when you don't have to worry about making a living, you can feel high—nothing else matters."

"Oh, yes, it does—so much else—matters."

"Naturally you must have friends—and a date or two to keep up the old morale. But with a girl like you it's hard to decide who are your friends—or if your date is after your money or what."

"Lowdown" on Lucinda

Janis shrugged indifferently. "I haven't been bothered that way—that is, not seriously. I'm not at all rich, if that's what you mean. I've a few special friends like you and Lucinda—and Rock. The others—" Janis' brow puckered — are acquaintenances——"

"Who take all they can get from you," put in Sally cryptically.

"I wouldn't say that, Sally. Why be so hard on them?" Sally couldn't too easily put a damper on Janis' happy spirits which were charitable toward all the world this morning.

"And Lucinda—who drags you around to smart shops to buy everything under the sun—and gets her fat commission — I suppose she's your friend."

"It's absolute truth — I swear it. I thought you should know.

Boycott Broken

MEXICO CITY, March 9—(AP). —A settlement with the Sinclair oil interests, indicating a break in the world-wide boycott established by big petroleum interests when Mexico expropriated their properties two years ago, was reported reliably today. Disclosure of a plan to pay the United States firm 9,000,000 barrels of oil as full indemnity for its seized properties was made by one of President Lazaro Cardenas' advisers.

No Proposals

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—State Secretary Cordell Hull said today that Laurence A. Steinhardt, United States Ambassador to Soviet Russia had made a factual report to the state department on the two-hour talk he had yesterday with Premier Vyacheslaff M. Molotoff.

Steinhardt's report, Hull said, was a summation of the facts, rumors and conflicting reports about the Russian-Finnish situation and contained no mediation or other proposals from Molotoff.

Hamilton Jockey Club Head Dies

HAMILTON, Ont., March 9 — (CP).—Robert R. Simpson, president of the Hamilton Jockey Club, died suddenly at his home today. Earlier in the week he complained of a slight attack of influenza.

Mr. Simpson, as vice-president of the Jockey Club, succeeded to the presidency in December, 1936, on the death of Harry McIntyre, a former business partner. He was familiar to race patrons on the Hamilton track and other racing strips throughout Canada and the United States.

An ardent sportsman, Mr. Simpson was most active in curling, having been a member of the Hamilton Thistle Club for the past 25 years. In 1928 he was president of the club's curling section and was formerly well-known as a skip. He did little curling in recent years but always took a keen interest in the sport. He also was a staunch baseball supporter.

For many years, Mr. Simpson and Mr. McIntyre were associated as partners in the old Royal Hotel here, mecca of Hamilton night life and social activity in the early years of the century. Later Mr. Simpson became manager of the Canadian Knitting Mills, Ltd., and also was associated in management of the Wentworth Mineral Water Company.

AN ALL IMPORTANT TRUTH

Jesus saith unto them, verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep. By me if any man enter in he shall be saved, and shall find pasture. John 10: 7-9.

Simple words, yet thought provoking. A famous scholar was invited to preach to University women The striking note was the simplicity of his language yet he spoke of the deep things of the faith as he made his appeal to his highly-educated congregation. The Lord Christ is the Master Teacher. He is drawing to the close of His earthly ministry and He desires to leave deep thoughts in the minds of His Apostles in such simple language that they cannot be forgotten by the plain man.

Whenever our Lord made an important statement He introduces it with the words:— "Verily, verily; Amen Amen; It is true. It is true." "I am the door of the sheep." A modern thinker reminds us of "the striking egoism of our Lord. "I am the light of the world"; "I am the door of the sheep." These are the astounding originalities of Christ; it is the sign manual of the Master."

Christ of all teachers concentrated attention upon Himself; upon His own personality. It is popular to think of Christianity as a religion of ideas, opinions, doctrines. These come later. But the essence of Christianity is Christ Himself; Christ in you. "That Christ may dwell in you by faith; that Christ may be formed in you" is the important truth.

Our Lord is speaking to a pastoral people. In the presence of their leaders, their recognized shepherds, He makes this tremendous claim: "I am the door of the sheep; I am the appointed way by which all believers, teachers and taught, enter into a place of safety, of liberty and food."

For hearken to the Lord developing His "proverb." "I am the door; by Me, if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and shall find pasture." Christ is the door of the sheep through Whom they pass into the fold. The fold, the Church, the enclosure. What bitterness surrounds these words. Yet the fact remains that the Christ gathers His people into the fold, the Church, the enclosure. the fellowship. Perhaps this terrible war with all its awful possibilities may break down these divisions among Christians and bring about a unity which nothing else could. In the meantime let us live in charity with each other.

In simple words Our Lord tells us of the three primary truths. "I am the door of the sheep; if any man enter in he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and shall find pasture." What are the key words of your life? Safety, liberty, food.

Safety—"By me if any man enter in he shall be saved." Jesus Christ, the incarnate Son of God, Who lived, died and rose from the dead, is the door through Whom we enter into safety. "No man can pluck them out of My hand."

Liberty—"He shall go in and out." It is a place of liberty. That enclosured is for safety not idleness. Every morning you go out through Christ to your work until the evening. You go out into the world to leave your mark and witness upon your fellows. "Ye are My witnesses."

Food—"Shall find pasture." Food for your soul; food for your mind so that you are thrilled by the wonder and glory of the Christian religion. "Ye are all one man in Christ Jesus" contains profound philosophy for the future of our race. It is your privilege to make your little contribution to that Body of Christ—the new man; the new creation. Do you partake of that spiritual food—prayer, reading of God's Word and worship—so that your life may be rich, strong and active? Do you daily attune your mind to listen to the Holy Spirit?

"MY SHEEP HEAR MY VOICE."

Gypsy S. Smith Is Coming To City

Gipsy Simon Smith of London will be at St. James' United Church for a week-end mission, March 10 and 11. The Gipsy was born and raised in the gipsy encampment near Cambridge, England. There is a charm about Gipsy Smith's personality which wins from the outset, and prepares for that response to his earnest appeals which has been marked in his services. The message of the evangelist goes straight to the heart of the Gospel and his methods are as sane as the Gospel is clear. Gipsy Smith has conducted services in many churches in England, the United States, and Canada. He is highly recommended as a preacher, singer, and hymn writer.

Large congregations heard the gipsy during his last visit two years ago. The Gipsy will preach on Sunday, March 10, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and will lecture on Monday, March 11, at 8 p.m. on the subject: "Modern Miracles in the Slums of London."

Brother Gives Life For Britain Sister Is Inveterate Enemy

A Lenten sermon on "In Other Hands" will be preached in St. Andrew's Church next Sunday night. The basis of the address will be the last letter of a young naval officer, Sub-Lieut. Brian Gore-Booth, who was lost when H.M.S. Exmouth was recently sunk with all hands by enemy action. His parents are Sir Joselyn and Lady Gore-Booth, of Lessadell, County Sligo, Ireland. This young man was brought up about 10 miles from where the pastor of St. Andrew's Church was born. A strange feature of the situation is that Sir Joselyn Gore-Booth's sister, the Countess Markovitz, was one of the leaders in the Irish rebellion against English rule in 1916, and is credited with the shooting of a policeman on the streets of Dublin in that year. She was imprisoned for her action, but was afterwards liberated. The Countess continued to be an inveterate enemy of British rule in Ireland until her death.

In the letter referred to, which was published in the morning papers in Ireland recently there is the following extract:

"Perhaps there will be a break in the clouds soon. I feel we are not fighting for victory only, but to eliminate all sorts of evil things. This experience brings home the true nature of the Christian religion, and if one has never been through it, one might never have found its inner meaning—that the roots of happiness lie in service for others, and forgetfulness of self—in self-sacrifice. I know now some ancient truths I never knew before. I have tasted the strength of leaving oneself in other hands in times of great adversity."

This passage has a very close connection with the Lenten message, and comes from a gallant young man who died for his country.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 10 is Matthew 26:30-56, the Golden Text being Matt. 26:39, "Not as I will, but as Thou wilt.")

"And WHEN they had sung a hymn, they went out into the Mount of Olives." That was the ending to last week's lesson. Only twice in the four gospels and in the Acts of the Apostles is singing mentioned —both occasions at night, in Acts 15:25, it is recorded that Paul and Silas sang in prison.

Today's lesson is the saddest in the gospels, recording, as it does, our Lord's agony in the garden of Gethsemane and His arrest. After Jesus and his disciples had sung the hymn they went toward the Mount of Olives, to the garden of Gethsemane, where Jesus left eight of His apostles, saying, "Sit ye here, while I go yonder and pray." Taking only Peter, James and John, He went farther into the garden, and as they went, Jesus "began to be sorrowful and full troubled."

"My soul is exceedingly sorrowful, even unto death: abide ye here, and watch with me," He told them. Then He went farther and fell on His face and prayed: "My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass away from me; nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt."

Finds Disciples Asleep

Going back to His disciples He found them asleep. Even their love for Him could not keep them awake. It must have hurt Him to see them sleeping when He was so troubled. "What, could ye not watch with Me one hour?" He asked Peter. These very best friends of His surely could not have realized they would have Him with them as He had been or they could not have slept.

Christ realized their weakness and lack of knowledge, for He said to them, "Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit is indeed willing, but the flesh is weak."

A second time He left them, praying, "My Father, if this cannot pass away, except I drink it, Thy will be done." Again returing to the disciples He found them again asleep, and left them once more to pray in the same words. Then He said to His still sleeping companions, "Sleep on now, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners."

Almost immediately, however, He aroused the men by saying, "Arise, let us be going: behold, he is at hand that betrayeth Me." Commentators think He must have seen lights and heard a disturbance as Judas with soldiers and many others came toward them.

No Anger For Judas

At no time did Jesus ever show any anger or resentment against Judas Iscariot, even when He was betrayed by Him. When Judas asked the Lord, "Lord, is it I?" when Jesus said someone at the table with Him would betray Him. He answered simply, "Thou hast said." Did He know how bitterly Judas would repent His great crime? Probably. It seems to us that Judas was the most dreadful criminal of all time in all the world, but the Christ did not condemn even him.

When Judas and a great multitude with him, came to the Garden of Gethsemane, Jesus did not shrink from Him. He waited, Judas said to his companions," "Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is He hold him fast." Then when the traitorous kiss was planted on His cheek, with the greeting, "Hail, Master," Christ simply said to him, "Friend, wherefor art thou come?" "Then came they and laid hands on Jesus and took Him."

One of the disciples—it was said to be Peter—took his sword and attacked a servant of the high priest's, cutting off his ear. Jesus rebuked him, saying, "Put up again thy sword into his place: for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword. Thinkest thou that I cannot now pray to My Father, and He shall presently give Me more than 12 legions of angels? But how then shall the scriptures be fulfilled?"

To the multitude Jesus said, "Art ye come out as against a thief with swords and staves for to take Me? I sat daily with you teaching in the temple, and we laid no hold on Me."

"Then," say the scriptures, "all the disciples forsook Him and fled," and the Lord was left alone with His enemies to face trial and an agonizing death.

Would you have left Him thus? Even Peter, who so lately had sworn he would share even death with his Lord, went away with the rest. Verily no man knows what he will do when he's frightened and sorely tried. "Watch and pray," indeed, is the watchword, that we do not show our selves weak in the moment of storm when we should be firm for the right.

Triumph Through Surrender — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 26:36-56

After the feast of the Passover Jesus took His disciples to Garden of Gethsemane, on the Mount of Olives. Eight of them He left, taking with Him James, Peter and John, asking that they watch with Him while He went aside to pray by Himself.

After His prayer Jesus came to the three apostles and found them sleeping; "Could ye not watch with me one hour?" He asked sadly. Three times He went to pray by Himself, and always He found His apostles sleeping when He came back to them.

The third time He came to His sleeping apostles He told them to "sleep and take your rest," but immediately He saw lights and men coming, and said: "Arise, let us be going; behold he is at hand that betrayeth Me." Judas and a multitude approached.

Judas told the soldiers, "Whomsoever I shall kiss, that same is He; hold Him fast." And he went up to Jesus and kissed Him, saying, "Hail, Master!" And the soldiers surrounded Him and took Him away.

"Well, We're Here"

New York newspapers have a number of good staff reporters and writers; men who can handle any assignment which comes their way and do it well.

One cannot but speculate about their feelings when they tried to interview the captain of the Queen Elizabeth after that great liner dropped into berth. It was front page stuff all over the continent even before the vessel came to port. War on—3,170 miles of ocean to cover—submarines, mines and raiders—Hitler boasting that he controlled the sea—what a story!

But Captain Townley, described as ruddy, grey-haired and heavy built, was not what one could possibly describe as particularly communicative. He wouldn't gush worth a hoot. He remarked that the trip was "excellent," and then feeling that he had gone away too far he toned the thing down until it became merely "very good." And from that rather drab statement he would not depart; he went neither up nor down the scale.

Reporters could probably scent the mystery which was attached to the trip. All the members of the crew knew was that they were going for boat drill, and that was nothing new. More routine with them than anything else. They might have been going to give the Queen Elizabeth a little run around to see how she went. Something like the car salesman who takes his prospect out and shows what can be done on a hill.

Nor was Captain Townley any wiser than the crew. There were sealed orders handed to him and they were not to be opened until he had put out to sea. When he finally looked at them his instructions were there—he was to take the Queen Elizabeth to New York.

Surely in all that there would be material for stories. It had everything—mystery—adventure—danger—and finally success. Well what was said? When Capt. Barlow, the New York representative of Cunard-White Star, went on board he met up with Capt. Townley, and he said "Hello." Nothing more. And Capt. Townley, who had brought the greatest liner in existence safely over, replied: "Well, we're here." And that was all.

Can you imagine a reporter getting warmed up for adequate action on the like of that? It may be that the same feeling of restraint has its effect on a good deal of news coming from Britain. The folk there as a rule are not known for their much speaking about what they are doing. Possibly they have their own reasons for saying little, although at times we wish they would tell us much more. But there is a fair enough example of the British outlook. The captain after bringing the finest liner in the world across the Atlantic in war time announces: "Well, we're here."

Equal To a Good Farm

In the Barrie Examiner there was a report of a court case where damages had been claimed as the result of an automobile accident which happened on July 12 of last year. The details of the accident are not interesting as they are much the same as many other accidents, reports of which appear in newspapers.

The result was that four persons were awarded damages to the total of $5,523, and $600 costs was also allowed, making a total of $6,123.

The driver of the truck held responsible for the accident was a young fellow of 20 years, and whether there was much—or any—insurance carried we do not know. But one thing is certain, there is a rather formidable bill to pay.

Perhaps the insurance people were right enough a year or so ago when they raised insurance rates, and when some of the companies decided they would go out of the car insurance business entirely. That verdict at Barrie is not an isolated one because it is possible to find such actions in many of our courts. There have been a number of assizes where traffic cases and divorces seem to crowd out everything else.

Perhaps it has not any particular bearing on the case, but we noticed the other day where a good farm had been sold. A place of 130 acres with a nice piece of bush land, good buildings, rock well, nice home served by Hydro and running water, and the whole thing went for $5,800, and that was several hundred dollars less than the award at Barrie. So that accident on July 12, when brought down to the basis of value, meant that something better than the price of a good farm was involved.

Perhaps that Barrie verdict was not a sufficiently severe case to bring in as an illustration. There was one at Chatham where the driver of a truck was killed in August of 1938. The driver had a wife and five children and the damages awarded to them amount to $15,000, so if the reader is minded to think in terms of good farms in connection with accident awards it will be possible to add about three to the list.

Father And Son

There will be a sad father at Lake Penage in the Sudbury district—Henry Hutchinson. His son David, who couldn't have been much over 20 years, is dead. He was found in a box car some place in Quebec.

Peterborough has its interest in this happening owing to a chain of strange circumstances. David was taken in by the police here more than a year ago on a charge of vagrancy, and was sent to the county jail. A lady visiting here saw the report in the Examiner, and knew that the son of Henry Hutchinson had been away from home for months. Wisely she got in touch with the father, and he made a hurried trip, using dog-sleigh and train to get toward Peterborough from his remote home.

There was a reunion, and officials speeded it by arranging for the young man's release. Father and son left for home together. But it does look as though David again turned toward the road and the great open spaces. Possibly the father has again heard of the son, but this time there will be no reunion.

Business Is Brisk

Whatever the reason, aliens in Canada are seeking naturalization papers at the rate of 2,000 per month, and that is a high mark in the business. We learn that people have various reasons. There are cases where people have lived in Canada for 50 years and then they apply for naturalization so they can be eligible for old age pension. Plainly it is a bread-basket motive, but there is nothing to prevent it.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, stated some short time ago he was suspicious lest foreign countries were requesting their nationals living in Canada to become naturalized so that in that way they would not be disturbed and could carry on their work as enemy agents in Canada.

We take it that our R.C.M.P. are sufficiently on the job to check up on all applicants, and our judges before whom applicants appear are sufficiently shrewd to be thoroughly satisfied before giving an affirmative answer.

Another reason for the present rush may be that a good many foreigners now realize that citizenship in Canada and in the British Empire has a meaning. They know what is going on in the countries from which they came, and they realize the freedom they enjoy here is greater and more permanent than they could find elsewhere. Whatever the reason, business is brisk.

How a Story Grows

The Examiner previously made mention of how readily news spreads today and how clever are the German propagandists at taking anything they receive and turning it out to serve their own ends. They have done the same thing with the reports of Premier Hepburn's charge of a walk-out at the air training school near St. Thomas: A Canadian Press cable from London reports that the broadcast was directed from Berlin to the United Kingdom at 2.15 p.m., and again at 8.15. It was also sent to Asia, Australia and in Africaan to South Africa. It was worded:

"The Prime Minister of the Canadian province, Ontario, has, according to American newspaper reports, accused the Canadian censor of having withheld news that Canadian airmen had demonstrated against disgraceful treatment in one of the Canadian training camps.

"The inmates of this camp left it because they were only being employed with scrubbing and polishing the premises. They had to be rounded up by other Canadian troops and conducted forcibly back to camp."

After having read the account of the affair at the school as recorded in the St. Thomas Times-Journal of February 20 it becomes difficult to realize the extent to which the thing has grown. When Mr. Hepburn gave his version he stepped it up considerably from the report published in St. Thomas, and when the Germans laid hands on Mr. Hepburn's version they caused it to grow some more. Mr. Hepburn had provided the Germans with the very material for which they search every day.

It's Not So Easy Now

A woman of Montreal, now dead, had some dealings with a firm of stock brokers, and in Superior Court the whole transaction was reviewed, the result being that the brokers have been ordered to return $15,000 and $19,500 worth of securities which the woman handed over in payment for the stock sold to her.

The stock was a mining venture, and the price at which the lady purchased varied from 25 cents to $1 per share; the present price is 1½ cents per share. It was revealed in evidence that salesmen acting for the brokerage firm had applied what is known as high pressure in order to secure the business, and it was also held that the brokers had made what was described as an unreasonable profit. The deal had constituted a fraud under the Security Frauds Prevention Act.

And that outcome seems to be just as it should conclude. There is much less of that kind of work going on now than formerly, and the result of that court case is one of the reasons. Nothing could be more heartless than well-trained and smooth salesmen bearing down on a woman who had been left some good securities but who had little knowledge (or none at all) of the world of business and its queer ways. They would take her perfectly good securities and load her up with junk and make a nice margin of profit by the transaction. Fortunately our law makers have stepped into the situation and we are relatively free of this form of swindling today.

NOTE AND COMMENT

St. Catharines claims it now has the lowest tax rate in 19 years, and so far no person has set up a yowl about such a falling off.

The Bank of New Zealand has loaned the government £1,000,000 for war purposes—and without interest. Now there's our idea of a bank what is a bank.

Young man in Amherstburg stole a letter containing $10 from an aunt of his girl friend. Silly thing to do as he's had to give up the $10 and the girl as well.

London, Ont., street railway had a deficit for the year of $16,800 and it also has a demand from the employees for higher wages. The solution would seem to be paying the higher wages out of the deficit.

Man in a Brantford house slept soundly while firemen came and attended to a blaze in the residence. He must have had either a clear conscience or else what he ate for supper must have rested lightly, comfortably and well on his stomach.

Man of 54 in Toronto has been sent down for a year for breaking into a store, and he had been out only a few days after doing two months on another charge. Trouble with that kind of business is that you can get in on such short notice but you can't get out on the same plan.

When a Toronto man opened his store the other morning a bandit came and took $472 from him and then clouted him on the head. What we can't understand is why a man with that amount of money wanted to bother about opening his place of business.

A car being driven along a viaduct in New York crashed through an iron guard rail and plunged 30 feet to land on a car of coal. In that one crash there were killed two men, three women and a girl. That is a sad illustration of the way in which deaths can multiply due to the poor driving of one individual.

Pine Lawn is a residential suburb of St. Louis, and has a volunteer fire department. A residence took fire but as the owner had not paid his $1.25 in dues the department refused to turn out and the house was destroyed. So in Pine Lawn money is the greatest thing in the world.

Three more Associated Press staff men have been sent to the European war front. So any one of those many days when the official reports say that everything has been quiet the three new men will be able to show how good they are by knocking out a couple of columns each of real good war news.

IT HAPPENED

(By A.R.K.)

¶ The family of Josiah Barge, it grew to be extremely large, five girls and seven boys; and when the children all were home, Josiah now and then would groan, was bothered by the noise.

¶ As time went on why they stepped out, to start and find their way about, and wrestle with their fate; so there were empty rooms around, Josiah and his wife soon found, the house was much too great.

¶ Josiah figured for a spell, about the place where they might dwell, he reasoned it all through; they'd get a smaller home this time, his wife could sit and rest her spine, and have less work to do.

¶ But word came from the youngest lad, that things were going entirely bad, his trade was very slow; he had three children and a wife, they lived a hard and stony life, his earnings were so low.

¶ The second daughter proud and swell, had wed, alas, but none too well, had scarce enough to eat; two children there were not well fed, they viewed the future days with dread, they might be on the street.

¶ The home of this Josiah Barge, which once had seemed by far too large, is filled the second time; Josiah's wife's still running it, nor has she leisure time to sit—so she can rest her spine.

SCENES LIKE THESE

WE came across an interesting scene one day this week. We were making a call at a farm and found the lady of the house coming in from the barn in full farmerette outfit. "Yes, I've been at it all day. We got the turnips in from the pit this forenoon (the thermometer registered 20 degrees) Bill has to be away this afternoon so I'm doing the barn work.

The youngsters were coming in from school one by one and conversation took that turn. "Jack, Oh, he's in the seventh Grade. He'll have one more year in the public school. We've been saving up to get him through High School. Wasn't it plain ole John Knox who said, "Ilka aholdar in the land means something for the stability of the commonwealth?" Just think of what this woman is doing for her native land. No toil is too severe for her if the toil means the education and the general welfare of her children. We'd like to know what that boy'll be doing 35 years from now.—The Exeter Times-Advocate.

BLACKOUT!

"So it was only your luminous watch! Well, I'm glad I investigated the matter."

• More Facts About Candidates

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,—It is my belief that people exercise their franchise oftentimes carelessly. The most important factor to my mind in deciding how one should vote is the qualifications of the candidate. If we send good men to Ottawa we can expect good Government but not otherwise. In England great importance is attached to the personal qualifications of those who offer themselves for public office. There unless a man is exceedingly brilliant he must have a good background that indicates that he is of good charcater and of sound business judgment.

In Peterborough West we have an agricultural area, a highly industrial city and the usual problems that arise in taking care of the welfare of the public generally.

We should, therefore, be able to decide on a candidate who understands the problems of this riding by reason of his training and experience in business and public life.

There are two candidates, Mr. Glover the Liberal, and Mr. Fraser the Nationalist. Some of us know Mr. Glover because of his long residence here and because of the contacts he made as publisher of a newspaper. Mr. Fraser, however, is almost a complete stranger. I doubt if he knows very many people in the riding and he does not live in the riding. Is he a farmer or what have been his business associations? We should have more information on Mr. Glover too.

Both candidates should, to my mind, have published a complete statement of their qualifications in order to enable the electorate to come to an intelligent decision. The following questions might be submitted and answered by the candidates or by someone on their behalf:

1. Age.
2. Trade or profession.
3. The employers or the firms with which each have been associated (this should include a summary showing the various periods in which either candidate has been associated in business and an outline of their activities).
4. Experience in public life of each candidate with dates.
5. Military training and service with dates.

There have been in the past, and particularly in municipal politics, too many men allowed to attain office because the public did not weigh them in the balance. If a proper analysis were made of the qualifications of candidates seeking public office we would certainly have better men in municipal politics and, no doubt, the same would apply in Provincial and Federal politics.

Trusting that the candidates will see that an adequate statement is published in response to this request.

• Nazis Are Starving Themselves

INVIDIOUS Nazi propaganda is already circulating stories through neutral countries that the Allied blockade of Germany's war economy is affecting the civilian life of that country, and that the effect is that women and children are suffering from lack of certain essential food commodities. The Allies, according to Herr Goebbels' henchmen, are waging war on defenceless women and children.

To answer this stupid and febrile charge, Sir William Beveridge has prepared a pamphlet, "Blockade and the Civilian Population," which has just been issued by the Oxford University Press. In the course of his argument, Sir William makes a number of very pertinent observations. In the first place, he notes that if there is a shortage of fats and starches in Germany's diet, it is not so much due to the blockade as it is due to the Nazi use of fats and starches.

That is to say, while fats and starches may be part of a nation's diet, they are also part of the essential military needs of that country when it is at war. Fats can be turned directly into munitions; starches can be turned into solvents for explosives. And there is not a doubt in the world that the Nazi experts doubt in the world that the Nazi experts in aggression are doing these very things with all the fats and starches they can lay their hands on, even at the cost of causing privation to the women and children of Germany. It is, in fact, the famous choice of "Guns or Butter."

Sir William sums up the situation:

"If the civilian population of Germany or any part of it goes short of essential food in this war, that will be by decision of the Nazi Party, because the Government diverts so much of its total resources of manpower and foreign exchange and food supplies to making and using munitions as to starve their own women and children. That is what the German Government did in 1914-18. The German Government of today may be expected to repeat this brutal and fatal error."

PLAN TO STEAL SUB?

ACCORDING to Richard Mowrer, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News in Istanbul, the "story behind the story" of the recent expulsion of German technicians from Turkey was the discovery of a Nazi plot to steal the German-built Turkish submarine Atalay, now awaiting its trial runs in the Sea of Marmora. Evidence in support of this theory if offered by the correspondent.

The Turks discovered that 23 Germans at the naval yard, who had been building the submarine, were carrying mysterious packages aboard. The men explained that these contained spare parts. However, when the Turks opened one of the bundles, they found it contain food.

Further suspicion was aroused by a suggestion of the Germans that no Turks should be on board the sub on its first trial run.—Edmonton Journal.

RUNS CAR ON CHARCOAL

"SINCE I converted this car to charcoal-burning four months ago, it has done 7,000 miles."

Kelvin E. Anderson, of Parkes, made this statement in Sydney.

"I've done nothing but answer questions since I converted the car," Anderson said, as a crowd began to collect. "Whenever I stop in a strange place I just sit back and wait for the questions to start."

In answer to questions, he said:

"My car will do 75 miles on a three-bushel bag of charcoal, costing about 27 cents.

"The 240-miles' trip from Parkes cost me about a dollar in fuel against $7.50 in gasoline.

"Maximum speed on charcoal is 50 m.p.m., which is 10 less than on gas.

"The car has two throttles and two accelerators—one for gas, one for charcoal, either of which may be used as fuel."—Australian Press Bureau.

NOTABLE WAR GIFT

THE GOVERNOR of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand, Leslie Lefeaux, is contributing a complete year's salary toward New Zealand's war effort. His salary is $25,000 a year. Until he came to New Zealand in 1934 to take up the post, his appointment being for seven years, Mr. Lefeaux was assistant to Mr. Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England. The prime minister, in expressing appreciation of Mr. Lefeaux's generosity, said Mr. Lefeaux had intimated his desire that the final year of his tenure should be regarded as voluntary, and his service would be without salary if hostilities continued until the end of 1940.—Brandon Sun.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth .... And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the flow of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth.

So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. —Gen. i. 1, 26, 27.

General Difference

"What's the difference between a British General and a German General?" military college cadets were asked.

Said one Cadet: "A German General is very clever until he blunders, while a British General blunders until he is very clever."

The Other Wallace

He was a Canadian visiting friends and relatives in Scotland.

Passing through an historic Highland town, he was impressed by a most imposing statue in the main street.

Accosting a canny old Scot, he asked: "Say—who is the bloke?"

"That," said the loyal Scot, "is a monument to the memory of Wallace."

"Well—you don't say," came the surprised answer, "good old Edgar!"

Non-Aggression

"One grandfather living?" asked the recruiting official. "Is he on your father's or mother's side?"

"Oh he varies, sir; 'e sticks up for both of 'em—a sort of 'nootral'."

Silver Lining

"Why do you have so many Scotsmen among your airmen?" asked the American who had been shown over the flying ground in England.

"It's like this," replied the English guide. "Since the Scots have learned that every cloud has a silver lining we can't keep 'em out."

Drew A Traitor W. A. Fraser Tells Electors

HASTINGS, March 9 9— (ENS)—Speaking at a Liberal rally here last night in the interests of voters of Hastings-Peterborough and Northumberland ridings, W. A. Fraser, Liberal candidate for Northumberland, branded his Conservative opponent, Jamieson Bone of Belleville, as a "political cull from South Hastings riding." This was in reply to a statement made by Mr. Bone that W. A. Fraser had termed him a "foreigner." "When I made that statement at Warkworth I was referring to my opponent as a foreigner to this riding. I offer an apology in this respect. He is a political reject from South Hastings."

Reviewing the list of Conservative candidates who have arisen in the past ten years for both the Dominion and Provincial elections, Mr. Fraser said he had found each one of them gentlemen and worthy opponents, but regretted he could hardly use the word "gentleman" in the case of Jamieson Bone. He also said he regretted to learn there was a vicious whispering campaign going on within Northumberland riding, "far more vicious than I ever knew before," he told the rally.

Levelling charges against Colonel George Drew, Mr. Fraser branded him as the "Lord Haw Haw of Canada and public enemy number one." "Col. Drew is a traitor to this country by revealing direct to Germany evidence of Canada's war preparations." Mr. Fraser related that a part of Col. Drew's speech was broadcast from a German station on Thursday."

Heading the list of speakers on the platform was Hon. G. N. Gordon of Peterborough, former Minister of Immigration, who told the meeting that old-age pensions and mothers' allowance were the first two pieces of legislation put through by the King Government on its return to power. Dr. Manion and R. B. Bennett had opposed these moves "because they claimed Canada could not afford it." He said the now campaigning National Party under Dr. Manion had a careless disregard for facts in their charges that the Seaforth Highlanders from Vancouver had gone overseas not properly equipped. This had been proven untrue, but Dr. Manion had never retracted his statement. Hon. Mr. Gordon pointed out that profiteering was as high, in some cases, as fifty per cent. during the war of 1914-18, but the King Government had taken steps to have no recurrence of such cases during the present war.

Referring to Col. George Drew, Mr. Gordon said there was much criticism because Col. Drew's speech was censored and later when Col. Drew was permitted to give an uncensored address over the air "there was nothing in it anyway." He pointed out Col. Drew as an inefficient person to criticize the King Government.

Rork Ferguson, Liberal candidate for Hastings-Peterborough riding, pointed out that the King Government had brought better prices for the farmers through trade with other countries.

"The more trade we endeavor to keep up with other countries, the more we do to keep away from war," he said. When this war is over, it is not us that will be paying for our share, it will be our children and grandchildren, he warned. "Religion is the only thing we have uplived, and all democratic countries are fighting to preserve it."

"Unity of government is one of the greatest things we can possess and a Government containing Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Ernest Lapointe who have kept unity in this Dominion, is a worthy one. We must admit these men are true statesmen to attain such unity. If it was not for these men succeeding in increasing the defence estimates after four years' labor, I doubt if we would be half as well prepared for this war as we are at the present time."

Dr. D. C. Hay of Hastings introduced the speakers to the meeting. The speeches were interspersed with musical selections by Dan Smith and Bruce Sweet.

PICKLE BLEND CUCUMBERS

This special blend is composed of the outstanding pickling varieties in correct proportion to produce maximum yields of uniform, symmetrically shaped, dark colored pickles. Each variety in this mixture is a pure strain grown separately, after which the seed is mixed to secure proper cross-pollination, resulting in first generation hybrid pickles. Their vigor, productiveness and uniform quality follows by the same principle used in hybrid seed corn and other hybrids. The value of this blend has been thoroughly proved. It is, in fact, very similar to the blend used for years by several large commercial pickling concerns. Order direct from this advertisement. (Pkt. 10c) (oz. 20c) (¼ lb. 40c) (lb. $1.25) postpaid.

St. John's Lose To Toronto In Cage Series

St. John's team vanished from the Ontario junior church league series Friday night when the local Anglican entry was defeated 36 points to 25 in the second game with First Avenue, played in the gymnasium of the Eastern School of Commerce in Toronto. St. John's won the first game here a week ago by 38 to 33 and thus lost the round 69 to 63.

It was a hard fought and exciting tilt. The Toronto junior champions got the jump on St. John's in the early stages of the first period and the Saints' margin was soon wiped out but from then on to the end of the struggle it was a tight argument and the result of the round was in doubt until the final moments. The Toronto gang led 21 to 12 at half time, putting them four up on the round but St. John's battled valiantly after the rest period and with eight minutes to go were only three points down. However, the Peterborough entry had the bad luck to lose first Stewart and then Craig, two of their three starting forwards, on four personal fouls and though their teammates fought desperately against odds to pull the round out of the fire, their gallant attempt failed.

Ken Gillespie was the scoring ace for the losers, registering thirteen points and Craig had seven while Les Ascott turned in a whale of a game at guard. The scoring points for the winners were well distributed over the whole line-up, Moores and May beng tops with seven each while Andrews was the only Toronto player who did not succeed in getting a point.

Toronto (36).—Centre, Dyett (3); forwards, Wright (6), Andrews; guards, Moore (7), Carter (2). Alternates, Bidgood (2), Sweezie (4), Williams (5), May (7).

St. John's (25) — Centre, Craig (7); forwards, Dyer (3), Stewart (1); guards, Gillespie (13), Ascott (1), alternates, Clarke, Amys.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, March 10.

Sunday's horoscope is a most beneficent one, for there is promise of happiness, progress and prosperity, with many graces and gratifications in all departments of life. Individual enterprise and initiative assure promotion and preferment, with tokens of esteem and affection in all contacts, personal and professional. Those in place and power are particularly friendly and approachable.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of great progress and promise, with all affairs moving to gratification and pleasure under the expansive and generous rays of major planets. It is a time when personal initiative and industry may boldly claim the reward of merit, elders and those in power and authority being particularly gracious, just and generous.

A child born on this day may be energetic, have fine creative ability and sound ideas, with much ambition and the talents to back them up. It should have the support of its elders and those in power.

Those King Billie's Orange Squeezers are apparently getting the juice knocked out of them of late and although they are still in the prize money, will have to perk up some to be there at the end of the season. Another double loss this week drops them into fourth place.

This week the Fire Hall fell victims to their good shooting and could only garner one point.

The Fire Hall Orphans held the Quaker squad pointless and helped themselves a little nearer the prize column.

The Lightning Macs held the Southenders in check, allowing them only one point and scoring their first drawn game of the season, leaving only two teams who have not been held to a draw this season, No. 11 and No. 16.

Owing to next week, March 18 to 22, being Holy Week, the schedule may be twisted some to work in accordance with the church organization. Watch your paper.

The Winners

Hear ye! Hear ye! Here are the winners of the Telemarker "Better Names Contest." Five names, five winners, each to receive a carton of delicious cereals. Here they are and the names which they submitted to win these prizes:

"Little Baldy", Mr. George Brown; "O'Brian's Ridge", Miss Isabel Reid; "White Face", Art Ackerman; "Dizzy Dip", R. Gillis, Bethany; "Brunswick Heights", W. Thompson, Bethany.

Some Local Dirt

Ye gleanner of gossip picked up a choice morsel the other day whilst roving about with the proverbial ear to the ground. Gather in while we whisper the latest. They tell us that that Don Juan of the Peterborough Ski Club, that Super X Class Big Hill Man from Duffus' snuck off down east of here to Quebec City for a little skiing. Yup, Gerry is doing a little missionary work down there and his latest protege is none other than Miss Jean Arthur of celluloid fame. Leave it to Gerry to pick out the winners even if they don't ski, or does she? He also took time off to learn the Emiele Aillias height speed parallel swing skiing and will no doubt have plenty to show the boys on his return, if and when he does return.

Bus for Bethany, Sunday? Well so far as we know at the time of writing, the bus will leave at 10:00 a.m. as usual barring a sudden change for the worse in the weather. Skiing was excellent on Wednesday with about 60 enjoying a fine day.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Frigid weather is delaying the appearance of the veteran Schoolboy Rowe in a game for Detroit Tigers. He was to have pitched yesterday, but the temperature was too snappy.

AVALON, Calif.—Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs is tickled over the work of Pitcher Bill Lee, who allowed the regulars only one hit in three innings yesterday in a camp game.

Marsh Charges Dependents Been Mistreated

A challenge was thrown at Prime Minister Mackenzie King on Friday night by John A. Marsh, member for West Hamilton in the last House during the course of a speech in the Canadian Legion Hall in support of Gordon K. Fraser, National Government candidate.

Mr. Marsh offered, as an evidence of sincerity and good faith in connection with the charges he made of mistreatment of soldiers' dependents by the King Government, that if re-elected on March 26 he would resign his seat if the Prime Minister could prove that his charges were untrue.

The Hamilton member, a graduate of Peterborough Collegiate, declared that he had had 61 cases in his own riding where dependents did not receive the assistance that should have been coming to them for months. He charged that there were scores of such cases in Hamilton and hundreds all over the country, and added that the fact that the cheques that had been coming through were provinsional and were to be followed by retroactive cheques proved that the recipients were eligible for assistance last fall. "I did not say anything about these cases for months," he said. "Finally when no improvement was noticeable I decided that it would be unpatriotic to keep silence any longer."

"When I read in the newspapers the other day that Mr. King had been out in Prince Albert kissing babies," continued Mr. Marsh, "it made me rather angry to think of that while I had been busy the same day trying to get justice done in the case of three women who had not received the assistance to which they were entitled."

J. Ford Strickland, K.C., was chairman of the meeting. Other speakers in addition to Mr. Marsh were T. P. Lancaster, former M.L.A., of Havelock, John A. Bradshaw, and the candidate, Gordon K. Fraser. Enjoyable music was furnished by the Northrop Trio, the program including a much-appreciated piano solo by Harry Northrop.

People Are Worried.

"I come to you as a Canadian talking to Canadians, Canadians who are interested in their homes and families, in their church and in their country," Marsh began. "I have talked to people in every part of this country, and I find that they are worried over the evils of party government and the curse of patronage."

It had begun to be realized, the speaker said, that even in peace times there were problems such as unemployment and relief that could only be dealt with by a National Government, and now that the country was engaged in war the need for such a government was correspondingly great.

Mr. Marsh said that he had always had admiration for Mr. King's qualities of heart and mind until the Prime Minister had failed to play the game. Given the co-operation of the Opposition when Parliament met last September Mr. King had promised there would be another session of Parliament before the election. He had called the House together early this year and then dissolved it in three hours as if to say, "There's your session; how do you like it?"

"There was something shattered in my heart, then," said the speaker, "and I decided I could no longer put any confidence in Mr. King."

In regard to National Government, Mr. Marsh said that New Zealand, Australia, Great Britain, and France all had that type of government. "Canada is the only country among the democracies in the war that hasn't National Government," said the speaker. "They are all out of step but our Jock."

Mr. Marsh ridiculed the attempt made by Premier King to blame Mr. Bennett for Canada's unpreparedness. That charge had already been answered by Mr. King's own words on September 8 last when he said that he did not blame the previous administration for not making heavy expenditures on defence. "I wonder that Mr. King did not go back to Sir John A. Macdonald," said the speaker.

Dr. Manion, Mr. Marsh stated, had been a fighter and leader in every field of life, a good soldier, a fine surgeon, an administrator with experience in three portfolios and a man of broad human sympathies.

As for Mr. Fraser, whom he had known for years, he was a man of boundless energy, good business ability, a man who knew the problems of the riding and had the will to do something about them. "I hope he will be my room mate and buddy down at Ottawa in the next session," Mr. Marsh said in conclusion.

Forward To What?

In his introductory speech Chairman J. F. Strickland said that he noticed the slogan, "Forward with Mackenzie King." "Forward to what?" asked the speaker, who added that in the Liberal advertising he had also seen an appeal not to break Canada's steadfast stand. "That is just the trouble," he commented. "Canada has been standing so far as an adequate war effort is concerned when she should have been moving forward."

Mr. Strickland, declaring that he had been unable to think of anything important the King government had done in its five years of office despite the possession of the biggest majority in history in the House, predicted that the quiet vote in this riding would make itself felt and elect Gordon K. Fraser.

T. P. Lancaster declared that it was a pleasure for him to have an opportunity to say something about Mr. Fraser. "He is an ideal candidate," declared the former member of the Legislature. "He has popularity, philantrophy, energy, business training and the will to serve; I don't know anything a candidate should have that he does not possess."

In The Wrong Camp.

Of Mr. Glover, the speaker said that he had nothing but the finest things to say but in this particular fight Mr. Glover suffered the penalty of being in the wrong camp.

Mr. Lancaster said that the situation so far as the King government's war effort was concerned was explained by the Toronto man who had said that the Government hadn't taken off its coat and gone to work.

Greeted With Cheers.

Gordon K. Fraser was greeted with cheers when called on to speak. "I want to repeat what I have said before," he said. "My fight is not with Rollie Glover but with Mackenzie King. King has to go and he's going to go."

Mr. King, the speaker charged, was temperamentally unfit to guide a nation in war time. "He has always been a compromiser and a trimmer, never a fighter," said Mr. Fraser. "He has been talking a great deal about unity but, so far as I have been able to make out, a fair definition of what Mr. King means by unity is anything that will help to keep the Quebec vote in his pocket." "Incidentally," continued the speaker, "what a spectacle of unity we have witnessed in the last few days with the Liberal Premier of Canada's largest province battling with the Liberal government at Ottawa. I don't want to get into that dogfight but the thought occurs to me that if that March of Time film was not to be used for propaganda purposes what is all the fuss about? We will be able to see the picture after the election anyway and we can surely wait two or three weeks. The dependents of Canada's soldiers have had to wait much longer than that for the assistance that should have been forthcoming from the King Government."

PETERBOROUGH'S WAR ORDERS!

Because it concerns a well known Peterborough firm and because of the light it throws upon the failure of local factories to get any substantial share of war orders one of Ian Mackenzie's defence contracts is of great interest to voters in this riding.

A large quantity of practice bombs were needed last summer for the Royal Air Force and the Canadian General Electric Company submitted a tender that was the lowest put in by a bona fide manufacturing company. But it did not get the contract. That went to a firm known as the Interprovincial Equipment Company of Ottawa, whose tender was exactly one cent a bomb less than the bid of the Canadian General Electric Company.

The Interprovincial Equipment Company, says the Post, is in fact a partnership of three insurance brokers who are the members of a well-known insurance firm in Ottawa. The head office of the Interprovincial Company is in the office of this insurance firm and the company, according to credit agency reports, is not shown as having any plant for manufacturing. The president of the company is a former president of the West Ottawa Liberal Association.

That is the outfit that, under methods of the King government, secured the contract that should have gone to the Canadian General Electric Company.

No wonder the Financial Post says that "it leaves it to the judgment of the business community of Canada to say whether the placing of a war-material contract with a firm of insurance brokers who have no plant, at a price one cent below the bid of a recognized, well-equipped manufacturer can be justified in sound business practice."

"It would be interesting to know," adds the Post, "whether it was mere chance that the lowest tender was exactly one cent lower than that of the next lowest tenderer."

And the minister under whose regime this group of insurance brokers without a plant got a contract for vital war supplies, still sits in the cabinet, although no longer minister of defense, and presides over a department that disburses 57 millions in a year.

It is the knowledge of things like this that will make it impossible for hundreds of personal friends of the Liberal candidate in this riding to vote for him. Even their regard for him cannot blind them to the glaring faults of the Government of which he is the candidate.

That is why they are voting for a new deal for themselves and for Canada by voting National Government.

Game Overseer Posons Pack Of Eight Wolves

TORONTO, Mar. 9 — Ontario's never-ceasing war on wolves, spurred on by the $15 Government bounty, scored a major victory on the Far North bush front recently when one game overseer bagged an entire pack of eight and a fire ranger knocked off three as they were feasting over their kill.

Details of the two kills were released yesterday by D. J. Taylor, Deputy Minister of Fish and Game, as he pointed out that the number of bounty claims did not indicate that the wolf population was increasing.

"I believe," he added, "that a greater effort is being made by local sportsmen and trappers to keep the wolves down."

The exploit of Frank Kinahan, game overseer at Missanabie, about 150 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, in wiping out an entire pack by poison, is believed to have set a record in the department. It called for extreme skill in setting the poison, aided perhaps, by favorable weather conditions, Mr. Taylor explained, as wolves are remarkably sensitive to man scent. Kinahan set the poison in the carcass of a deer which had been felled by the pack, after, for some unknown reason, they had been driven off temporarily.

Three more wolves were killed feasting over a full-grown buck by Fire Chief Ranger H. W. Greens on Ranger Lake, forty miles north of the Sault. Aside from overseers, to whom wolf-killing is in the line of duty, poisoning is prohibited except by special permit issued only to expert trappers.

Statesmen's Snapshots

Hon. H. H. Stevens

Henry Herbert Stevens, generally called "H.H." has been a political skyrocket.

But the full impact of his light did not burst upon Canada as a whole until many years after it was first fired in Vancouver in 1911.

He leaped into prominence in Vancouver nearly thirty years ago by blasting the city's fire department, which they had always regarded with pride and joy. He charged discrimination in promotions, rake-offs on tenders for fire horses and so on. Whether these charges had anything to do with it or not, the fact remains that in one leap he jumped from the council chamber in Vancouver to the House of Commons in Ottawa.

In 1926 he achieved national attention by levelling similar charges against one of the important federal departments. It, too, brought repercussions.

This Bristol-born dynamo has been a school teacher, journalist, prospector, farmer, director, accountant, soldier member of parliament, minister of the crown and a leader of his own political party.

Today he is back in the ranks of the Conservatives and has been playing a major part in the present campaign.

He went to school in Peterborough, Ontario, and later taught school there. He tired of that and went to the Pacific coast only to drift down to Seattle in time to join a contingent leaving for the Philippines. He found his way to China and took part in the campaign of the Allied nations during the Boxer uprising. As an assistant quartermaster of the 9th infantry, he was at the siege of Tsin Tsin and on the long march to Pekin.

Honorably discharged from the army he retraced his steps to the British flag and once more began dabbling in many things, particularly real estate.

When he was elected to the House of Commons in 1911, he was acknowledged to be an indefatigable worker, a competent parliamentarian and one of the ablest of the younger men who went into power behind Sir Robert Borden.

In 1921 he was made a minister in the Meighen government and again in 1925 Mr. Meighen gave him a portfolio, this time as head of the department of customs.

When the Conservative party was returned to power in 1930, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett selected him as his minister of trade and commerce.

Then, shortly before the 1935 general election, he formed his own Reconstruction party. When the final ballot was counted, the only Reconstructionist to be elected was H. H. Stevens. In 1938 he returned to the Conservative fold and was mentioned as a possible party leader to succeed Mr. Bennett.

Now in his sixty-second year, H. H. Stevens has had a busy life of hard work, of failure, defeat and triumph. But come what may, he hsa left an indelible mark on the records of Canada's political life during a most trying generation.

Tories Charged With Scuttling Of Air Force

James J. Cullinan of Toronto, speaking at Douro Friday night in support of R. M. Glover, declared that the Bennett government, of which Hon. Dr. Manion was a member, had "scuttled" the Canadian Air Force, and that among the constructive military accomplishments of the King administration were the building and equipping of coastal defences on the Atlantic and the Pacific, the enlargement of the Canadian navy and the restoration of the air arm.

The evidence of "scuttling," he said, was found in the fact that in one year the Bennett government cut the appropriation for the Air Force to $77,000, stating that the money was to be spent only for maintenance, and that the machinery was being put away in grease.

When the King government came into power, plans for 23 squadrons of airplanes were laid down, and when the war broke out "we had three hundred air planes, many of which were ordered to the coasts for partol duty.

"The government adopted two maxims in its military plans," Mr. Cullinan said. "One was that we had nothing to fear from our neighbor to the south of us, and the other that we would never be engaged single-handed in Europe. Canada can never be invaded by an army of occupation, and all we had to prepare for was the protection of ourselves from the sea and the air. Our efforts have been directed to strengthening our defences on our two coasts, and building up an air force. Our first work was done on the Pacific coast because of the possible threat from Japan. And while these defences were being provided on our coasts, including the development of the navy and our air force, we were also getting started on modernizing our militia units."

Mr. Cullinan contended that such a program was a reasonable one for a comparatively small country like Canada in which peace and disarmament had been actively advocated up and down the country to the confusion of the officers who were charged with administering the military affairs of the nation.

Reeve Martin Coughlin was chairman of the meeting, and the speakers were the Liberal candidate, R. M. Glove: Mr. Cullinan, Dr. E. M. Crough, E. L. Sackville, and T. J. McMurray. Ed Shortt delighted the audience with a group of songs, including "The Rose of Tralee" and "Moira My Girl,' 'and a clever monologue. Miss L. Hurley was accompanist.

Votes For the Man

T. J. McMurray of Peterborough, in introducing Mr. Glover, said it was his custom to vote for the man. "In this election I can see nothing that would cause me not to support him. I have known Mr. Glover since I came to Peterborough, and I've had many an argument with him, but that made no difference with Mr. Glover, nor with me. He is a gentleman in every sense of the word, and if he were Prime Minister of Canada it would make no difference with Rollie Glover. He started out in life like the rest of us and worked himself up in business, and he has been the same Rollie Glover all the time. I have no doubt about him being elected, and I am sure he will work in your interests as you have never seen before."

Mr. McMurray recalled the Union government in the last war, and said there had been seven years of racketeering. "J. H. Burnham resigned from the government because they had promised to go to the country. He deserved a lot of credit from the people for the stand he took, and after he did resign they certainly squeezed him out."

"Doing My Best"

Mr. Glover said he was in the election because it had been urged upon him as a duty. "I am doing the best I know how, and you can depend on me doing my part, but I could not hope to succeed without the heartiest support of the electors. As I have stated I am in favor of the policies of the King government. I believe they have done all that could be reasonably expected to get Canada's part in the war under way, and that they have been working in harmony with Great Britain and France. I think it would be a mistake to upset the government in the midst of such a great emergency.

Suppose a factory were to change its whole executive and put in a new one, the system and the production of that factory would be greatly disturbed, and it would take a very considerable time to get used to the new administration. I feel that if you, as electors, don't do the job right, no one can say where we will land. The King government has been co-operating conscientiously and faithfully with Britain and France, and if you were to put in a new one it would probably take as long as twelve months before it would be working efficiently."

Mr. Glover spoke of the government's agreements and plans to stimulate export trade in natural products, bacon and cattle and flour. "I believe from all the signs that the farmer's turn is very close, and he certainly has it coming to him." Mr. Glover said he would endeavor to look after the interests of the farmers, many of whom were well known to him, and to give the government his fullest support in the prosecution of the war.

Suspicious of Manion

James G. Cullinan declared that the people had every reason to be suspicious of the National government that was now being proposed by the Hon. Dr. Manion. One of the bitter memories of the last war was the Canadian Northern Railways deal that "had been put over" by Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Clifford Sifton by which millions of dollars were made by the government guaranteeing the worthless stock of the railway.

"We have not forgotten that there has been considerable talk in certain quarters not so long ago about the Canadian Pacific Railway acquiring the assets of the Canadian National Railways free of debt," Mr. Cullinan said. "At this time I would like to challenge Dr. Manion to declare whether Sir Edward Beatty, the president of the C.P.R., or one of his cohorts will be behind this new Union government. I refuse to use the word National government, because we have got the best national government this country ever saw.

But, when we recall the Canadian Northern deal of the last Union government, the people have a right to know whether the head of the C.P.R. is now behind this new Union government."

Mr. Cullinan said that Dr. Manion must be driven to slim hopes of winning when he undertook to undertook to promise the Canadian people that he would abolish the $2.50 license fee on radios. "I think the Doctor must have been laughing when he made that promise. He thought it would win him a lot of votes, and I suppose it will get some in the cities. If he does abolish the fee he will be destroying something that was his own creation when he was Minister of Railways in the Bennett government."

"It will mean, that is if by any chance he should be the head of the government, that we will go back to the old way of private broadcasting, or that Dr. Manion will take $2,500,000 from the treasury every year for radio purposes. Well, it will be a great advantage to the big hotels like the Royal York that have scores of radios. You will be paying for them out of your taxes, and you know that is not the way public utilities should be paid for. The practice is that people pay for the utilities which they use, and radio broadcasting is one of them."

Mr. Cullinan said the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was established to supply radio broadcasts in this country to all the people, especially those in the outlying districts, and not solely to the people living within the narrow reach of the former private corporations operating in the larger cities.

Ira M. Nattrass Laid To Rest At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, March 9 — (ENS). —The sudden death of Ira M. Nattrass, following a heart attack early on Monday morning, came as a distinct shock, not only to his immediate family, but also to the community at large as well.

Widely known for his successful buying and selling of fine horses, both of the racing and show classes, and for his knowledge of horsemanship, Mr. Nattrass, who had been in his usual health right up to the time of his death, had arranged with buyers from New York state to meet him in the early part of this week, with a view to disposing of a number of horses which he had on hand.

Mr. Nattrass was in his 78th year, and was a son of the late Thomas Nattrass, and his wife, Sara Jane Milburn, practically all of his life having been spent in Cavan and Millbrook. He was a Conservative in politics, and in fraternal circles had gone as high as he could in the Orange Order, the local Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 79, and the Royal Black Preceptory, No. 945, having charge of the committal service at his funeral on Wednesday. He was connected with the Methodist and United church, and was a member of the senior Men's Bible Class of St. Andrew's Sunday School. He was also a veteran of the Northwest Rebellion in 1885, and with the only other surviving local veteran, Edward McCorry, brought from the West the bell which hangs in the local fire hall tower as a trophy of war.

For many years Mr. Nattrass was a familiar figure at the fall fairs, over a wide area, including the Canadian National Exhibition, winning many prizes, both in speeding and the ring events, and as a showman of fine carriage and saddle horses. It is recalled, in connection with his racing career, that he won the running race of the C.N.E. for three consecutive years previous to the South African War, with the same horse, Lavington, which later was sold for service in the Boer war. In his earlier years, Mr. Nattrass was a member of the lacrosse team for which Millbrook was noted in those days.

Besides the bereaved widow, whose maiden name was Alice Clarke, the immediate surviving relatives include one son, Clifford, at home; and one daughter, Mrs. Ben F. Ware (Gladys), of Cleveland, Ohio; another son, Clarence, died at the age of three months; there are four grandchildren, three great-grandchildren, and a number of nieces and nephews; also one sister, Mrs. G. E. Burnham of Millbrook, and one brother, John of Toronto. Previously deceased were two brothers, Harry and Thomas, and a sister who passed away in early life.

The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Wednesday, at 2.30 p.m., from his late residence, Tupper street, Rev. A. L. Sisco, B.D., conducting the service for the church, and the L.O.L. hitual being in charge of Worshipful Master, J. J. Powell of No. 79; Worshipful Preceptor Percy Stinson, for R.B.P. No. 945, and Brother J. L. Byam, chaplain.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, and the pall-bearers all brother Orangemen, included J. J. Powell, P. Stinson, J. L. Byam, James Roddy, Stewart Fallis, and Nathaniel Belch. Interment was in the family burial plot at Gardiner's Cemtery.

Ready
AND ABLE FOR THE BIG TASK AHEAD

With silent yet perceptible determination and without need of regimentation or special organization, the Canadian Farmer has accepted the responsibility which is his, to maintain a ready abundance of the vital foodstuffs so essential for the Empire and the success of its great cause.

Difficulties and disappointments may have impeded his progress through the trying years from which he is just emerging, but provided, as he now is, with purpose nobler than self-interest, he sets himself to the task with loftier ambition and renewed energy. Eager he is for that conscious recognition within himself of having a definite and necessary part in the Empire's struggle to retain and maintain our dearly won and highly treasured freedom. Zealous is he that his contribution may be worthy and adequate.

By his side ever ready to help make more effective the farmer's effort is the Canadian Implement Maker whose co-operation in furnishing the most efficient machines enables him to multiply his output and extend his activities so that today he produces more with less manpower and in the most economical manner yet attained.

Never were demands of Empire more urgent—never was the Canadian farmer better fitted or better equipped to meet whatever demands may be made. Massey-Harris prizes proudly the distinction it has earned as—"The Service Arm of The Canadian Farm."

Trio Of Goals Are Scored In Third Heat

KITCHENER, March 8.—Peterborough Petes were dropped from the ranks of the unbeaten in the Ontario Hockey Association's Intermediate "A" round robin series last night when they were handed a 2-1 set-back by Kitchener Greenshirts, victims of a 5-2 reverse at the hands of Peterborough last Friday night. The win for Kitchener enabled them to pull up on even terms with the Petes. This game was a toss-up from start to finish featured by the fine work of the opposing goalies, 'Bindy' Bindernagel of Kitchener and Ray Harding of Peterborough. For two periods the net-minders turned aside everything that came their way and it took well-executed plays in the third period to lodge the puck behind them, The Petes capitalized on a penalty to Simon to score the first goal of the game after a minute and 10 seconds of play in the third period. Starr supplied Tompkins the pass. Alex Fehrenbach got that one back four minutes later after taking an up-ice pass from Smith and then at the 9.20 mark Pete Grau shot home the winning marker on a play with Simon and Vrooman. Harding made a partial stop of the shot but Pete picked up the loose disc and pocketed it before Harding could recover his footing.

Petes Start Slow

Greenshirts outplayed the Petes by a considerable margin during the first 15 minutes of the scoreless first period, but once the visitors became acclimatized they came on fast to set the pace during the last five minutes and it was only some fine goal tending by Bindernagel that kept the invaders off the score sheet. Both goalies had a chance to show their stuff early in the game as play swung from one end to the other, but gradually Greenshirts built up an edge in territorial play and had at least half a dozen golden opportunities only to have Harding turn their drives into neutral corners.

Crowe served the only penalty of the period, being chased for boarding Fehrenbach but so good was the Pete's defence for the Kitchener power play that the 'Shirts had only one shot on the Peterborough net while they had the advantage in manpower. Heal had probably the best scoring chance for Peterborough, picking up a two way pass from Kingdon and Tompkins close in but Bindernagel came out to smother the shot.

Goalies Star

Both teams opened up a few notches in the second in which the goalies again were the outstanding men on the ice, shutting out opposition marksmen for the second successive 20-minute span. Honors were about even with Petes pressing at the start of the period and Greenshirts coming back to hem them inside their own blue line for a two-minute stretch half way through during which they pumped rubber at Harding from all angles and did everything but score. Blewett was hurt momentarily when he crashed into Lang and the pair fell to the ice but apart from a bump on the nose he suffered no serious injury. As a matter of fact he was back in a few minutes later to lead a number of dangerous Peterborough sorties on the local goal.

The boys started laying it on a bit and at times it looked like there might be fireworks but nothing developed and only one penalty was handed out, a minor to Simon for tripping Kingdon with only a few seconds to go.

Scores First

Simon's penalty backfired after just a minute of the third period had ticked by when Tompkins shot Peterborough into a 1-0 lead by pocketing Starr's passout from a power play in the Kitchener net. Four minutes later Alex Fehrenbach squared the count and then before the half way was reached Pete Grau scored the winning goal. The scoring served to add more pep and zipper to the play which hit a lightning clip at times. Checking became heavy but it was all legitimate and not a single penalty was handed out.

LEX CHISHOLM
Toronto Maple Leafs
(By Central Press Canadian)

Something new in major league hockey was introduced last fall when Toronto Maple Leafs were training for the current campaign. Conny Smythe announced that the team would carry 20 players all season, juggling them around 15 per game as the rules required. Considerable was heard about the new players who would make the National league jump—Billy Taylor, Wally Stanowski, Donald Metz, Red Heron, Hank Goldup—and Lex Chisholm, although the latter probably drew fewer words than the others. And now with the season almost over he's proven to be about the best of the lot, other than the flying Stanowski. As a background for his efficiency in the big time Lex had a year with Oshawa juniors and three with Oshawa seniors in the O.H.A., and last season with the latter team led the circuit in scoring. When his team concluded its work for the season he signed a pro contract and got into a few games with Syracuse in the Int.-Am. league. This season he was given the choice of playing with the Leafs or being loaned to New York Americans, and confident of his ability to make good he chose to join the Toronto team. Most of his amateur career was spent as a centre but since entering the N.H.L. he's played mostly at right wing. Galt was his birthplace 24 years ago. His Lex cognomen is derived from Alexander.

P.C.I. Basketeers Victors In Oshawa

Peterborough Collegiate senior basketball squad journeyed to Oshawa Friday night and succeeded in defeating the Oshawa Collegiate team in a game that was closer than expected by 37 points to 31 P.C.I. are out of the running and the game meant nothing to them, but they turned in a fine performance to take the decision from the Oshawa Collegians. The latter led by Krantz who registered nine points in a neat scoring performance gave them plenty of opposition all through the piece.

Neis Foster was top scorer for P. C.I. with a nine-point score to match Krantz, while Moorhead had eight and Johnston and Harle kicked in with seven.

The line-up:

P.C.I. (37)—Moorhead (8), Harle (7), Taylor (6), Foster (9), Johnston (7), Scott.

Orfuns Cagers Cop Series Over Belleville

Sparked by Audrey Craig who registered eleven points in a fine scoring effort, the local Orfuns defeated Belleville girls 28 to 15 in a fast Ladies' Ontario Basketball Association battle in the Y.W.C.A. gym. Friday night.

In the other two games on the card, City League fixtures, 'Y' Gym triumphed over Westclox 18 to 13 while Quaker Aces outscored the Quaker Debs 26 to 17.

The Orfuns' speed, more finished ball handling and more accurate shooting enabled them to keep comfortably in front of their Belleville opposition over most of the journey and they were never seriously threatened. Audrey Craig tossed in five baskets in the first half and Barbara Blade was close behind with three, with the result that at the rest period the Peterborough girls were leading 20 to 12. Belleville defence tightened in the second half and the visitors were able to hold Orfuns to eight points. On the other hand they failed to show much offensive strength on their own account and were outscored 8 to 3 in a period that was much tighter than the opening session. Audrey Craig with eleven points, Barbara Blade with eight and Ruth Thompson with six led the winners attack and M. McLean and M. Miller with four points each topped the Belleville scorers. Orfuns succeeded in converting two free throws out of six attempts while the visitors could only score one point out of eight free throws.

Belleville (15)—M. McLean (4), D. Mansfield (3), M. Miller (4), I. Corby, M. Cross, H. Richardson (2), H. Garrow, P. Rowbotham (2), J. Muir, J. Sherry.

Orfuns (28)—Audrey Craig (11), A. Livingstone, B. Blade (8), M. Ferguson (1), R. Thompson (6), M. Clarke, M. Hawthorne, Ruth Ellis (2).

A Tight One

Westclox girls gave the Y Gym squad quite an argument before they finally yielded the honors to Ruth Dalliday and her team mates. In fact the girls from the clock plant outscored the ultimate winners 11 to 1 in the first half and were full value for that slender lead.

After the rest period, however, the Westclox attack faded away and they were held to a solitary basket, J. Crowe getting the lone score. On the other hand Ruth Dalliday who had been held closely in the opening session got her shots clicking in the second half and added six points which with a basket by R. Sullivan gave the winners a final margin of five points. With better luck in free throws Westclox would have made it much closer as they only registered one in five chances while the Y squad tossed in four out of eight.

Ruth Dalliday with eight points and R. Sullivan with six were the leading scorers for the Y while J. Crowe headed the Westclox attack by ringing four baskets.

Y Gym (18)—B. DeMaio (1), L. Wesley, S. Florence, I. Young, R. Dalliday (8), F. Craig (1), B. Flynn (2), R. Sullivan (6), S. Zakos, S. Zacks, B. Pomeroy.

Westclox (13)—B. Saunders (3), D. Dawson, C. Metcalfe, J. Hair (2), M. Goldie, J. Crowe (8), M. McFadden, P Wolstenholme, I. Vivash, V. Britnell.

Referee, H. McDonald; umpire, J. Cooper; scorer, Sybil Ecobichon.

The battle between the two Quaker squads was featured by the rally staged by the Debs in the second half after their sister club had beaten them 16 to 5 in the opening period. In spite of that disastrous start the Debs came out fighting after the rest and outscored Aces 12 to 10 in a spirited period. D. Weese, S. Alexander and J. Fowler were the leading scorers for the Aces, the first-named having eight points and the other two six each. Ruth Farr for the Debs kept pace with Aces' aces by tossing in four baskets.

The Aces, strangely enough, failed to score a single point on eight free throws while Debs succeeded in converting three out of eleven shots following fouls.

Quaker Aces (26)—D. Weese (8), S. Alexander (6), J. Fowler (6), M. Duncan, M. Hooten, E. Kirn (2), V. Wood, A. Grady, P. Lawless (4).

Quaker Debs (17)—H. White, B. Frizelle, R. Farr (8), H. Tighe (2), B. Fenner (3), J. Metcalfe (4), A. Laing, G. Allen, D. Smith, H. Grant, D. Gibbs.

Umpire—H. Smith.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Taking a lead on the very first end and continuing right up till the finish, Al Gibbs again won the "R. L. Dobbin" Front End Bonspiel, and that makes two years in a row for Al.

Supported by a rink of young curlers chuck full of pap and fight they made every shot count, and the result was never in doubt. With a little more experience we think Jack might have made it a little closer. However, the series was a good one all the way through and all are to be congratulated.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

St. Paul's cagers, Ontario church association intermediate "A" champions last year—and again entered in this class of the O.C.B.A. this season — were having quite a time trying to arrange their playdown series with the Toronto winners at this writing. Maybe we'll hear the outcome in time to catch the bottom paragraph of today's pillar. It was slated to open in Toronto early in the week, but called off, and then tentatively billed for here tonight—but a hitch occurred. So we dunno. Team consists of: Jack Gemmell, Pete McArthur, Ross Pulkinghorn, Jim Thorburn, Doug McPherson, Gord McIntyre, Don Sedgewick, Harry Marsh and Walter Ward. With Lloyd Grose as business manager. A classy squad.

Comes a card from Percy Bond in Miami. Before leaving here a month or so back, Mr. Bond—former prexy of the O.H.A. and now one of Lionel Conacher's boxing commissioners — laid the foundation for a new Peterborough Boxing Club. However, lack of training quarters has held back this club so far. Percy writes: "Greetings from Florida where the weather hasn't been so hot. Came to Florida for the winter — and I found it! But it's warming up now. Have seen some great golf and tennis here and thought I'd see the big light-heavyweight fight but as you know it was called off. Trust the new local boxing club is progressing O.K. Regards, Percy Bond."

St. Peter's Puckists

Coach Pete Vitarelli of St. Peter's O.J.H.A. (juvenile) squad says his team will stage a sudden-death playdown joust in Port Perry next Tuesday. Costs too much to arrange a home-and-home series, and Pete thinks his gang have enough class to cop a nod right on foreign ice. They rubbed out the local Grads and Norwood to get this chance. On the roster are: Bob Hatton, Tony Mattucci, Russ Scriver, Ab Chimenti, Clint Curtis, Bob Griffin, Red Eason, Earl Routley, Ray Garvey, Jack Mortimer, Bill Huard, Ron Horton and Don Robinson.

Two excellent Industrial Hockey League games were run off before a slim gathering last e'en in the Brock St. arena. They were sudden-death semi-final matches, with the losers being eliminated from further competition. With Quakers nudging out a nod o'er the Marines in a hard-checking and tight first tussle, and Packers pulling a surprise by knocking off Westclox in the last part of the double-header, these two victors now tangle in a best-of-three series for the loop title. It was good, rousing action most of the way in both games, with plenty of streamlined skating and stiff bumping served up, but fairly clean throughout. Referee Cy Whatley did a good job.

Trappers Here Next

Owen Sound Trappers tangle Monday night here with the Petes in a round-robin O.H.A. playdown tussle, and it ought to be a nifty fray. With the Petes losing that 2-1 heart-breaker last p.m. in Kitchener, it's up to the Buckland band to keep on winning at home—just in case—and pile up enough victories to make the Ontario finals. They trimmed the Trappers here some time ago, but now it's for keeps and those northerners are not only going to be at full strength but in the pink of condish and working their very noggins off. Yeah, it'll be a dandy scrap between Red Creighton and his buddies on the one hand and the speedy Petes on the other. Ducats are now on sale, and it is shaping up like another full house along the Rue Brock come Monday after supper.

* * * * * *

Yassuh, the Greenshirts on home ice last night climbed into a first-place tie with the Buckland battlers in the round-robin standing. While Owen Sound copped a 4-2 round-robin win over Collingwood in Midland. A big crowd of rabid Dutch-Canuck hockey followers roared approval at the sizzling action down in Shirtville in a game that was very fast, smart most of the way, and quite rocky at times. Not a dirty game, but bumpy enough and with tempers a bit frayed before the finish. No score in the first chapter, and again no count in the middle session. Wham, the Petes bang one home early in the third, Tompkins from Starr on a ganging play, but durned if the Greenshirts don't tie it up shortly and then blast home the deciding tally.

* * * * * *

Both Goalies Star

Most of the glory in this duel goes to the two goalies. Ray Harding was sensational in the Petes' twine tepee throughout, as the fast-stepping Kitchener crew kept rolling in in waves throughout the tilt. Not that the visiting forwards weren't backchecking and the defence hitting everyone they could reach—because the boys all did fine—but the game was so speedy and open between classy clubs of a really senior "B" calibre that a lot of blackstrap was poured toward the cage every period. Goalie Bindernagel in the K's net also was brilliant, the Petes repeatedly getting in for furious flip shots at him almost at point-blank range but finding a Seigfried fort fending off each attack. They finally pulled a raiding party that clicked, but the Shirts did it twice the same chukker, and that was that.

* * * * * *

With so much activity in the cage field last p.m. locally, we will have to cut down on the puck comment today and give the hoopsters a tumble. Quite a few folks at the Y.W. saw our smooth Orfuns in an L.O.B.A. tussle oust the belles of Bella Villa 28-15, Audrey Craig tallying 11 points. "Y" Gym dandies edged Westclox gals 18-13, and Aces beat the Debs 26-17. In the Motor City last e'en, P.C.I. senior boys beat Oshawa high schoolers by a 37-31 score. Our St. John's junior lads faded from their O.C.B.A. playdowns when Toronto won at home last night 36-25, to nudge out the round 69-63. No further word on St. Paul's intermediate O.C.B.A. match.

* * * * * *

Dese, dem and dose: Pick Hines, Baltimore's popular puck coach, recently was given 25 p.c. of a sellout home gate as a wedding present.... His Orioles hope to cop the Eastern Loop title, then tackle Boston Olympics in the U.S. amachoor semi-final and then Detroit in the final.... Cobourg's 'C' juniors dropped a 5-3 playdown opener to Markham last eve in Cobourg....Fenelon Falls beat Lindsay Battery for the Felt Cup....A lot of trouble in T.V.L. circles now as playoff arrangements have everyone in a tangle—or so we're told; some of the Norwood boys refused to go to Madoc last night and Madoc earned a 6-5 win....Their series is sewed up now and will be settled Monday twilight in Norwood....Church League puck playoffs will be staged Monday evening in the Lakefield arena.... Second junior final betwixt Mark St. and Park St. will be at eight; at nine All Saints and Murray St. have a senior final and it'll be (if both teams agree) a sudden-death joust for the title....Hard to name an outstanding star on the Petes' roster last night, all going great, except for the four-star showing of Harding in goal....And some of those poor guys, after travelling all night, have to play in C.G.E. shop finals this aft in the Brock!....A flock of phone calls to The Examiner from 10 till 12 showed how keen fan interest in the Kitchener game was....It'll mean a big crowd at Monday's melee here....Cheerio.

Quakers Win 6-4 To Capture A Playoff Berth

Quaker Oats earned a final berth last night at the Brock by eliminating Outboard Marines 6-4 in a tight tilt before a fair-sized crowd of rooters. On good ice, the teams battled on even terms with the winners coming from behind in the third heat to cop the duke. It was a stiff-checking and interesting game all the way with the issue always in doubt.

The Marines had a 3-2 margin to end the first period and led 4-3 to start the third. Shaughnessy got two goals and Wood one in the first for the Outboards while Campbell and Kennedy counted for the Porridge Punchers. Stevenson and Hill scored in the second in an even hot inning. Kennedy counted first, Calladine got another and then Shine banged one home for the Ralph squad in the third. Kennedy, Hill, Calladine and Shine looked good for the victors; and Shields, Shaughnessy and Stevenson stood out for the losers. The teams:

Marines: Goal, Watkins; defence, Wood and Shields; centre, Partridge; wings, Boyle and Stevenson; alternates, Mesley, Sanders, Payne, Murphy and Shaughnessy.

Referee, Cy Whatley.

Trappers Here To Play Petes Monday

Owen Sound Trappers tackle the Petes here Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Brock St. arena in an O.H.A. intermediate "A" round-robin series playdown game. It will be the Petes' fourth round-robin fray, and their third home—possibly being the locals' second last game in Peterborough this year. Owen Sound played here previously this winter in an exhibition contest which the Buckland bunch copped by a 6-0 score. With so much at stake now, the season nearly finished here, and tickets now on sale, there should be another huge crowd of fans on hand Monday.

The Trappers explain away that previous loss to the Petes by pointing out that they had played the previous night and were tired, that they had finished a long drive, that their regular goalie was out with injuries, and that the smaller rink in Peterborough threw them off. Right now, they should be in top shape and make a much better showing against the fast-stepping Petes. Red Creighton, former local, will again be with the northerners.

Demand for flashlight batteries in Britain reached 40,000,000 in a recent week.

Snyder Brothers Seek Two Big Titles

WINNIPEG, March 9 (CP)—Toronto's brother combination, the sensational Snyders, were the centre of attraction today as the Canadian National Badminton tournament entered its final stages.

Jimmy Snyder, 20-year-old University of Toronto student, and brother Paul, 23-year-old graduate of the same college, carry the family honors into two national title contests.

Jimmy, will get the stoutest test of his career today when he faces Dick Birch of Montreal, the champion. With his brother he tackles another tough assignment. They meet their fellow townsmen and defending champions, Rod Phelan and Jack Sibbald in the men's doubles final.

Jimmy walloped the second seeded star, Johnny Samis of Vancouver last night in a semi-final singles match, 18-16, 15-7 and today will meet Birch, who ousted Eddie Lemon of Winnipeg, 15-8, 15-5.

The Snyder brothers accounted for Jimmy Forsythe and Bert Jones of Winnipeg in a men's doubles semi-final, while Phelan and Sibbald trounced Jack Underhill and Eric Leney of Vancouver.

Birch will play in two finals also, teaming with Veas O'Shea of Vancouver against the Vancouver pair, Jean Eckhardt and Eric Leney in the mixed doubles. Birch and Miss O'Shea, defending titlists, beat Mrs. W. R. Walton and Rod Phelan of Toronto in last night's semi-final, and the Eckhardt-Leney team eliminated Jack Underhill of Vancouver and Margaret Taylor of Kelowna, B.C.

The women's doubles team of Mrs. Walton and Evelyn Effnert of Toronto plays Mrs. Guy Peroneau and Betty Snell of Ottawa in the final and then will move to opposite sides of the net to play for the women's singles crown.

CAMPBELLFORD ELIMINATES TWEED; MADOC DEFEATS NORWOOD

Visitors Win Match 8-3 In Second Game

TWEED, Mar. 9 (ENS).—In the first round of the semi-finals of the Trent Valley League, Campbellford won their second straight game over the Tweed Terriers 8-3, eliminating them from the series, at the local arena on Friday night. The largest crowd of the season of nearly seven hundred packed into the rink to witness the downfall of the Terriers before superior opposition. The ice was very soft, ruining good hockey, although both teams put up a fast game. Turner in the Suncos ntet put up a splendid game, turning aside sure goals, particularly in the second period when the Terriers had the Milltown team on the run on several occasions. Reeves in the Terriers' net put up a good game, although his defence gave him little support, playing more or less on the up all the time, and leaving him wide open to attack.

In the first period, Campbellford jumped into a two-goal lead when the Terriers' defence weakened, with McIlrath getting the first on a pass from Kelly, and the second counter being tallied by Golden on a pass from Blake. The Terriers cut the lead to one goal when Elsbury went through the Suncos to drive the rubber past Turner. Blake and Robinson went to the box for tripping in this period.

Count in Second.

The Terriers opened the count in the second period, with Elsbury tallying unassisted. Tummon was serving a penalty at the time of the count. However, Kelly increased the lead to one goal, when he sifted through the defence to drive the rubber past Reeves. Hendy, when checked in mid-ice, turned his ankle. As the players began roughing things up in this period, penalties were handed out freely, with Tummon going to the box twice for tripping, and Kelly and Hendy also getting the nod for tripping.

The Suncos staged a field day in the last frame, which was plenty rough, both sides handing out stiff body checks and high sticks. With Elsbury in the box, Robinson sifted through the Terriers' defence to tally, while Hendy also counted to make the score 5-2. Pressing hard for another counter, the Suncos were caught all inside the Terriers' blue line when Tummon broke away outskated the Suncos and drove the final Terrier counter past Turner. The Milltown gang registered three more counters before th final bell, with Couch taking a pass from Blake, Hendy from Blake, and Robinson taking a pass-out from the corner for the final count.

As the Terriers were playing short-handed most of the last ten minutes they had little chance of tying or even winning the game. Three Terrier players went to the box at practically the same time, Long, Tummon and Elsbury getting the gate one after the other, thus enabling the Suncos to pile up a commanding lead; Marsh also went off for tripping.

A fight broke out in the last minutes of the game, with Long tripping Goden in the corner, and fists began to move, resulting in a mob assembling on the ice to break up the scrimmage, as tempers were beginning to get off balance on both sides of the fence.

The lineups:

Referee—Toots Holway, Belleville.

Havelock Boys Defeat Norwood

HAVELOCK, March 9.—(ENS)—Sixty minutes of fast, clean hockey was exhibited before a large crowd of interested spectators last night at the Norwood arena, as a special interscholastic benefit match was played by the members of the Norwood and Havelock high school teams. Proceeds derived from the game are to be used to help defray the expenses incurred, when Micky Puffer, starry member of the Norwood squad, received a broken shoulder in a C.O.S.S.A. final in Belleville, last week. Two busloads and several cars of Havelock students attended the match and remained afterwards to enjoy a period of general skating.

The Havelock students held a slight edge on the homesters throughout the three periods to gain a 6-4 decision over their opponents. Play in general was fairly well divided, but sensational goaltending by Curry in the Havelock net, continually hampered the Norwood attackers.

Outstanding for the winners was Curry, with Jamieson, Hamilton, Hunter, Buchanan and Hoffman also particularly effective. For Norwood, Buck, Green, Johnson, Sargent and Morris turned in a creditable performance.

The teams:

Jenkins KO's Tippy Larken In First Round

By BILL BONI
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, March 9—(AP).—Down Texas way, where Lew Jenkins hails from, they used to clean up whole settlements with a pair of six-shooters. But they couldn't have done the job any more convincingly than the lightweight from Sweetwater did at the Garden last night with a pair of boxing gloves.

Matched with Tippy Larkin, another long, lean kid from Jersey, Jenkins started cautiously enough. He danced around, flicked a few straight lefts into Larkin's astonished pan. Larkin hadn't expected that. Jenkins wasn't supposed to be a jabber.

Then, abruptly, Jenkins fired with both hands. In two minutes and 41 seconds of the first round Larkin was left flailing around in his own corner like a fish out of water. Face down, he rolled and writhed, kicking up a little whirlpool of dust and looking like a man who's coming up for nothing more than air.

"He was so surprised by them he stood there wide open," said the former Texas cavalryman. "The right probably would have dropped him all by itself. But there he was, rockin' on his heels, so I let him have a couple more.

Sixth Knockout

His ninth straight local victory and sixth K.O. should have boosted Jenkins into a lightweight title bout with Champion Lou Ambers. Promoter Mike Jacobs thought it should, and set aside May 10 for the bout. Manager Hymie Caplin thought it should, and so informed one and all.

But Al Weill, Ambers' weskit-wearing pilot, had other things on his mind, notably the National Boxing Association's recent edict that Ambers, by March 22, must sign for a title defence against Davey Day of Chicago, or the lightweight throne will be declared vacant..

"Let Jenkins fight Day, and then we'll talk," said Weill.

Caplin screamed in outraged protest.

"So he's a match-maker now, that Weill. He's telling us who we should fight. Davey Day he's giving us. Tell him we fight better by night than by day."

Remember When—

Most publicized of Babe Ruth's holdouts ended 10 years ago today when the Yankee hitters signed a two-year contract with the New York American League club for $160,000. Holder of most of baseball's slugging records, the portly outfielder retired from the game in 1936.

Series Tied Up With 6-5 Win For Madoc Crew

NORWOOD, March 9—(ENS). — Madoc evened up their T.V.L. puck series with the Hornets in Madoc last night before the biggest crowd of the season by yanking out a 6-5 verdict. Expressing dissatisfaction with the league ruling that Norwood must meet Stirling next week, some of the Hornets mutinied and refused to make the trip, the Kempt crew being then made up mostly of Peterborough and Havelock players.

With Norwood winning the first game 8-0 and Madoc winning last night, the third and deciding contest of their series will be staged Monday evening in Norwood. Last night's game was fast, tight and hot all the way, but clean; four penalties being given to the visitors and all in the fourth heat. Davis and O'Leary drew one each and Aboud two. It was 3-2 for Madoc in the first and 5-4 for Norwood going into the third. Bradford and O'Leary scored for the Hornets in the initial heats as Weir and O'Leary assisted. Weir, Brady and Redford counted in the second for the losers. Davis and Weir earning an assist each. Akey counted the winning goal late in the third for Madoc. The teams:

Referee—L. LeBarr, Peterborough.

Packers Cop Win To Gain Playoff

Canada Packers pulled a bit of an upset in the Industrial Hockey League semi-finals here last night by knocking off Westclox 4-0 before a fair crowd in the Brock to qualify for the finals, eliminating the Clockmen from further competition. It was a fast, fairly clean and exciting game with the victors earning the nod handily.

The winners had a 2-0 edge in the first frame and rammed home two more tallies. Csumrik and Todd counted first and, after a scoreless and tight middle heat, R. Courneya and Csumrik banged the disc into the twine again. The scorers, and Edmunds stood out for the winners, with both goalies going good, though all worked hard. Absence of Parson and Thirnbeck probably slowed up the Westclox drive. The teams:

Referee, Cy Whatley.

127 Horses Named For Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 9 (AP) —Railbirds at Churchill Downs paired Bimelech and Bradley today as Col. Matt J. Winn announced 127 nominees for the 66th running of the Kentucky Derby May 4.

A long winter hasn't shaken the belief of Kentuckians in the ability of Bimelech to give owner Col. E. R. Bradley his fifth Kentucky Derby victory.

The black Toney-la Troienne colt headed the list of thoroughbreds qualified for the $75,000 added classic for three year olds.

The purse for the mile-and-a-quarter race was hiked this year to $75,000 added and the subscription list, was up an even dozen over 1939, although short of the 140 entries predicted by Col. Winn, president of Churchill Downs.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, March 8.—(AP)—Exclusive! Mike Jacobs will counter Joe Gould's $104,000 suit with a legal action of his own. If and when it comes to court Mike will allege he was forced to okay the agreement giving Gould and Jim Braddock 20 per cent of his profits from Joe Louis because if he didn't Braddock wouldn't have given Max Schmeling the go-by and laid his title against the Bomber.

Larry Macphail has been talking about flying the Dodgers around the National Baseball League by air, but the big lines don't want the business...One air executive said when the late Knute Rockne was killed in a crash the industry was set back eight years...If anything happened to a ball team, he said, the loss in patronage and prestige would be inestimable.

Drammer Dept.

Bob Feller wants it known that whoever said the American League umpires didnt give him any breaks, was slightly off key. He says:

"I get as many pitches called strikes as any of the pitchers...I don't figure I got any bad breaks from the umps."

Speaker Outlines Two Kinds Of Ambition

Outlining the two kinds of ambition, to do something good or do something "bad," Rev. P. J. Kelly, LL.D., was heard in a brief address Friday evening at the weekly meeting of the Girls' Friday Night Supper Club in the Y.W.C.A. Introduced by Miss Mary Roche, Father Kelly illustrated his remarks of something good by telling the story of Penelope, who remained faithful for many years and was happy, and of something bad by recalling the life of Lady MacBeth, who committed a crime and finally went insane. The tremendous influence which individuals may have on the life of others, even though they may not be personally acquainted, was also mentioned by Father Kelly, who told several and amusing experiences to illustrate.

Miss Mary Pearce thanked the speaker on behalf of the club members. A brief business meeting followed.

Caledonian Club Plans Social Program

The March business meeting of the Caledonian Club was held on Thursday evening in the Moose Hall. President R. Hendry presided over a good attendance, and welcomed back a number of old members. The minutes from last business meeting were read by Secretary J. Wyllie, and E. B. Julian, treasurer, gave a satisfactory financial report. Communications were read, which included a request from the Local Women's Council for a representative at their meetings. Mrs. R. Hendry was chosen to fill the post.

A vote of thanks was tendered the orchestra for a cheque which represented their drawings at the Valentine dance which they sponsored so successfully. Mrs. Hendry also received the thanks of the club for the proceeds of a card party which was held at her home.

By a unanimous vote it was decided to continue the social season until the end of April. A fine series of programs were arranged for the balance of the month. Another concert and dance and "quiz" program was the popular choice for the last Thursday in March.

The ladies are looking forward to a Saint Patrick's tea at the home of Mrs. K. Shadgett on Charlotte Street. This happy event will be further advertised in the Examiner.

A social hour was enjoyed after the business. Refreshments were served, and the meeting brought to a close with the singing of 'Auld Lang Syne."

FASHIONS

For your young daughter who is at "that awkward age," we suggest this trim dress and bolero ensemble. It is cut on the simple lines that suit her best, yet has the flattering features of an uplift waist, flared skirt and bodice fullness. You may make the dress all of one material or contrast bodice and skirt to give the effect of a two-piece dress with the neat waist-line of a one-piece outfit. The pattern also includes a V-neck version.

Style No. 3168 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15 and 17. Size 15 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material, 1¼ yards of 39-inch contrasting.

Style Show Wins Approval Of Both Matron and Business Girl

Amid murmurs of approval from scores of Peterborough women and business girls, smart, practical and easy-to-wear styles for Spring were presented by models Friday evening in the Canadian Department Stores. Essentials this season are smartness, durability and "becomingness," qualities that were noticeable in this display of ensembles, of which a new shipment arrives each Thursday.

Of interest to matron and business girl alike were the dressmaker suits of wool and boucle in navy with crisp accessories of white, and an occasional vivid note in potent bags of "flash red." Desired feminity was achieved both in coats and suits by dressmaker details, such as fine stitching, tucking and pleating. One striking beige suit was cleverly combined with canary yellow. A New York ensemble, a dusty pink polka-dot dress under a plain coat of all wool faille, was a stunning combination that would be a miracle of usefulness to the lucky owner, not only for wear now, but later when both coat and dress could be worn separately.

A group of little frocks, the pet of business and collegiate girls, were of figured spun rayon, demurely tailored, and in all the delightful pastel shades so new this season. There were slenderizing, cleverly designed styles for the larger woman, too.

Several "Deana Durbin" dresses were shown—trim little affairs that are sure to win the approval of the younger fry. One of the most beguiling was a shepherd's check in black and white with money-bag pockets, with which the model wore a halo-effect navy straw bound in white. Some of the more flattering hats were perky sailors, each with just the touch of perfection to make women as alluring as they'd wish. Little colorful straws tilted over the eyes were further enhanced by flower touches or veiling.

Like a breath of Spring the formal gowns, dainty affairs of net over taffeta in lime green, turquoise, smoky pink, and white combined with flower taffeta. For the matron, one handsome gown won a patter of applause—of beige lace, it had a flattering long-sleeved jacket, and at the neckline flowers of pink and hyacinth blue.

Piano music by Mrs. Foster accompanied the show, which opened gaily with a ballet number by Shirley Garner and Kenneth Simmons. During intermission a brisk military tap number was smartly executed by Irene Kelly, Hilda Noble, Marjorie Raybould and Beryl Carter, pupils of Marion Perry Laird.

Japanese Have Profound Love Of Art

A hobby in things Japanese, arising from an eight months' visit to Japan in 1930, provided the subject for an address of much interest by Mr. Robt. McNairn of Hamilton Friday afternoon at a meeting of the Lyceum Club Women's Art Association in the Y.W.C.A. Green Room. Speaking chiefly of Japanese Prints, which he illustrated with slides, Mr. McNairn's talk also gave a general survey of the development of Japanese painting and sculpture, and touched briefly upon color printing.

For centuries Japan was thought of by the outside world as barbaric, he said, simply because she held herself aloof, refusing to allow foreigners to enter her country for about two hundred years. Since that time, however, we have come to realize that in an aesthetic sense Japan is cultured far above our own standards. The Japanese have a profound love of art, Mr. McNairn said as he told of going with them to the top of a mountain to celebrate the rise of a full moon, and of travelling many miles to see an ancient potted plum tree.

During his short stay in Japan, the speaker recalled at least half a dozen earthquakes, one of which caused much damage and loss of life. For this reason, he explained, the houses are very lightly constructed, pictures are not framed in order that they may be easily rolled up, and household furniture such as we know it simply does not exist.

Japanese culture in all its aspects sprung chiefly from Chinese influences. Temples, which have become the chief cultural centres of the priests, were built by Chinese architects.

Explaining the history of color prints, the speaker remarked that artists who create work of this type are of a comparatively low class, and often their parents are embroiderers, which in Japan is looked upon as the lowest caste of all. He outlined the process used by print makers. The design is drawn by one artist, the block made by a second, and the printing done by a third. Much of the color success in the finished product is due to the fine quality of rice paper used. Practically all models for this form of art in early Japanese prints and woodcuts have been women, usually tea house girls and women of low repute in those days. This is one reason why the Japanese were not interested in this type of art, originals being obtainable for as low as 10 or 15 cents. It was only when Europeans became appreciative of their artistic value that it was at all recognized in Japan.

There are but two rules by which a print may be tested in order to discover whether it is a copy or an original, Mr. McNairn believes, and that is by its texture and color. If it is an original, the paper is much finer, and the colors have lost their brilliancy through the mellowing influence of time.

The history of great paint artists of Japan were also traced by the speaker, and several arresting examples of their work illustrated on the screen.

"Mannvilla" Is Setting For Charming Wedding

A pretty house wedding was solemnized at 1 o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon at "Mannvilla", Chemong, when Eunice Margaret, daughter of Mrs. A. E. Hammond and the late Albert Hammond, was united in marriage to Harry Clarke Blewett, youngest son of Mr. Sidney Blewett and the late Mrs. Blewett. A profusion of Spring flowers in the living room was an effective background for the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. R. D. Wright, M.A., B.D., of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church, Lohengrin's Wedding March was played by Miss Jean Bodley of Toronto, frocked in rose taffeta with a corsage of Briarcliff roses, as the bride entered on the arm of her uncle, Mr. F. T. Mann.

A graceful gown of Queen's blue sheer chiffon, fashioned on long lines with full accordion-pleated sleeves, was worn by the bride. The high neckline was caught with silver clips, and she wore a pretty silver and blue bandeau, and carried a bridal bouquet of pink Briarcliff roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Marion Foulkes of Peterborough, was in a gown of honey-dew chiffon with silver accessories. She wore matching slippers and hair bandeau, and her flowers were of Talisman roses. Little Miss Marion McMullen, cousin of the bride, was a dainty flower girl, frocked in lemon taffeta and carrying a nosegay of yellow roses and mauve sweet peas. Mr. Stanley Grant, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. Violin music was played by Mr. Clarence Palmer of Shedden during the signing of the register.

After the ceremony a reception was held, Mrs. Hammond, mother of the bride, receiving in a gown of black figured crepe, and wearing a corsage of pink rose buds. Mrs. T. R. Mann, grandmother of the bride, wore black silk crepe, and corsage of red roses. Buffet refreshments were served from a table centred by the bride's cake. Silver bud vases held pink carnations, and the table was lit by matching tapers in silver candelabra.

We Noticed

...If you have a yearning to be ultra-chic there are lots of ways to do it this season.

...For instance, you might plan an Easter costume of bright green with blue, or blue touched with green...link your cool greys with the delicious new "hot" or watermelon pink...try a plaid wool jacket, a plaid wool cap, with a monotone frock.

...Or you might treat yourself to a jacket of freak fox, soft blue intriguingly marbled with white.. plot your lips and nails to blend with a bracelet, to tally with a bonnet, to accent a scarf...learn of necessity that they match or mar.

Long Engagements Often Have Sorrowful Endings. Girls Should Not Tie Themselves Too Long to One Boy—Today's Letter Box.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a girl of 20 in love with a boy of the same age. He is studying medicine and will be seven more years at school. Then it will be two or three years more before he will be well enough established in his profession to be able to marry. He lives in another city and I do not see him often. He wants me to wait for him and to promise that I will not go out with any other man during all of that time. It seems to me that ten years is a long time to ask a girl to wait. What do you think?

A CONSTANT READER

ANSWER:

I think that nine times out of ten a long engagement works out disastrously for both the man and the woman, and that any girl is very foolish who goes into one. Try to take a cold, dispassionate, appraising view of the proposition that this young man makes to you.

He asks you to deny yourself all of the pleasures of girlhood and to spend the ten best years of your life sitting on the anxious seat on the chance that he will come back and get you. You are to have no beaux, no parties, no dates, no good times. You are just to sit at home with Mother and Father and suck your thumb instead of running around having good times with the other boys and girls. You are expected to get all the happiness you require by just thinking about him and wondering what he is doing. Nice, cheerful prospect, isn't it?

Worse still, you are to give up every opportunity of marrying anybody else, with no certainty that he will marry you. The ten years between twenty and thirty are the years when a woman is prettiest and most attractive. They are her matrimonial harvest time, and if she doesn't make her hay while the sun of her girlhood shines she is apt to gather in a very poor crop.

Now when the ten years are up, in which you have done your patient waiting stunt, the man may want to marry you, and he may not. In the long years in which you have been separated the chances are that you will have grown very far apart. Environment and association will have changed and molded you both.

You will not come together as the ardent boy and girl of 20, but as a mature man and woman, who have learned to think different thoughts and have different viewpoints, different habits. Each of you may have lost the characteristics that appealed to the other, or your tastes may have changed so that the qualities you find entrancing now will bore you to tears then. Not many of our fancies survive ten years.

Of course, people often do marry at the end of long engagements, but in most cases it is merely the paying of a debt of honor on the man's part. He feels bound to marry the girl he has kept from marrying some other man, while on the woman's part it is desperation. She has given up all other men for this one, and it is her last call to the dining car.

Don't put yourself into this unfortunate position. Don't out yourself out of all the pleasures of girlhood. Don't give any man a ten-year option on your heart and hand. Tell the young man to go on with his studies, and then when he is ready to talk business to call around again, and if you love him then as you do now, that you will say "yes."

Go On to School

Dear Miss Dix—I am thinking of quitting school and getting a job. I don't have to do it, as my father is willing to give me the opportunity of acquiring a thorough education. But the point is,if I go to school, it is so long to wait to have a good time and be my own boss. I don't like to be under parental rule. Tell me just what to do. JACK.

ANSWER:

I entreat you to keep on in school and get the best education that you are capable of taking. If you don't, you will spend the balance of your life regretting it. Believe me, you are taking a very short-sighted view of the subject, Jack, and you will make a very bad bargain if you throw away a whole lifetime of good for a few parties and a little freedom now.

In the brief note that you have written me there are ten words that you have misspelled and that I have corrected. A boy as ignorant as that will have to take a menial job, where the pay will be very small. Worse still, he can never rise much higher. He can never earn much more money. And to have even what you call a good time—to have a car, to wear good clothes, to be able to take the girls out to places of amusement—costs a lot of money. More than you will ever be able to afford unless you fit yourself for a good-paying job.

That is putting the matter on the very lowest plane, but it should make you realize how foolish you will be to blight all of your prospects for the future for the sake of a little fun now. So take my advice. Go on to school. Study hard and get an education that will enable you to take a good place in the world, instead of a poor one. You won't find that time goes slowly if you keep busy and put your heart into your work.

About Petting

Dear Miss Dix — When a man decides to marry is he expecting too much if he asks that the girl has not been petted? A READER

ANSWER:

It depends on whether the man has been a petter himself or not. If he has made every girl with whom he has gone pay for his attentions by permitting him to kiss her and caress her, what right has he to demand that the girl he marries has kept herself unsmirched?

He has rubbed the bloom off of a lot of peaches for other men, and it seems to me that he has a nerve to expect to get the one unhandled in the whole basket. Women are what men make them, and no man has a right to refuse to take his own handiwork.

Branch Notes

ST. GEORGE'S BRANCH.

The regular business meeting of the branch was held Thursday evening with the president, Miss B. Curtis, in the chair.

It was decided that the branch should send a delegate to the conference to be held in Toronto and Miss B. Curtits was chosen as the representative.

All members are reminded of the Lenten rally to be held in the church next Thursday evening at 8 p.m.

The meeting closed with prayer.

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH.

After the Lenten service the members of St. John's A.Y.P.A. and their friends were addressed by Dr. A. G. Howson on the subject of "Matrimony, from the point of view of a physician." He outlined the historical origin of marriage and also what constituted a marriage in tribal times. He pointed out that there were three types of marriage and the advantages contained in each. During the course of his talk the speaker mentioned that, in his opinion, it wold be a splendid idea to incorporate schools under the supervision of capable teachers, who would point out and explain the problems of marriage and the mysteries of life.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended the speaker by Miss Florence Hutchinson and seconded by Fred Hooper.

Following the address a short business meeting was held wherein more business concerning the play was discussed. Members are reminded of the Lenten rally at St. George's church March 13th at 8 p.m. Consequently there will be no meeting at St. John's next Wednesday night due to that fact.

ALL SAINTS' BRANCH.

About twenty members of All Saints' A.Y.P.A. participated in a very interesting evening's entertainment in the chapel on Monday.

The regular informal sing-song of favorite hymns, with Canon J. D. Paterson explaining some of the historical background of some of the selections opened the program. A brief business session was followed by a "newspaper" night. With Miss D. White in charge, the members tried their hands at the intriguing business of newspaper writing. Miss M. Cavalier, as editor, read the efforts of the potential reporters and the audience was greatly amused by their versatile and ingenious columns, which exhibited a full measure of wit and sagacity.

Bowling.

There are just five more nights of bowling in the regular schedule. Members who have not so far bowled the quota of one-third of the scheduled games are urged to take advantage of the remaining nights.

ST. LUKE'S BRANCH

At the business meeting on Thursday night it was decided that the sum of five dollars would be sent to the Western Hope Fund.

A district executive meeting is called for Tuesday evening in St. Luke's parish hall, and there will be no meeting next Thursday, owing to the Lenten Rally, which will be at St. George's.

At the close of the business session games were played and the remainder of the evening was spent in song practise for the new play, "Romance of Jack and the Beanstalk."

A Help To Those Past Middle Age

When men and women get past middle age their energy and activity, in many instances, begin to decline, and their general vitality is on the wane.

Little sicknesses and ailments seem harder to shake off than formerly, and, here and there, evidences of a breakdown begin to appear.

Now is the time when those who wish to maintain their health and vigor, and retain their energy unimpaired should take a course of Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills.

J. A. Middleton Is Appointed Commissioner

J. A. Bert) Middleton has been appointed third member of the Suburban Area Commission, Miss Jennie Batten, secretary, informed the Examiner this morning.

The appointment was made by the other two members, Morley E. Smithson, the county's representative, and M. H. Gainey, who represents the interests of the city. Mr. Middleton takes the place of the late John McIntosh of North Monaghan, and completes the membership of the Board for the next five years.

The Examiner was informed that in this appointment the office sought the man. Mr. Middleton had not applied for it. There were twelve or more applications, and the only intimation heard of late regarding the selection of the third man was that he would probably be picked from Smith township.

Apparently what happened was that Mr. Smithson and Mr. Gainey had concluded that Smith should have a representative on the Commission, and they agreed that Mr. Middleton would be acceptable to everybody.

Bert Middleton is a former warden of the county, but has retired from the farm and is living in the city.

Road Commissioner

J. A. (BERT) MIDDLETON

Appointed for five years as member of the Suburban Area Commission by its two other members, M. E. Smithson and M. H. Gainey. Mr. Middleton was formely reeve of Smith and was a Warden of the county.

King Clarifies Some Figures

OTTAWA, Narch 9—(CP).—Only the amounts actually expended before Sept. 1, 1939, should be included in discussing pre-war defence expenditures by the government, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in a statement issued today, referring to Conservative Leader Manion's comments on use made by the present administration of defence appropriations.

The Prime Minister's statement follows:

The leader of the opposition has been asking what the government did with the $188,000,000 which, he declares, was provided for defence before the war.

In answering this question my speech at Winnipeg, I pointed out that before the outbreak of hostilities the Government had actually spent:

1. The unexpended portion of $17,000,000 voted by Parliament under the previous government for the fiscal year 1935-36.

2. $94,000,000 in the three full fiscal years 1936-37, 1937-38, 1938-39.

3. A part of the amount of more than $60,000,000 voted by Parliament for the fiscal year 1939-40.

In my speech I did not add these three amounts together, but their total was given the same evening by the Minister of National Defence as approximately $122,000,000.

To this total Dr. Manion has deliberately added the $64,000,000 voted by Parliament for defence in the fiscal year 1939-40. He has carefully avoided pointing out that his $64,000,000 was provided for a fiscal year which will not end until March 31. Only the amount actually expended before September 1939, should be included in any statement of pre-war expenditures.

This explains very simply the difference in the figures quoted by the Minister of National Defence, Dr. Manion and myself. They relate to different periods of expenditure.

Chas. Elmhirst Is Acquitted

Declaring that it would be far too grave an assumption for the court to make in the absence of any direct evidence that the accused had driven in a careless manner, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in a long judgment in police court this morning dismissed a charge of careless driving against Charles Elmhirst of Otonabee.

The magistrate said that the case had a number of interesting points, chief of which was the question as to whether a man found in a motionless vehicle parked without lights on a highway could properly be charged with having driven carelessly.

There was no evidence that Elmhirst had driven the car at all, but His Worship held that he was justified in drawing that inference. He was not, however, justified in inferring further that the accused had driven carelessly when there were other explanations for the car being in the position it was when the accident occurred.

The charge followed an accident on Highway No. 7 in which Elmhirst's car and an automobile driven by W. J. Murphy of Norwood were involved. Traffic Officer L. A. McClure prosecuted, and Elmhirst was defended by W. B. Gordon.

Oily Waste Stolen From R.R. Cars

Stealing the oily waste from the journals of railway box cars is the newest racket to come to light in Peterborough and from the viewpoint of the railways is a particularly dangerous one in the possible effect upon rolling stock. The theft of the oil from the journals results in hot boxes developing, and there is always the risk of a fire resulting.

C.N.R. Constable Ray Morden of Lindsay has been here investigating the matter. Cars left on the C.N.R. siding on the Ashburnham side of the river and just above the Park Hill Road bridge have been the chief victims and it is thought the thefts had been done by a "shack" gang who have been using the oil as fuel to heat their headquarters.

Emily Man Is Given Six-Month Term

LINDSAY, March 9—(ENS). — Howard Fairfield, 26, Emily Township, was sentenced to six months in the Ontario Reformatory on Friday by Magistrate E. A. Gee of Lindsay on a charge of indecent assault. Accused was described by Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson, K.C., as on the "mental borderline" and said: "It is mighty dangerous to have men with physical ability and without mental ability running around loose."

In a statement read in court, the young lady involved, said the accused threatened to kill her if she screamed, but she screamed anyway, and a young Lindsay man drove up in his car and chased the accused.

Salvation Army War Drive Gets Under Way

A full year before war broke out last September, the Salvation Army had laid its plans to help young Canadians who were fighting for the preservation of freedom, Col. George Walter Peacock of Toronto, chief secretary and second in command of the Salvation Army in Canada declared Friday night. He opened officially the Army's war drive for funds here when 200 campaign leaders, who included the most prominent men and women in the city, dined at the Empress hotel.

It was Col. Peacock himself who first feared that Army huts would have to be re-opened for Canadian soldiers on active duty, and who voiced those fears to his commander-in-chief. As a result of that meeting, a representative of the Army waited on General Ashton, then commanding officer of Canadian Forces, and placed before him the Salvation Army's proposition for help in case it was needed. General Ashton told the Army's representative, declared Col. Peacock, that the organization was the only one to come forward with a constructive plan for such work.

Ready To Go

As a result of that interview the Army was ready to go to work immediately war broke out. And when they entered it, they had a long record of good work behind them, a record that started in the South African war, and continued, reaching ever higher repute in the Great War. Now they are ready and started once more, certain they have the confidence of the soldiers of Canada, knowing they have earned that confidence fairly.

Twelve days after the Great War broke out the first Army officers had followed the Old Contemptibles to France and their work was going. Similarly, in World War II, the Salvation Army is already established both in France with the English troops and at Aldershot with the Canadians, declared Col. Peacock. "Our men, our government, fathers and mothers of this land, expected that we should be found at this work, and we are," he said.

The Salvation Army has not always enjoyed the hand of friendship that is extended to it in these times, Col. Peacock reminisced. He told of the days when the opposite was true and related that in Lindsay Army men and women had been in jail because of their activities. But the Army's work through half a century has changed all that, he declared, and its members now enjoy the respect of the entire Dominion. The Army has served hundreds of communities, large and small, during those years, in a way that was quiet, and without newspaper publicity. Its appeal now is made with the assurance of an established reputation for good work, he said.

In this war effort the Army is ready to serve to the last inch of its capacity, he declared. And he warned that such work is necessary: "The streets of cities where soldiers train are shark-infested, male and female alike, and our men are in danger," he said.

The Army is not attempting to make profit, other than profit of souls from its war effort. Indeed, it has placed before the Dominion government a proposal whereby all canteens would be limited to a two per cent profit for clerical work — evidence of the non-paying basis of the canteens. He illustrated the point of non-profit by stating that soldiers pay only five cents for a cup of coffee and two doughnuts and turning to Mayor James Hamilton he challenged him to show in the city of Peterborough any organization that could better that price and clear itself financially. In addition libraries, reading rooms, free note paper, and "to me the sweetest spot of all—the sanctuary" are provided free to the soldier.

Continue Work In Home Field

Of the million dollars to be raised in Canada in this war drive, 60 per cent will go directly to war effort, he said. The remainder will be for home work and is only the same amount as is raised for that purpose in times of peace. He warned that the continuance of home work is of the utmost importance, saying, "We can't have a strong front unless our base is also secure." No other drive will be made by the Army this year. The war drive takes the place of the Self Denial appeal, the Harvest appeal, and the annual tag day.

"We have taken on a big job and we will continue to the limit of the financial support accorded us by the citizens of Peterborough and Canada," Col. Peacock declared.

A plea for immediate action to put the drive over the top by next Wednesday was made by Chairman C. A. Salmonsen. "There is no time to hang back and let things slide until the last minute," he said.

Opening the meeting he introduced Campaign Chairman R. C. Braund, a member of the Salvation Army for 55 years, 50 of them in Peterborough.

"We hear people in all places talking of how the war can best be won" he said. "That talk is heard in the church, in the home, on the street. It is a unified determination to win and this effort of ours is one way each of us can help to that end." There is no question about the stewardship of the Salvation Army, he pointed out. Everyone who gives knows he gives to a worthy cause, to an organization with a reputation of proved performance.

He read the gruesome details of English Air Raid Precautions and then said, "Peterborough is lucky. We have it comfortable here. The sacrifices we are called on to make are few and comparatively easy."

With Peterborough Boys

Oswald Brooks, Toronto, the oldest boy of the Brooks family which operated the summer hotel at South Beach for several years, enlisted as a master gunner last Friday. He will give machine gun instruction, and is a veteran of World War I.

Roger Varieur, fencing champion of Peterborough, and well known as a C.G.E. employee, is another local boy with the Oshawa Tank Corps. He originally came from Sudbury, and this may account for the fact that his name was not on the complete list which appeared last Saturday.

Lionel Doughty, Jack Hinks, Howard Shaw, Alf. Hazlitt and J. Boyd, of 300 Stewart Street, all recruits from this city, are with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and are now at the Citadel in Quebec City. The boys claim that the French eat altogether too much pea soup, baked beans and potatoes, and they are having difficulty getting used to this new bill of fare.

Sergeant Pilot Bernard (Bob) Allen, formerly of Rogers Street, and one of the best known local fliers, was home on 48 hours' leave last week-end. He is stationed at Camp Borden, and is the son of Mrs. Loretto Allen and the late Robert Allen.

With 29th Battery.

Gunner Leslie J. Field, who enlisted with the 29th Battery, R.C.A., of Guelph, and joined the C.A.S.F. early in September. Gunner Field was a resident of Peterborough for 38 years before going to Guelph, where he resided for the past five years. He served two years with the C.E.F. in the last war but did not get overseas on account of his age. His wife and two children reside in Peterborough, and she received a letter recently saying her husband reached England safely on February 8 with the third contingent of the First Division.

Malcolm (Mel) Packenham, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Pakenham, 737 Water street, is another recruit with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. He enlisted this week. Mel is well known in sporting circles being a boxer of repute and was often seen on boxing cards in this city.

Jim Clancy, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Clancy, 784 Water street, joined the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment this week with four other local boys. He was an Examiner carrier boy for several years.

Reg. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Williams, 263 Engleburn Avenue, writes an interesting letter from Aldershot. He is with the Canadian Corps Signals along with his brother Hector.

In common with all other soldiers from Canada this boy asks his mother to send along some Canadian tobacco or cigarettes, and his request will be granted immediately.

The letter says in part: "We attend church parades every Sunday, sometimes going to the Church of England and at other times to the Methodist Churches. The Church of England minister made us chuckle. During his sermon he said all the Canadians went to little log churches. They must think we are not far removed from the Indians."

"Hec and I are on guard to-night, and is it ever pouring rain. We have two hours on and two hours off. I hope some Colonel or Captain just tries to go by me. There are about ten fellows writing at this table, and every time one of them moves it goes up and down, so you might have a little trouble reading this."

In another part of the letter he says: "We have to learn signalling with flag, lights and buzzer, and we must learn to ride a motorcycle. Yesterday I ran into a brick pile with the bike and my poor old knees are sure skinned. I'll ride that thing next time or bust. Speed can ride O.K., but Hec hasn't tried yet."

These two boys are well known in Kingston, where they were working at the time of enlistment.

Praises the Navy.

R.S.M. Jenkins, H.G., 11th Army Regiment, R.C.A., a former Peterborough boy who enlisted at Toronto, sent a newsy letter to his sister, Mrs. W. H. Sickler, 237 Princess Street, this week.

The letter was written at sea as Jenkins was en route to England, and he has high praise for the British Navy. He worked at the Brinton Carpet Company before moving to Toronto.

In part he says: "We have had quite a blow for two days, and the ship's decks are continually shipping water. We are very lucky aboard the largest hsip in the convoy, and although she tosses and rolls a bit, we are able to get about nicely. They serve grand meals. We are travelling first class, and we have everything from an appetizer to nuts. For breakfast I had coffee, rolls and toast, and I have just come up from dinner at 8.40 p.m. to-night. It was a real dinner, champagne included.

"I have a new respect for the British Navy and crews since seeing them in action, and we should certainly be proud to belong to the Empire."

Six Peterborough boys went to Picton this week and five of the six were accepted in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. They are Don. McPherson, son of Mrs. McPherson and the late Dr. A. W. McPherson, Jim Clancy, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Clancy, Water Street, Joseph Huard, formerly employed as a waiter at the Hotel Champlain, Mel Pakenham, well-known local boxer, and John McFadden, who has been living in the city, but comes from Lakefield.

Jimmy Allen of this city is a member of the 48th Highlanders. It was learned to-day that Dave McCullough, who was listed in this column last Saturday as having joined the 48th Highlanders in Toronto, withdrew his application later in the week.

Airport Sergeants Guests At Armory

Sergeants of the Trenton airport were entertained last night by the Sergeants of the Prince of Wales Rangers in their mess at the armouries. Tom Griffin, C.S.M., welcomed the visitors, and the program was turned over to Jos. Gaskell, R.Q.M.S., chairman of the entertainment committee, George Nicholls presided at the piano.

The visitors included R.S.M. Terry, Flight Sergeant-Major Richardson with other warrant officers, and four Non-Commissioned Officers from the Midland Regiment who are on guard duty at the airport. Other guests were Major James Turnbull of the Rangers and Lieutenant Preston of the Legion of Frontiersmen, and all associate members of the Mess. Songs and monologues were given by Jack Hodson, Lieut. Preston and Flight Sergeant-Major Richardson. A quiz feature provided a lot of fun for a while, and the evening was greatly enjoyed.

The invitation to the Trenton N.C.O.s grew out of meetings with the local sergeants during the hockey season, who have been invited to be guests of the airmen at Trenton.

Recalls Building First Bridge Across Chemong

Hard work does not kill people, it makes them live longer. This is the philosophy of John McGrath, 588 Chamberlain street who celebrates his 85th birthday today and will attend a party arranged in his honor at the home of Sherman Blewett on Perry street this evening.

"I think I would have been dead long ago had I lived a life of comparative ease and had not worked so hard," Mr. McGrath said speaking to a reporter on the eve of his 85th birthday. He is a teetotaller and does not smoke, enjoys good health even to splendid eye sight and good hearing, and is so active it would be difficult for one to guess his correct age.

Still Drives Car

Mr. McGrath is perhaps the oldest car operator in Canada having driven his car right up to a month ago when it got froze in. "I have driven a car since 1916 and have never collided with any person or car. Twice other cars have rammed into my bus from the back and the last time this happened it almost snapped my head off." He is doubtful whether he will use the car during the coming summer.

Speaking of marriage Mr. McGrath said "I believe that in seventy-five per cent of the cases where marriage goes on the rocks the man is to blame. A woman usually works very hard after marriage, tries to save and build up an estate for the children and old age. They are far better managers than men, but the men on the other hand always figure they are worked to death themselves spend more than they can afford and then when the going gets tough, they blame the woman."

Born On Chemong Road

Mr. McGrath was born on the Chemong Road in 1855, son of an Irish immigrant. His grandfather obtained a land grand along with other early pioneers in Ennismore township, and later McGrath's father who was also called John had a farm on the south side of Lake Chemong, now occupied by William Paul.

He spent his boyhood along the lake, then at 13 he hired out as a farm hand to John Young in Smith getting seven dollars a month and board. He was so homesick at the end of a month that he threw up the job.

About that time if his memory serves correctly one George B. Tindle was given the contract to haul lumber and stone to the lake for the building of the first floating bridge. "I remember well when Tindle and his brother-in-law hauled the big stones and drilled holes in them for chains. They were to be used as anchors for the structure.

"After the first bridge was built it was smashed at the Smith side by ice and swung in an easterly direction until it came to rest against a small island, while the Ennismore end remained intact. Instead of hauling it back to the original position, the men shortened the bridge and filled in the lake out as far as the little island. The bridge is still in that same location today."

After his marriage for January 4, 1881, Mr. McGrath went to farm in Dufferin county and lived in that locality for almost half a century. He came to Peterborough in 1912, living on Homewood Ave. for two years but he didn't like the city and purchased ten acres of land at the foot of Monaghan Road to use as a vegetable garden. He worked this plot of land right up to last summer and intends to have a good crop of vegetables this summer.

This genial old fellow whose life has been lived close to the soil feels that young fellows are too lazy to make a go of it on the farm today. I'm sure if I were forty years younger I could earn a good living on a farm, but the husky young men of today want to earn a fortune overnight."

He Knew It

STEVENS POINT, Wis., March 9 (AP).—Deputy sheriffs, passing Adolfph Berent's farm late at night, rushed into the house to tell Berent that his barn and woodshed were burning. "I know it," Berent said glumly when they discovered him sitting in a chair. "It's been burning an hour and a half and there isn't much I can do about it."

DRUNK IN CAFE

Pleading guilty to having been drunk in a local cafe a Peterborough man received the usual $10 fine when he appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

Drives Car At 85

John McGrath, 588 Chamberlen street is 85 today. He was born on the south shore of Lake Chemong in 1855 and remembers when the material was hauled to the lake to build the first floating bridge. He ranks among the oldest car operators in the Dominion, having driven a car since 1916 up to last year and may drive again this summer.

3 Billion Credit Voted For War

LONDON, March 9—(CP).—The treasury announced a £700,000,000 $3,115,000,000) vote of credit today to finance war expenditures.

This amount was the estimate of what would be necessary to cover expenses for the year ending March 31, 1941, for the navy, army, air service, ministry of supply and "maintenance of public order and efficient prosecution of the war."

The treasury's command paper on war finances said the £700,000,000 credit estimate was for general expenses, in addition to specific appropriations by parliament.

Specific appropriations are confined to £100 ($445) each as tokens," so that the actual sums spent for any war service are secret. These tokens have already been voted for the navy and air force and the army's requirements will come before the House of Commons next.

An explanatory white paper said the credits represented:

"An estimate of the amount required to be voted toward defraying expenses which may be incurred during the year ending March 31, 1941, for general navy, army and air services and for the ministry of supply insofar as specific provision is not made therefore by parliament, for securing public safety, defence of the United Kingdom, maintenance of public order and efficient prosecution of the war, for maintaining supplies and services essential to the life of the community and generally for all expenses beyond those provided for in the ordinary grants of parliament, arising out of the existence of a state of war."

SONG SERVICE.

The choir of Knox United Church will assist at the Friendly Hour Song Service, popular Sunday night feature of the Y.M.C.A., tomorrow. They will sing several selections and will take part in the general service, which starts at 8.30 p.m.

Father, Sons Banquet At St. James'

The annual Father and Son banquet of St. James' United Church was a feature of Friday night's entertainment, under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the Sunday School, when a good representation of the fathers and sons were present. The delightful banquet was provided by the Cheerful Worker's Bible Class, leaving no wish in the culinary line to be desired.

The tables were gay with St. Patrick's colors and spring flowers and afforded a pretty setting for the occasion. As president of this men's class, Harry Welch, presided and performed the duties of toastmaster, proposing the first toast to the King.

In proposing the toast to the church, Wesley Rose emphasized the value of this organization to both father and son. The pastor of St. James', Rev. Craik, responded. Paying fine tribute to the fathers present, Jack Welbourn proposed the toast in their honor, while Mr. Littlefair fittingly replied.

Interspersing these toasts a delightful musical program was enjoyed and included some charming Hawaiian selections by the Aloha Serenaders, conducted by Helen Ludbrook Galvin. An appropriate "father and son" number was a fine violin duet, played by Joe Murphy and Llewellyn, while Mrs. E. R. Frost sang her vocal solo in sweet soprano.

The Brotherhood boasts a promising band, composed of violins, banjos and mouth organs and contributed some splendid numbers toward the program. The popular guest speaker at this function, the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Knox United Church brought a timely message for this period of chaos and disaster to both fathers and sons.

Basing his address upon Proverbs 11:1 "A false balance is abomination to the Lord: but a just weight is his delight", the speaker outlined some valuable conclusions, applicable to every day life. The sincere thanks of the brotherhood were voiced in gracious terms by Bert May to the speaker and to all who had contributed to the success of the banquet. "Blest Be the Tie that Binds", brought this happy annual event to a conclusion.

Twenty-three thousand children in Moscow were presented badges last year for achievements in sports.

IN MEMORIAM

TORRANCE.—To the sweet memory of Frances, our dear little girl, who fell asleep March 10, 1936, in her fifth year.
Could we ever forget the sweet little smile
We had for just a little while?
—Tenderly remembered by Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers.

Might mourn for us instead.

For those we call the dead.
Be not too sad for him—he has just departed,
Cloud-like beyond our sight.
His sunlit eyes in yonder are lifted
Unto eternal light.
And some who loved him, kinsmen long departed,
Loved ones unseen for years,
Will fling their loving arms about him,
Happy hearted.
Weeping with thankful tears.
It almost seems his spirit reposes
Upon light air above;
Sweet as the drifting scent of roses,
Kind as the breath of love.
He is not lost; for death but came to free him,
And though afar he roams,
We can but wait and hope to see him
In our eternal home.

"But why should Lucinda—a successful actress — she doesn't need to—"

Sally threw back her head and laughed loudly. "Whoever gave you that line? Why, Lucinda never was an actress—really. She's played bit parts now and then. She gets by on her wits, same as most of the people she's introduced you to."

"Do you mind if I speak to Lucinda about this," came from Janis faintly.

"I don't care what you ask her—tell her who put you wise, if you like. If Lucinda Hollenbeck never speaks to me again, that will be soon enough!"

What About Rock?

"Yes, I am telling you. And before you're through, your eyes will be opened to a lot of things. If you must know, Lucinda's been after Rock Conover as far back as I can remember. Every night he's not with you, he's with her—or did you know? I heard them making a date for tonight—so in case you'd like to check up on the dear boy—"

Janis stiffened. "Now I know how unfair you are, Sally. It happens that Rock is taking me places tonight."

Sally's thin line of eyebrow lifted mockingly. "Feature that! Well then—maybe he's ditching Lue. That boy's a deep one."

Janis was thoroughly incensed. She blurted out: "If I didn't think you needed a good nourishing breakfast, Sally, I'd ask you to take back all you've said—or leave."

Sally shrugged. "What penetrating intuition you're blessed with, my dear—besides, you're awfully kind and I'm grateful. I am hungry—I do have a struggle to make ends meet—but as I told you last night, that new decorating job will send me to a ritzy vacation in Paris. But I can't take back anything I've told you. You had to find out some day—and my shoulders are broad.

Janis, stirring another lump of sugar into her coffee, did not reply. She had no further desire for food. Her appetite had given way to dismay and doubt. That old fretting doubt she thought she had conquered was now stirring in her brain with maddening persistence. She was irritated with Sally for hinting at Rock's attentiveness to Lucinda.

And the mater of Lucinda's commission on the thousands of dollars of purchases she had made struck her fairly between the eyes. She said it all quite clearly now—why Lucinda had urged, even insisted that she purchase many expensive articles. The car, the mink coat, the gowns, shoes and hats, the way she and Eve had persuaded her to lease this house. Why, only last week she had bought that gorgeous ermine evening wrap because Lucinda had declared that no motion-picture actress could afford to be without one.

She Remembers a Date

Distrust of everything she had thought so simply outlined now cluttered up Janis' thinking. It took all her will power not to let Sally know what torture she was suffering. She must get rid of Sally, phone Rock, see what he knew about Lucinda's methods.

But conveniently, Sally soon jumped to her feet, exclaiming: "Good heaven! It's 10 o'clock! I've got to run along!"

"Ten o'clock," Janis repeated stupidly. What was it she had promised to do at 10 o'clock.

After Sally had gone, leaving a black cloud of misery behind her, Janis suddenly recollected what it was she must do at 10. She must phone Dr. Black. But he could wait. There was a far more important matter to be settled at once.

Discovering the duplicity of friends had never been Janis' misfortune to any great extent. School friends had done the usual aggravating things; she had lost faith mildly in some of them; but she had never felt so utterly defeated over any friend as she was feeling now.

Lucinda, if not her friend, had been clever at acting like one. Even in the face of all that Sally had said, Janis was hoping to find excuses for Lucinda, because she was really fond of her. Supreme confidence in a friend is often impossible to fling aside at a moment's notice, and the hurt that must fill the gap thus made is not pleasant to contemplate. Janis was unwittingly trying to postpone this as long as she could.

She sat bewilderedly at the breakfast table long after Sally had vanished. She finally roused herself enough to go to the telephone and dial Rock's rooming house. He was out and she left her number, began worrying about his receiving her message in time to call her before she broke down completely.

She dialed Dr. Black's office and was obliged to wait lacerating minutes before his nurse could locate him. Then unaccountably, the instant Janis heard his voice, she was filled with a desperate desire to accept his dinner invitation. What particular harm could it do?

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

LISTEN TO HIS BID

WHEN YOU have shown such tremendous strength that your partner knows you can double the opponents and beat their contract, your pass is an absolute force upon him. By your action, you ask him whether his hand is such that he thinks your side could do better by playing the hand or beating the enemy's undertaking. He must not pass. He must either bid or double, and if he doubles, that may then constitute your cue to make still another bid.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1♣	1♠
2♥	2♠	6♥	6♠
7♥	7♠	Dbl

In a four-table match between the Knickerbocker Whist club and City Athletic club in New York, that bidding occurred at two tables, East and West being set four tricks, worth 700 points to North and South. At a third table, North passed the 7-Spades, an absolute force on his partner, who knew North was strong enough to double. South decided that, if there were thirteen tricks in the hand at hearts, there must also be at No Trump, since he had the spade A. So he bid 7-No Trumps and, of course, made it, for a huge top score.

The East-West top score came on very sharp bidding. South opened with 3-Hearts as an attempted shutout. When North leaped to 6-Hearts, imaginative Edward Kenton in the East inserted 6-Spades, being ready to try 7-Diamonds if his partner had to take out to 7-Clubs. But South doubled the 6-Spades and West passed, so he was set only three tricks, for 500 points, the smallest loss East and West took anywhere.

Toronto Bombs Rock District

TORONTO, March 8. — (CP).— Two home-made bombs exploded in the back yard of a Chestnut street home last night, shook the downtown section of Toronto and sent people scurrying into the streets in night attire.

Several windows in neighboring houses were smashed b ythe force of the explosion but no injuries were reported.

Police said the bombs, cannisters filled with explosives, had been tos[illegible] into the yard from a lane at the [illegible]k. The bombs landed on a fence [illegible]tich was demolished by the explosion.

Gus Mattiachione, who moved into the house just two days ago, told police he believed the bombs were intended for someone else.

Police considered the possibility the explosives may have been aimed at Angelo's restaurant, a few doors away, which was the object of an abortive extortion plot in 1936. Angelo Belfanti, owner of the restaurant, said he had received no threats or demands for money since the original one four years ago.

Court Of Appeal Upsets Brighton Case

TORONTO, March 9 (CP).—In a judgment involving consideration of Ontario school laws, Ontario appeal court today ruled that the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham must pay the board of school sections 16 and 18, of Murray and Brighton townships the cost of transporting pupils outside the boundaries of the sections to and from a continuation school at Wooler.

The judgment reverses a finding of Mr. Justice A. W. Greene who found in favor of the Counties which had disputed the claim of $1,176 incurred in 1937 on the ground that transportation of the pupils was not part of the cost of county pupils toward which they have to make a contribution.

Chief Justice R. S Robertson and Mr. Justice C. A. Masten made the appeal court judgment, Mr. Justice W. T. Henderson dissented.

"The corporate existence of the board is not confined to the school section and I do not think its powers are so confined, except when necessary from their very nature," chief justice Robertson said in the Judgment.

"In my opinion, a public school board may provide transportation to and from school of pupils who reside beyond the boundaries of the school section. In fact, one would think that when the board has undertaken this transportation of any pupils attending public or continuation school the pupils most likely to require transportation are those who reside beyond the boundaries of the school section and as the matter is always in the discretion of the board who represent the people of the section, it is unlikely that any undue expense will be incurred by them for the benefit of non-resident pupils."

Mr. Justice Henderson, however, said that if maintenance includes the cost of education for pupils outside the school sections in the statutes conferring power to pay the cost of transportation was not needed.

Premier Defends

the government's attitude both in earlier negotiations with Britain and in reaching the present agreement.

The training plan now has made Canada, for the purposes of final victory in the war, "a pivotal centre of the British commonwealth," he said. It would not have been evolved in peacetime and could not have been developed sooner than it was.

Says King Idealist

At Charlottetown, Dr. Manion described Mr King as an idealist and progressive when out of power and a politician and reactionary in power. The prime minister was "the man who talks national unity but who through his lieutenants fosters disunity."

Dr. Manion also attacked Liberal campaign methods and in a brief reference to Australia said that country had just formed "a national government such I propose in Canada.

Speaking in support of defence minister Rogers at Kingston, Ont., Col. Ralston disclosed for the first time that the first Canadian division went to England with a full outfit of light and heavy machine guns, 18 pounder field guns and medium guns, in addition to rifles and personal equipment.

He said "I think we did remarkably well," in equipping the division.

Mr. Rogers told the meeting that participation in the war involved careful organization and on the advice of the allies, the government from the first prepared for a struggle lasting at least three years.

The Federal administration was described by R. L. Maitland, British Columbia Conservative leader, as one of "inaction and indicision, just drifting and going in and out with the tide." Speaking at Bracebridge. Ont., he also stated that the tourist trade is one of the most neglected businesses in Canada.

Mention of coalition government was made for the first time by any prominent speaker in this campaign at Winnipeg. Premier Thane Campbell of Prince Edward Island said that if the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation party obtains a balance of power in the next parliament it would lead to a coalition government.

Some Arms Figures

Answering opposition criticism directed at the equipment of troops now in England, Finance Minister Ralston for the first time made public the quantity of arms sent with the Canadian troops.

Up to the present the only official information on the subject was the fact that the troops were fully equipped as to rifles, uniforms and accessories such as blankets, shaving kits and other gear.

Heavy and light machine guns, field guns and medium howitzers and chassis for field ambulances accompanied the first overseas division to England and transport vehicles are being made in Canada for shipment to the division shortly, Mr. Ralston said.

With the field batteries went a full complement of 72 guns of the 18-pounder type converted to rubber tires. All were in good shape and some had only been fired for tests, although the 16-pounder would be replaced by the 25 pounder as soon as possible it was not obsolete, was giving good service and was being used by the Allies.

The medium battery also took a full complement of guns but four Canadian 60-pound howitzers were being exchanged with the British for 6-inch howitzers.

The machine gun battalion have a full complement of the latest model of Vickers heavy machine guns. The other battalions all took their full number of Lewis light machine guns, 50 per battalion. The Lewis gun was not obsolete. It was being used in France but would be replaced with the Bren guns as soon as possible.

Bren Guns Soon

Bren guns from the John Inglis Company in Toronto would be delivered soon. Instead of getting 1,000 guns from the factory in the year starting April 1, as the much criticized contract provided, the government would get 2,000.

Anti-tank rifles and anti-tank guns would be supplied in England, some wireless equipment would be supplied there and some made in Canada. Chassis for ambulances had been sent from Canada and the bodies were being fitted to them in England. Of the 2,000 motor vehicles required for the division 95 per cent would be supplied from Canada and of this all but the Bren gun carriers would be sent in time to go with the division to France.

A long war lies ahead and Canada's task will be a heavy one, Mr. Ralston warned.

Canada and her allies must win the struggle or untold misery faces the world. "To make that victory decisive there is something I want to plead for; I think we should strangle on sight those twin offspring of wishful thinking which get in our way and hinder our effort," he continued.

"One of them is the idea that the enemy is likely to collapse, and that therefore the task will be easy; the other is that an early peace will be negotiated and the war will be short.

"I am convinced that no more dangerous fallacies and no more subtle menaces to aggressive war effort could be imagined. We have a big task and a long war ahead. What I am banking on is that we will recognize the magnitude and the length of the job and will plan and work accordingly.

"If we do that, I have no fear of the outcome. Success will bring the fresh gratitude of mankind and a new sense of security to those staunch hearts in the old land, and in France, who risk their all.

Mr. Rogers linked the name of Premier Mitchell Hepburn with the names of Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative Leader, and Dr. Manion as criticis of the government. On election day, he said, the people would have before them the record of leadership of the government and also the criticism levelled against it by Mr. Hepburn, Dr. Manion and Col. Drew.

W. R. Davies Backs Rogers

W. Rupert Davies, who introduced Col. Ralston, said it had been alleged that Mr. Rogers was not a good Minister of Labor in his term at that post.

"I want to say he was the best and most humane Minister of Labor this country ever had," Mr. Davies said. "He was promoted to the position of Minister of National Defence because he was a good Minister of Labor."

Mr. Davies said he spoke from personal knowledge because he served on a board of conciliation appointed by Mr. Rogers to deal with a dispute between The Canadian Press and its telegraph operators. As a result of Mr. Rogers' sympathetic support the Board was able to avert a costly strike and both parties became better friends then ever before.

Arsenal Plans Vanish

A charge that detailed plans for establishment of a complete government arsenal at Valcartier, Que., disappeared from the files of the Department of National Defence was made at Vancouver by Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader.

"The Valcartier arsenal was worked out in detail by Prime Minister (R. B.) Bennett," Col. Drew said. "The plans were removed from the Department of National Defence—to my knowledge."

He said that when the commission investigating the Bren Gun contract sought the plans "a memorandum was filed by the Department of Defence. The plans referred to were not definite plans."

"That statement is not true. I have had those plans in my own hands."

Prime Minister Mackenie King "ignores the necessity of Canadians, irrespective of their party affiliations, uniting in a supreme national effort" to win the war, Hon. H. C. Cahan, National Government candidate in Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George in a 15-minute broadcast from a Montreal radio station.

Mr. Cahan said that to "achieve the unity of members of the Liberal party, under its party standard, rather than to maintain the national unity of all Canada" appeared to be the "supreme ambition" of Mr. King.

Will Give No Aid

"He and his colleagues in the government of the country have decided that under no circumstances will they associate in their war efforts with any Conservative member or members of parliament who may be elected in the pending elections," said Mr. Cahan.

"In this time of unprecedented crisis the Prime Minister ignores the necessity of all Canadians, irrespective of their party affiliations, uniting in a supreme national effort to bring this war to a successful conclusion, and he poses the success of his partisan as the supreme object which he and his colleagues have in view."

The "supreme issues in the election are "concerned with the prosecution of the war," Mr. Cahan concluded. "They transcend all minor questions of domestic policy. This war will impose sacrifices and suffering upon all of us, yet we must maintain our courage and cheerfulness to the end."

Allies Want

presented in a day or two, informed sources said.

Critical Week-End.

The News-Chronicle (Liberal) called this week-end "one of the most critical of the war," and said Sweden is "pressing the Finns to 'appease' Russia in precisely the same way that England and France pressed Dr. Benes (President of former Czecho-Slovakia) to appease Germany in September, 1938."

A French spokesman in Paris let it be known that although the decision for peace or continued war was up to Finland, the Allies felt that once Russia gained possession of Finnish defences by negotiation she might invade the rest of the country at will, as Germany did in Czecho-Slovakia after the Munich agreement.

To prevent such an eventuality, the French spokesman said, the Allies were "ready to continue and perhaps even increase their aid to Finland."

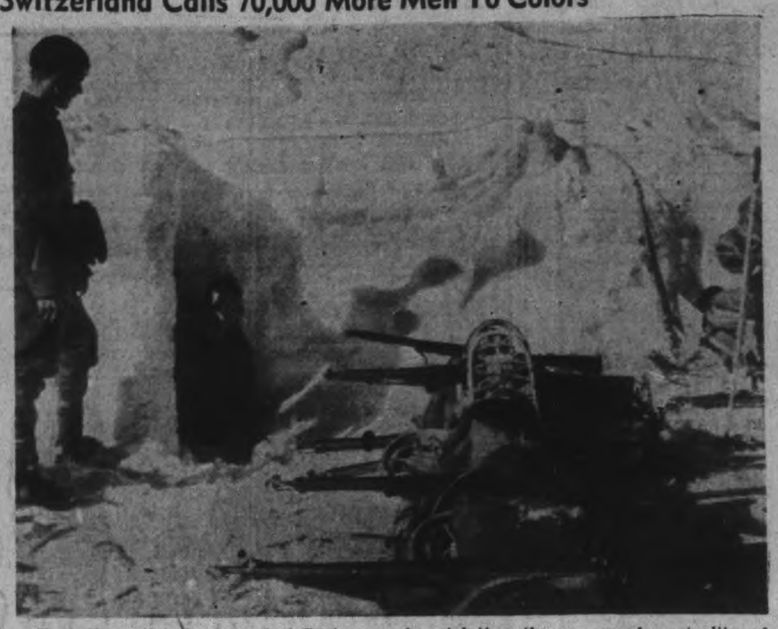
The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) declared: "If negotiations prove that they will not give Finland peace with honor, she doubtless will appeal to Britain, France and the rest of the world for help. She must have it swiftly and in ample measure."

The Daily Herald (Labor) remarked that Adolf Hitler and Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany hope to "pull Russia out of her unhappy Finnish adventure and swing her into open hostility against Britain and France."

It said: "They hope at the same time to goad Italy into joining Germany in her war. The play is a little obvious. Both Moscow and Rome are likely to think many times before accepting the role of auxiliaries to the Nazi Reich."

Meanwhile, Reuters News Agency reported that the French Charge d'Affaires in Moscow and the United States Ambassador had visited the Swedish Embassy in Moscow, and that Laurence A. Steinhardt, the United States Ambassador, had talked for two hours at the Kremlin with Russias' Premier, Vyacheslaff Molotoff.

Switzerland Calls 70,000 More Men To Colors



Since the outbreak of war last September, Switzerland has been keeping a vigilant eye on the border, just in case Germany may attempt to cross Switzerland in an attempt to outflank the Maginot Line. Latest reports indicate a rising tension in Switzerland as 70,000 men were called to the colors ahead of time. The Swiss government is reported to be planning evacuation of areas the German army would likely cross should they attempt a blow at France by violating the renowned neutrality of tiny Switzerland. In this evacuation would be included the city of Zurich, which has a population of 312,000. Swiss Alpine infantry encamped in ice and snow at an altitude of over 7,200 feet, are shown, ABOVE. Huts of snow and ice serve as shelters where the men, equipped with sleeping bags, often spend several nights. Switzerland can muster an army of 500,000 men, trained in the art of mountain fighting.

Letter Reveals 400 Fliers Staged Walkout

REGINA, March 9.—(CP).—M. A. MacPherson, K.C. before an election audience here last night read an extract from a letter which he said told of a protest parade by 400 men of the Royal Canadian Air Force stattinoned at St Thomas, Ont., on Feb. 10.

Mr. MacPherson, National government candidate in Regina for the March 26 Federal election, said the letter was written by one of the men at the Air Force station to his brother in Regina.

(Premier Hepburn of Ontario has charged that "violent disturbances" occurred at the St. Thomas, Ont., Air Force technical training centre, Defence Minister Rogers has issued a denial and has invited the Premier to visit the premises).

Mr. MacPherson who said the writer of the letter enlisted in the R.C.A.F. Oct 23, 1939, quoted from a letter dated Feb. 11, 1940:

From a letter which Mr. MacPherson declared was written by the same man Feb. 3, 1940, he quoted:

"I haven't had so much as a suit of underwear nor a shirt and still no uniform outside of a great coat and a hat. Not half of the men are properly clothed and still they expect us to stand outside in parade and shiver while waiting for the officer of the day to put in an appearance. They tell us they can't get uniforms and still at the same time anyone who has the money and is foolish enough to do so can go to the military stores in London and buy a uniform."

Not Interested In Quarrel

Mr. MacPherson who spoke on the same platform as Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Conservative Minister of Trade and Commerce, said he was not concerned with the quarrel of Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Premier Hepburn except that it had served to reveal certain facts.

Yesterday morning he received three calls—one from a mother of a boy in St. Thomas, one from the friend of a boy who had returned from St. Thomas to Regina and the third from a Reginan who had produced two letters from his brother in St. Thomas. He then quoted from these letters.

"Let's get through with this sort of thing," Mr. MacPherson added. "Let's get rid of a government that buries its head in the sand in Ottawa."

Mr. Stevens in his address claimed the opening of the war had found the government unable to supply Canadian soldiers with underclothing, boots and uniforms.

"I saw many hundreds at the coast marching almost barefooted or with such light shoes as to be as good as barefooted, with light overalls, and sweaters, cold and shivering," Mr. Stevens said. He had seen the same thing later in Toronto.

Celebrate Diamond Wedding

Married 60 years ago Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. John Hope, of Westwood, will quietly observe the occasion. They were residents of Otonabee for many years.

Westwood Couple Sixty Years Wed

WESTWOOD, Mar. 9 (ENS). — Mr. and Mrs. John Hope of this village, eight miles west of Hastings, will quietly observe their sixtieth wedding anniversary on Sunday—sixty years of happily wedded life. On the tenth of March, 1880, John Hope and Louise Elmhirst were married in the Methodist Church manse at Keene b Rev. Dr. Andrews. In the prime of their life, Mr. and Mrs. Hope were to see plenty of hard work on their farm in Otonabee Township, but, despite this fact both look several years younger than their actual age. Mr. Hope is 82 and his wife is 85.

While not trying to appear pessimistic, Mrs. Hope terms the present war as "the beginning of the end." She believes the war will lead to still more tragic and greater things and eventually will lead to the end of the world. Due to the war and some personal factors, Mr. and Mrs. Hope did not plan a celebration for their anniversary, but will observe it very quietly in their fine home here by themselves. One of the nicest homes in this tiny village is their proud possession. Located just west of the Westwood bridge, the Hope residence is distinctive in appearance, a tribute to its owner who has kept it in fine shape. Mr. and Mrs. Hope retired from their Otonabee farm twenty-five years ago, and moved to their present residence.

This fine couple came from families well known throughout the entire district who pioneered when Canada was young. They were hard working. This, Mr. Hope attributes in part to his and Mrs. Hope's longevity.

Another factor is that members of families on both sides lived to see a ripe old age. Mr. Hope related he had uncles who lived to be 101, 97 and 95 years old.

Both are now members of Westwood United Church, where Mr. Hope serves as an elder and Mrs. Hope recently retired from being president of the Women's Missionary Society, a position she held for thirty-five years.

Mrs. Hope recalled there was very little snow the winter they were married and there was no snow on the ground when they observed their golden wedding anniversary ten years ago. This year, however, there is quite a depth of snow on the occasion.

Offers Service To Finland In Hunter Army

Capt. G. P. Brook, 194 Hunter street, a former officer in the Imperial service, Thursday wrote Col. Fraser Hunter of Toronto, offering his services in any capacity to the Finnish army.

Capt. Brook who has been a resident of Peterborough for some years, served in the last great war in the 5th Battalion of the Devons regiment.

Since the present conflict broke out he was advised by the Imperial authorities to get into touch with the Department of Defence at Ottawa and he did so after having been passed by a local medical board as A1.

"I have written Ottawa several times and got nothing more definite than a note that I would be notified when I was needed.

Capt. Brook said Thursday night: "The other day I wrote directly to the Minister himself but there is still nothing definite, so I have offered myself to the Finnish forces." Capt. Brook is 43 years of age.

Former Conservative Member Advises Electors To Return Mackenzie King

The struggle for power at Ottawa was just the same in the last war when I was on the inside and knew all about the desperate efforts Canada was making to find her feet, both at home and abroad.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's difficulty at that time was to help the Government in power without opposing it and yet to keep reckless, party men in line. He was a very great and thoroughly upright man who would never betray his Country's best interests under any consideration whatsoever.

We have, however, at this time, fierce opposition to a Government which has had years of training, is fully in the secrets of the British Government and is approved by that Government. It is plain to me from actual experience that to displace it and to throw open wide the doors of possible disintegration is a very dangerous experiment indeed. We are doing nicely and why not let things alone.

Believe me, it is one thing to have a Government under effective and central control at this time and another to have something that is, as yet, without form and void.

Never mind power at Ottawa, just now. Let us think of Canada and the war and of all that we most cherish and hope for.
